The Rescue Deere

My hobby is to collect old John Deere snowmobiles, I've explained the reasons for this interest in past columns. For the most part, this hobby is based on my personal history with John Deere snowmobiles and an appreciation for their simple, dependable design and function. This week, I want to write about a sled whose own history is the real focus of my interest, and at the same time, explain what I've done to make it possible for this snowmobile to have a future.

The John Deere 400 I've spent the last year repairing was manufactured in Horicon, Wis., but made itself useful around the Bowman County, N.D., area. Its first owner was Doug Schwartz, who purchased it in 1972. Like most snowmobiles, it was used for enjoyment and to relieve boredom from a long winter, but this sled was also used to help people who were sick and lost. Schwartz was one of the first Emergency Medical Technicians around Bowman, and he used the 400 to find downed airplanes, deliver medicine in an area with few roads, and in actual emergency runs where he and the 400 hauled injured or sick people to the hospital. One night, a rancher ran his own snowmobile through the wall of his barn so Schwartz and his EMT partner, Ervin Schneider (also on a Deere), pulled a luggage sled out to the farm and hauled the rancher in to the Bowman hospital. This was a trip of 14 miles, at night, in the snow and without the benefit of any moon, which tells me that this sled was made tough in order to live up to the demands and abilities of its driver. I know people make longer trips today, but long-travel suspensions and GPS have made it possible for anyone to call themselves a snowmobiler.

I purchased the 400 one 35 degree below-zero day last February, it had not run since 1992 and its recent history was spent on a hill in the middle of a pasture near Bismarck, N.D. Since then, it had sat in my shop until last November, when I began by taking it apart and removing the damaged track. I don't call what I do "restoration" because it raises expectations much too high; I guess maybe "redemption" is a better way to describe what I do with my old snowmobiles. I repair everything that is important to the sled's operation. The cosmetics, however, are left to only what is absolutely necessary. I wanted the 400 returned to its original condition, but also to show a little pride. For this reason, I had decals made up to tells its story. Along with the regular decals, it has a red cross, a civil defense sticker and lettering that states "Bowman County First Responder," plus a mounted First Aid kit, which will help to tell its story even after I pass it along to someone else. In order to keep it operating like new, I replaced the following (short list): new crankcase seals, all the bearings, seat, light bulbs, the track, repaired trailing arms, the windshield; and made many small repairs in the interest of making this sled more than just a static display.

I feel I've accomplished my mission of maintaining some of its history, and at the same time, restoring the 400 to the point where it has become something I can drive. Right now, it starts on the first pull. The real reward was last Sunday; I took the little sled out for a short, initial ride. It performed better than my John Deere 300 and much more quietly than the JDX-8 with which it shares space. I thought how this was a good choice for first responder work - dependable and powerful with plenty of low-end torque and respectable top speed. I'd like to test the 400's rescue abilities, but that may be some time in coming. Does anyone know a rancher willing to ride his own snowmobile through the wall of his barn?

Thief River Falls guard Tom Loa passed the ball to an open teammate while being guarded by Fergus Falls' Grant Torgerson during the first half of Thursday's Section 8AAA boys high school basketball tournament quarterfinal game. The Prowlers beat the visiting Otters 61-58 on a buzzer-beating 3-pointer by Dylan Johnson.

TRF beats Fergus Falls 61-58 in Section 8AAA opener...

Prowlers win at buzzer

Typically, a first round post-season match-up that has the No. 1 seed playing host to the No. 8 seed is going to draw little interest and result in a one-sided contest. But that certainly wasn't the case Thursday night when Thief River Falls took on Fergus Falls in the 2008 Section 8AAA boys high school basketball tournament quarterfinals.

A large crowd was on hand at the Lincoln High School gym, and they got their money's worth as the top-seeded Prowlers edged the eighth seeded Otters 61-58 on a 40-foot buzzer-beater by Dylan Johnson.

Thief River Falls owned a seven point first half lead, but trailed by five with five minutes remaining in a game where the lead changed hands 12 times and was tied on six other occasions.

Points were hard to come by in the first half. A 14-6 Thief River Falls lead on a 3-pointer by Andrew Rook with 8:48 remaining was reduced to 22-20 when the horn sounded.

"I thought it was a well-played game," said Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean. "Both teams played real good defense. We took away each other's strengths, and that's why we looked so bad on offense in the first half, especially."

The pace picked up in the second half.

Back-to-back 3-pointers by the Otters' Matt McGovern and Chase Kolle turned a 47-46 deficit into a 52-47 lead with 5:23 remaining.

Two minutes later, Chase Haviland would take center stage as the Thief River Falls guard scored on a fast break off a Johnson block at the other end, turned a steal into another breakaway and added a free throw to put the Prowlers back on top 56-54 with 1:10 on the clock.

McGovern nailed a 3-pointer from the corner with 53.1 seconds to go for a 57-56 Fergus Falls lead, and after regaining possession on a wild scramble for a rebound, the Otters sent Grant Torgerson to the free throw line with 18.6 seconds left. He made one of two attempts for a 58-56 difference.

Johnson quickly took the ball to the basket, pulling up and hitting a short jumper in the middle of the lane to tie it at 58-58 with 10.1 seconds remaining.

"We made some big plays at the end," noted McLean. "I was really pleased with the way they handled the pressure and battled back."

A Fergus Falls miss from under the basket was rebounded by the Prowlers, who got a time out called with 1.9 seconds on the clock. They put the ball in play from the side in the backcourt. The ball ended up in the hands of Johnson in the front court - between the 3-point arc and the half-court line. He dribbled once and put up a prayer shot that banged in off the backboard. The Thief River Falls student section seated near the court immediately raced onto the floor to join the Prowlers' celebration.

"We told them in the time-out they had time to make the catch, bounce and shoot," explained McLean. "They didn't have to just catch and shoot the ball all in one motion. They ran it well."

Thief River Falls will take an 18-7 record to the Section 8AAA semifinals today (Saturday) at St. Cloud State University against No. 4-seeded Little Falls, a 66-52 Thursday winner over No. 5 seed Detroit Lakes. Fergus Falls, beaten by the Prowlers 72-59 during the regular season, ended the year 6-19.

"We knew it would be a tough game," said McLean. "They're not your typical No. 8 seed. They beat five of the other six section teams. They're tough."

Johnson, who played the final 13 minutes with four fouls, led all scorers with 18 points. Kasey Trontvet, scoreless in the first half, came back with 12 second half points. Jacob Stuckey (9), Haviland (8), Jacob Langevin (8) and Rook (6) all contributed to the Prowlers' point total.

Fergus Falls also had a balanced effort as McGovern scored 14 points, Torgerson 13, Adam Schueller 11, Derek Hansen 10 and Kolle 8.

Thief River Falls shot 45 percent from the field (24/53); Fergus Falls shot 44 percent (25/52). Both sides had trouble at the free throw line, where the Prowlers were 9-for-17 and the Otters went 5-for-12. Fergus Falls had a 32-24 rebound advantage, with both teams pulling down 11 offensive rebounds. The Otters topped the turnover charts 16-11.

In the other Thursday Section 8AAA quarterfinals, No. 2-seed Rocori handled No. 7 Sauk Rapids-Rice 81-52 and No. 3-seed St. Cloud Apollo defeated No. 6 Sartell-St. Stephen 57-48.

Gators overtime winner in semis

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had to put in some overtime Tuesday before laying claim to a spot in the Section 8A West boys high school basketball tournament finals.

The top-seeded Gators advanced with a 69-66 win over fifth-seeded Stephen-Argyle, in overtime, at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

Fertile-Beltrami, the No. 2 seed beat Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, the No. 3 seed, 88-66 in the second half of the semifinal doubleheader at Lysaker Gymnasium.

Section 8A West semifinals were played that night at the Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls, where top-seeded Cass Lake-Bena rolled past No. 4 Win-E-Mac 70-38 and No. 6 seed Fosston upset No. 2 Red Lake 62-58.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River got double-figure point production from five players in beating Stephen-Argyle for the fourth time this season. Jordan Creviston led the way with 22 points, followed by Allan Dostal with 13, Zac Creviston 11, Tyler Aune 10 and Jordan Holm 10.

Jared Jacobson scored 19 points, Kyle Gratzek 17 and Kolby Gruhot 13 for the Storm.

Stephen-Argyle led 34-32 at halftime. It was tied 62-62 at the end of regulation time.

The Gators swept a home-and-home regular season series from the Storm, 74-62 and 67-58, to go along with a 60-49 victory when the two teams met in the Thief River Falls Northwest Russ Smith Holiday Classic.

It was the second overtime win in the past three games for the Gators, who needed two overtimes to beat Kittson County Central 69-62 in the regular season finale, then turned right around and defeated the Bearcats 71-60 in the Section 8A West quarterfinals.

The Gators, who improved to 24-3 with the win over the Storm, are the defending Section 8A champions. Their three losses came at the hands of Pequot Lakes 65-60, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 86-76 and Cass Lake-Bena 76-63. They took a 12-game winning streak into the Friday Section 8A West final against Fertile-Beltrami.

Cass Lake-Bena won the Section 6A crown a year ago, but was then moved by the Minnesota State High School League to Section 8A under its every-other-year realignment policy.

The Panthers also carried a 24-3 record into Friday's Section 8A East final vs. Fosston. They were 30-2 and the Class state tournament runner-up last year. Their losses this winter have been to Minnesota state powers Hopkins (Class AAAA) and Crosby-Ironton (Class AA) and to White Station (Tenn.) during the Target Center holiday match-ups.

Spencer Johnson is selected for Great 8

Thief River Falls defenseman Spencer Johnson has been selected to skate for the Section 8A/8AA team in the 26th annual Ted Brill Great 8 All-Star Hockey Festival.

Rosters were announced Tuesday for the eight-team tournament-style event that will be held April 4-6 at Wakota Arena in South St. Paul.

Section Class A and Class AA teams pair up to form the Great 8 entries.

Players are nominated by their high school coaches from their combined sections. Top two goaltenders, six defensemen and nine forwards in the voting earn roster spots. Several alternates at each position are also named, but do not participate unless one of the active players cannot take part in the tournament.

Coach of the year selections from each Class A and Class AA section are asked to be the Great 8 coaches.

Designed as a national development program by USA Hockey, the event is sanctioned by the Minnesota State High School League, which allows participants to maintain their eligibility for high school spring sports.

The idea was hatched in 1983 when the Minnesota High School Hockey Coaches Association and Minnesota Hockey collaborated on a high school senior all-star hockey series involving 42 of the state's graduating seniors in a two-team, two-game series. It now features eight teams and 136 players.

Following the Great 8 tournament, 20 players who do not have firm NCAA Division I scholarship commitments will be invited to represent Minnesota at the 24-team national high school hockey Chicago Showcase April 17-21.

According to the College Hockey Guide, last season Minnesota had well over 230 players on Division I college teams, more than any other state in the nation.

DNR to issue special deer hunting permits

Permits for landowners and tenants to shoot deer as part of Minnesota Department of Natural Resources efforts to help eliminate bovine tuberculosis (TB) from wild deer in northwestern Minnesota's deer management area 101 will be issued Tuesday, March 18, at 6:30 p.m., during a public meeting at Wannaska Elementary School.

DNR officials will explain the expedited permitting process at the meeting before issuing permits, said Northwestern Regional Wildlife Manager Paul Telander. Landowners and tenants unable to attend can obtain a permit by contacting their area wildlife office.

All deer shot using an expedited permit must be taken within deer management area 101 and be submitted for TB testing at a designated location.

Telander said DNR officials also are seeking approval for an emergency rule allowing landowners or tenants in deer management area 101, which is considered the TB management zone, to take deer without a permit or license provided each deer taken is submitted for testing.

Once the rule takes effect, Telander said special shooting permits will no longer be required. The rule is expected to be in place by the end of March and to extend at least through May 15.

The DNR also will issue elk-shooting permits in the TB area on a case-by-case basis, he said. Elk permits will be considered in areas where there is direct interaction with elk and either cattle or stored feed and there are no other feasible options.

Bovine TB was first discovered in area cattle herds in 2005. Since that time, 17 deer have been confirmed with TB out of a sample of more than 3,000 tested in northwestern Minnesota.

Illuminating organic: Shining light on a cloudy subject

Organic products are becoming an important part of a healthy lifestyle, recent studies show. A Newcastle University study sponsored by the European Union and several food companies, shows that organic foods provide increased health benefits. The study concluded that eating organic food in place of conventionally farmed food was the equivalent of eating an extra portion of fruit and vegetables every day.

It's no wonder that worldwide retail sales of organic food and personal care products have grown an annual average of 23 percent over the last 10 years. Additionally, consumer spending for natural and organic personal care products is expected to rise to $20 billion by 2009, according to a recent Datamonitor study.

"Organic products promote the health and wellness of our body and world," said Daria Myers, global president of Origins. "Chemical pesticides and fertilizers have been found to be harmful to farm workers and damage ecosystems on the farm and the surrounding waters. We've found people are looking for an organic alternative. With our most recent collection, Origins Organics, we are providing consumers who desire to be even more eco-conscious another choice."

But what do you look for when choosing organic products? How do you know something is truly organic? Here are a few simple tips:

Defining organic

The term "organic" refers to the way agricultural products are grown and processed. Organic farmers and businesses seek to reduce or eliminate practices that harm soil life, deplete non-renewable resources or pose hazards to air and water quality.

"When you're using organic farming methods, you don't use synthetic herbicides, pesticides or other artificial chemicals," said organic farmer, Cheryl Rogowski of W. Rogowski Farm. "We find natural ways to help the crops grow like diversifying and carefully selecting our crop varieties, rotating crops each year to effectively hide them from insects, and using compost and green manure crops as fertilizer."

While the organic movement is most often associated with food products, its reach is much broader. It's showing up in a variety of areas including personal care products because of its many benefits.

Natural vs. organic products

Organic refers to items that are produced in accordance with stringent, approved methods. Organic products have ingredients that are grown without the use of chemical fertilizers, herbicides, pesticides, sewer sludge or genetically modified seeds. Natural products are those derived from natural ingredients like a plant source, which retain their natural properties in the finished product. All organic products are natural, but not all natural products are necessarily organic.

Regulating true organic products

The United States Department of Agriculture certification and seal are the best way to know for sure that products truly are organic. Under the USDA regulations, personal care products labeled as "Organic" or "Certified Organic" must contain at least 95 percent organic ingredients. Products labeled as "Made with Organic Ingredients" must contain at least 70 percent organic ingredients.

Beauty product regulations

So what are the regulatory differences for organic food and organic personal care products in the United States? According to USDA National Organic Program standards, they are the same. The same guidelines a farmer has to follow to certify yogurt or cereal must be adhered to by companies trying to obtain the USDA certification and seal for personal care products.

The certification process

Since the seal has only been available since August 2005 for personal care products, there are very few products available that meet the USDA NOP's stringent standards. The USDA Web site says a government-approved certifier must inspect the farms where ingredients in a product are grown to make sure the farmers are following all the rules necessary to meet USDA organic standards before a product can be labeled "organic." Even the facilities where the products are made and packaged must follow rigorous USDA NOP regulations.

Follow tips for proper grain storage

by Dave Nicolai
University of Minnesota
Extension Service

There are four simple steps to maintain post-harvest quality: sanitation, loading, aeration and monitoring the grain.

Sanitation. Be sure that the storage structure and grain-handling equipment (conveyors, wagons, trucks, elevators) are clean, and keep outside areas clean. A common rule-of-thumb is, "If you can tell what has previously been in the bin, it is not clean." Debris and grain spills outside the bin encourage rodents and insects. Keep weeds from growing around bin areas – these sites are ideal for pests to hide.

Combining and loading into storage. Grain harvested with a clean and properly adjusted combine should also be run through a grain cleaner to further remove fine materials, which make life easier for molds and insects. In addition, a grain distributor is extremely helpful – it spreads fine material uniformly across the grain mass.

When loading, you want to create a grain mass that's clean, dry and uniform – without foreign material. Immediately after the bin is filled and the grain is level, apply an approved grain protectant to help control insects that enter through roof openings. Use a grain protectant if storing grain for one year or more.

Aeration. In the fall, and with any bin that holds more than 2,000 to 3,000 bushels, aerate to cool the stored grain and create a better storage environment. Those who grow field crops should be able to cool grain to temperatures below 50 degrees Fahrenheit by gradually cooling through the fall. Insect activity is reduced at this temperature. Keep grain temperature lower than 50 degrees Fahrenheit at all times of the year. Aerate to cool grain to 20 to 30 degrees Fahrenheit for winter storage.

When aerating dry grain, about 0.1 cubic feet of air per minute per bushel of grain is recommended. When natural-air drying grain, allow four to six weeks, depending on the weather and initial crop moisture. For more detailed information, see the Extension publication "Grain Storage Tips" at www.extension.umn.edu/distribution/cropsystems/M1080-FS.pdf.

Monitoring. Check stored grain regularly for temperature, moisture, insects and molds. Inspect stored grain every seven to 14 days when either outdoor or grain temperatures are higher than 50 degrees Fahrenheit. If the grain is in good condition and has been cooled to less than 30 degrees, you can increase the inspection interval to once every three to four weeks during cold weather.

Application timing is key in optimizing returns

by Lizabeth Stahl
University of Minnesota
Extension Service

Even though the use of glyphosate in glyphosate tolerant crops has simplified weed management for many growers, paying attention to details, like application timing, can have a significant impact on economic returns.

Researchers at the University of Minnesota evaluated glyphosate programs in both corn and soybeans over the past three years at four to six locations per year. In corn, the best economic returns were achieved when a one-half rate of a preemergence (PRE) herbicide was followed with a postemergence (POST) glyphosate application when corn was in the three- to four-leaf growth stage (V3-V4).

Corn is sensitive to early-season weed competition. When no PRE herbicide was used, a delay of four to seven days after weeds exceeded four to five inches in height resulted in a yield loss of 12 bushels per acre. Delaying glyphosate application until weeds were 8 to 9 inches tall resulted in an average yield loss of .27 bushels per acre. One-pass glyphosate programs did not maximize yields or economic returns in corn.

The two-pass glyphosate program in corn, where glyphosate was applied at three-inch weeds and then later at two- to four-inch weed regrowth, resulted in optimal yields and economic returns. This program, however, has higher risk since timely applications may not always be possible depending on factors such as the weather and the number of acres you farm.

In contrast to corn, best economic returns were achieved in soybeans when glyphosate was applied to three-inch weeds and then to two- to four-inch weed regrowth. Use of a one-half rate of PRE herbicide followed by POST glyphosate when soybeans were in the two- to three-leaf growth stage (V2-V3) optimized yields but not economic returns. This was due to the higher relative price of the PRE herbicide evaluated compared to glyphosate. Keeping this in mind, use of a PRE herbicide in soybean may enhance control of troublesome weeds, such as common waterhemp and lambsquarters, and is a good tactic to help in resistance management.

When only one application of glyphosate was applied to soybeans in 30-inch rows, the yield was reduced more when glyphosate was applied too early (weed heights less than five inches) than too late (weed heights of seven and nine inches). This was mainly due to competition from broadleaf weeds that emerged after application. Although it was possible to optimize yield and economic returns with one application of glyphosate, this practice is not encouraged due to the high risk involved with getting this timing just right.

Less tillage means more dollars, improved environment

by Liz Stahl
University of Minnesota
Extension Service

The environment and the bottom line both have a good chance of improving when farmers use conservation tillage. An example is strip tillage, which is establishing itself as an effective conservation tillage practice in Minnesota.

University of Minnesota research trials show that strip tillage has performed well in both a corn/soybean and corn-on-corn rotation in southwestern Minnesota. With strip tillage, a strip seven to nine inches wide is tilled, and crop residue from last year's crop is maintained between rows. This reduces passes over the field, which means less energy is used. There's also less erosion, compared to conventional systems.

We found that strip tillage maintained high residue levels between rows. Soil temperatures in the row, which affect seedling growth after planting, were similar to more aggressive tillage methods. Yields were also similar to the more aggressive tillage. Reduced trips across the field resulted in savings in time and money.

Management strategies need to be adapted to the tillage system. With strip tillage, that means staying on the row, clearing the row out well and using residue managers on the planter. The costs involved in switching systems are always a factor.

In the future, "green payments" and carbon trading could significantly enhance the economics of conservation tillage. Carbon dioxide is a greenhouse gas, and a major contributor to accelerated global climate change.

U of M research trials, in cooperation with Don Reicosky of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Agricultural Research Service, measured the pounds of carbon lost from fall tillage in 2005. With moldboard plowing, carbon dioxide lost to the atmosphere within 24 hours after tillage was 579 pounds per acre. With strip tillage, only 106 pounds of carbon dioxide was lost per acre, or 18 percent of the moldboard plowing loss.

The more soil is tilled, the more carbon is released. Purdue University created the following "Top 10" list, detailing the benefits of conservation tillage:

10. Improved air quality. There's less wind erosion (less dust). Fossil fuel emissions are reduced, and there's less release of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere.
9. More food and shelter for wildlife.
8. Improved water quality.
7. Reduced soil erosion.
6. More soil moisture is trapped to improve water availability to the crop.
5. Increased organic matter.
4. Improved soil tilth.
3. Reduced wear on machinery.
2. Less fuel is used.
1. More dollars for the farmer through reduced labor and time saved.

Popcorn facts

Popcorn pops because water is stored in a small circle of soft starch in each kernel. As the kernel is heated, the water heats, the droplet of moisture turns to steam and the steam builds up pressure until the kernel finally explodes to many times its original volume.

Americans today consume 17.3 billion quarts of popped popcorn each year! The average American eats about 68 quarts!

While the first breakfast cereal was made by adding sugar and milk to popped popcorn, a shortage of baking flours after World War II forced breadmakers to substitute up to 25 percent of wheat flour with ground popped popcorn. Over the years, popcorn also has been used as an ingredient in pudding, candy, soup, salad and entrees.

Popcorn's nutritional value comes from the fact that, like other cereal grains, its primary function is to provide the body with heat and energy.

Microwave popcorn is the same as other popcorn except the kernels are usually larger and the packaging is designed for maximum popability.

Spring road weight limits began March 13 in the south, southeastern frost zones

Spring road weight restrictions for the southern and southeastern frost zones began at 12:01 a.m. on March 13, the Minnesota Department of Transportation announced. Winter load increases in those zones ended at 12:01 a.m. March 13.

On March 14, winter load increases ended, and spring weight restrictions became effective at 12:01 a.m. for the Twin Cities metropolitan area frost zone.

Winter load increases remain in effect for the, central, north-central and north frost zones until further notice. The affected frost zone boundaries are:

- Southeast: Iowa border north along Interstate 35 (does not include I-35) to the Scott County line, east along the Dakota County line, including Highway 19 to the Wisconsin border.
- South: Iowa border north to Highway 12 and from the South Dakota border east to the Hennepin County line, along the Carver and Scott county lines to I-35, south to the Iowa border. (This zone includes Highway 19 along the Scott County border.)
- Twin Cities metropolitan area: Anoka, Carver, Chisago, Dakota, Hennepin, Ramsey, Scott and Washington counties.

"Mn/DOT monitors weather and road conditions daily, so truckers should check frequently to determine precisely when changes occur in the state's frost zones," said Keith Shannon, director of Mn/DOT's Office of Materials.

He said that Mn/DOT also urges truckers to check the department's seasonal load limits Web site (www.mrr.dot.state.mn.us) to learn the locations of weight-restricted routes, changing road conditions and state highways open to 10-ton routes.

The information is also available toll-free by calling 1-800-723-6543 in the U. S. and Canada.

Travelers in Minnesota can get up-to-date information on road conditions, construction and weather reports from Mn/DOT's 511 traveler information service. Dial 511, or access www.511mn.org.

Original poems from northwest Minnesota are needed soon

Roseau Area Writers' Workshop participants are eager to alert all area writers about a publishing opportunity. The League of Minnesota Poets is collecting poems from all 87 counties in the state with the goal of publishing a Minnesota sesquicentennial anthology. It sent out a call for submissions earlier, but, at this time, it still needs poems from several counties, including Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Itasca and Aitkin.

To be considered for this historic publication, original poems from poets in and/or poems about these counties should be e-mailed -- preferably as Microsoft Word or HTML documents very soon. E-mails can be directed to lomppoet@gmail.com with "County Lines" in the subject box. Each e-mail must include the poet's name, address and phone number, as well as the name of the county to which the poem pertains and the county in which the poet resides.

Annette Hermansen, coordinator of the Roseau Area Writers' Workshop said, "This is a fine opportunity for talented writers who live in northwestern Minnesota. Surely we want to have our counties represented in 'County Lines.' We know from our experience of publishing our Roseau County/City Centennial book, 'Up Home -- The Land and the People' and 11 issues of 'Regional Ramblings' that we do have area residents who have written fine poems which would be appropriate for this book. Many of these writers are too modest to call themselves poets, but I urge them to review their files or sit down and let inspiration work to create a new poem or two. Send one or send a dozen so that the compilers can select a variety representing each of our counties. Share your talent and share 'our' Minnesota soon."

Dates for a series of spring-summer sessions of RAWW at Roseau Public Library will be announced soon. These workshops, designed to encourage adults who enjoy working with words, are free and open to the public.

No Injuries reported in separate rollovers Tuesday

No injuries were reported in separate rollover accidents Tuesday morning.

The first one-vehicle rollover was reported at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, according to the Minnesota State Patrol report. At the time of the accident, Linda L. Ulrich, 45, Salol, was driving a 2006 Chevy Malibu eastbound on Highway 11, two miles east of Roseau. According to the report, she lost control of the car on the icy highway. The car then went into a ditch and rolled. Ulrich was wearing her seat belt. Her car sustained severe damage. The Roseau County Sheriff's Office assisted the State Patrol.

The second one-vehicle rollover was reported at 8:29 a.m. Tuesday, according to the State Patrol report. At the time of the accident, Marjorie J. Kasprowicz, 66, Argyle, was driving a 2005 Chevy Impala eastbound on Highway 2, one mile east of Marcoux. According to the report, she lost control of the car on the icy/slushy road. Her car then went into the median and rolled. Kasprowicz was wearing her seat belt. Her car sustained moderate damage. The Polk County Sheriff's Office assisted the State Patrol.

AN AMERICAN REVOLUTION

Darcy Reese, Lincoln High School choir instructor, works with 165 students as part of a rehearsal for Shakin' The Rafters II. Along with Robert Robinson and members of the Twin Cities Community Gospel Choir, they will perform May 18 and 19 at 7 p.m. in the LHS auditorium. Tickets go on sale April 1 at Kezar Music in Thief River Falls. Tickets are $10 each.

Jorgenson said there will be more "grab and go" foods that include different types of sandwiches and wraps, and a long awaited salad bar Monday, Wednesday and Friday. There will also be a new cash register that accepts debit and credit cards, and has a scale to weigh salad bar items. Also, there will be a link for the Thief River Falls menu available on Carenet.

"We are hoping the community notices the difference with the variety of foods offered in the cafeteria and also the convenience of having hot breakfast available in the cafeteria," said Jorgenson. "This will benefit those who are waiting for someone in surgery, the emergency room, or have had a long night staying with a patient on Med/Surg. Emergency room doctors have also requested hot breakfast in the cafeteria - so here we go," said Jorgenson.

"Tuesday, March 18, we will 'Go Live' with the new menus," said Jorgenson. "On Monday, March 17, we will do all the pre-prep work for the new food recipes. This is a big accomplishment for some of the food service workers who have been cooking to a certain routine and recipe for many years, which is just a reminder to bear with us as we make this big step!"

Jorgenson thanked Deanna Skaar, RD, who helped in the menu planning process, and the FNS staff, which is making a huge effort to change routines. "Thanks also goes to several individuals at Fargo MeritCare, including Lisa Gibson, food service manager, Nancy Larson, culinary manager, Lauro Haun, retail manager, Jodi Thompson, menu call center manager, and Janel Sorget - CBORD specialist, who did our nutrition analysis. Their training, time, talent, and expertise are very much appreciated in this integration. They were a lot of fun to work with and have taught us some new tricks for the trade."

This isn't the end of changes for food service at the hospital. "We are looking at implementing room-service for inpatients in November. When room service is available, the patient will be able to call for their meal when they want to eat, not when schedules dictate. The room service menu is like a restaurant menu with more choices of food from which the patient can choose. The menu will be in each room. The patient calls the Call Center between 6:30 a.m. and 8 p.m. with what they want to eat, and they are instructed as to which food follows their diet order. The Call Center sends the order to the cafeteria by printer. The meal ticket will be printed in the kitchen, and the food is delivered to the patient's room within 45 minutes, so the patient needs to call ahead before he or she is hungry! Our staff will wear chef uniforms if they are in food preparation, and a tuxedo uniform if they are serving room service to patients," said Jorgenson.

No injuries reported after fire Thursday

No injuries were reported after a fire Thursday night in a room at the AmericInn in Thief River Falls.

The fire caused sprinklers to operate, leading to water damage at the hotel. Firefighters were dispatched to the scene at 6:25 p.m. Thursday and were on the scene for an hour. The cause of the fire remains under investigation.

Sandy Hodges, a member of the Twin Cities Community Gospel Choir, rehearsed Monday and Tuesday with members of the Lincoln High School choirs. The Gospel Choir and the LHS choirs; along with other artists, will perform May 18 and 19 at 7 p.m. in the LHS auditorium. Tickets go on sale April 1 for the performance, Shakin' The Rafters II. Tickets are $10 each. Attendees will be able to purchase the tickets at Kazar Music in Thief River Falls.

Shakin' The Rafters II

back for this year's show. Go to www.ginger commodore.com to hear what Commodore can do.

Commodore will perform two pieces with the mass choir and three selections with the Swingsations. The singers are very eager to work with her again. "Getting tips and techniques from the pros is one thing, but to be able to perform with them and then go on tour with them to New York City and perform Jazz at Lincoln Center, is a whole new ball game," said Reese. "We are very fortunate to have a supportive arts community. Without the support of private individuals, grants and foundations, shows like Shakin' The Rafters would be impossible."

Other artists that will be performing with the choir will include Michael Pilhofer, drummer from Minneapolis and educator at the McNally School of Music in Minneapolis; Adi Yeshaya, Jazz piano player from Boston and educator at Berkley School of Music in Boston; Ben Willis, bassist and former choir and orchestra alumnus from LHS and student at the University of Wisconsin – Madison; and Kathy Jensen, saxophonist from Minneapolis and founding member of the Minneapolis-based group The Hornheads. Also, adding to the white gospel sound will be the ever popular local group the WoodPicks.

Hymns, spirituals, Jazz music and gospel music will fill the LHS auditorium for the comeback of Shakin' The Rafters II on May 18 and 19. Tickets go on sale Tuesday, April 1 at 8 a.m at Kezar Music in Thief River Falls. Get your tickets early as all seats are reserved seating only. A special thank you to Joe and Milo at Kezar Music for taking on the ticket selling for the choir. Seats fill up fast, so get your tickets early. Reese wants all ticket buyers to be extra kind to Joe and Milo when purchasing your tickets and please don't blame them if your seat is already taken. They are volunteering their time to the choir, so call Reese if you have a concern or just take a different seat and enjoy the show from a different view! Trust them when they show you that another seat is available.

The shows start each night at 7 p.m May 18 and 19, and all seats are $10 each. No special passes will be granted for this show. The money from the ticket sales goes to pay for the rehearsal fees and performance fees for the artists, along with transportation, food and accommodations for each of the artists. Reese, the choirs and artists appreciate your support.

Robert Robinson gave some pointers to Lincoln High School choir members Monday during a rehearsal at the school. They, along with members of the Twin Cities Community Gospel Choir and other artists, will perform Shakin' The Rafters II on May 18 and 19 at 7 p.m. in the LHS auditorium. Tickets go on sale April 1 at Kazar Music in Thief River Falls. Tickets are $10 each.

Many artifacts of the area are already being donated to the Tri River Pioneer museum in Plummer. This is one of the books that hold obituaries of people of the area. Many more of these books have been donated. The Tri River Pioneers will host their annual July 4 celebration this year to raise funds for the museum. (Submitted photo)

NORTHERN WATCH AROUND THE REGION

Polk County increases landfill space

Gentilly - "Polk County has increased the life of its landfill, located near Gentilly, by purchasing adjoining privately owned land.

"County Administrator Jack Schmalenberg said the county closed the deal last week, adding about 120 acres to the dump site at a cost of $1,000 per acre."

"The expansion abuts the landfill's east side and would extend its usage 20 to 30 years, Schmalenberg estimated. Without the addition, the land fill may have reached capacity in about 25 years." - The Erskine Echo, March 20, 2008

Warren City Council approves annexation of Parkview Acres

Warren - "No one from the public appeared at a hearing March 4, when the Warren City Council considered the annexation of land for the Parkview Second Addition housing subdivision.

"Following the public hearing, council members approved annexation of the requested 7.3 acres into the city. Some of the acreage for the 19-lot subdivision on the southwest side of Warren had already been annexed years earlier. The annexed land is owned by Randy and Cindy Engelstad, who are also the developers of the Parkview II Addition." - Warren Sheaf, March 19, 2008

Proposed court cuts may be painful

Hallock - "The last time state budgeting delved into the state's courts budget, Kittson County was left without its own court administrator.

"Gov. Tim Pawlenty has proposed a cut of approximately $11.9 million from the courts and public defender's budget to help him head off an estimated $1 billion state budget shortfall. Approximately $9 million of the proposal is aimed at the courts. And the proposal has the judicial branch of Minnesota's government reeling.

"Kittson County currently shares an administrator position with Roseau County, and the administrator is located in the courthouse in Roseau. The court still has an administrative office in Kittson County that is staffed full-time and staffed with competent staff. But when the need arises for an administrator's attention, that need has to be directed out of the county.

"For those who work in the judicial system, tensions appear high. Most will contend that the last go-around of budget cuts pretty much went to the bone. Any further cuts made now will diminish services and be detrimental to the public." - North Star News of Karlstad, March 20, 2008, by Dan Nordine

Viking will be hopping

Viking - "Viking will be hopping Saturday, March 29."

"The Viking Firemen's Fundraiser Spaghetti Supper will be held at the Viking Diner from 4:30 to 8 p.m." Freewill donations will be accepted.

"The Bluegrass Festival will begin at 2 p.m. and will run through the evening. It will feature bands Sloughgrass, Lois & Lois, Free Indeed, Prairie Grass and Pembina Trail.

"The concert will start at 2 p.m. and will run until 5 p.m. From 5:30 to 6:45 p.m., there will be a jam session with the bands, and an evening concert will begin at 7 p.m." - The Middle River Honker, March 15, 2008, by Barb Geer

Passover Seder

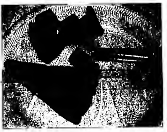
St. Bernard's School celebrates traditional Seder



Clockwise from top are traditional Seder food items, charoset, a mixture of apples, walnuts and cinnamon; bitter herbs in the form of celery and radishes; and unleavened bread called matzo. A traditional Seder plate may also contain karpas, which is a vegetable other than bitter herbs; z'roa, a roasted lamb or goat shankbone to symbolize the Pesach sacrifice; and beitzah, a roasted egg representing the festival sacrifice.

St. Bernard's School has reenacted a traditional Seder meal on Maundy Thursday for the past 16 years. That tradition continued Thursday, with the school's faculty and students gathering as participants.

The Passover Seder originated as Jewish ceremony that is held on the first night of Passover. The ceremony includes unique customs, such as the consumption of four glasses of wine per person and the eating of unleavened bread, called matzo, and other symbolic foods.

Sister Kathy Kuchar, principal of St. Bernard's School, said the Seder meal served at St. Bernard's School is a dual tradition that dates back to Jewish traditions, but it also celebrates Christ's traditions and customs.

"The goal is to remember what Christ has done for us," Kuchar said. She added that the Seder is also the beginning of St. Bernard's Easter Triduum (named for the three days from sundown Thursday to sundown on Easter Sunday).

Each St. Bernard's student in kindergarten through fifth grade participated in the Seder, but they were assigned seats throughout the cafeteria, rather than by grade.

Thursday's Seder was led by Kuchar, Monsignor Tim McGee and St. Bernard's staff. During the Seder, students drank grape juice (instead of wine) and ate matzo; a mixture of apples, walnuts and cinnamon called charoset; and bitter herbs in the form of celery and radishes as they were prompted.

Traditional Seder items like karpas, a vegetable other than bitter herbs which is dipped in salt water before eating; z'roa, a roasted lamb or goat shankbone representing the Pesach sacrifice; and beitzah, a roasted egg representing the festival sacrifice, were not included in Thursday's Seder.

As the Seder continued, faculty members took turns assuming the role of the youngest child, who would typically ask questions during a traditional Seder as to why the matzo, charoset and bitter herbs were eaten. Bitter herbs symbolize the bitterness and harshness of the slavery which Jews endured in Egypt. The charoset is intended to represent the mortar used by Jewish slaves to build the pyramids and other structures in Egypt. Matzo represents the belief that the Israelites left Egypt in a haste and did not have time to allow their bread to rise.

Continuing with the Seder tradition, the ceremony memorialized the 10 plagues that were encountered by the Egyptians prior to the Israelites' exodus. The Seder

TRF Council approves Greenwood St. underpass

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

The Thief River Falls City Council has approved a Greenwood Street railroad underpass Tuesday. It is anticipated that the project, estimated to cost $2.7 million using today's figures, could be constructed as early as 2011.

The matter elicited no discussion at the council meeting. Toward the end of the meeting, Mayor Steve "Beaver" Nordhagen indicated that the Public Works Committee had a "good conversation" about the railroad underpass at its meeting March 12. He said, "Hopefully, we will see [the railroad underpass] as a reality in the near future."

The project includes the construction of Greenwood Street from Pennington to Kendall avenues. It also includes a traffic control signal system at the intersection of Greenwood Street and Pennington Avenue. Additional items include a temporary railroad track for Canadian Pacific Rail, the relocation of fiberoptic cable and the construction of a storm water lift station. The project will enable motorists to travel from Greenwood Street and over the future Greenwood Street bridge to Highway 32.

On Wednesday, Public Works Director Ron Lindberg said the city could pursue advanced construction of the project in 2011 if "all of the ducks were in a row." At that time, the city could borrow money for the project and could use its federal aid, which it would receive in 2012, to cover the money that it had borrowed. Otherwise, the project would begin in 2012.

Besides the aforementioned federal aid, the city is eligible for state aid. It could potentially receive state bonding or federal grants for the project as well.

Council members had two options available for Greenwood Street – a railroad underpass or an at-grade railroad crossing. An overpass wasn't an option since there wasn't enough room at that location. If the city chose to have an at-grade railroad crossing, estimated to cost $908,000 using today's figures, council members were under the impression that CP Rail would request that the city close another at-grade railroad crossing, specifically the Noro Street railroad crossing. There was also talk that another at-grade railroad crossing would have to be closed. During the February meeting of the Public Works Committee, Lindberg indicated that Pennington County Engineer Mike Flaagan had told him that the county may be willing to give up one of its at-grade railroad crossings to help the city out. Due to the council's decision Tuesday, no at-grade railroad crossings will be closed.

LHS receives grant for pottery equipment

Students in the Clayworks classes at Lincoln High School are taking advantage of some new pottery equipment.

LHS received a grant from the Northwest Regional Development Commission in 2006-07. The request was for $1,000 for pottery equipment. The grant was approved and was used for a Brent Model CXC clay wheel and one splash pan. Sax Arts & Crafts provided a bid of $1,183.25. The Thief River Falls School District paid the remainder of the amount.

The clay wheel arrived in May 2007, and there were no Clayworks classes at that time. This winter, the clay wheel is now being used by students in the Clayworks classes at LHS.

Randi Numedahl used a clay wheel to work on her projects for her Clayworks class Monday. She is a student in one of Marilyn Adams' Clayworks classes at Lincoln High School. The school recently purchased a new clay wheel and a splash pan with a Northwest Regional Development Commission grant.

Appreciating Farmers

Monday, March 17, area farmers and merchants gathered for the Annual Farmer-Merchant Mixer, which was in appreciation for all that farmers do and mean to the economy. This year, the event was at the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls. The tickets were $11 for merchants, but farmers were admitted free of charge. The event was co-sponsored by Thief River Falls area businesses and Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Agribusiness Committee.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Time to get ready for that Easter dinner. Ham, turkey or some other meat, these sweet treats will be a great occompaniment.

Lemon bars would make a fresh, sunny dessert after your big meal. This recipe makes a large pan too:

SUNNY LEMON BARS

1 (18 1/4 ounce) package lemon cake mix
2 eggs, divided
1/3 cup vegetable oil
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, room temperature
1/3 cup sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

In a large bowl, beat cake mix, one egg and the oil until crumbly. Set aside one cup of the cake mixture for topping. Press remaining cake mixture into an ungreased 9x13 inch baking pan (glass is good, but not absolutely necessary). Bake for 12 minutes or until lightly browned.

In medium bowl, beat cream cheese well. Add sugar, lemon juice and remaining egg, beating until smooth. Pour cream cheese mixture over baked crust and sprinkle with reserved cup of cake mixture.

Bake 20-22 minutes, or until lightly browned. Let cool slightly and then cover and chill in refrigerator for a few hours or overnight.

Strawberries always mean spring is really here, even if there is snow on the ground. This strawberry cake dessert tastes best after a night in the fridge:

STRAWBERRY TORTE

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
4 egg yolks, beaten (reserve whites)
4 tablespoons milk
1/2 cup plus 2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
4 egg whites
1 cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
Pinch of salt
2 cups sliced fresh strawberries
2 cups sweetened whipped cream for top

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease two 8-inch round cake pans.

Beat shortening and 1/2 cup sugar with mixer. Blend in egg yolks, milk, flour and baking powder. Spread over bottom of pans.

Beat egg whites stiff. Add one cup sugar, cream of tartar and salt, and beat thick and glossy. Spread over cake layers. Bake 20-25 minutes. Cool 5 minutes, then remove to wax paper-covered plates, placing cake side down.

When completely cool, arrange strawberries over the egg-white side of one of the layers. Top with second layer, egg-white side down on top of the strawberries. Spread whipped cream over top. Refrigerate overnight, if possible. Recipe serves 8-10.

I've been told this salad is very tasty as well as pretty. Put it in your best bowl in the middle of your table to make it shine:

RUBY RED LAYERED SALAD

1 (3 ounce) package raspberry gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 (10 ounce) package frozen raspberries
1 pint sour cream
1 (3 ounce) package cherry gelatio
1 (8 ounce) can crushed pineapple, drained
1 (16 ounce) can whole cranberry sauce

Dissolve raspberry gelatin in 1 cup of the boiling water. Add frozen raspberries and stir until well mixed. Pour into pretty glass bowl and refrigerate until almost firm, 30-60 minutes.

Spread sour cream over raspberry layer and refrigerate again.

In another bowl, dissolve cherry gelatin in second cup of boiling water. Stir in crushed pineapple and cranberry sauce and chill in the bowl until partially set, 20-40 minutes. Spoon cherry gelatin over sour cream layer in pretty bowl and chill firm, another hour or so.

Here is a tangy fruit punch that will take care of those thirsty people after that big meal. It makes 2 punch bowls full of refreshment. Be sure to make the day before the dinner so it has time to freeze up, and put the lemon-lime soda in the fridge too:

LUCIOUS SLUSH PUNCH

2 1/2 cups white sugar
6 cups water
2 (3 ounces each) packages strawberry gelatin mix
1 (46 fluid ounce) can pineapple juice
2/3 cup lemon juice
1 quart orange juice
2 (2 liters each) bottles lemon-lime flavored soda pop (store in refrigerator)

In large saucepan, combine sugar, water and gelatin. Boil for 3 minutes. Stir in pineapple juice, lemon juice and orange juice. Divide mixture in half and freeze in 2 separate containers (clean milk containers are good so that contents can be removed easily without being thawed).

When ready to serve, place the frozen contents of one container in a punch bowl and stir in 1 bottle of cold soda pop until mixture is slushy.

Ramey Nordby of Grygla was one of twelve Bemidji State University (BSU) students to attend the Region V Conference of the Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival.

Nordby is a sophomore majoring in theater and creative and professional writing. As an ensemble member, he received a certificate of merit for ensemble creation and performance for "The Sophie Scholl Project."

FSA assistance available to producers impacted by bovine TB

With bovine tuberculosis (TB) impacting northern Minnesota's beef and dairy industry, the U.S. Department of Agriculture Farm Service Agency reminds producers that FSA loan programs are available to help refinance debts, pay production expenses or purchase equipment.

"FSA operating loan funds are available to help producers directly or indirectly impacted by the bovine TB threat in northern Minnesota," said Perry Aasness, Minnesota FSA state executive director. "FSA loan programs can help finance expenses, such as the installation of fencing and corrals, as well as the purchase of feed and livestock equipment."

FSA direct operating loans are currently available at a 3.75 percent interest rate. Terms of the loan range from one to seven years. In certain cases, a balloon payment in the seventh year may be utilized to further lower the annual payment. The maximum loan amount is $200,000. FSA direct loans are available to producers who are unable to meet their credit needs through commercial credit sources.

FSA also offers guaranteed loans that are available through local lenders. A guaranteed loan allows the farmer to maintain his or her financing through the farmer's current lender while reducing the lender's risk of loss. FSA can issue guarantees up to $949,000. FSA guarantees may also be used in conjunction with low interest loans available through the Minnesota Rural Finance Authority to gain even more favorable financing terms.

Interest assistance is also an option available through the guaranteed loan program. Through the interest assistance program, FSA can pay a portion of the interest on the guaranteed loan. Existing FSA loan customers may also be eligible for loan restructuring options, including a deferral of payments, to help maintain their operations during challenging times.

For additional information regarding FSA loan programs, contact your local FSA Service Center.

Gully man killed after two-vehicle accident Tues.

A Gully man was killed after a two vehicle accident Tuesday evening in Clay County.

Gordon R. Benson, 75, was ejected from his pickup truck and was pronounced dead at the scene according to the Minnesota State Patrol report. The other driver, David L. Wieber, 50, Lidgerwood, N.D., suffered non-life-threatening injuries. He was taken by ambulance to Innovis Hospital in Fargo, N.D. Wieber's son, Brock M. Wieber, 15, Lidgerwood, also suffered non-life threatening injuries. Brock Wieber was life-flighted to Innovis Hospital.

At the time of the accident, Benson was driving a 1993 Chevy pickup truck eastbound on Clay County Road 2 near the intersection with Highway 75. According to the report Benson failed to yield or stop for a southbound 1999 Ford pickup truck driven by David Wieber. Benson's truck broadsided David Wieber's truck, causing Benson's truck to roll and eject Benson. Benson's truck then caught on fire. It was unknown if Benson was wearing a seat belt. Both Wiebers were wearing their seat belts, and their vehicle's air bags deployed.

The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 5:24 p.m. Tuesday. The Clay County Sheriff's Office, Wolverton Fire and Rescue, the Christine, N.D., Fire Department, Fargo-Moorhead Ambulance and LifeFlight assisted.

Two Rivers Watershed District to celebrate 50 years

The Two Rivers Watershed District will host an open house celebration to commemorate its 50th year of water management. The event will begin at 1 p.m. Wednesday, March 26. It will be held in the upstairs meeting room of the Kittson County Courthouse in Hallock. A short program will be held, followed by an open house format to view displays, enjoy refreshments, and visit with watershed district representatives.

The watershed district held its first meeting in Hallock on Dec. 11, 1957. The first members of the board of managers were President R.C. Nelson from Hallock, Vice President Andy Erickson from Badger, Secretary E. Harley Younggren from Hallock, Treasurer Gilmore Berger from Badger, and Levin Vagle. It was only the second watershed district organized within the state of Minnesota, formed under a new statute known as the "watershed law."

Under this law, watershed districts were organized not along political boundaries, but rather followed drainage boundaries to enable water management on a watershed basis. The Two Rivers Watershed District contains about 1,454 square miles and is located in the western part of Roseau County, most of Kittson County and a portion of Marshall County. The district was organized for the main purposes of flood control and water quality.

The newly formed district quickly went to work on identifying problem areas and identifying projects. By 1960, project #1 on the Middle Branch of the Two Rivers was being developed, and soon after, project #2 on the North Branch of the Two Rivers was in the works. Both of these projects were joint efforts with the Soil Conservation Service under the Federal PL 566 program. They involved channel work, clearing and grubbing of brush, installation of erosion control structures and seeding of ditch banks. These projects were both completed by the late 1960s.

In the 1970s, more projects were being undertaken by the district as a result of various petitions that had been presented by landowner groups. Two ditches, known as Soler #4 and Dewey #5, were planned, engineered and constructed in Roseau County to provide drainage and flood control. In the 1980s and 1990s, several ditch systems were turned over to the district by Kittson and Roseau counties. The district now manages about 90 miles of legal ditch systems.

The district's first flood control impoundment was designed and constructed during the 1980s. This was known as the Nereson impoundment, and was a joint effort between the district, Roseau County, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and the Red River Watershed Board. This impoundment can store the runoff from 17 square miles during a flood, and release it after the flood water has subsided, providing protection to farmsteads, public infrastructure and agricultural land.

Also during the 1980s, the boundary of the district was enlarged. An area of approximately 300 square miles was added to the district. This area is located in Kittson County and a small portion of Marshall County, and encompasses the cities of Karlstad, Donaldson, Kennedy and Halma. The drainage area is roughly from Highway 59 and west to the Red River. This area was not previously a part of an organized watershed district and was added in 1985. Two members were added to the board of managers, for a new total of seven members.

During the 1990s, the district focused on several data collection initiatives. The first staff person was hired beginning in 1991, and another staff position was added in 2001. The district began a water quality monitoring program in 1991, establishing 10 sites on the river, where water samples were taken and tested for various parameters, including nitrogen, phosphorous, pH and dissolved oxygen. In 1996, a program was started to monitor stream flow velocity and volume at 28 different sites. A culvert inventory was started in 1998 to locate and collect information on all culverts located within the 1,454 square miles of the district. Snow survey information has been collected since 1999, which helps to determine how much flooding will take place each spring. Each of these data collection, monitoring and inventory programs provides valuable scientific information to aid in the decision-making process of the board of managers.

Present-day projects that are being completed include the Kennedy #6 and the Ross #7 projects. The Kennedy #6 project will establish a legal ditch along the watercourse that flows through the city of Kennedy in order to provide water conveyance and flood control. When the project is completed, the district will be responsible for maintenance of that system. The Ross #7 project is a flood control impoundment located near the city of Badger that will detain and hold the runoff from 18 square miles in order to provide flood control in areas upstream of Lake Bronson.

The present board of managers for the district is President John Younggren from Hallock, Vice President Roger Anderson from rural Teien Township, Secretary Jim Kukowski from Strathcona, Treasurer O'Neil Larson from Halma, and Managers Lawrence Lind from Lake Bronson, Dick Novacek from Greenbush and Jon Vold from Hallock. A total of 26 people have served on the board of managers over the years. Current staff include Administrator Dan Money and Technician Boyd Johnson.

As a city rebuilds, green is the way to go

Dovetail Partners and the Warren Economic Development Authority pursue green building projects

At a recent planning meeting, the Warren Economic Development Authority (WEDA) determined that building green homes and offering green education is a step in the right direction for rebuilding a community hit by severe flooding in 1996 and 1997.

The county seat lost over four dozen homes in the three major floods in 1996 and 1997. A water diversion structure was constructed to divert the water away from the city. Last year, confirmation was received from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to redraw the floodplains and lift building restrictions.

"Green building makes sense in terms of ecology," says Phil Thompson, president of WEDA. "It's also very cost-effective and good for the area."

Dovetail Partners, a nonprofit organization based in Minneapolis and working throughout the region, has partnered with WEDA to identify green opportunities for the reconstruction.

"Warren is a great community with an opportunity to rebuild and incorporate the latest green building possibilities into the process," said Alison Liadburg, director of Dovetail's Eco-Affordable Housing Program.

The recent planning meeting was held to discuss green building concepts for multiple projects in the city of Warren and included representatives from WEDA, Dovetail Partners, Argyle Building Center, and Marshall County Group Homes Inc. The partners are working to define what "green" means for them and have decided that community education is necessary.

"It is great to have organizations like Dovetail willing to come all the way out here to teach us about green," says Derald Mereil of Argyle Building Center.

"Right now, energy conservation and keeping jobs in the local area is important to us," Thompson says.

With the floodplains successfully redrawn, city leaders are in the process of rebuilding their community. Part of this vision involves construction of a handicapped group home and a new professional building.

Marshall County Group Homes Inc. plans to construct a new four bedroom home for individuals with developmental disabilities or related conditions.

"We'd like to build an energy-efficient building that has low utility bills and is comfortable for its residents," says Sue Holter of Marshall County Group Homes Inc.

Karl Frigaard of WEDA and Northwest Community Action Agency agrees, "Incorporating green concepts and design input from Marshall County Group Home employees, clients and the clients' families will result in a plan that will keep employees and clients happy to live and work in the Marshall County Group Home."

Dovetail is aiding in the review of the floor plan for the home and helping incorporate green design considerations. Possible green features include passive solar orientation and natural daylighting, a geothermal heating system, and high-efficiency locally-manufactured windows.

A new professional building in the heart of downtown also has plans for exploring green options. An energy-efficient heating/cooling system, locally manufactured materials, and achieving the United States Green Building Council's Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) criteria are all possibilities. This project is in the preliminary design phase and hopes to break ground in 2008. Dovetail Partners will be aiding in the review of the floor plan and helping plan educational events around the construction.

"These projects are a way to improve the local economy by working with local contractors and materials and offering community education," says Doug Safar, WEDA member and board member of Marshall County Group Homes Inc. "It'll benefit all of us."

As the projects break ground, there are opportunities for contractor training on green building techniques. Dovetail Partners' green assistance in the community is currently funded by the Otto Bremer Foundation, a charitable trust that authorizes grants to nonprofit organizations in Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin.

WEDA and Dovetail are exploring possibilities of building a green demonstration home in Warren to engage the local community. The partners are currently discussing options on building in a highly-visible new development on the edge of town that could influence other new homes around it to be green, or to build on an infill lot inside town that has existing infrastructure.

Fosston CLAA to present Seventh Annual Festival of Tables Luncheon

The Fosston Community Library and Arts Association presents the Seventh Annual Festival of Tables Luncheon. Members of the public are invited to create a table at the luncheon to benefit the Fosston Community Library & Arts Association. The Festival will be held on Saturday, April 19, beginning at 11:30 a.m. at St. Mary's Social Hall in Fosston.

Following on last year's sold-out success, the planners expect to present a wide variety of table settings on which to enjoy a delicious luncheon. Each participant will be asked to set and decorate a table in a theme. Some past themes include: wedding china, holiday settings, antique settings, picnic ware, and many others.

Each table will be provided with a basic white tablecloth; the rest is up to the person setting the table! You may add runners, placemats or other linens, flowers, candles, napkin rings, favors, or other decorations.

After last year's festival, tables were reserved by several people who felt inspired to try their hand at decorating a table for this year's event. A few tables are still available. Call Kim Wilson today, at 435-6753, for details. Anyone who has already reserved a table, should call Kim to confirm. Remember, the number of tables to be set is limited to 15, so call today.

Plans to eradicate bovine TB in northwestern Minnesota

by Rep. Dave Olin

Bovine tuberculosis (TB) is a topic that we've unfortunately become all too familiar with in northern Minnesota – the last few years have not been kind to a state that's been declared free from this disease for almost 35 years.

The discovery and spread of the disease in northwestern Minnesota in 2005 has rendered livestock producers helpless as they watch their livelihoods eaten away by a chronic disease that can spread from animal to animal through a respiratory discharge. Today, cattle ranchers are dealing with four infected beef cattle herds in Roseau County and another in Beltrami County. In total, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health and the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) have discovered bovine TB in 11 beef cattle herds and 17 free-ranging white-tail deer in these two counties alone.

The Board has been working with state and federal agencies, producers, and private-practice veterinarians to investigate and eradicate the disease and ultimately regain Minnesota's TB-free status. In response to the recent downgrade of Minnesota's bovine TB status from Modified Accredited Advanced (MAA) to Modified Accredited (MA), informational meetings were held in surrounding communities by the Board of Animal Health, the Farm Bureau and state, county and local officials. Making this downgrade official means state producers will have to adhere to stricter federal and state testing requirements when shipping cattle or bison and it could impact the dairy industry.

Last week, I met with Dave Schad, director of the Fish and Wildlife Division of Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. He informed me that there is a permit procedure to let people hunt deer in northwestern Minnesota. A plan in the works is to implement a forthcoming rule for landowners to shoot deer found within the designated area on their own land.

Recently, I introduced legislation on the House floor to broaden the authority of the Board of Animal Health that will help clean up the area for livestock producers. Another piece of legislation that I am carrying with Senator Skoe will provide a voluntary buyout to cattle producers within a certain radius of the designated area. We are expecting both of these bills to be heard rather quickly in both chambers and sent to the Governor for his signature. Everyone understands that this problem needs quick and immediate action. I will keep you updated as developments occur.

Global warming debate heats up

The debate about global warming is again heating up.

Recently, four major global gauges showed January temperatures dropping. According to the report, "January 2008 was an exceptional month for our planet, with a significant cooling, especially since January 2007 started out well above normal." The report stated, "January 2008 capped a 12-month period of global temperature drops on all of the major well respected indicators," said Anthony Watts. "I have reported in the past two weeks that HadCRUT, RSS, UAH, and GISS global temperature sets all show sharp drops in the last year."

What does this mean? Watts' comments were taken out of context in one media report to mean that the declines had erased increases. Watts responded that there has been no "erasure." "This is an anomaly with a large magnitude, and it coincides with other anecdotal weather evidence. It is curious, it is unusual, it is large, it is unexpected, but it does not 'erase' anything."

At the same time we're receiving these reports, Iceland is reporting glaciers in retreat. Every glacier in Iceland retreated last year except one, some by nearly 100 meters, according to new data from 47 National Energy Authority research stations located near glaciers across the country. The glaciers are retreating at an unusually high rate.

"'We have never witnessed the glaciers retreating so quickly before,' National Energy Authority geologist Oddur Sigurdsson told Morgunbladid. Iceland's glaciers have melted faster for the past 10 years compared with the 1930s and 1940s when temperatures were also unusually high.".

A local resident brought to our attention a story appearing in the January/February 2008 edition of the Minnkota Messenger. Not everyone agrees with the consensus on global warming. In that story, it is stated that the Russian Academy of Natural Sciences and senior scientist at Moscow's Shirshowv Institute of Oceanography, argued that the current warming is a natural process and completely independent of greenhouse gas influences. "The primary driver of climate change is solar activity and luminosity, he said. The greater they are, the warmer the Earth's climate becomes."

Why are we receiving all this news now? Coincidentally, perhaps not, the 2008 International Conference on Climate Change, sponsored by The Heartland Institute, will be taking place March 2-4 in New York City.

Regardless of where everyone stands on this issue, it should be obvious that we need to continue to do what we can to protect our environment and make sure that what we do today won't damage or limit our future.

College tuition likely to increase under recommendations

Submitted by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf

Gov. Pawlenty's plan to address Minnesota's $935 million budget shortfall includes a $162 million cut to Minnesota's higher education budget over the next three years. If the Pawlenty budget was to become law, the University of Minnesota would lose $27.2 million a year for the next three years. Minnesota's State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) budget would be cut by $26.6 million each year, and the Office of Higher Education would lose $111 million each year. Pawlenty's proposed deep cuts to higher education would likely trigger sharp increases in tuition at state institutions.

In Pawlenty's first term, tuition and fees increased by more than 45 percent. Last session, the Legislature provided Minnesota colleges and universities with enough funding to keep tuition increases the lowest they've been in a decade. It's almost impossible to take 4 percent of that funding back only a year later and expect the tuition rate to remain the same. These proposed funding cuts will likely have a devastating effect on the quality of services at colleges and universities and cause higher tuition rates.

The Governor claims he is only asking our colleges and universities to 'tighten their belts a little,' but these cuts go beyond that. In reality, Gov. Pawlenty is handing college students a shovel and asking them to dig themselves further into debt to make up for the deficit.

Lancaster student named to ISU dean's list

George H. Hanson, Lancaster, was one of more than 4,800 students to be named to the Iowa State University dean's list following the fall 2007 semester. Students named to the dean's list at Iowa State University earned a grade point average of at least 3.5 on a 4.0, while carrying a minimum of 12 credit hours of graded course work.

Neal McCoy and Jason Jones send letters about area children and festival

Ardell Larson, Kick'n Up Country president recently received the letters from Country Entertainers Neal McCoy and Jason Jones. Both singers will be performing at the Kick'n Up Kountry, Inc. Music Festival Labor Day weekend, Aug. 29 - 31.

I have really enjoyed playing the Kick'n Up Country Festivals over the last couple of years and am looking forward to this year's festival as well," said Neal McCoy. "I had a chance to meet with some of the kids that the festival benefits and that experience was very moving. I congratulate Ardell on all of her hard work and I know that everyone involved feels the same way about her as I do. I look forward to playing this festival every year in the hopes that all of Ardell's dreams for the children come true."

"Last year," said Jason Jones, "was my first time playing at Kick'n Up Country and I had a blast! Everyone was so nice and welcoming. Meeting the kids just put the icing on the cake for me! It's such a rewarding feeling being part of something that is for the benefit of others, and just knowing that I helped to take their minds away from their worries for a few minutes to have a good time is the greatest feeling of all. Thanks so much to Ardell and all her great staff for letting me be a part of their festival. I can't wait to come back!"

Both country greats are of course referring to the "Hopes, Dreams and Smiles Fund," which was established through the Northwest Minnesota Foundation. Its purpose is to "provide children from Minnesota and North Dakota who have a life threatening illness or other disabilities, the opportunity to enjoy a special event or other activity that will have a positive impact on their lives."

During the fun-filled, VIP, three-day event, children and their families get the opportunity to enjoy country music, get autographs and have photographs taken with their favorite county music artist.

The Northwest Minnesota Foundation is a 501 (c) (3) charitable non-profit and contributions are deductible to the extent allowed by law. Donations to the Hopes, Dreams, and Smiles Fund can be sent to: Northwest Minnesota Foundation, 4225 Technology Drive NW, Bemidji, Minnesota 56601, or you can make a donation online at: www.nwmf.org

Ardell urges everyone to get their tickets before the price increase on April 1, 2008 by going to the KUK Web site at: www.kicknupkountry.com or calling 218-754-2861•(Toll Free 1-877-542-5687)•Fax: 218-754-2862

St. Bernard's School celebrates Seder

concluded with a meal of turkey, mashed potatoes and corn.

Was the Last Supper a Seder?

The Last Supper is believed to be a Seder meal by many, but there are differing opinions. Many of those differing opinions come from the various ways the Last Supper was depicted in the Bible's New Testament. The Synoptics, or first three Gospels, Matthew, Mark and Luke, portray the Last Supper as a traditional Passover Seder that took place on the first night of Passover. The Gospel of John describes the meal taking place the night before Passover, which would mean that it could not be a true Seder.

Regardless of whether or not the Last Supper was a Passover Seder, it is regarded by most to be the point where the Jewish and Christian faiths meet.

St. Bernard's School hosted a Passover Seder reenactment Thursday. Students and faculty ate traditional Seder foods like charoset, bitter herbs and matzo, along with a lunch of turkey, mashed potatoes and corn.

Hannah B., Austen H. and Kaitlyn M. take small bits of unleavened bread called matzo during a Passover Seder at St. Bernard's School on Thursday.

Lincoln High School students Ryan Harmenson and Katie Rook worked on their clay projects Monday. They are students in one of Marilyn Adams' Clayworks classes. The students received instruction from Sean Anton, a Northland Community and Technical College student and LHS graduate.

Saturday Morning

I awake to my shrill, cheap alarm clock. I purchased the alarm clock in 1987 as part of a package that came with a plug-in phone; both pieces are pink but came from a time when I was more interested in cheap than in manly, I guess. On my weekend off, I will sometimes awake to the alarm clock then fall back asleep. I do this because there is nothing sweeter than the few quick minutes of sleep you get after the alarm rings, and in this case, I can have as much of this deep slumber as I want. Walking down from the bedroom is a negotiated maneuver that involves appeasing each of our three cats with some quick affection just long enough for me to get to the top of the steps and head downstairs.

I arrive downstairs and begin with coffee; we only use the big coffee maker on the weekends, and only when we are both home, so I plug it in and begin the process. I always remove the paper liner from the coffee maker when I am finished, but my wife can be as irresponsible as a daffodil, and so usually leaves the filter from the previous weekend in the hopper. A filter left in the coffee maker for this long takes a bit of time and patience to extract, and is the consistency of clothing worn continually during a week-long camping trip. Our big coffee pot always drips when you fill water, and I no longer care; I used to try and be careful, but I am now reckless and just dump the water. It spills no matter what, and no more than when I am cautious.

I am a great believer in the powers of yogurt, and as such, have a medicinal dosage of either "creamy strawberry" or "creamy vanilla" each morning. I don't know why the word "creamy" has to be included with anything involving yogurt, as it seems somewhat redundant; it is correct, however, and descriptive. Later in the morning, I will enjoy peanut butter toast with black coffee, which is probably my favorite breakfast food. When I had surgery for carpal tunnel syndrome (who says I don't suffer for my craft), I received coffee and peanut butter toast from our close friend, Nancy Thompson. Thompson's nursing attire ought to include a red cape, as she is just that good. As I am blessed with two hands, I was able to enjoy two such recoveries, and the toast and black coffee made me wish for a third appendage.

About 10 minutes into my morning, it's time to release the cats into the wild for their five minutes of time spent not sleeping, then bring them back inside and escort them to the couch. The toast is up, and I've laid a knife out for peanut butter; I hear Lisa's steps from the staircase and our home will soon be filled with her voice. The coffee is ready and I can no longer sit at the computer. Thank you for enjoying the pre-dawn light with me, but now enjoy your Saturday, and do try some peanut butter toast and black coffee, won't you?

NW MN Women's Fund seeks Outstanding "Community Builders

Since 1998, the Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund has honored 26 women who have demonstrated leadership for improving the quality of their own life or those around them. In our increasingly complex society, the Women's Fund seeks to applaud the efforts of the women who have made northwest Minnesota a better place to live, work, raise families and have fun.

The Women's Fund is asking for the public's assistance in recognizing these women who live in the counties of Beltrami, Clearwater, Marshall, Hubbard, Pennington, Polk, Kittson, Red Lake, Norman, Mahnomen, Roseau and Lake of the Woods. Nomination forms can be obtained from the Northwest Minnesota Foundation Web site (www.nwmf.org) or by calling (218) 759-2057 or 1-800-659-7859. All nomination forms must be submitted by May 1. Upon its selection of the "Community Builders," the Advisory Committee will plan and host receptions in the recipients' hometowns, to be held in late summer or early fall.

"Community Builders" awards are given based on the following criteria:

- Leadership: A woman who, through leadership roles, has made significant contributions to her community; and through volunteerism, citizenship or community service, has significantly improved the lives of women and girls.
- Outstanding Mentor: A woman who has demonstrated wisdom and devotion to helping others; a role model and mentor who has supported and encouraged positive development in young women, and who also shows the characteristics necessary for success while actively sharing her skills.
- Professional Excellence: A woman who has demonstrated leadership and excellence in her work, and whose leadership has benefited her community and/or her company; and who is an outstanding entrepreneur; a role model for other women in achieving success in traditional or non-traditional positions.

MDH investigating two possible flu deaths in northern Minnesota family

The Minnesota Department of Health is currently investigating two deaths from an influenza-like illness in members of the same northern Minnesota family. Citing Minnesota data privacy laws, an MDH spokesperson declined to identify the city were the family members resided. The family members who died were between the ages of 40 and 70.

MDH officials are investigating whether the two individuals who died had a secondary bacterial infection that contributed to their deaths. They emphasized that there is no reason to conclude that the deaths were caused by an unusual strain of the influenza virus.

"This is a devastating situation for this family," said Dr Ruth Lynfield, state epidemiologist. "We should keep in mind that influenza can be a serious, potentially fatal health threat. Our investigation is continuing.

"Influenza is highly contagious, so it can spread easily within families. Unfortunately, secondary infections, or some other serious complication, can also occur in some cases. The best thing you can do to protect yourself is to get vaccinated against influenza, and there's still time to do that. Influenza season in Minnesota can last until late April."

In addition to getting vaccinated, people can also take a number of other steps to protect themselves and reduce the spread of the influenza virus. Those steps include washing your hands frequently, staying home when you're ill, and covering your nose and mouth with a sleeve or a paper tissue when you cough or sneeze.

Additional information about influenza is available on the MDH Web site (www.mdhflu.com).

Fertile-Beltrami shooter Tylar Rice had to contend with the Salscheiders – 6-5 Nate (left) and 6-6 Joel (33) – of Cass-Lake Bena during the 2008 Section 8A boys high school basketball tournament championship game Tuesday at the Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls.

Cass Lake-Bena wins Section 8A tournament title...

Panthers add to trophy case

A year after winning the Section 6A title, transplanted Cass Lake-Bena added a new prize to its trophy case by beating Fertile-Beltrami 76-59 Tuesday in the 2008 Section 8A boys high school basketball tournament championship game in front of 2,286 fans at the Thief River Falls Ralph Engelstad Arena.

It was the second straight sectional runner-up finish for the Falcons, who lost a 68-65 overtime decision to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River in the 2007 final.

With Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Fertile-Beltrami both returning three starters, they were expected to be the favorites again in 2008 – until the Minnesota State High School League announced its section/class adjustments and added Cass Lake-Bena to the mix.

There still was a Gators vs. Falcons title game rematch, but this time it was in the Section 8A West finals, with Fertile-Beltrami winning 68-45.

Although that gave the unranked 23-5 Falcons another opportunity to earn a state tournament berth, it was a long shot at best. Second-ranked 26-3 Cass Lake-Bena hadn't lost to a Class A team all year.

The Panthers, 30-2 and state runner-up last March, would have been able to start making Twin Cities motel reservations for the 2008 tournament after a 20-0 run turned a 7-6 lead into a 27-6 spread 10:46 into the contest.

That game-breaking outburst featured three baskets by 6-5 senior forward Nate Salscheider, a pair of 3-pointers by 6-1 junior guard Nate Howard, two buckets by 6-0 sophomore guard Martin Wind and one field goal for both 6-6 senior forward Joel Salscheider and 5-8 senior guard Joe Wilsun. Five of those nine scoring possessions came off Fertile-Beltrami turnovers.

A Wind 3-pointer with 1:58 left made it a 21-point spread, 39-18 – matching the Panthers' biggest lead of the first half.

With a mini-comeback, the Falcons managed to chop the difference to 41-28 when Cody Couette nailed a 3-point shot at the halftime buzzer.

Fans took a couple of quick glances at the scoreboard when the Falcons' Jordon Solie opened the second half with a trey that made it 41-31.

However, Fertile-Beltrami got no closer. It was 43-32 on a Couette free throw with 17:09 remaining, but six minutes later it was a game-high 23-point spread, 60-37, on a short jumper by Wind.

Howard and Wind had 21 point games, while the two Salscheiders scored 12 each.

The Falcons were led by Couette, a 6-1 senior guard, with 20 points. Dustin Kise, a 6-2 senior guard, and Jordon Solie, a 6-3 junior guard, added 15 and 14 points, respectively, to the Fertile-Beltrami offense.

Field goal percentage was a big factor in the outcome. Cass Lake-Bena put together a 55 percent 31-for-56 shooting performance, while Fertile-Beltrami struggled through a 37 percent 22-for-60 showing. The Panthers went 15-for-23 from the field in the second half (65 percent).

Cass Lake-Bena was 8-for-9 at the free throw line; Fertile-Beltrami went 5-for-9. The Panthers finished with a 30-25 rebound advantage over the Falcons, who topped the turnover charts 20-17.

The Panthers will face Section 5A champion Bertha-Hewitt in a 1 p.m. Class A state tournament quarterfinal game Thursday, March 27, at Mariucci Arena on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis. The 28-0 Bears are the top-ranked team in Class A.

Section 1A Janesville-Waldorf-Pemberton and Section 4A Minnesota Transitions Charter School play the 11 a.m. opener in the Panthers' state tournament bracket.

State basketball draw is finalized with seed voting in AAA, AAAA

The tournament will be played March 26-29 in the Twin Cites metro area.

Class AA, AAA and AAA quarterfinals are scheduled Wednesday. First round Class A games are Thursday.

The Class A and AA quarterfinals will be played at Mariucci Arena on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis; Class AAA openers will be at both Mariucci Arena and the Target Center in Minneapolis; Class AAAA first round game will be at the Target Center.

NCTC baseball team has solid spring trip

Members of the 2008 Northland Community and Technical College baseball team came back from Florida with more than just tans. The Pioneers returned from a season-opening 9-day, 12-game spring trip to the Coca Expo March 15 with five wins.

The 5-6-1 showing was the best-ever Florida trip, record-wise, the Pioneers have experienced in their four years under head coach Steve Gust. Their previous high for wins on the annual trip was three. A year ago the Pioneers picked up just two victories.

Northland's trip started Saturday, March 8, with a 12-10 loss to West Virginia Wesleyan 12-10 and a 4-1 win over Nassau (N.Y.).

Sunday, March 9, the Pioneers played to a 4-4 time-limit tie with Hagerstown, Md.) and beat Rocky Valley (Ill.) 6-3.

Northland lost Monday, March 10, decisions to the Blue Jays from the Premier Baseball League of Ontario (Canada) Senior Division 7-2 and Montgomery College-Germantown (Md) 11-4.

In a single game Tuesday, March 11, Northland came up with a 6-5 win over the London Badgers, another PBLD Senior Division team from Ontario.

Back to doubleheader action, Northland lost an 11-6 Thursday, March 13, decision to Rock Valley 11-6, then came back to defeat MSU-Bottineau, (N.D.) 11-4.

The Pioneers lost Friday, March, 14, games to Genesse (N.Y.) 11-1 and Minnesota foe Dakota County Tech 6-5.

Northland finished the trip with a 9-3 Saturday, March 15, win over Old Westbury (N.Y.) junior varsity 9-3.

All 23 Northland players making the trip saw action, with 21 of them starting at least one game – thanks in part to a preplanned rotation and a series of injuries and illness that hampered the team throughout the trip.

"It was a good trip for us to see a lot of our players in different positions," said Gust. "For the most part, we were pleased with what we saw. We have a long ways to go, but if we keep the desire and work hard, good things will happen."

Sophomores Nick Stenberg (Park Rapids) and Tyler Earls (Pelican Rapids) led the Northland pitchers on the Florida excursion. They both had 2-0 records in two starts and neither one gave up an earned run. Freshman Kyle Nowacki (Warroad) earned three saves and finished with a 1.62 earned run average.

Sophomore Matt Luckey (Billings, Mont.) went 1-1 on the mound with a 1.75 ERA and freshman Doug Peterson (Bemidji) was 1-1 in two starts with a 3.82 ERA.

Freshman Andrew Fryer (St. Francis) led the Northland offense with a .464 batting average by picking up 13 hits in 28 at-bats. He drove in eight runs.

Freshman John Greicar (Grand Forks, N.D.) had seven hits, 11 RBI and five stolen bases, while Nowacki hit .385 with 8 RBI.

"We had a lot of success," reported Gust. "We just need more consistency from everyone. "We believe we have all the ingredients of a pretty good baseball team. Hard work will determine how much better we become as a team."

Northland was back on the road for the Thursday-through-Saturday (March 20-22) Pioneer Tournament in Miles City, Mont., where games were scheduled against Trinity (S.D. Bible College, Prairie (Canada) Baseball Academy, Williston (N.D.) State and host Miles City, a team that advanced to the NJCAA Division II World Series last spring.

The Pioneers are scheduled to make their home debut Saturday, March 29, vs. Central Lakes.

In the other set of games that day, it will be Section 2A Granada-Huntley-East Chain vs. Section 3A Ellsworth (the defending state champion) at 3 p.m.; and Section 6A Norman County East vs. Section 7A Chisholm at 5 p.m.

Wednesday Class AA state tournament contests and the Thursday Class A match-ups will be the first basketball games played at Mariucci Arena, home of the Minnesota Gophers men's hockey team.

Forney, Bendickson are on WCHA academic list

Two Thief River Falls graduates were named to the 2007-08 Western Collegiate Hockey Association men's All-WCHA Academic Team, it was announced recently.

Sophomore forwards Michael Forney (University of North Dakota) and Aaron Bendickson (University of Wisconsin) are the former Prowlers among the 80 student-athletes collecting the post-season honor.

To earn a position on the All-WCHA Academic Team, student-athletes must meet the following criteria: 1) have completed one year of residency at present institution, prior to the current academic year; and 2) have a grade point average of at least 3.00 (on a 4.0 scale) for the previous two semesters or three quarters, or may qualify if his overall GPA is at least 3.00 for all terms at his present institution.

The WCHA has named an all-academic team annually since it was first approved by the conference members for the 1984-95 season.

Little Falls evened its season record at 14-14 and is headed to the state tournament for the first time in 31 years.

Apollo finished at 19-10. The Eagles beat the Flyers twice during the regular season.

"One Voice," a dramatic Easter musical written by Deborah Craig-Claar and Robert Sterling, will be performed at Open Arms Christian Fellowship, 401 St. Paul Avenue South, on Friday, March 28, at 7 p.m., Saturday, March 29, at 4 p.m., and Sunday, March 30, at 4:30 p.m.

The musical's dynamic opening scene features the bold and lonely declaration made by John the Baptist (Ken Wiggs) that he is one voice crying in the wilderness, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord." Even though he is initially mistrusted by Pharisees Nicodemus (Paul Tandberg) and Joseph of Arimathea (Dan Sayler) and interrogated by priests Asah (Scott Pream) and Mishal (Cameron Carlson), John's commitment to his mission remains firm, culminating in his recognition of Jesus (Scott Wessel) as the Son of God.

Following their riverside encounter with John the Baptist and Jesus, the two Pharisees return home where they continue to brood about the two "prophets" they saw at the river. Nicodemus finds a listening ear in his sister, Reumah (Jolayne Simpson), while Joseph encounters sharp questions and sarcasm from his wife, Leah (Jessica Mutnansky).

Controversy surrounding Jesus and his ministry begins to mount, and Jewish leaders plot against him by bringing Tamar (Andi Sorvig), a woman accused of adultery, before Jesus. Jesus' response to the Pharisees' trap further fuels the controversy until he is arrested and brought to trial before Caiaphas (Kjell Melvie) and Pilate (Ben Sayler).

It is not until Jesus' crucifixion that Nicodemus and Joseph outwardly express their faith in Christ by giving His body a proper burial. Days later, news of the resurrection finds the two Pharisees rejoicing with "one voice" in the company of Christ's believers.

The cast of "One Voice" also includes: Ron Northup as Man 1; Tiffany Wessel as Woman 1; David Fish as Man 2; Elissa Northup as Woman 2; Gary York as Man 3; Steve Westerman, Leonard Rondorf, and David Erickson as Pharisees; Su Tumberg as Mary; Corey Fish as Hirom; Caleb Pongo as the Centurion; Aaron Northup as a soldier; Antonio Ashford as Simon of Cyrene.

Soloists are Ken Wiggs, Paul Tandberg, Dan Sayler and Andi Sorvig. Members of the choir include: (soprano) Mikayla Adophson, Callie Ashford, Corol Ashford, Susan Butcher, Corie Erickson, Jill Hall, Julia Holceck, Umalee Holececk, Laurel Johnson, Katy Nordvick, Elissa Northup, Josiah Northup, Karen Pongo, Caleb Richardson, Katherine Sayler, Andi Sorvig, and Caleb Wessel; (alto) Debbie Fish, Jessica Mutnansky, Jolayne Simpson, Angie Steinhauer, Su Tumberg, Tiffany Wessel, and Karen York; (tenor) Corey Fish, Dave Fish, Ron Northup, Dan Sayler, Scott Wessel, and Ken Wiggs; (bass) Scott Pream, Chuck Simpson and Gary York. Music director is Ben Sayler.

Technical and support staff include: Ron Northup (set design); Ron Northup, Aaron Northup, and Evan Northup (set construction); Katherine Sayler and Elissa Northup (costumes and choreography); Tim Sayler (sound); Ben Sayler and Rolf Bredeson (lights).

"We are pleased to present the drama and music of "One Voice," noted Director Marilyne Sayler. "It is a humbling opportunity to present the most significant event in human history - the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ - through this uniquely-scripted musical."

The public is invited to attend. There's no admission charge; a freewill offering will be accepted. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Aviation program resurrected

NCTC reconsiders decision to suspend aviation program

by David Hill
Editor

The proposed suspension of the aviation maintenance program at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls has been … suspended.

Thursday night at NCTC, between 75 to 100 interested spectators heard Dr. Anne Temte, president of NCTC, announce that the college was re-evaluating its decision to suspend the program. Its reinstatement, however, is based on enrolling 40 new students by Aug. 1.

"I must tell you that this is a steep road to climb, and we're not there yet," said Temte, who noted that because of current commitments the number is more like 30.

Temte's initial decision to suspend the program was based on the available facts, including that the enrollment had decreased from a high of more than 400 students in the 1990s to fewer than 30 today. She also noted the program's high fixed costs, such as utilities and land lease. Contributing to the difficulties has been a decline in state funding and a freeze on tuition increases.

Temte also explained that the timing of the decision was driven by contractual commitments to faculty and commitments to allow current students to complete their program.

Because of the considerable interest expressed in keeping the program, however, the college hired Bill O'Brien, president of O'Brien AV Group LLC. O'Brien has 43 years of professional experience in the aviation industry, 30 of which were spent with the Federal Aviation Administration.

O'Brien delivered a straight-shooting and blunt appraisal of the program - "it's dead." But O'Brien noted that many of the pieces that could make this a successful program are already in place. In proposing a number of recommendations to "resurrect" the program, he said "we need to get the patient up and taking nourishment."

O'Brien said the facility was "world class." The plain vanilla curriculum, however, needs to be restructured, the program needs to meet state-of-the-art standards, energy saving strategies need to be implemented, the lease with the city

Vexation levels up over ditch meeting

Hallock - "The ongoing battle between Kittson County and the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources over State Ditch 72 appears to be at an impasse.

"But 'impasse' seems to be a poor choice of words when the subject is breached at commissioners' meetings in the county. A recent meeting between the county and DNR officials only seemed to stir the already volatile pot and widen the chasm between the two sides.

"At contention is a cease and desist order filed against the county by the DNR concerning the maintenance of State Ditch 72 and at least three other minor ditches feeding into it. DNR officials believe the county is going beyond the maintenance of the ditches and is actually improving them to increase the flow of water.

"The county says it is not trying to improve the ditch but simply maintain it.

"Tempers flared at the Kittson County commissioners' meeting March 17, when Commissioner Craig Spilde recounted a meeting between DNR and county officials the week before."

Spilde said the DNR is accusing the county of breaking the law. "John Williams, assistant regional wildlife manager for the DNR who was also at the meeting, said he did not believe any accusations had been made."

"The impasse, it appears, will probably only be broken by a judge's decision. The board's discussion of meetings with DNR officials seems to indicate only one certainty. And that is, any hope the county may have had of resolving things outside of the courtroom appears to be fading." - North Star News of Karlstad, March 27, 2008, by Dan Nordine

"Town hall" meeting on risks of underage drinking set Monday

Warren - "Alcohol use among children and adolescents starts early and increases rapidly with age. Nationwide in 2007, 15.9 percent of eighth graders, 33.4 percent of 10th graders and 44.4 percent of 12th graders reported drinking an alcoholic beverage in the previous month.

"Statistics from surveys at Warren-Alvarado-Oslo in the fall of 2007 show similar numbers: 14.6 percent of eighth graders, 38 percent of 10th grade boys and 57 percent of 12th graders reported having consumed alcohol at least once in the previous month.

"To help educate the W/A/O community about the risks associated with underage drinking, a town hall-style meeting on that subject will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the W/A/O High School library in Warren." - Warren Sheaf, March 26, 2008

Hultgren to become Kittson County recorder April 1

Hallock - "Kristi Hultgren, Kennedy, will move into Jan Klein's position as the Kittson County recorder April 1. After 31 years of working for Kittson County, 25 years of that as the recorder, Klein submitted her letter of retirement Feb. 19 to the Kittson County commissioners. Her last day in office will be March 31." - Kittson County Enterprise, March 26, 2008, by Louise Money

Fearing spread of cattle disease

Red Lake Co. farmers want more done to protect herds

by David Hill
Editor

Red Lake County Board of Commissioners is requesting additional funding for fencing that would keep deer away from cattle feeding areas, and an extension of the hunting season and additional permits to address problems created by large numbers of white-tail deer.

Tuesday, March 25, four Red Lake County farmers strongly encouraged the county's board of commissioners to take action to prevent the spread of bovine Tuberculosis in Red Lake County.

Throwing money at the problem in Michigan accomplished nothing, said Tom Oscarson, who lives in Gervais township northeast of Red Lake Falls. Oscarson said the state of Michigan threw all kinds of money at the problem, created a split state and then discovered a deer with bovine TB 100 miles south of the hot zone.

Oscarson, Jerry Nelson and Chuck Flage, who all live near each other, are concerned about the disease spreading south, and they look at the large numbers of deer on their property as a potential threat to their livelihood.

Last year, Jerry Nelson said he had up to 85 deer in his hay and silage - silage which is supposed to be for his cattle. This year, he estimates that there are 65 deer every night in his silage.

Nelson and the farmers have been working with Terry Wolfe, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources area wildlife manager in Crookston. Tuesday, Wolfe provided commissioners with an update on the bovine TB and deer problem in northwest Minnesota.

Between 2003 and 2007, said Wolfe, about 5,000 deer each year were registered by hunters in Polk and Red Lake County. Wolfe's statistics date from 1972 when 2,103 deer were registered by hunters. Between 1972 and 2007, numerous ups and downs were recorded. Wolfe noted that it may be a fallacy that hunters control the deer population. Downward trends on the chart followed hard winters.

Wolfe identified several ways in which the DNR had tried to manage deer herds - additional hunting permits and programs - but few, he said, seem to have had an impact greater than a couple of hard winters.

Wolfe also discussed state law

On a mission to Honduras

NCTC graduate, family to travel to Honduras on year-long mission

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Former Northland Community and Technical College student Jamie (Wikoff) Schroeder is taking a big leap of faith in May. That is when she and her husband of five years, Ryan, will travel to Tegucigalpa, Honduras, for a year-long mission that will provide much needed chiropractic and medical care for that country's underprivileged residents.

Jamie graduated from NCTC East Grand Forks with an LPN degree in 2002, and NCTC Thief River Falls with an RN degree in 2004. According to the Schroeders, there is almost no access to chiropractic care and only limited access to medical care in third world countries like Honduras.

"In Tegucigalpa there are over 1 million people and only one chiropractor," Jamie said. "People need money to see him and most can't afford it."

The Schroeders will be participating in an ongoing mission that is sponsored by the World Gospel Outreach. The WGO is currently sending weekly medical teams to Honduras for most of the calender year. Each week, make-shift clinics are set up at area churches.

"The medical brigades we will be helping with, will see 1,500 patients each week," Jamie said. "Ryan will be able to give chiropractic care to 200 people there each week."

The patients will receive medical, dental, optometry and chiropractic care; and they will also hear the gospel and be ministered, Jamie added. The WGO houses and feeds about 30 people visiting and helping on these weekly missions and medical brigades.

Both Ryan and Jamie describe a strong calling to the mission field that existed before they met as students at the University of North Dakota. Ryan previously went to Chimbote, Peru on a two-week mission in 1999. During the mission, his group worked with disabled persons and helped to build a house and a community outhouse.

The couple's calling to mission work returned last summer. "When we were trying to make a decision last summer on where in Minnesota Ryan should start a practice, we both started feeling that calling to do mission work again," Jamie said.

At first, the couple had little success locating mission work specifically for chiropractors. Their luck changed in September, when they were referred to the Christian Chiropractors Association. That organization's president referred them to the WGO.

The Schroeders have several goals for this mission, Jamie said, their first goal is to bring lost souls to Christ. They also hope to provide sufficient medical and chiropractic care to the underserved population in Tegucigalpa, while making the need for chiropractic care known to the Christian population in Honduras.

Mighty Canadian tourist, dollars sought

Group plans marketing seminar in Thief River Falls

by David Hill
Editor

Merchants and business leaders are expecting a busy tourism season this year because of the strength of the Canadian dollar and Minnesota's excellent shopping, birding trails, casinos and lakes.

Minnesota tourism fared well overall last summer, with occupancy at accommodations up somewhat over the previous summer, according to an end-of-the-summer survey conducted by Explore Minnesota Tourism. Indications are that tourism destinations this summer will be even busier.

A group of business leaders is positioning area communities to take full advantage of the tourism trade. On April 2, area tourism and business leaders will sponsor an educational and marketing seminar in Thief River Falls. "Welcome Canadians" will be presented at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, April 2, at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. Local officials are also offering banners and posters that welcome Canadians to their business.

"There isn't a day that passes that you can't find a busload of Canadians in Thief River Falls," said Dianne (Gronny) Josephson, executive director of the Thief River Falls Convention and Visitors Bureau. Josephson explained that Thief River Falls is the first major shopping stop and the last one (unless tourists are traveling to Pembina).

Josephson expects even more Canadians to visit northwest Minnesota this summer and is encouraging merchants to do what they can to take advantage of this opportunity.

Josephson said the education and marketing seminar is being targeted to merchants up and down Highway 59 from the border to Fergus Falls. The seminar came about because of discussions with representatives of the Canadian government. The Canadian government is interested in marketing the Highway 59 route because major improvements to the corresponding highway on the Canadian side, were recently completed.

Marketing efforts south of the border with Canada will include educational efforts, and placement of banners and posters at places of business along Highway 59.

"This is part of Phase 1 of the effort," explained Stacy Mylirer,

Today's cookies are from a family cookbook called "The Recipe Collection," compiled by Marge Kyle. She is related to my daughter-in-law in Washington state. I love these family cookbooks - they always have good things in them.

Orange marmalade is good anytime, and how good it is in a cookie - with chocolate chips and nuts, no less:

CHUNKY ORANGE MARMALADE COOKIES

Janet Green

1/4 cup shortening
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup orange marmalade
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup chocolate chips
1/2 cup chopped pecans

Cream shortening, egg yolk and marmalade until light and fluffy. Beat in vanilla.

Combine flour, salt, baking powder, soda, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add to creamed mixture and mix well. Stir in chips and nuts. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto greased baking sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes. Makes 2 dozen cookies.

I love dates, and these sound like they would be a bit easier than rolling those little date balls everyone is so fond of:

DATE NUT BARS

Sue Kyle

1/4 cup melted butter
1 cup sugar
3 eggs, well beaten
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup dates, chopped
1 cup nuts, chopped

Mix butter and sugar. Add eggs and mix well. Spread in buttered oblong pan. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Cut into finger-shaped bars and roll in powdered sugar while warm. Sue says they are good for Christmas. I bet they are good anytime.

Yes, and with a name like this, who won't love these cookies - they have - count them - five - types of chocolate:

DEATH BY CHOCOLATE COOKIES

Marge Kyle

2 to 2 1/4 cups flour
1/3 cup cocoa
1 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter, softened
3/4 cup sugar
2/3 cup packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 large eggs
A total of 1 1/2 cups of a mixture of: semi sweet chocolate chips, milk chocolate chips, mini M&Ms and white chocolate chips
1 cup chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine flour, cocoa, soda and salt in small bowl.

In large mixing bowl, beat butter, sugar, brown sugar and vanilla until creamy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Gradually beat in flour mixture. (Dough should look like chocolate chip dough, so add a bit more flour if necessary - don't use too much. Cookies will spread if not enough flour.) Stir in chocolate and white chips, M&Ms and walnuts.

Drop by well rounded teaspoon onto greased baking sheets. Bake 9-11 minutes or until centers are barely set. Cool on baking sheets for 3 minutes and then remove to racks. Makes 5 dozen cookies.

I made these last weekend, so I'll give you a couple of tips. I used some bar chocolate I had lying around my pantry along with chips. I used the bar white chocolate, which I think is better than the white chips. My white chips always seem hard when used in cookies. Also, I use one of those dipper-scoops for my cookies and this is smaller than a well-rounded teaspoon, so I baked mine 8 minutes - tops - and cooled for 3 minutes on the cookie sheet before removing to racks. Use parchment for these, too, because I think they will stick on a regular greased sheet. One more thing, I warn you, these are going to become habit-forming if you are a chocolate lover. They were absolutely delicious!

How about these - what would be better than chocolate cookies made with dough that is "thick and moist"? Yum, yum:

MAINE MUD COOKIES

Janet Green

2 1/3 cups flour
2/3 cup cocoa
2/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup packed brown sugar
3/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk
1/3 cup unsweetened applesauce

Combine flour, cocoa, sugars, soda and salt. Stir in buttermilk and applesauce (dough will be thick and moist). Drop by tablespoonfuls 2 inches apart on baking sheets coated with nonstick baking spray. Spread with a fork to make irregular shapes. Bake at 350 degrees for 8-10 minutes or until firm. Remove to wire racks. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

This bar-type recipe calls for margarine instead of butter, but I would use butter. They sound delicious:

TOFFEE COOKIES

Ina Belle Morrical

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups flour
1 egg white, beaten
2 cups pecans

Cream butter, sugar, egg yolk and vanilla. Add flour sifted with cinnamon. Add pecans. Spread on cookie sheet 1/4 inch thick. Brush with beaten egg white and sprinkle with nuts. Bake at 350 degrees until golden immediately cut into squares.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Is the process proceeding too slowly?

A month ago, there was so much news about bovine Tuberculosis that it dominated the front page. It seems odd now, after numerous warnings and input from the public that little seems to have changed. The deer herd is being thinned, but the state's bovine TB status remains Modified Accredited Advanced and hasn't been downgraded to Modified Advanced, like we were told it would. Maybe the government is allowing producers time to digest the news. Maybe producers in the likely area to be affected by a split state are being granted some time to sell their herds. We know that herds are being sold.

At the height of the public discussion about bovine TB, an average of two producers a day would call this office. Sometimes they had news to offer or suggestions of who to contact, but more often than not, they just wanted to talk to someone about their livelihood and what its loss means to them and their family.

The public may not clearly understand the impact. The presence of bovine TB in northwest Minnesota cattle herds is a tragedy. Clearly, the industry contributes millions to the economy. That we can understand, but if, as the saying goes, it doesn't happen to you or me or someone we know, we don't care. We should care. The impact will be felt economically.

Producers also understand the economic impact, but they appear less concerned about the economics. The discovery of the disease and its aftermath, means the end of their livelihood. A producer explained to me that it's almost as if he woke up one day and learned that everything he'd done for the past 30 years or more means nothing. That would be a tragedy for most people. Without their all-encomassing occupation, they are disoriented. They're also worried that it'll mean the displacement of their families.

Producers operating along the border of the core area are concerned. They know that boundaries don't mean anything to a deer or disease. They worry that living on one side of the border may mean everything - resources will be directed their way in an effort to stop the spread of the disease, or it may mean no help or assistance at all. To many, it also means that the deer they used to hunt for enjoyment, now pose a serious threat. Everything, it seems, is conspiring against them.

The delay in action, the lack of news or slow progress is allowing producers to imagine the worst. In this period of uncertainty and with so much at risk, their concerns and fears are understandable.

Is the process proceeding too slowly? Maybe there are logical answers, but producers living with the uncertainty, need answers, suggestions or reassurances.

Marvin Windows receives awards for pollution control

Marvin Windows and Doors, Warroad, received its latest environmental award from the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA). The Minnesota Wastewater Treatment Facility Operational Award recognizes that:

- Marvin's facility was overseen by a properly certified operator;
- Marvin's facility did not exceed the effluent limits contained in their permit;
- Marvin's required monthly and annual reports were timely and complete;
- Marvin's facility did not experience any bypasses, enforcement actions or inspections identifying significant compliance concerns.

The Minnesota Pollution Control Agency's mission is to protect Minnesota's environment and limit pollution. It partners with businesses, organizations and individuals to reduce and eliminate pollution.

"At Marvin Windows and Doors, we know that businesses are an integral part of protecting Minnesota's environment," company president Susan Marvin said. "This award is an important affirmation of our commitment to protecting the environment and leaving Minnesota beautiful for future generations."

In addition to its wastewater treatment efforts, Marvin helps protect Minnesota's environment in other ways. For example, logging waste is used to heat its 2-million square foot plant in Warroad, raw lumber is purchased from suppliers with sound forest management practices and 8,500 tons of packaging and logging waste are recycled and re-used.

Other environmental awards and recognitions that Marvin has recently received include the:

- Minnesota Governor's Award for Excellence in Waste and Pollution Prevention, which honors superior environmental achievement by Minnesota's businesses, nonprofits, and private institutions.
- Minnesota Waste Wise (MWW)/Minnesota Smart Business Award for excellence in voluntary waste reduction. This award recognizes businesses and organizations that serve as role models for other businesses in MWW's mission that "less waste is smart business for a better environment."

Letter to Dave

Dear Dave,

The last time I sent you a letter, I was full of hope for spring and that the fields were black and ready for planting; I now realize I was naive and am now thankful for the personal growth that suffering through extended winter has given me.

I want to start this month's letter with a little anger. Food costs have gone up a bit, and that combined with increased prices for corn and grain has led some to believe that farmers are to blame for expensive cold cereal and bread. The fact is that there are just pennies worth of raw material (grain, corn) in a loaf of bread or a box of cereal, and that most increases are due to transportation and the cost of fuel. What a farmer produces in the field has about as much to do with the cost of groceries as opening an umbrella has with whether it's going to rain. Enough. I realize that I'm preaching to the choir with you, Dave, but it really is quite silly.

I really enjoyed our trip to Uncle Gilmer's funeral. I know it sounds odd to enjoy a funeral, but the chance to sit in a car with you for a few hours and talk was a real pleasure. It was nice to have Dad and Aunt Betty in the back seat; I felt like a little kid listening in when the adults talk. Dad and Betty's conversation was full of such stories and details about their siblings and our cousins that the stories provided us with the kind of extra dimension and context that actually brings life to those who have passed.

Gilmer's funeral was something I will remember for quite some time. The funeral home in Roseau was absolutely full, so we had to stand. You and I got to stand with our sister, Deb, and brothers, Darrel and Steve. I can't remember the last time we were all together. Family members gathered Gil's life in pictures, and I was surprised to find the fat, little boy pictured riding with Gil to be me. Gilmer led a full life, so there were lots of reflective smiles mixed with the tears, but some moments felt like the whole building sobbed. I know Gilmer liked music, and at one point an older gentleman took his guitar and sang "This Old House" for those attending the service. The singer was full of emotion, and it was hard for him to start, but he absolutely raised the roof once he got rolling. An older voice always tells its owner's story and shapes a song's words so that both your head and your heart understand the meaning, and this was no exception. I bet Gil loved it.

I'd hope to have stories of early field work in this letter, but I guess I will exchange them for stories of muddy fields in next month's letter. Hope all is well out in North Dakota, and that we see each other prior to the next funeral.

You're little bro'

High school hockey banquet...

TRF girls looking to make yearly strides

Next year Thief River Falls girls high school hockey head coach Corey Poole will have to set his sights a little higher. Although the 2007-08 Prowlers finished only 8-18, they did pick up their first post-season win in six years to put them in a tournament semifinal brocket for the first time ever.

"As a coaching staff, we were very pleased with the season and feel we can really build off what we accomplished," said Poole. "We set a goal of making the semifinals, and we did that."

The Prowlers, after losing a pair of regular season games to East Grand Forks, beat the homestanding Green Wave 2-1 in the Section 8A quarterfinals. The season ended with a 6-0 semifinal loss to Warroad.

To extend the season any further would have required an upset of major proportions since Warroad, Crookston and Roseau were all top-ten ranked teams throughout the season in Class A.

"I thought we really came together as a team," offered Poole. "That was evident against East Grand Forks in the quarters. I am very proud of how far they came as a team, and hope we can continue to get stronger each season."

At the Prowlers' post-season banquet, Mauri Gonsorowski was presented with the team's Hoby Baker Award and Molly Peterson received the Prowler Award. They're both senior defensemen. Senior goalie Jade Gothberg, who played every minute of every game this winter, was given the Ironman Award.

Awards also went to freshmen forwards Ashley Mykelbust, named most improved, and Kaitlin Lund, selected as the hardest worker.

It was announced that juniors Alie Dom, Britney Schwab and Megan Malwitz will serve as the Prowlers' captains in 2008-09. Dom is a forward; Schwab and Malwitz are defensemen.

Poole spent his second year in the program working with a young squad - one with just four seniors: Gothberg, Peterson, Gonsorowski and forward Kim Duchscher.

Joining them as letter winners this winter were juniors Haleigh Stegeman, Kendra Pederson, Dom, Malwitz, Schwab; sophomores Maddy Aandal, Raina Pederson, Paige Bruggeman, Cait Sorvig; along with the two freshmen - Mykelbust and Lund.

Stegeman led the Prowlers in scoring this winter with 17 goals, 7 assists and 24 points. The only other player with a double-digit goal total was Dom with 10.

"Prospects for the future are bright," noted Poole. "Our youth program is getting stronger with a good core of young athletes and dedicated coaches."

Indoor meets provide early start for track

Even though the weather wasn't very spring-like, the Thief River Falls boys and girls high school track teams opened the 2008 season Tuesday by participating the 19th annual Bemidji Lions Invitational. Area teams beat the weather by competing indoors at the Gillett Recreation and Fitness Center on the Bemidji State University campus.

Team titles went to the Bemidji boys and Grand Rapids girls. Thief River Falls boys ran sixth and the girls were eighth in a nine-team field.

Top place finisher for the Tim Olson-coached Prowlers was a second by Kathryn Walrath in the girls 55-meter dash. Two of her teammates had fourth place performances in the field events: Alie Dom in the high jump and Erica Wayne in the shot put.

Third place finishes by Aaron Langan in the 55-meter dash and Tyson Sorvig in the shot put led the Thief River Falls boys. Tom Loe was fourth in the 200-meters.

The Prowlers will return to BSU for the Little Amik-II meet Tuesday, April 1. Competition starts at 3 p.m.

Those are the only indoor meets for the Prowlers, who will begin their outdoor season with the Tuesday, April 15, Northland Community and Technical College Invitational at the Thief River Falls Multi-Events Center.

Kimbrough is on NCAA Division II All-America team

University of North Dakota junior forward Kierah Kimbrough, a former Badger/Greenbush-Middle River standout, has been named to the 2008 National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II State Farm Coaches All-America basketball team.

Wednesday's announcement was made by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association.

Kimbrough is only the tenth UND player in history to earn WBCA All-America honors.

The 6-1 Kimbrough was named to the Daktronics All-America Second Team as a sophomore in 2006-07.

Kimbrough led the North Central Conference in scoring (17.4 points per game) and field goal percentage (.576) this winter, and was second in the league in rebounding (7.7).

The 2007-08 season also found Kimbrough passing the 1,000-point scoring plateau at UND, where she will enter her senior season ranked

Pioneers are 7-9-1 road team

There is still snow on the Thief River Falls baseball diamonds and temperatures remain in the winter-coat range, but the Northland Community and Technical College baseball team has nevertheless played 17 March baseball games.

The early-season schedule was completed in full only because the Pioneers have been playing a long ways away from home.

Northland went 5-6-1 during a March 8-15 trip to Cocoa, Fla., to start things.

Head coach Steve Gust then took his team to Miles City, Mont., for the Miles Community College Pioneer Classic March 20-22, where a 2-3 showing put Northland at 7-9-1 for the year.

In Montana, Northland beat Trinity Bible College of Ellendale, N.D., 13-0; lost back-to-back starts against host Miles 11-1 and 7-1; defeated the Prairie Baseball Academy junior varsity from Alberta, Canada, 7-0, and fell to Williston (N.D.) State 5-1.

"The tournament was good for us," said Gust. "We played some great teams and saw some of the best pitching we'll see all year. Hopefully, games like this will help us become a better team."

Kyle Neufeld, a freshman from Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, pitched a complete-game two-hitter in the Pioneers' tournament-opening Thursday morning rout of Trinity Bible College. Neufeld struck out six and walked two for his first collegiate victory.

Freshman Aaron Kjemhus (Thompson, N.D) was 2-for-3, drove in a run, scored twice and stole three bases in the first-game Northland win. Sophomore Nick Stenberg (Park Rapids) drove in two runs in a game that ended in the fifth inning due to the 10-run rule. Eight of the nine Northland starters had a hit.

Miles, a National Junior College Athletic Association Division II World Series qualifier last spring, hit a pair of three-run home runs in the first-game meeting with Northland. The winners broke it open by scoring three runs in the fifth inning and four more in the sixth. Sophomore Kane Aubol (East Grand Forks) had the lone Northland hit.

The Pioneers doubled their hit total in the next-day rematch with Miles on singles by freshmen Doug Peterson (Bemidji) and Kyle Nowacki (Warroad).

Sophomore Matt Luckey (Billings, Mont.) matched Neufeld's Game 1 performance with a complete-game two-hitter in the Pioneers' victory over Prairie Baseball Academy. He struck out six and walked one while improving his record to 2-1.

Stenberg, along with freshmen Andrew Fryer (St. Francis) and Tyler Kjemhus (Thompson, N.D.), drove in runs in the win.

Williston State picked up just one hit against Northland, but the Tetons combined eight walks with four passed-balls and three wild pitches for the win.

The Pioneers' three final-game hits came from Aaron Kjemhus, Tyler Kjemhus and freshman John Grecier (Grand Forks, N.D.). Grecier drove in the lone Northland run.

"We had some good pitching performances, but we also had some that could have been much better," offered Gust. "The same can be said for our hitting. We took some good swings against very good pitching, but we need to be much more consistent."

Spring weather affects off-highway vehicle use...

Trail conditions are monitored

Warm weather is on the way and many off-highway vehicle (OHV) riders are anxious to hit the trails. But since state forest roads and trails are typically wet during the spring, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources will temporarily close some areas.

"Motor vehicles can be hard on forest roads and trails in the spring," said Keith Simar, DNR State Forest Recreation Program coordinator. "The spring thaw produces soft soils which are susceptible to rutting. And under state law, no one can operate a motor vehicle or snowmobile on forest lands in a way that causes erosion or rutting," he said. The DNR will post signs at entry points and at parking lots in state forests.

Riders should check current trail/road conditions on the DNR Web site www.dnr.state.mn.us or call the DNR Information Center toll free at 1-888-MINNDNR (646-6367).

The DNR also reminds riders that state law prohibits ditch riding south of the agriculture line between April 1 and Aug. 1. The agriculture line runs roughly from Moorhead to Taylors Falls along Highway 10 and Highway 95. The purpose of this is to minimize disturbance of nesting birds and to protect the cover that ditches provide.

"We will lift road and trail closures as soon as possible," said Simar. "In turn, we ask users to check before riding and to ride responsibly."

Burning restrictions to follow snow melt

As the spring thaw approaches, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources reminds residents of open burning restrictions.

"When there is more than three inches of continuous snow cover, permits are not needed for open burning," said Ron Stoffel, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources wildfire suppression supervisor. "If the snow cover is less than three inches, residents must apply for permits from the local fire warden or online. Only grass and brush may be burned."

This year for the first time, people in many counties will be able to conveniently purchase burning permits on the DNR Web site at mndnr.gov.

During the spring, burning restrictions are put in place to reduce the chance of wildfires, since snow cover drastically reduces the chance of fire igniting unintended areas. The majority of wildfires in Minnesota result from individual burns that escape and burn into the surrounding area.

If residents wait too long to burn, they may be told they cannot get a permit to burn their piled material until "greenup" in the spring or early summer.

Even with the recent snowfall, fire officials caution people to pay attention to where they are burning. Parts of northern Minnesota are behind in soil moisture and this deficit may allow organic (peat) soils to ignite during burning operations. Peat fires are difficult to extinguish once they are started and may burn underground, even under the snow.

Also, remember to closely monitor all burning brush piles, particularly on windy days; and evaluate any before lighting a pile. To check soil moisture conditions, contact a local DNR Forestry Office.

12th on the school's all-time scoring list. She set a UND single-game playoff record with 37 points in an NCC tournament semifinal game against Augustana.

Kimbrough has been an NCC all-conference pick the past two years and also earned league all-academic honors.

A 2005 Greenbush-Middle River graduate, Kimbrough finished her high school career with 3,036 points and 1,321 rebounds. She was recruited by several NCAA Division I schools, including Iowa State, Kansas State and Northwestern, before heading to Grand Forks.

Kimbrough will get a chance to play at a higher level next year when UND moves to Division I in all sports.

Anna Wicklund named to 2008 girls basketball Class A all-state squad

Senior center Anna Wicklund of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was selected to the Minnesota High School Girls Basketball Coaches Association 2008 Class A all-state team, it was announced this week.

Nicole Smart of Ada-Borup was the only other Class A all-state pick. Kittson County Central teammates Dana Blomquist and Whitney Langen were honorable mention selections.

Class AA all-state players included Kamille Wahlin of Crookston and Angie Jetvig of Hawley.

Similar honors in Class AAA went to Hannah Draxten of Fergus Falls.

Meeting planned for TRF men's slow pitch softball

All team managers are asked to be at the meeting.

Brainerd programs on in danger of being cut due to budget crunch

Brainerd, a familiar opponent for many Thief River Falls sports teams, is the latest school facing major cuts in its activities programs following a referendum defeat.

Facing $5.5 million in cuts for 2008-09, the Brainerd school board is looking at reducing expenditures in activities and athletics by $860,000.

The Brainerd Daily Dispatch reported that school board members there are currently studying two different proposals. One eliminates 17 of the current 29 programs the district currently offers. The cuts would include wrestling, boys and girls hockey, boys and girls cross country, boys and girls soccer, boys and girls tennis, boys and girls golf, boys and girls alpine skiing, boys and Nordic skiing, cheerleading and gymnastics.

Also on the cutting block: debate, student council, yearbook, DECA, FFA, Knowledge Bowl, mock trial, National Honor Society, three-act play and all clubs.

That would leave baseball, softball, boys and girls basketball, football, boys and girls swimming, boys and girls track, volleyball, adapted floor hockey and dance, along with band, choir, orchestra, one-act play and speech.

Those programs would require a significant participation fee increase and a $50,000 fund-raising effort.

A second proposal would keep all 29 programs, but would necessitate participation fees of up to $380 and $100,000 from booster fund-raising.

The school board is expected to announce its budget-reducing decision at an April 14 meeting.

Extension service offers workshop on high tunnels

University of Minnesota Extension and Northwest Regional Sustainable Development Partnership will be offering a high tunnel and season extension workshop in Crookston on April 10.

Your tomato plants looked great and then a frost killed your loaded plants; then, the weather turned nice for three weeks. Have you experienced this scenario and been frustrated?

Learn how vegetable and fruit producers are extending the season up to six weeks earlier in the spring and six weeks later in the fall than normal, and capturing additional dollars from their farms. High tunnels are a low cost alternative that lets producers put the crop in the ground earlier in the spring and reach the market sooner in the summer and extend the growing season in the fall.

University of Minnesota Extension staff who have experience growing in high tunnels will explain the details in establishing high tunnel production. The workshop will take place at 5 p.m. April 10 at the Mt. St. Benedict conference room, Crookston. Registration begins at 4:30 p.m. The workshop fee is $25 per individual and includes supper and workshop materials.

Topics discussed during the workshop include: "What are high tunnels and why are they an excellent way to extend the growing season?" by Terry Nennich, regional Extension educator, "Horticulture: Using drip irrigation in high tunnels" by Jerry Wright, Extension engineer; "Soils and plant growth media – amending soils for productive yields and management" by Carl Rosen, Extension soil scientist – fertility; "Variety trials and selecting plants for high tunnels" by Terry Nennich, regional Extension educator; and "What has worked and problems encountered in the high tunnel," which is a group discussion led by Mike Klawitter.

Alltel Wireless enhances, expands coverage for northwest MN customers

Alltel Wireless, America's largest network, is rapidly improving and expanding local digital wireless coverage with the recent activations of more than 30 new cell sites across North Dakota and northwest Minnesota.

Alltel's capital investment in these two markets was well over $40 million last year, and included the launch of Wireless Internet service in several North Dakota and northwest Minnesota markets and equipment upgrades at nearly 50 additional sites.

The new sites activated in 2007 are located in communities such as Thief River Falls, Crosby, N.D., Bismarck, N.D., and Fargo, N.D.

"At Alltel Wireless, our customers have come to expect superb coverage wherever they go," said Brian Jones, Alltel's vice president of retail services for North Dakota. "Our recent capital investments are not the end of our commitment to this growing market. Alltel plans to continue to expand - America's largest network throughout 2008 to more customers and more communities."

Alltel's network operations team expects to activate at least another 20 sites in North Dakota and northwest Minnesota in 2008, which will bring additional capacity and new coverage to rural and sparsely populated areas of the state. A new digital cell site has already been placed into service this year near Fertile, improving coverage to the community and along Highway 32.

Funding for many of the new towers is made possible by Alltel and the Universal Services Fund, which was established by the Telecommunications Act as a way to provide Americans with equal access to advanced communications services at affordable prices. Money from the fund is available to eligible carriers to use for the investment and maintenance of communication facilities in high-cost, mainly rural areas.

The North Dakota Public Service Commission started a wireless outreach initiative in 2004 designed to assist wireless phone customers in rural areas of the state. In 2005, the number of wireless phones surpassed land-based access lines for the first time in North Dakota history, according to the commission.

In April 2007, Sorter allegedly masturbated in front of a boy who was then under the age of 13 while the boy was at Sorter's home in the 200 block of Second St. N. in Middle River. The complaint alleges that Sorter admitted that he had the boy watch a pornographic movie and had masturbated while the boy was present.

that awards funds to farmers who can prove losses. The limit is $750. The most effective method of keeping deer separated from cattle seems to be fencing, said Wolfe, but fencing is a much more expensive option, and $750 doesn't go very far.

In the bovine TB core area, where 10-foot high fences are being built around food sources, the average cost of this type of fence is $5,000.

Wolfe has been working with local farmers by issuing permits to shoot deer, and by putting up five-foot high cattle panels around cattle feed. Wolfe said the deer can go over the panels and through the panels, but it seems that they don't like the feeling of being enclosed and tend to eat around the pens rather than go inside.

"We have an over population of deer," said Nelson. "Is there more we can do?"

Nelson suggested a doe only hunt. If hunters shoot one doe they get rid of three deer, he said. If they shoot a buck, they get rid of one deer. He also suggested adding hunting in January.

Tom Oscarson had a much more forceful opinion. The economic impact of the cattle industry on northwest Minnesota's economy has been estimated at $75 million. "Are you going to choose to ignore that?"

Oscarson said he'd "gladly put a deer hunter in every tree on his farm" - provided the hunter was responsible and he wouldn't be held liable if the hunter shot a foot off while on his property.

"We have to take some drastic steps to get this under control," said Oscarson.

Oscarson is opposed to the split state status being proposed for two reasons: First, he's concerned that once the split state status is declared, producers in the area with the bovine TB area will be ignored; and second, because if the state does decide to put significant resources into the problem, other areas - areas that border the bovine TB area - will receive fewer needed resources. Oscarson believes it's only a matter of time before the disease begins to spread south. He doesn't believe a line drawn on a map will prevent deer or disease from crossing that border.

County Commissioner Velma Oakland said she'd already heard reports of deer herds outside of the core area showing signs that deer from the core area were moving into those areas because of pressure inside the core area.

Oakland has been working the farmers who attended the meeting. They all live in her district.

Chuck Flage also has stories of depredation caused by deer. Flage described how deer had eaten 20 1,200-pound bales of hay he had stored on the river bottom for his cattle. Flage also commented that his insurance company doesn't want him to keep all of his hay together in one spot where it could all be destroyed by fire, which may rule out some fencing solutions.

The farmers were asked what more the county board could do to help them. It was explained that the county board had already endorsed a resolution to eliminate bovine TB in the core area. They also said they would lobby for the farmers.

Oscarson asked for a reduction in the number of deer when the deer are concentrated like they are now.

There was discussion to draft a letter to legislators and the DNR requesting permission to reduce the number of deer in the problem area, and request additional funds for fencing.

Wolfe explained that he could issue permits. The only restrictions is that the landowner has to identify who will shoot the deer and who will get the deer. He said that from his experience few deer are ever taken with this process. With the first shot, he said, the deer are gone. The deer also seem to know when they're being hunted, he added.

Orville Knott, who lives north of Red Lake Falls, said he has a lot of deer on his property during the summer, but not so much during the winter. Knott doesn't believe thinning the deer herd is the answer. "They'll come back," he said. Knott believes fencing may be a better solution. He agrees it's a problem, but that there is no one solution to the problem.

The farmers pointed out that bovine TB may not be the only problem that comes with large deer herds. Deer carry and spread other diseases when congregated this thickly.

The County Board approved a motion to send a letter to the DNR, area legislators and surrounding counties, stating that because of an excess number of deer in Red Lake County, they were requesting: additional funding for fencing from $750 to $3,000 to keep deer away from livestock feeding areas; and secondly, to extend the current hunting season and add additional permits for the season.

Lemer named to Beef Profitability Strategic Task Force

State Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson announced his appointments to the newly established Beef Profitability Strategic Task Force. Ron Lemer of McIntosh is among the appointees. The 14-member committee is charged with recommending ways to enhance the state's beef industry and maximize profitability.

"Members of this new task force have the potential to affect valuable changes in our state's beef industry," said Hugoson. "I am pleased so many people want to help our beef producers continue to meet their industry's challenges."

The New Task Force will address several key objectives, such as determining what role, if any, the state should play in developing a source/age verification program; identifying the research needs of the beef industry; reviewing Minnesota's regulation and taxation of the beef industry; and considering ways to encourage young farmers to enter into beef production in Minnesota. The task force will make its recommendations to the Minnesota Department of Agriculture. Non-committee collaborators will include representatives from the MDA, University of Minnesota, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency.

Lemer is excited about the appointment. Lemer, who is employed by Ultima Bank, said, "I hope to represent our area farmers, businesses and local interests. It is important that northern Minnesota be represented on this task force to support the industry and to address the TB concerns that we are currently facing."

($40,000 per year) needs to be renegotiated, the sub-standard cleanliness of the program (junk aircraft) needs to be addressed, and the college needs to install an overall administrator for the progrom. Most importantly, O'Brien recommended that the college invest in targeted marketing to attract students to the campus in rural northwest Minnesota

Temte explained that it has been the trend of community colleges to market the entire college. Marketing of individual programs would be very expensive.

O'Brien said the college has to advertise. "You have been whistling down a well instead of crying from the top of a tree. Nobody knows Thief River Falls exists."

Those in attendance picked up on that theme that the college needs to market the aviation program and offered a wide variety of suggestions including: visiting active air force bases, providing tours for middle school aged students, designating funds to scholarships for the program, targeting specific niches, bringing students to the school, contacting school counselors, offering recruitment rewards, focusing on the other skills taught at the school that apply to other disciplines, seeking industry support of students, and advertising on the Internet.

Some participants had fairly harsh words for the college, which hasn't advertised the program for several years. One former instructor commented on the fact that the college advertised its general course offerings in the Thief River Falls Times/Northern Watch, but didn't advertise any of its technical programs.

Dan Kasowski, director of maintenance at the University of North Dakota Aerospace, said the maintenance shop at UND has 22 employees, three-quarter of which are graduates of the program in Thief River Falls. "They are the pride of our operation," he said, and then added that "you have a great school." Kasowski encouraged the school to restart the program, adding that it already has many of the pieces in place.

Fronk Argenziano, assistant director of aviation safety and security at UND Aerospace, also encouraged the college to continue its aviation program. "We want to see the program succeed." Argenziano added that the key is to have a leader in the program.

At the meeting, Jim Retka was announced as the interim aviation program director in Thief River Falls. Retka said he completely supports the program and is focused on its success.

O'Brien announced that a major marketing effort would begin on April 1.

Temte was inflexible when it came to the gool of 40 students by Aug. 1. Temte said she didn't want to have to cut other programs and services. Ultimately, she said she would like to see as many as 100 students in the program.

She added that on Tuesday she had visited with Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, Rep. Dave Olin and Chancellor James McCormick about seed money to resurrect the program. She said the amount was still being negotiated, but said $100,000 would be good, but $200,000 would be better.

Temte emphasized the need for continued community support. She encouraged investment in the program from those who support its restart and suggested that support might take the form of financial contributions to the program or to student scholarships.

Someone in the audience suggested that they pass the collection plate.

Rep. Olin comments

Rep. Dave Olin released the following statement regarding the aviation maintenance progrom at Northland Community and Technical College.

In his letter he thanked Dr. Anne Temte and Chancellor James McCormick for their leadership on this issue, and all of the citizens who brought their concerns forward. "When meeting about the possibility of closing the program last year, I asked that an industry representative review the prospects of the program in the future before any decisions were made. President Temte, after listening to community and school leaders, not only hired an industry consultant, she commissioned a full review of this program and its viability in the world market. The fruits of her diligence are found in this meeting today.

"Today, the college is taking a visionary approach to moving forward with the aviation program based on a new understanding of the global market and its need for excellent training for airline mechanics. Changes will have to be made in the program in order for it to succeed; enrollment will need to increase, costs will need to decrease and the curriculum will have to be refined. President Temte has assured me that she will work with faculty and industry leaders to make sure that this program is current with global market demands. Thank you also to Bill O'Brien, the industry consultant, who did a wonderful job pointing out how this program could be modernized.

"This program is not out of the woods yet, but Northland's openmindedness about keeping their options open as it relates to this program makes me confident that every possible effort will be made in order for it to succeed.

"I want to thank all of the people who spoke up about this important program in Thief River Falls; your voice is important to me. Again, I wanted to commend President Temte for providing leadership on the recalibration of this progrom. Please feel free to contact me about this or any other issue that comes before the Legislature."

This summer, tourism promoters hope signs, like this three-foot by six-foot banner, will appear in communities and at businesses located along Highway 59 from the Canadian border to Fergus Falls. Area tourism and business leaders are promoting a marketing and tourism seminar called "Welcome Canadians." The seminar will start at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, April 2, at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. For more information, contact the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce and Convention and Visitors Bureau at 681-3720.

executive director of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. She said Phase II may involve renaming of the Highway and development of loyalty programs and a Web site. The purpose of Phase I is to get the word out and organize participation in the project.

Josephson said they have been and continue to plan to market to Canadian visitors in Canada. She noted that it's difficult to tell whether the marketing campaigns have an impact, but they constantly survey visitors to find out where they heard about Thief River Falls and northwest Minnesota.

But whether merchants benefit from the increased troffic may depend on how well they respond to the Canadian tourist.

"Troining of employees is the key," said Josephson.

Presenters during the "Welcome Canadians" educational and marketing seminar include: David Bergman, Explore Minnesota tourism representative; Brian Waddell, EX Marketing of Winnipeg, Manitoba; Jerome Hicks, area port director at Roseau with Customs and Border Protection; Ryan Pesch, University of Minnesota Extension Service representative discussing customer service; and Nancy Vyskocil of the Northwest Minnesota Foundation.

"This could be the beginning of a wonderful marketing progrom for Thief River Falls and the region," said Myhrer.

Though the timing of the mission feels right, the Schroeders initially struggled with the decision to take their two young children, Reed 3, and Ella 2, on an overseas trip.

"It was definitely a concern, but there are several other mission families there with young children who have had no problems and we know that this is something that will truly enrich their lives," Jamie said. "The hardest thing, is the family we will be leaving behind."

Jamie is a 1999 graduate of Crookston High School. She attended the University of North Dakota for one year, from 2000-2001, where she met Ryan. They were married in August 2002 and have resided in Bloomington since August 2005.

Ryan is a 2000 graduate of Wheaton High School and a 2004 graduate of the University of North Dakota, with a degree in interdisciplinary health sciences. He will graduate from Northwestern Health Sciences on April 5, with a doctor of chiropractic medicine degree.

Along with providing medical care, the WGO has a camp set up one hour away from Tegucigalpa that houses orphaned and abandoned children. Each week, WGO missionaries help pour a concrete floor in a home which previously had only a dirt floor. The Schroeders will also be assisting with these areas of the mission as needed.

The Schroeders will return to Minnesota once during the year-long mission for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. While it's too early to tell, Jamie doesn't think the Honduras mission will be her last. "I had and still have a strong desire to share my nursing skills and care to the needy in Africa."

FSA and RMA combine resources to prevent insurance fraud

For the 2008 growing season, the Farm Service Agency will again coordinate with the Risk Management Agency to assist with referrals and monitoring of suspected cases of fraud, waste and abuse within the Federal Crop Insurance Program. The Agriculturol Risk Protection Act of 2001 mandated that FSA would assist RMA at the county level with such monitoring and referral.

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation provides federally funded risk protection products to agricultural producers through a network of private re-insured agents spread across the nation. The RMA generally oversees the activities of the FCIC, and the RMA Regional Compliance Division becomes involved with fraud and abuse within the program. Types of assistance that county FSA offices will provide each year includes: monitoring of crop and weather conditions throughout the growing season; referring all suspected cases of froud, waste and abuse about the federal insurance program to RMA; accepting producer reports of fraud, waste and abuse for referral; and assisting RMA with the auditing of claims.

FSA specialists will conduct midseason growing inspections of suspected froud cases and assist with reconciling data differences between insurance records and those records developed through the FSA inspection process. FSA's inspection process involves the collection of Global Positioning System points, digital photo's, weather conditions, and other information to support or contest claims. The intent of the law is to increase FCIC program integrity by applying more local resources to insure that accurate information is used and is available when program eligibility determinations are made.

Suspected cases of crop insurance fraud, waste and abuse may be reported to FSA or the USDA Office of the Inspector General hotline at 1-800-424-9121. The hotline is staffed between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Eastern Time. Employees or members of the public may speak with a hotline analyst during these hours. Written reports may be sent to USDA/OIG at P.O. Box 23399, Washington, DC. 20026, or faxed to (202) 690-2474. E-mailed reports may be sent to the usda_hotline@oig.usda.gov. As with any report of suspected or alleged wrongdoing or misconduct, provide as much information and detail as possible. If you write and sign your name, indicate if you wish to remain confidential. Visit the RMA Web site (www.usda.rma.gov) for more information.

Ethanol plant suffers setback

Erskine - "Plans to build an ethanol plant near Erskine have suffered another setback, with the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency set to recommend that the project, proposed by Agassiz Energy LLC, must complete a detailed Environmental Impact Statement before proceeding further. The recommendation comes as a result of the project's 70-page Environmental Assessment Worksheet and its review process, a more basic procedure." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, April 1, 2008, by Natalie Ostgaard of the Crookston Daily Times

City of Kennedy looks for input on purchasing school building

Kennedy - "With hopes for the city of Kennedy to purchase the Kennedy school building, a public meeting was held there March 25.

"City Council members Jon Turn, Paul Larson, Mary Ryden and Duane Peterson, along with Mayor Louis Deere and City Clerk Shannon Mortenson, said they had been discussing and have approached the Kittson Central School District about buying the building for $1."

The public toured the school in groups. "During the tour, the groups were given information about other closed school buildings in Minnesota that have been converted into businesses.

"When the audience was asked if it thought the city should be involved in trying to obtain the property and seek to improve it, the majority agreed.

"Mortenson said the next step will be absorbing all of the ideas that she hopes will come in the next couple weeks. Then the council will organize and seek to meet with the public again in four to six weeks to showcase the ideas." - Kittson County Enterprise, April 2, 2008, by Louise Money

City of Warroad completes project at The Point

Warroad - "'Since the devastating tornado that moved through the area in 2006, the city of Warroad has been hard at work refurbishing the community, especially The Point area. The most recent project that the city has undertaken is what is being referred to as the "Vehicular Wildlife Viewing Mound," although the title is a work in progress."

"The new area is built on County Road 75 (Taylor Road) about 200 feet south of the Taylor Road bridge. The city was granted approval from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources to build the site because it was 100 feet away from the lake wildlife area. The site is currently open to the public although the city is still waiting to install a few signs as well as some fencing." - The Warroad Pioneer, April 2, 2008, by Emily Mekash

NCTC aviation program blitz

NCTC begins marketing blitz to recruit students into aviation

Northland Community and Technical College has announced plans to begin a four month marketing blitz for the Aviation Maintenance Technology program in an effort to recruit the 40 students necessary for the program to continue in the fall. The marketing blitz will run April 1 - July 15, 2008.

The Aviation Maintenance Technology marketing blitz was initiated following the Community Forum that was held at the Northland College Theater on March 27th. At the meeting, Bill O'Brien, the consultant hired to make recommendations regarding the future feasibility of the program gave his preliminary report. Based on intensive review of the program and the aviation industry, President Anne Temte announced that the college is reevaluating its suspension decision. Recent discussions with local legislators and the leadership of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities System (MnSCU) has resulted in pledges of support for the program if a solid plan of action with clear measures of accomplishment are developed.

The Aviation program marketing blitz includes, but is not limited to the following:

Bovine Tuberculosis

Funds awarded for bovine TB

Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty announced April 2 that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has allocated $2.7 million in emergency funding to fight bovine Tuberculosis (TB) in Minnesota.

Following his visit to northwestern Minnesota last month, Pawlenty asked U.S Agriculture Secretary Ed Schafer to expedite federal efforts to cull infected cattle and to allocate additional resources for the fight against bovine TB.

"Bovine TB is threatening Minnesota's billion-dollar cattle industry and we need to do everything we can to eliminate this disease from the state," Pawlenty said. "We appreciate the efforts by Secretary Schafer and his team to provide resources that will help Minnesota and other affected states."

According to the USDA, the emergency funding will be used to depopulate infected cattle herds, which is crucial to prevent the spread of the disease and to indemnify producers. The funding also will be used for enhanced surveillance, not only to identify affected herds but also to determine the source of infection. This enhanced surveillance will include free ronging white-tail deer in Minnesota and Michigan, a possible route of transmission for the disease.

Senator Norm Coleman praised the U.S. Department of Agriculture today for making the funds available. "Bovine TB is having a real impact on Minnesota's cattle industry and, without a prompt response, it could inflict severe damage to this vital industry and our state's economy," Coleman said. "Approval of emergency funding requests can often take months, which is why I called for expedited consideration of funding to eradicate this disease. I am thrilled there was quick action to make this critical funding available today."

In related news, an Associated Press story on Wednesday, April 2, stated that the finance committee of

Governor names bovine TB coordinator

As the battle against bovine tuberculosis in cattle and deer continues in northwestern Minnesota, Gov. Tim Pawlenty named Minnesota Department of Agriculture Assistant Commissioner Joe Martin state bovine TB coordinator on Thursday. In this role, Martin will coordinate statewide bovine TB eradication efforts by working with multiple state agencies to eliminate the disease and to minimize economic strain on cattle producers.

"We are committed to doing all we can to eliminate bovine TB in Minnesota," said Pawlenty "As we attack this problem on multiple fronts, it's important that our efforts are coordinated across state government. Assistant Commissioner Martin will be our point person on this important task to ensure state resources are used effectively and efficiently."

Since the initial cases of bovine TB was found in Minnesota in 2005, officials have found a total of 11 infected beef cattle herds, all in Roseau and Beltrami counties. In addition, the Minnesota Department

New bovine TB web site

Thursday, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health, along with the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, and the University of Minnesota Extension Service, announced the launch of a Web site dedicated to the State of Minnesota bovine tuberculosis (TB) response plan.

With the pending downgrade of Minnesota's TB status to Modified Accredited (MA), the new Web site will be a resource for information on bovine TB in the state. By visiting the new site at www.mntbfree.com, producers, stakeholders and other interested parties will be able to quickly and easily access information on bovine TB in wildlife, interstate movement, upcoming informational meetings, biosecurity, and more.

Families cope with Angelman Syndrome

> "I find it unbearable to realize that I will never hear my son call me, 'Mommy,' but in my heart, I hear him talk to us every day in his own special language." -
> Exceptional Parent magazine

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Jennifer Waechter relates to this quote. Her 10-year-old son, Jaron, has Angelman Syndrome, which affects one in every 15,000 people.

"It's a genetic disorder, which comes on the maternal side, but nobody on my side ever had it," said Jennifer, a Thief River Falls resident.

Jaron was diagnosed with AS in January 1999 at the age of 1.

"He appeared completely normal," said Jennifer, who noted that Jaron wasn't meeting the developmental stages of infants and wasn't able to stand on his own. Jaron's doctor told Jennifer to wait one year. If Jaron didn't walk by then, she was supposed to take him to the Mayo Clinic. After seeking answers at the Mayo Clinic, Jaron was diagnosed with the disorder.

Doctors told Jennifer that, even though Jaron had AS, he would be fine and eventually catch up developmentally with other kids his age. Months later, on Easter Sunday 1999, Jaron had his first seizure. "That was very shocking, and then it started to hit home that it might be more than what the doctors were saying," said Jennifer, a teenage mom who didn't expect her baby to have such a disorder.

At a national AS conference in 1999, Jennifer also realized that her son wouldn't be like "normal" kids his age. "I literally felt like I was going to throw up or fall over," she said.

Those with AS have developmental delays, lack speech, have seizures, have difficulty with balance and walking, inappropriately laugh, have wide-spaced teeth, frequently drool, have sleep disturbances, and have a happy demeanor. Their illness is often misdiagnosed as autism or cerebral palsy.

"There is limited communication. Most Angelman Syndrome children don't speak," said Jennifer, who noted her son speaks by pointing at pictures to get his point across. Jaron also uses some sign language but not on a regular basis. People with AS basically communicate with pictures or sign language, Jennifer said. She added that Jaron knows what he wants but has trouble telling people what he wants. It may also take him 100 times, not 10 times like it would for a "normal" child, to understand that he has to wait to get something.

Jaron didn't walk until the age of 5. Most kids with AS don't walk until age 7. Some never walk, Jennifer said.

Jaron still suffers seizures every 60 to 90 days and takes medication

Legislation offers solutions to bovine TB crisis

by Rep. Dave Olin

Last week, the Minnesata House Agriculture, Rural Economies and Veterans Affairs Finance Division approved my bill to put an additional $3 million in a bill to assist cattle producers that have been dealing with bovine TB infected beef cattle herds in northern Minnesota. These funds are in addition to $2.7 million approved for the Minnesata Board of Animal Health to do testing and build fences.

There are teeth in this bill, basically giving cattle producers a choice to either opt for a voluntary per head buyout or remain in business. The details are in the works, but the voluntary buyout laaks like it will be amaunt of dallars/head plus what the cattle sold at market can fetch and an additional per animal price for the years necessary to get Minnesota back to TB free status and keep folks out of the business for the duration.

Cattle producers who choose to stay in business will be required to work with the Minnesota Board of Animal Health as they proceed through various restrictions, including maintaining separate feedstock and winter feed areas, which inevitability means fencing. We need to keep the deer out of the feeding areas to get control of bovine TB in the area. The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is currently pursuing ways, both through the air and on the graund to eradicate deer from the area. The Minnesota Board of Animal Health is in charge of the area and will continue to wark with state and federal agencies and cattle producers to successfully isolate and eliminate TB cases in the area and regain Minnesota's TB-free status in the near future.

I'm pleased with this legislation and with the fact the governor and Legislature appear to be on the same page. It is the first step in a very impartant process that impacts the livelihood of many in our communities. The cattle producers now have a chaice. Currently, I'm putting forward some property tax and other tax incentives to alleviate the burden of having land they can't use until its TB free. Also, I am encouraging and supparting legislation to give owners of hunting land incentives, and help, in eradicating deer from the area. I will keep residents updated as this legislation moves forward.

As always, please feel free to call or write me on this issue or any other state or local issue by phone (651) 296-9635 or (218) 681-7216, by mail at 593 State Office Building, 100 Martin Luther King Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55155 or via e-mail at rep.dave.olin@house.mn.

Comprehensive bonding bill is approved

After negotiations between House and Senate conferees and legislative leaders, the Minnesota House passed a comprehensive bonding bill on a vote of 90 to 42.

While area leaders are praising the bill, Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty had an opposite opinion. "This bill is fiscally irresponsible and has misguided priorities. As one example, DFLers fund a number of local projects, including numerous recreation centers, but refuse to build a new nursing facility at the Minneapolis Veterans Home. In addition, their inability to say no led to a seriously bloated laundry list. We'll be carefully reviewing it and considering our options over the coming days."

The $925 million bill, lower than the bills originally passed by the House and the Senate, includes funding for a wide range of projects, including construction at Minnesota's colleges and universities, financing for new and repaired sewer lines and wastewater treatment, flood control projects and park and trail improvements. Several regional projects were included in the bill, including funding for improvements at Big Bog Recreation Area, money to renovate and expand a science building at Bemidji State University, funding for Itasca State Park and the Heartland Trail, and funds to complete the Red Lake Middle and High School.

"The bonding bill is one of the most important bills we'll take up during the legislative session - and it's taken on even more significance in light of our recent economic downtum," said Rep. Brita Sailer. "The bill's much-needed investment in critical infrastructure and job creation will go a long way toward securing northern Minnesota and the state's future."

Negotiations had centered on ways to craft a bill that would come in no higher than 3 percent of projected general fund revenue. That debt standard is one that bonding houses are said to find acceptable. Sailer said that the way state bonds are issued over time and the structure of the bill would ensure the 3 percent limit was met.

"The Capital Investment Committee took a very fiscally responsible approach when making final decisions about which projects to include in the bill, and about how to protect our state's financial reputation," said Sailer. "They also worked very hard to reduce the overall size of the bill, paring it down from $4 billion to under $1 billion. Quite frankly, they had to say no a lot more than they said yes."

The bill also passed in the Senate, and is now on its way to Governor Pawlenty. Sailer expressed hope that the Governor will sign it into law.

"At the end of the day, the final bill represents true compromise, and has the potential to create thousands of jobs, protect the health and safety of Minnesotans and improve our infrastructure," said Sailer. "I hope the Governor recognizes the immediate positive impact this bill will have for Minnesota."

Bet you haven't had these in a long time. Serve with a simple side dish and you have a great meal:

BREADED PORK CHOPS

2 eggs
2 tablespoons barbecue sauce
1 cup dry bread crumbs
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
1/4 teaspoon lemon pepper seasoning
1/4 teaspoon onion salt
4 bone in pork chops (3/4 inch thick)

In bowl, combine eggs and barbecue sauce, mixing well.

In another bowl, combine bread crumbs, cheese, oregano, lemon pepper and onion salt. Dip chops in egg mixture and then coat with bread crumbs. Place in greased baking dish, cover and refrigerate 2 hours. Bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees F for one hour or until juices run clear. Serves 4.

A little coleslaw will make a tasty side dish - this one is nice with a light vinegar/mustard dressing:

MOM'S COLESLAW

1 large head cabbage
2 medium carrots, shredded
1 teaspoon celery seed
1 cup vegetable oil
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 medium onion, quartered

In large bowl, toss cabbage, carrots and celery seed. Place remaining ingredients in a blender or food processor, cover and process until combined. Pour over cabbage mixture and toss to coat. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours. Serve with a slotted spoon. Serves 10-12 people.

Here is a meat free main dish and you'll never even notice - light, tasty and easy - you'll love it:

CAULIFLOWER-GARLIC STIR FRY

3 tablespoons butter
1 large head cauliflower (3 pounds), broken into florets
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley or 1 teaspoon dried
1 1/2 teaspoons lemon pepper seasoning

Melt butter in large skillet. Add cauliflower and garlic. Sprinkle with parsley and lemon pepper. Cook and stir for 12-15 minutes or until lightly browned and tender.

Nutritional Info: One 1/2 cup serving (with salt free lemon pepper) equals 63 calories, 78 mg sodium, 0 chol, 5 gm carb, 2 gm protein, 4 gm fat. Diabetic exchange is 1 vegetable, 1 fat.

Just what we need to top off our meal - a tart and tasty treat - and it will serve a bunch:

GLAZED LEMON BUNDT CAKE

1 cup butter, softened
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1 1/2 teaspoons lemon extract
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel

Glaze

1/4 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon water
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
3/4 cup sugar

In mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Beat in flavoring.

Combine flour, baking powder and salt and add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Stir in lemon peel. Pour into greased and floured 10 inch fluted tube pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 60-70 minutes or until toothpick comes out clean.

Cool 10 minutes and then invert on wire rack. Cool 10 minutes more, then place rack on waxed paper.

Combine glaze ingredients and drizzle over warm cake. Cool completely before serving.

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

"The First Year"

This week, I want to write about my first year of writing for the Northern Watch. This column is actually overdue because my paper anniversary with the newspaper actually occurred in January. I missed this more appropriate time because there were too many other good topics about which to write. This week, I am empty for fresh ideas so this one wins by default; with standards now set low, let us begin.

I started writing for the Northern Watch after the company published a story about a book of "Rural Reflections" columns that I had published. I remember hoping that the people I'd always written about in my past columns would still want to be included; a problem I solved by simply not asking for their permission, which seems to have worked out fine. Over the past year, you have met my family, friends, cats, dogs and even a particularly under-achieving group of aliens who came to visit me in the sugar beet fields near Warren during Halloween. The letters I send to my brother, Dave, are a window into our relationship and a good opportunity to tell you what is on my mind. Letters to Dave are so enjoyable to write that if I didn't actually have a brother like David, then I would have had to adopt one.

I've introduced you to some new characters along the way, such as Travis Black. Travis is a very content person and finds peace in the simple things of life, and writing about him is a way to remind readers to keep life simple and seek happiness in its purest form. I suspect we haven't read the last of Travis, the walleye spinners he ties, the fish he catches or the life he lives.

I have written about my dad several times in the past, but had never written about my mom until this past year. I guess her cooking made quite an impact on me, and the column I wrote about her field and pail lunches struck a chord with a lot of people. Mom gave me a love of good food, but my love of beer and coffee were something I located by myself. I know I sound passionate about these two drinks, but I have recently begun a romance with cheese and plan to start making it at home. I'm sure columns about this topic will be as full of passion and love, as any about that which I consume.

You briefly met our dog, Muffin, prior to our sad, last trip to the veterinarian last summer. Our cats are frequent subjects, as are the cattle out in the pasture, all of which keep us close to the land, give us someone to care for and restore faith in the world after a day at work. Recent studies have found that people who own cats suffer less from strokes and live healthier lives; I could have told them that and have indeed done so in my column.

Here's the thing: I am not an expert on anything but my own life. I use my common sense, traditional beliefs and a love for those I write about to express the life I live or aspire to live. I think I remind myself how good life is with every column and how lucky I am to write something that people can read. Season one is finished; let's start the second year.

Embassy to host country music jam session April 6

The Embassy Community Center will host a country music jam session on Sunday, April 6, beginning at 1 p.m. All country musicians are welcome to attend and present a sampling of their music. Music will continue through the afternoon and into the evening, following the potluck supper served at 5:30 p.m. There is no charge for the afternoon of music and all who enjoy a variety of country music are welcome to attend.

RLCC to present "While the Lights Were Out" April 11-13

Red Lake County Central High School will be presenting the three-act mystery comedy "While the Lights Were Out" by Jack Sharkey, by special arrangement with Samuel French Inc., at 7:30 p.m. on April 11, 12, and 13 in the Oklee School Gym.

The play takes place in Bermuda in the modern day as Lord Wickenham (Tyler Larson), who is a doctor, finds many people are coming to visit for the weekend. His wife, Monica (Andrea Paquin), tries to get her skinflint husband to supply a decent meal. Lord Wickenham is so cheap he has a maid, Mimosa (Ayla Erickson), do the cooking.

The housekeeper, Ms. Nancy Remley (Megan Demarais), is concerned about allowing such a person in the kitchen, much less actually doing the cooking. In fact, at one meal, Lord Wickenham hit Mimosa between the eyes with a frozen leg of mutton.

Detective Benjamin Braddock (Jarren Magnell) and his assistant Sergeant Threedle (Betsy Hagen) have come to investigate a threatening letter. Ben is the worst detective on the force, and if he didn't have his partner with him, he would get lost uptown. The guests for the evening are Algernon Wickenham (Matt Lundeen), who is engaged to the lovely Bibi Covendish (Becky Cote), a famous fashion designer. Bibi once was engaged to Pierre Pourri (Joe Bergevin), a former naval hero. Fredonia Custardine (Stephanie Olson), Monica's sister, and her daughter Cloe (Lael Erickson) are visiting along with Jazz Perdoo (Matt Anderson), who is a sleezy blackmailer. During a storm, the lights go out and one of the members of this hodgepodge of people are murdered. Guns go off, screams are heard, and a woman (Lizzy Fox), is standing over the body with a bloody knife.

To add to the confusion, another man comes into the group after climbing up the cliff – Tom Groggins, who is Mimosa's secret love

No Injuries reported after rollover near Salol

No injuries were reported after a one-vehicle rollover Wednesday morning two miles east of Salol.

At the time of the accident, Danielle L. Johnson, 17, Warroad, was driving a 1995 Audi four-door sedan westbound on Highway 11, according to the Minnesota State Patrol report. She lost track of her position on the snow-covered, icy highway. Her car then slid sideways into a ditch and rolled, striking a utility pole and service box. Johnson was wearing a seat belt. Her car was severely damaged. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 7:58 a.m. Wednesday.

Residents warned about lottery scam

The Polk County Sheriff's Office is warning residents about a lottery scam after receiving a report about the scam.

As part of the scam, a resident receives a letter from Prize America of Niagara Falls, N.Y. The letter also has pch.com Publishers Clearing House printed on top. The letter informs the person that he or she is a winner in the USA Mega Millions/PCH drawing, the United States' biggest multi-state lottery. It also claims that prize money must be claimed no later than April 11.

The scam letter also contains a $2,900 check, and the money is to be used for paying the mandatory fees in accordance with the official laws and income tax protocols as mandated by the U.S. government. The scam letter advises the recipient to call accounts manager Steve Douglass immediately after receiving the official notification to activate the check and start the claim process.

The sheriff's office investigated the report and found that the letter is truly a scam letter. When calls were placed to the customer service number listed in the letter, the investigating sheriff's deputy was threatened for calling and asking questions. The phone number is registered to a cell phone in Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

If you receive a letter such as the one described above, throw it away or report it to your local law enforcement agency.

Support the NCTC aviation program

The Northland Community and Technical College aviation maintenance and technology program in Thief River Falls is one of the best in the nation. It has been described as a world class facility, and we hope its preeminence in the aviation education field continues.

On March 27, not one hand raised into the air when asked whether anyone in the crowd would support closing the AMT program at the college. Supporters of the program say it provided many of them with such a good education that it helped them succeed at their occupations. They noted that it has had a positive impact on the economy of northwestern Minnesota, and that it is this program that sets college apart from all other two-year colleges.

The program was and is so close to death that it is in need of resuscitation. Last fall, Dr. Anne Temte, NCTC president, announced the suspension of the program based on the available facts.

Although the facts weighed heavily against the program, to their credit, many current and former students and area residents rose to its defense. They demanded that the program stay open. The program, they said, was failing because it lacked leadership and direction, and, most importantly, a marketing program. They also pointed out that trends were changing. Instead of decreasing, demand for AMT students is growing. Temte deserves credit for reconsidering her decision because many others would have dug their heels in and just said no. It also would have been much easier.

Temte hired a straight-shooting, and blunt consultant named Bill O'Brien. At the meeting on March 27, O'Brien set the stage for what has to happen to this program - the patient has to sit up and start taking nourishment. Among many recommendations were the following: the program needs a leader, the facility needs to be cleared of junk aircraft, leases renegotiated, energy-saving programs introduced, the curriculum updated, and most importantly, the school needs students. O'Brien recommended an advertising blitz. That blitz is now under way.

The advertising blitz is critical to this patient. Temte needed some sign that the patient was still alive, so she agreed to a goal - 40 students by August. Temte recognized that it won't be easy. She said it would be a "steep road to climb."

Given the fact that there's very little money available for this effort, it will be difficult. The cost in time and effort will fall upon the shoulders of staff, teachers and students. Because their shoulders aren't wide enough to bear the burden alone, I'd like to encourage all those area residents who so wholeheartedly encouraged faculty and staff at the college to continue the AMT program, to now step forward. Offer your time, money and expertise to support the program - support scholarships, encourage high school seniors to enroll in the program and offer financial support for advertising. It's time to pass the collection plate, and it's time to give wings to hopes and dreams.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

We have a problem in northwest Minnesota with bovine tuberculosis. No one knows exactly how it is spreading. It could be spread by fox, coyote, deer, who knows. I agree we must do something, but shooting after dark in farmland, and shooting does during fawning, is ridiculous.

I have hunted for years, shot and field dressed a lot of deer, but field dressing a doe just before fawning is even too much for this old time hunter. But, I guess it is better than shooting a doe right after she fawns, leaving the fawns to lie in the woods, for God knows how long, until they starve to death.

Allowing people to shoot all the deer they want for several months may be the answer, but not at night, and not during fawning.

This has to be the Minnesota Department of Natural Resource's saddest day.

Steve Seglem
Wannaska

To the Editor:

On Monday, March 31, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Commissioner Mark Holsten traveled to Roseau County and met with a standing room only crowd at Café 89 in Wannaska. Holsten announced details of an emergency rule that allows landowners, tenants and their designated agents to shoot deer without a permit in a 934 square mile area. A map of the area can be viewed on the DNR Web site at mndnr.gov/bovinetb. This map is also available at local DNR offices.

This emergency rule allows landowners to take deer of any age or gender, without a limit or license, waiving the requirement to wear orange colored clothing, permitting shooting from a stationary vehicle and with the use of artificial lighting. Holsten emphasized that these rules specifically apply to landowners and their agents. Holsten responded to questions regarding safety by stating that there will be ongoing monitoring of this emergency depopulation of the deer herd. All deer taken must be tested for bovine TB within 48 hours. Holsten stated that these emergency rules apply only to private land and do not extend to public land or public roads.

Holsten stated that this is a disease management strategy with a goal of thinning the deer herd to reduce deer densities. To date, the deer that have tested positive for bovine TB have been taken from the 160 square mile TB core and management zone.

Holsten also informed participants that the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced that Minnesota's TB status WILL BE downgraded either late this week or early next week from Modified Accredited Advanced to Modified Accredited. This status change will impact the entire state of Minnesota. Primary impact will be on producers who want to sell feeder or breeding stock across state lines. Prior to the status downgrade, North Dakota and Wisconsin had already implemented import testing requirements, and Iowa and South Dakota will likely follow suit.

Holsten noted that Michigan is the only other state in the nation with a Modified Advanced TB status. The strategies being implemented in Minnesota to depopulate cattle and reduce deer numbers are efforts to learn from the mistakes Michigan made in their disease management strategy.

Joe Martin, assistant commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA), stated that MDA is working with the Board of Animal Health (BAH) and the USDA to obtain a split state status. Martin noted that obtaining a split state status is an effort to reduce the impact of a Modified Accredited status on the industry and will allow the state to focus resources to the area where infected deer and cattle have been identified. Martin added that this is a time consuming and difficult process that requires Minnesota to conduct a risk assessment and successfully make the case that the rest of Minnesota is TB free.

Sen. Rod Skoe reviewed pending bovine TB legislation. Skoe announced that money has been secured for voluntary buyouts of producers in the TB zone and additional funding has been earmarked for fencing. Skoe advised the group that he is carrying a piece of legislation that would give the MN DNR authority to remove deer on private land if necessary. Several private landowners expressed outrage at this possibility. Skoe emphasized that this is an absolute last resort. The expectation is for landowners in the TB zone to understand the seriousness of the issue and cooperate in doing what is necessary to reduce deer numbers and eliminate contact between cattle and deer.

Skoe responded to questions regarding why the disease management strategy has changed from culling the positively identified animal to depopulating the entire herd.

Skoe explained that a number of things have changed since the last outbreak of TB, with the most significant difference being the fact that the disease has spread into the deer population. Of concern is the large population and high density of deer in the core and TB zone and the fact that deer eating patterns have changed and they are now sharing food sources with cattle, allowing the transmission of the disease between the cattle and deer.

Holsten also informed the group that an aerial helicopter contract has been secured and aerial shooting on public land and private property with landowner approval will begin this week, weather permitting. The USDA has conducted fly over assessments of deer density and identification of deer feeding locations. Regional Enforcement Supervisor Jim Dunn has been assigned as incident command officer for this process.

MN DNR Fish and Wildlife Division Director David Schad stated that the goal is to contain the disease to the small area where it has spread. So far, all 17 positively testing deer and the three new suspect deer have all come from the core and managed area. Deer reduction efforts are part of the strategy to keep the disease contained.

The MN DNR, BAH, MDA, MN Congress, local producers and stakeholders are working collaboratively to eradicate bovine TB. The Roseau County Board is working to facilitate the effort and is not a decision maker in this process. Included in the strategy is enhancing communication between St. Paul, producers and other stakeholders. Rep. Dave Olin will be publishing a weekly bovine TB newsletter and is requesting contact information from any person interested in receiving this newsletter. This contact information may be provided to Roseau County by contacting County Coordinator Trish Harren at 463-4248 or by e-mail at trish.harren@co.roseau.mn.us. Producers and other interested parties can find additional information on TB in cattle on the BAH Web site at www.bah.state.mn.us. The DNR has information on TB in wildlife at www.dnr.state.mn.us/hunting/deer/tb/index.html. If area producers have questions or need assistance, they can also call Minnesota's bovine TB hotline at 1-877-MN TB FREE (668-2373).

I also welcome any questions or concerns.

Sincerely,
Russ Walker

Minnesota Cup seeks aspiring entrepreneurs

Do you have the next breakthrough business idea? Contest organizers, partnering with the University of Minnesota and Wells Fargo, today announced a call for entries for the Fourth Annual Minnesota Cup – a statewide contest designed to seek out, support, celebrate and promote Minnesota's newest and most innovative business ideas.

"Entrepreneurs are a vital part of Minnesota's economic growth and prosperity," said Gov. Tim Pawlenty. "During the past decade, most of the new jobs created have come from the creative efforts of entrepreneurs and small business owners. The Minnesota Cup brings together some of the state's top executives to help find and develop the next breakthrough ideas from aspiring local entrepreneurs."

Through May 23, contest organizers are asking Minnesotans to submit their breakthrough business ideas online at www.minnesotacup.org. Due to the contest's success, the Minnesota Cup has doubled the prize money awarded to the top three entrants, receiving $50,000, $10,000 and $5,000 respectively.

"The Minnesota Cup is a fantastic opportunity for budding entrepreneurs to develop their innovative ideas and establish relationships with some of the state's top investors and business leaders," said Scott Litman, co-founder of the Minnesota Cup. "It's exciting to connect with past entrants and see firsthand how the Minnesota Cup is cultivating and progressing numerous new and promising business endeavors."

Since the Minnesota Cup's inception in 2005, more than 1,800 contestants have entered the competition from 50 different counties in Minnesota. The initial entry form is brief and all entrepreneurs are encouraged to enter – whether they are just putting ideas into a vision or whether they have been building their venture.

"The Minnesota Cup is a must for any company looking to move their idea forward," said Greg Pavett, co-founder of It's Fresh! Inc., a 2007 Minnesota Cup finalist. "Participation in the Minnesota Cup provided us with a great 'bullpen' of advisors that have the horsepower to assist us with our plan. We are still working with our original advisor and the feedback we received from industry leaders involved has been critical to our success."

Student entrepreneurs also can submit their business ideas for judging. One student winner will receive a $5,000 prize. Students must be enrolled full-time at a Minnesota college or university and have less than five years of professional work experience to qualify.

How the Minnesota Cup competition works

The Minnesota Cup encourages entries from a wide range of business ideas. Past years' entries included products and services ranging from high-tech to no-tech, spanning a variety of industries including automotive, healthcare services, telecommunications, technology, leisure, outdoor recreation, energy conservation, education and many others.

Minnesota entrepreneurs can submit their innovative business ideas online at www.minnesotacup.org until May 23. Top entrants will be asked to continue through two more rounds to help contest judges determine five finalists. In the final round of the contest, five finalists will present to a prestigious panel of business leaders, investors and notable entrepreneurs.

The James J. Hill Reference Library will provide online resources to assist participants with their entries, and finalists will have an opportunity to meet with members of the CEO Roundtable, a Minnesota-based nonprofit organization led by dynamic, entrepreneurial chief executive officers from fast growing companies. Entries for the Minnesota Cup competition can be submitted individually or as a group of up to four people.

Contest entrants may contact the James J. Hill Library with questions at (651) 265-5500 or support@breakthroughideas.org.

MnSCU system meets goals set by state officials

The Minnesota State Colleges and Universities system has achieved all five performance goals set by the governor and Legislature, including increasing enrollment of students taking college courses in science, technology, engineering and math, according to Chancellor James H. McCormick.

The performance goals were adopted as part of the 2008-2009 legislative appropriation. Under the appropriation bill, which passed in the 2007 Legislature, about $13 million, or 1 percent of the system's biennial appropriation has been held back until at least three of the five goals were met.

"We are proud that we met all five goals," McCormick said. "They are important goals for the system and for the continued development of the state's workforce. Educating more students in science, technology, engineering and math is critically important to having a globally competitive workforce. Many jobs, even those outside those fields, now require a higher level of achievement in these subjects."

Specifically, the goals and results are:

- Increase the number of students who take college courses in science, technology, engineering and math by at least 3 percent between fiscal years 2005 and 2008.

Result: Enrollment increased 3.2 percent from 108,998 to 112,504.

- Increase enrollment in four Centers of Excellence courses by at least 2 percent between fiscal years 2005 and 2007. The system's four Centers of Excellence focus on engineering, manufacturing, health care and information technology and security.

Result: Enrollment increased by 2.3 percent from 19,427 to 19,868.

- Increase the number of students trained in using electronic medical records by at least 700 between fiscal years 2007 and 2008.

Result: The number of students trained in this technology increased by 971 from 177 to 1,148.

- Increase the number of students taking online courses or the number of online courses offered by at least 10 percent between fiscal years 2007 and the preliminary count for 2008.

Result: Enrollment increased by 11.3 percent from 59,853 to 66,635.

- Expand the "awards of excellence" or other initiatives that reward member institutions, faculty, administrators or staff for innovations designed to advance excellence and efficiency by at least 10 percent between calendar years 2006 and 2007.

Result: The number of awards of excellence increased by 277.5 percent from 253 to 955.

"We appreciate the challenge that these performance goals presented and the opportunity to work toward achieving state goals for the system," Board Chair David Olson said in a letter to legislative leaders requesting release of the funds.

The Minnesota State Colleges and Universities system comprises 32 state universities and community and technical colleges serving the higher education needs of Minnesota. The system serves about 242,000 students per year in credit-based courses and an additional 140,000 students in non-credit courses.

Women's History Month commemorated

The Women's History Month Committee of Northland Community and Technical College has commemorated women with several events during the month of March.

One of the projects involved students from both Challenger Elementary School and Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls. Before Christmas, Denice Nelson's fourth grade class interviewed their grandmothers, or other special older women in their lives, with questions pertaining to what life was like when they were children or how life has changed for them through the years. These interviews were then sent to the LHS literary arts class, which composed a skit, based on ideas gleaned from the interviews. These students were Anne Hook, Christine Daniels, Launta Frame, Samantha Dicken, Elissa Northup, Tasha Erickson, Cassie Gunderson, and Britney Schwab. Their instructor is Connie Stock.

The script for the skit was then passed on to the LHS theatre arts students, who cast, rehearsed and collected props for the skit. Members of this troupe were Michelle Roadfeldt, Courtney Bruggeman, Matt Kazmierczak, Breeanna Larson, Madeline Volker, Nicole Johnson, Shanielle Peterson, Rebecca Aaland, Amber McCarty-Johnson and Ben Beito. These students performed the skit with a crew of Jade Gothberg, Joe Cole, Lacey Stennes and Alex Thomas. Their instructors were Rosaline Groven and Chris Handley.

Recently, the NCTC Women's History Month Committee hosted a tea at CES for the fourth grade class, their parents and the grandparents involved in the project. The high school class performed its skit, much to the delight of the audience, young and old. Gifts were given to the student participants, and everyone enjoyed snacks and punch.

Members of the NCTC Women's History Month Committee are Kelsy Blowers, Nicole Brenny, Lynell Wayne, Aliza Olson, Marcia Sandahl, Jan Strandlie and Cynthia Jorstad.

TRF Community Theater receives NWRDC grant

The Thief River Falls Community Theater recently received notice from the Northwest Regional Development Commission that the theater group has been awarded grant money for the summer of 2008.

Included was an award in which to purchase lighting equipment to be used in the productions of "Anything Goes" and "The Odd Couple" slated for this coming June and July. Another grant was received to help with general production costs of "The Odd Couple." Various other grants from local foundations had been written and received for use with costs associated with "Anything Goes."

According to Jane Anderson, Community Theater grant writer, "These grants are instrumental to us to be able to deliver the quality of theater we strive to produce in the region. Without this money, our group would not be able to continue to offer as many productions with as good quality. We are thrilled and appreciate this financial assistance so much."

For more information on the Thief River Falls Community Theater, call 681-3810.

TRF sends 13 to NYWA state meet

Twenty-three Thief River Falls Takedown Club wrestlers were in Bemidji for the March 28 Northland Youth Wrestling Association Region 5 individual tournament. By placing first through third a wrestler qualified to advance to the NYWA state tournament in Rochester April 5-6.

Thirteen Thief River Falls wrestlers were state qualifiers, including first place finishers Cole Johnson, Joshua Bernier, Dyllon McLean, Spencer Hron and Chase Hron.

Second place performances were turned in by Matthew Thompson, Nathanael Holecek and Chris Kucera, while third place medals were collected by Ethon Nelson, Noah Bernier and Andrew Audette.

Also placing were Austin Hjelle, Vince Hesse and Colby Alten (fourth); Jacob Brinkman, Stephen Holecek and Jacob Thompson (fifth); Nolan Dyrdal and Jacob Bohl (sixth).

Thief River Falls eighth grader Logan Alten placed first and seventh grader Sam Twistol was third during Friday competition to qualify for April 3-4 state competition.

Prowlers going for a fifth straight 8A tennis crown...

TRF working on title defense

Thief River Falls has been King of the Hill in Section 8A boys high school tennis over the past four years. That title reign will be challenged in 2008, but the Prowlers look for a deep line-up – one that features nine players who saw varsity duty last spring – to give them a shot at a fifth straight state tournament berth.

In addition to four consecutive Section 8A team titles, Thief River Falls has put together a 63-14 dual meet record during that title run. Outside of eight state tournament setbacks, the Prowlers have lost just six matches since the 2004 season. They were 19-3 a year ago when a 5-2 state tournament quarterfinal win over Litchfield was followed by a 7-0 semifinal defeat at the hands of St. Paul Academy & Summit School and a 4-3 third place match loss to Mounds Park Academy.

There were just three seniors on the 2007 team, but Cody Bottem, Corey Horien and Jordan Swonson were key components to the Prowlers' winning line-up.

"We have a nice core of players back again this year," said Corey Thorson, who coached the Prowlers to their last two section titles after they had made back-to-back state tournament trips under Troy Hanestad. "We might not be as strong at the top as we have been in years past, but we won't be hurting for players to put on the court. We've got numbers with the addition of a tight, hard-working group of freshmen. That's something we haven't had in the past."

Returning lettermen include seniors Jacob Engelstad, Brian Kays and Chase Haviland; juniors Parker Nessen, JD Robson, Cody Reese and Tyler Peterson; along with freshmen Connor Hutton and Brenden Skime.

Engelstad handled the No. 1 singles position last year, and Skime, as an eighth grader, led the Prowlers in singles wins.

"Last year, we only had a couple of players move into new spots," explained Thorson. "Other than Jacob at No. 1 singles, most players are going to have to move up a spot or two this year. It might take a little while for them to adjust to the speed of the position."

Others on the roster include juniors Grant Spears and Etienne Boyer; sophomores Alex Thomas and Stephen Botes; plus freshmen Ben Olson, Josh Koop, Devin Spears, Donovan Rupprecht, Ethan Redd, Chad Roisland, Micah Rodal, Tevin Douglas and Joey Zowiska.

"There are probably 15 to 17 guys who could see action at the varsity level this year," Thorson said.

Thorson fully expects the Prowlers to be a major player in area tennis again, but anticipates they will face challenges from traditional contenders and with the addition of Detroit Lakes and Wadena-Deer Creek to the Section 8A line-up. "The section will be a little stronger this year," he warned. "Crookston and Park Rapids will be tough again, and East Grand Forks will be a program to watch with the addition of coach/teaching pro Jim Wyott. But if we make the gains we need to make throughout the season, we should again be one of the top teams in Section 8A."

The Prowlers will open the season Tuesday, April 8, with a double-dual against East Grand Forks and Moorhead beginning at noon at the Grand Forks Tennis Center.

Thief River Falls home opener is scheduled Thursday, April 17, vs. Moorhead.

Prowler Hall of Fame will add three names

Three new members will be inducted into the Prowler Hall of Fame during banquet activity Saturday, May 3, at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

The latest inductees include Kermit Eastman of Trail in the educator category; Jodi Kruta of Douglasville, Ga., athlete, and Keith Anderson of Fort Myers, Fla., athlete.

Hall of Fame banquet tickets are on sale at the Lincoln High School activities office from the hours of 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Cost is $18 per ticket. The public is invited.

The evening will start with a social hour beginning at 5 p.m. Dinner will be served at 6, with the induction ceremony to follow.

This year's inductees will bring the Prowler Hall of Fame membership list to 91 since the charter class was introduced on April 23, 1994.

Northern Freeze 8A contender

Jake Foslien is hoping Northern Freeze can go 2-for-3 this year. The Marshall County Central/Tri-County sports cooperative won the Section 8A volleyball title last fall, but dreams of back-to-back state tournament trips was shattered by an overtime loss in the Section 8A girls basketball finals. Many of those same multi-sport athletes play softball, and after coming close a year ago, they are expected to put in another championship bid this spring.

"With successful volleyball and basketball seasons, the bar has been raised, and the girls enter this season with a sense of urgency," said Foslien, the Freeze head softball coach. "Hopefully, with a lot of hard work and dedication, we can match the success of the prior seasons' sports. It will not be easy. We play a hard schedule and we're in a very competitive section. But I feel we can compete."

Senior pitcher Ashley Hestekind leads the 2008 Freeze. Beginning her fourth year as the team's top pitcher, the all-section and all-conference pick was 15-6 for the 17-9 Freeze last spring when she struck out 106 batters, walked 44 and carried a 2.18 earned run average over 135 innings of work.

"Ashley has improved each year and hopefully she can make her senior year her best," said Foslien. "She has developed into a great team leader, and is near the top of Section 8A pitching. She must not get complacent from past succes. She must consistently hit her spots and work ahead of hitters. Her change-up must be used effectively, and she needs to develop a third pitch."

Sophomore Kinzie Magner, who was 2-2 last year, will be the team's No. 2 pitcher.

Another varsity veteran is senior Alycia Dahl, a fifth-year starter in the outfield. "Alycia gets such an incredible jump on fly balls," pointed out Foslien. "She covers an incredible amount of ground. All-in-all, she is one of the best defensive center fielders in the section."

The Freeze also return senior Sasha Magner at second base, freshman Liza Hoglo at shortstop and junior Molly Magner at third base.

"Sasha brings great athleticism to second base, as well as speed and quickness," noted Foslien. "Liza has an incredible knack of getting to the ball and making great plays. Molly has a quick glove and a nice arm, as well as great athleticism - all the tools necessary for a great third baseman."

Kinzie Magner started in the outfield in 2007, but will handle most of the first base duties this spring. "This is a new position for Kinzie, and it may take a little getting used to," acknowledged Foslien, "but I do not see it being a major adjustment. She is a smart athlete. She will do a nice job for us."

Mariah Richard, a back-up as a freshman, will be the Freeze starting catcher as a sophomore in 2008.

Foslien is still working on filling the left and right field positions. The leading candidates at this point, he said, include eighth grader Marissa Adolphson, junior Becca Larson and freshmen Kaylee Davidson and Shandy Nelson.

"We will have an athletic team this season," said Foslien. "Hopefully our pitching and defense can be a great strength. Obviously it's nice to have Hestekind for one more season. However, we can not look back at past success and assume that will be the case this season."

The Freeze offense needs to step up to match its pitching and defense, indicated Foslien. Top returnees in that area are Richard, who hit .325 (27/83) last year, and Molly Magner, who batted .307 (23/75).

"We need to become better clutch hitters and bunters," said Foslien. "We play good teams, and we need

Short indoor track season completed

A two-meet Thief River Falls indoor high school track schedule was completed Tuesday when the Prowlers took part in the Little Amik II Invitational at the Bemidji State University Recreation Center.

It was the second meet at the same site for the Tim Olson-coached Thief River Falls boys and girls, who opened the 2008 season at the March 25 Bemidji Lions Indoor.

First outdoor meet of the year for the Prowlers will be the Tuesday, April 15, Northland Community and Technical College Invitational at the Thief River Falls Multi-Events Center. Competition starts at 4 p.m. that day.

Two dozen teams were on hand in both the boys and girls divisions at Bemidji.

Team titles went to the Bemidji boys and East Grand Forks girls. The Lumberjacks finished with a sizeable 129-51 winning margin over runner-up Roseau; the Green Wave edged second place Staples-Motley by a 52-49 score, with Roseau a close third at 48.

Thief River Falls boys placed ninth with 18 points. The Thief River Falls girls picked up just one point.

It was a nearly eight-hour meet that included 112 girls running in the 55-meter prelims and 94 in the 200-meter timed finals. The numbers for the boys included 108 entries in the 55-meter race and 89 in the 200.

Meet MVP awards went to Nate McGriff of Bemidji and Analisa Haschle of Bagley/Fosston. McGriff won the boys' 200, 400 and long jump, and ran a leg on a first place 4x400 relay team. Huschle won the girls' 200, high jump and triple jump (meet record) and was a member of a second place 4x200 relay team.

Top Thief River Falls performances included second place finishes by Aaron Langan in the boys 55 meter run and by Tyson Sorvig in the boys shot put.

Baseball team in Mayville, not Austin...

Pioneers' weekend plans are changed

Weather-related changes have been made to the May 4-6 weekend schedule for the Northland Community and Technical College baseball team.

The Pioneers were ticketed for an appearance at the Minnesota Community College Conference Crossover Tournament Friday, Saturday and Sunday against Minnesota West, host Riverland (twice) and Fergus Falls. Field conditions in Austin, however, scuttled those plans.

Instead, Northland put together a package of games to be played at Mayville (N.D.) State.

The Pioneers scheduled split doubleheaders against Hibbing and Fergus Falls. They penciled in Saturday games at 11 a.m. (Hibbing) and at 4 p.m. (Fergas Falls) and Sunday contests at 1:30 p.m. (Hibbing) and 4 p.m. (Fergus Falls).

Northland went into the weekend with a 10-9-1 record.

The Pioneers are scheduled to open their MCCC Northern Division schedule with a 1 p.m. Wednesday, May 9, doubleheader against Itasca in Thief River Falls.

Justin Pyle of Thief River Falls (left) was a runner-up finisher in the men's open single portion of the March 7-9 Chippewa Valley Eye Clinic Tennis Tournament in Eau Claire, Wis. Seeded fourth in a 64-player field, Pyle received a first round bye, then posted three wins before losing a 6-4, 4-6 (10-8) third set super tie break decision to third-seeded Troy Polikowsky (pictured on right) in the finals. Sacred Heart rolls to 11-1 win over Freeze

East Grand Forks Sacred Heart combined nine hits with five Northern Freeze errors for an 11-1 Thursday high school softball win.

The Thursday 2008 opener for both teams was a rematch of the 2007 Section 8A final, won by the Eagles. This one ended in the sixth inning on the 10-run rule.

"We did not play well," reported Northern Freeze coach Jake Foslien. "I understand this is Game 1. However, it is not acceptable. Too many mental and physical errors. We need to do a better job of preparing ourselves to play."

Sacred Heart took control early by scoring five unearned runs in the second inning. A two-out error produced the first run. Sandy Novak and Tia Klien came up with RBI singles, then two more errors plated two additional runs.

The Eagles opened the third inning with five straight singles off the bats of Karissa Hanson, Tracey Roach, Rachel Scheving, Kristin Stinger and Sarah Jeffrey to build their lead to 9-0.

A Scheving RBI single made it 10-0 in the fourth inning.

Liza Hoglo doubled with two out in the top of the fifth and scored the lone Northern Freeze run on an error.

A sixth inning passed ball produced the final Sacred Heart run.

Winning pitcher Darcy Roach limited Northern Freeze to three hits while walking one and striking out nine. The loss went to Ashley Hestekind, who gave way to Kinzie Magner in the fourth inning.

"Kinzie did a nice job of pitching in relief," noted Foslien. "She came into the game in a tough spot. I'm proud of the way she handled herself."

Trontvet is selected for academic all-state team

Thief River Falls' Kasey Trontvet was one of just three Section 8AAA and Section 8AAAA players named to the 2007-08 Minnesota Boys High School Basketball Coaches Association academic all-state team, it was announced this week.

The others were Lucas Vossen of Rocori and Jordan Driscoll of Moorhead.

Red Lake Electric Cooperative holds 70th annual meeting

The 70th annual meeting of Red Lake Electric Cooperative was held March 26 at the Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls. Approximately 375 members and guests gathered in the arena's Imperial Room.

The meeting opened with the national anthem sung by Amelia Schmitz of Red Lake Falls. Schmitz is a senior at Lafayette High School in Red Lake Falls and the daughter of Mary Jo and Terry Schmitz.

In his president's report, Kelly Lundeen said 2007 was very good in many respects. Outage time per customer averaged 1.8 hours, over $500,000 was paid out in capital credit retirements, and member equity was a strong 51 percent of assets. He thanked employees for their safe working habits and complimented them on achieving five years without a lost-time accident. Lundeen said that the Board of Directors had spent considerable time on the selection of a new general manager and had selected Roger Johanneck, current manager of finance and administration, as the general manager effective May 1.

Johaaneck gave the financial report for 2007. He said that the RLEC had a good year financially in 2007. RLEC's total energy sales increased this past year. Customer demand for energy pushed sales to a record level for the RLEC. Cold weather and the price of other heating fuels had an impact on our electric energy sales, said Johanneck. He added that 2007 was the first year that off-peak energy sales have increased since 2001.

The largest cost of doing business for RLEC is the cost of energy it buys from Minnkota Power Cooperative. In 2007, that cost to RLEC was $5.2 million, and it made up two-thirds of the cost of providing electric service to its customers. Johanneck said it might be too obvious a statement to say that the RLEC's customers have a big say in annual power cost expense from Minnkota Power. However, the kilowatt-hours customers use (energy charge) makes up only half of the RLEC's wholesale power cost. The other charges, demand, transmission and substation charges, are based both on how much electricity customers use and how much they use over peak periods. Power plants, transmission lines and substations all need to be sized to handle peak loads. Conservation and wise use of energy, especially over peak periods, are good customer choices that help RLEC manage its largest cost of doing business.

The balance of RLEC's expenses is the cost associated with delivering electricity from the substations to the customer's meter. RLEC has $24.5 million in electric plant, which consists of 2,324 miles of overhead and 231 miles of underground power lines and related equipment that it maintains to deliver energy to its customers.

Ran Kennedy, general manager, gave his report and discussed energy conservation efforts and sales data. He said that electrical usage by customers in February had exceeded the previous record high by 9.7 percent. He also said the controlled and uncontrolled peak demands registered in the past winter had exceeded the previous record highs by 10.7 percent and 9.6 percent, respectively. Cold weather and customers switching from fossil fuels to electricity for heating had likely caused the large increases. Kennedy said that the higher usage and demands would also likely remain in future years as fossil fuel prices are projected to remain high. This spike in usage and demand, he said, was causing a reevaluation of load growth projections, generation capacity needs, and distribution system upgrades. Kennedy, who is retiring in May, thanked members, employees and directors for their support during his tenure as general manager.

Dave Loer, Minnkota Power chief executive officer, talked about power supply issues, wind generation, load control and climate change. He said that a third coal-fired unit at the Young Station was put on hold for at least five years due to one of the partners dropping out of the project and the uncertainty of the future for coal-fired generation. Loer said the Langdon, N.D., wind farm was operating well and Minnkota's cost of electricity generated there was competitive with the regional market price. He assured customers that load control was only used when electric load exceeded Minnkota's economical generation and market prices were too high. Loer said he is very concerned about detrimental legislation curbing carbon dioxide from coal power plants. He said the earth's climate has always been changing, and he seriously questioned the effect of man on the earth's temperatures.

Three directors were elected at the annual meeting. Incumbents Bonnie Christians, Croakston, District 1; Steve Linder, Oklee, District 4; and Mark Hansan, Thief River Falls, District 5, were the nominees and were reelected to serve three year terms.

Kim Swanson, Thief River Falls, president of the Red Lake Electric Trust Inc., presented a $500 Operation RoundUp® grant to Deanna Sarvig, Thief River Falls. Sorvig accepted the check and thanked the members present on behalf of Pennington-Red Lake Victim Services. In the 15 years of Operation RoundUp®, grants totaling more than $301,000 have been awarded to area nonprofit and charitable organizations throughout the service area of RLEC. At the present time, 88 percent of the RLEC's members contribute to Operation RoundUp®.

Safety awards were presented to three RLEC employees in recognition of their safe work records. Employees recognized for surpassing five-year increments of accident free work were Bob Guillemette (25 years), Steve Kruse (10 years) and Roger Valley (5 years).

Lundeen recognized and congratulated Kennedy on his upcoming retirement from the RLEC. Kennedy was presented a plaque thanking him for his 32 years of service as an employee of Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

Door prizes were awarded. Lunch was served by the support group of St. Joseph's Catholic School of Red Lake Falls. Musical entertainment was provided by Vern Rogalla of Goodridge.

RLEC presently serves 5,097 accounts for customers in Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk and Beltromi counties. The current board of directors includes Lundeen, president, Trail; Bonnie Christians, vice president, Crookston; Henry Wieland, secretary-treasurer, Red Lake Falls; Robert Olson, Middle River; Robert Finstad, Thief River Falls; Steve Linder, Oklee; Joyce Johnson, Viking; Mark Hansan, Thief River Falls; and Peter Mosbeck, Red Lake Falls.

Ron Kennedy (left), general manager of Red Lake Electric Cooperative, was recognized and congratulated at the cooperative's annual meeting March 26 at Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls. He will be retiring from the cooperative effective May 2. Kennedy was presented a plaque by Kelly Lundeen, board president, in appreciation of his 32 years of service to RLEC. (Submitted photo) the Minnesota Senate had approved a bill from Sen. Rod Skoe, DFL-Clearbrook. The bill's main provision is a $3.5 million buyout and fencing program for herd owners in the outbreak area. Ranchers and farmers could sell their herds for $500 per head, and receive ongoing yearly payment of $75 per head until the area is disease-free. Livestock owners could also get aid to put up more fences separating cattle from deer.

Bovine TB is an infectious disease that affects cattle, bison, deer, elk, goats and other warm-blooded species. The disease was once a major problem for U.S. cattle herds, but was nearly eliminated from the country in the late 20th century. Minnesota officials have found a total of 11 infected beef cattle herds ?all in Roseau and Beltromi counties · since July 2005. In addition, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has found several deer infected with bovine TB within the same area as the infected cattle herds.

opportunities to work with colleges and universities, nonprofit organizations, libraries or museums to learn more about our country's history, culture and democratic tradition," said Spellings. "By providing professional development for teachers, we can help them support young people in becoming active, informed citizens."

The Teaching American History grant program is designed to improve student achievement by enhancing teachers' knowledge of traditional American history through intensive ongoing professional development in both content and research-based teaching strategies. Grants fund projects for up to five years, and grantees must partner with one or more organizations that have extensive knowledge of American history, including libraries, museums, nonprofit history or humanities organizations and higher education institutions.

The Northwest Service Cooperative will use the grant for their We Too Are the People project, which provides professional development for 70 American history teachers in grades 5-12. The project serves 39 school districts with 28,000 students in 12 counties across rural northwest Minnesota. The goal of the project is to teach students how the words and deeds of individual Americans from all parts of the country have determined the course of our nation.

History is one of the core academic subjects under the No Child Left Behind Act. The most recent National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP), commonly known as the "Nation's Report Card," shows some overall improvement in history performance at all three grade levels, however, less than one-quarter of America's students in grades 4, 8, and 12 are performing at the highest, or proficient level, in American history.

More information about the Teaching American History Grant program is available at: <http://www.ed.gov/programs/teachinghistory/index.html.

Families cope with Angelman Syndrome

for seizures. It is expected that he will eventually grow out of the tendency to have seizures.

To cope with the effects of AS, Jaron undergoes speech, physical and occupational therapies. In addition, he sees a variety of doctors, including a neurologist and a specialized dentist.

Despite all of his challenges, Jaron is an upbeat kid. He enjoys spending time with people. "He's a popular kid. He's got more friends than I do," Jennifer said about her son, who is a fourth grader at Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls. If someone isn't paying attention, he may surprise the person by grabbing him or her for a hug, causing the person to land on the floor.

Jaron also interacts with his younger sisters, ages 2 and 6, like any other boy would. The three of them pick on each other, fight with each other and harass each other.

Jennifer doesn't know where she and Jaron would be without the support of others. She is appreciative of the support she has received from early intervention services, Donna Nelson, Jill Johnson (then with the Family Advocacy Program in Thief River Falls) and Margo Peterson (then with Inter-County Nursing Service in Thief River Falls). She is also appreciative of the support that she has received from Dawn Bly, a Fosston mother who also has a son with AS. "Without all the help I've gotten, I wouldn't know how to deal with it," said Jennifer, who noted their help has helped Jaron become the person he is today.

Jennifer is also appreciative of Jaron's classmates and teachers. CES fourth and fifth graders are holding a penny war for AS. The penny war is being planned this month. The winning class will receive a pizza party.

For her part, Jennifer is raising money for AS by participating in the AS Foundation National Walk-A-Thon, which will be held Saturday, May 17 in St. Cloud. Members of the Bly family, a Shevlin family and a Crookston family, all affected by AS, will participate in the walk. To sponsor Jennifer in the walk, log onto www.firstgiving.com/angelmanwalk and then type in Waechter. To participate in the walk, call Jennifer at 686-8976.

For more information about AS, go to www.angelmansyndrome.org.

Governor names bovine TB coordinator

of Natural Resources has found several deer infected with bovine TB within the same area as the infected cattle herds. The latest infected cattle herd was discovered in February, and this finding is expected to prompt the U.S. Department of Agriculture to downgrade Minnesota's bovine TB status. When this change becomes official, Minnesota producers will need to adhere to costly new federal testing requirements when shipping cattle or bison across state lines.

"Eliminating bovine TB is very important both for cattle producers and to help keep the economy of northwestern Minnesota strong," said Martin. "The cattle industry in our 14 northwestern counties generates $141 million in economic activity and supports more than 2,200 jobs."

The DNR recently announced a series of actions to reduce the population of wild deer in the affected area as part of a larger effort to prevent the spread of bovine TB among deer and from deer to cattle. Meanwhile, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health and the MDA are working to prevent additional infections and minimize economic impacts for the state's cattle producers. For example:

- BAH is negotiating with the USDA to receive split-state status, which would allow the majority of the state to return to a less restrictive bovine TB classification;
- MDA is pursuing an agreement with the federal authorities to free most Minnesota dairy producers from the most costly testing requirements, and
- The two organizations are working with the University of Minnesota Extension on potential research efforts and to provide the latest information to producers through public meetings, correspondence and conference calls.

Bovine TB is an infectious disease that affects cattle, bison, deer, elk, goats and other warm-blooded species. The disease was once a major problem for U.S. cattle herds but was nearly eliminated from the country in the late 20th century.

On Wednesday, Pawlenty announced that the USDA allocated $2.7 million in emergency funding to fight bovine TB in Minnesota. The emergency funding will be used to depopulate infected cattle herds, which is crucial to prevent the spread of the disease and to indemnify producers. The funding will also be used for enhanced surveillance, not only to identify affected herds but also to determine the source of infection. This enhanced surveillance will include free-ranging white-tailed deer, a possible route of transmission for the disease, in Minnesota and Michigan.

NW Community Action offers energy assistance

Applications for the 2008 Energy Assistance Program are still being accepted by Northwest Community Action. Individuals or families who may be eligible should write to Northwest Community Action Inc., P.O. Box 67, Badger, MN 56714, or phone 218-528-3258 or 1-800-568-5329 and an application will be mailed.

Eligibility is based on household income and household size. Assets are no longer counted for this program. Both homeowners and renters may be eligible. Households who live in subsidized housing, but pay either heat or electric costs, may also qualify. Subsidized housing residents who have both heat and electric costs included in their rent do not qualify for energy assistance.

The maximum three-month income for eligibility is currently $5,030 for an individual. For a two-person household, the maximum three-month income is $6,578. Eligibility guidelines continue as three-person household – $8,126; four-person – $9,674; five-person – $11,222; and six-person – $12,770 three-month income.

Households may apply once during the program's Oct. 1, 2007-May 31, 2008 program-year. Applicants are responsible for paying heating and electric bills until hearing from Northwest Community Action.

Area musicians to present Music Jam Fest on Sunday

Musicians from Karlstad to Canada, and all points in between, will present a free Music Jam Fest on Sunday, April 6, at the Warroad Area Community Center, from 2 to 6 p.m. The public is invited to attend the Music Jam Fest to listen, to dance, and to sing along with some of the area's finest musicians as they perform old-time favorites. All musicians are encouraged to bring an instrument(s) and jam with new and old friends from the area.

Some of the instruments that will be featured at the Music Jam Fest include: mandolins, accordions, violins, keyboards, steel guitars, bass guitars, harmonicas and rhythm bones. Some of the finest singing voices from northern Minnesota will also be on the program.

At the core of the Music Jam Fest will be the Highway 11 Ramblers, appropriately named by one of the group's members, Bob Bergland. The Ramblers come from Badger, Fox, Malung, Roseau, Warroad and Williams, and have entertained area residents for several years at a myriad of get-togethers.

A free napkin potluck, furnished by the musicians, will be available throughout the day. For more information, call Jeanine Engen at (218) 689-5676.

MDA to test donated venison

Department asks food shelves to hold donated venison

The Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) has announced it will test venison donated through the state's voluntary venison donation program to determine whether it contains low levels of lead. Meanwhile, MDA is advising Minnesota food shelves that accepted venison through the program to withhold distribution of the meat until testing is complete.

While officials are not aware of any reports of lead in Minnesota venison, the state is taking the action as a precaution. North Dakota took similar action this week after tests in that state found small amounts of lead in ground venison.

"Minnesota sets a very high standard for food safety," Commissioner Gene Hugoson said. "While we are not aware of complaints or reports of illness tied to lead in Minnesota venison, we are erring on the side of caution."

"People are exposed to very low levels of lead and other heavy metals in a number of ways in daily life," said Daniel Symonik, supervisor of the Minnesota Department of Health lead poisoning prevention program. "The question we need to investigate is whether the venison contains lead, and if it does, whether it's at a level that requires intervention."

MDA will collect samples of the venison from the food shelves to conduct laboratory testing. Until the results of those tests are known, MDA has asked food shelves to not distribute the ground venison remaining in their possession.

The Minnesota Hunter Harvested Venison Donation Program is operated by MDA in partnership with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and state food shelves. Through the program, deer hunters can donate harvested deer. The program requires that all donated deer be processed by licensed and inspected meat processors. The program has distributed nearly 78,000 pounds of venison to 97 food shelves across Minnesota.

DNR takes additional steps to reduce deer herd in bovine TB management area

Landowners, tenants and their designated agents can shoot deer without a permit in an expanded area surrounding where bovine tuberculosis (TB) has been found in cattle or deer in northwestern Minnesota, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Sharpshooters will also be used as part of an overall strategy to significantly reduce deer population density in and around the bovine TB management zone.

An emergency rule effective Monday, March 31, and continuing through Aug. 31 allows landowners, tenants and their agents designated in writing to take deer on their property with a firearm, bow or muzzleloader at any time.

The new landowner/tenant zone comprises a 934-square mile area of portions of Beltrami, Marshall, Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties in northwestern Minnesota. The area includes deer permit area 101 and an expanded area north to the Canadian border. The expanded area is bounded on the west by state highways 89 and 310, and on the east by the Thompson Forest Road, County Road 5, and state highways 11 and 313. Details, including a map of the area and the specific rule restrictions, are available from area DNR offices or on the DNR Web site at mndnr.gov/bovinetb.

"Implementing this emergency rule is another tool to help get ahead of this disease and ensure it doesn't persist in Minnesota's deer population," said Paul Telander, regional wildlife manager in northwestern Minnesota.

Provisions of the emergency landowner/tenant shooting rule allow deer of any age or sex to be taken, without limit or license, provided that before transporting the deer, landowners and tenants tag each deer taken with their name; the township, range, and section where the kill took place; and the date of the kill.

All deer must be field dressed at the time of the kill and carcasses - or heads if deer are retained in possession - must be taken to the Wannaska Forestry Office, Grygla Forestry Office, Thief Lake Wildlife Office, Olson's Skime Store or DJ's Salol Store within 48 hours of the kill so they can be tested. Possession tags are required for all deer retained in possession. Tags for both possession and transport will be available at drop-off points.

As the weather warms and deer carcass salvage becomes more difficult, a refrigerated truck will be stationed at Olson's Skime Store. Landowners and tenants are encouraged to promptly bring deer to this station to help preserve as many carcasses as possible.

The emergency rule was enacted as part of an overall strategy that also includes expanded and special hunts, as well as contracting with U.S. Department of Agriculture sharpshooters. Sharpshooters have taken 351 deer as of March 27.

During the first two weeks of April, the DNR will hire an aircraft to supplement sharpshooting efforts, Telander said, resulting in the closure of all wildlife management area lands within the TB management zone (deer permit area 101). WMAs scheduled to be closed include Golden Valley, Grygla, Hayes, Marbel, Mickinock, Moose River, Palmville, Wannaska, Wapiti, and portions of Red Lake and Thief Lake. The following state forest roads will be signed closed beginning Monday morning: Morehouse, Stotts, Winner, Neheim, Penturen, Summer, North Moose River Dike, Moose River West, Moose River East, Luxemberger, Highwood East and West, Tofte, Palsberg, Black's Winner, Root, Mortenson, River Road (east of the private cabins), Thompson.

Permits allowing landowners to shoot deer have been available since March 18. To date, 50 permits have been issued and 33 deer taken. The new emergency rule replaces the permitting process, Telander said. Samples also have been obtained from three elk.

DNR officials tested more than 1,100 hunter-harvested deer for bovine TB in 2007. They discovered four infected animals, bringing the total number of infected deer to 17 since surveillance efforts began in 2005. Telander said sharpshooters and landowners have taken 384 deer so far in 2008. Two of those deer, all adults taken within the 164-square mile core area, showed signs of potential TB but lab tests are required to determine whether any infection is present.

"We need to keep the pressure on deer within this small area to reduce the risk of this disease becoming established in the deer population," Telander said. "The prevalence of the disease in wild deer remains low and is restricted to a small geographic region."

WIC clinics to be offered in April

The Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Nutrition Education Program (WIC) is being held during the month of April.

Infants, children up to the age of 5, and women who are pregnant or breast-feeding may be eligible for the program. WIC Quin County is very interested in enrolling pregnant women in the program, and organizers feel that prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is important to apply for WIC early during pregnancy. No proof of pregnancy is required.

All potential clients must contact the WIC Program to schedule an appointment. The following is the schedule of WIC Clinics for the month of April:

- Tuesday, April 8 at the Newfolden Community Center.
- Wednesday, April 9, at the Kittson County Courthouse in Hallock.
- Thursday, April 10, at the Red Lake Falls Community Center.
- Monday, April 14, through Thursday, April 17, at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.
- Monday, April 21, at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren.
- Tuesday, April 22, at the Karlstad Community Center.
- Wednesday, April 23 and Thursday, April 24, at the LifeCare Medical Center Basement Auxiliary Room in Roseau.

North Valley Home Health will offer immunizations, dental varnishing and blood-lead testing at the Newfolden and Warren clinics from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. For more information, contact North Valley Home Health at 218-745-5154 or 1-800-950-6986.

For further information concerning the WIC program, call or write WIC Quin, PO Box 248, Newfolden, MN 56738, phone 874-7845 (Newfolden, Viking, Middle River, Holt or Thief River Falls residents) or 1-800-223-1591, or e-mail quinchs@wiktel.com.

Producers face more restrictions

USDA announces long-anticipated decision to downgrade Minnesota's bovine TB status

by David Hill
Editor

Tuesday, the United States Department of Agriculture announced its long-anticipated decision of downgrading Minnesota's bovine Tuberculosis status from Modified Accredited Advanced to Modified Accredited. The change, which will require increased testing and certification requirements, went into effect Wednesday, April 9.

As a result of Minnesota's reclassification as a modified accredited state, the interstate movement of cattle and bison moving from Minnesota will be restricted, according to federal regulations, in order to prevent the spread of tuberculosis. Increased TB testing and certification requirements will affect all cattle and bison moving interstate except those animals moving to slaughter or originating from accredited herds.

In a Tuesday conference call with media, Dr. Linda Glaser of the Minnesota Board of Animal Health, said as of Wednesday, all producers will have to follow new interstate movement requirements. Those requirements include individual animal tests for feeder cattle within 60 days of shipping, and individual and whole herd tests in the past 12 months for breeding stock and replacement dairy cows. The new requirements do not require tests for animals going across state lines directly to slaughter.

Glaser added that other states may have different requirements and encouraged all producers to check with states they plan to ship cattle to before shipping the cattle.

As a result of the downgrade in status and increased requirements, Glaser said they will now move very hard to obtaining a split state status. Glaser said their goals are to minimize the impact of the downgraded TB status on the industry, and to have the split state status in place by fall. There are a number of requirements that must be met first, such as the completion of a risk assessment by USDA staff and the application for split state status. Glaser said USDA staff had already been out in the region working on the risk assessment. She added that the office has been working on the application, which is several pages long Glaser said the application will request that the area consisting of about 300 cattle herds in northwest Minnesota (parts of Roseau,

Thief River Falls police, the Minnesota State Patrol and the Thief River Falls Fire Department worked at the scene of a three-vehicle accident Thursday evening on Third Street in the city of Thief River Falls. A westbound sport utility vehicle driven by Heather Vamado, 36, Thief River Falls, crossed the traffic lane and crashed into a parked pickup truck owned by Ed Krystosak of Thief River Falls. The impact of the crash caused Krystosek's vehicle to cross the street and collide with a parked car owned by Jason Grandstrand of Eagan, according to Police Chief Kim Murphy. Varnado's vehicle struck Lori's Hallmark. Varnado was taken by ambulance to MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Medical Center. Vernado was treated and released, according to an ER staff member Friday morning. Vamado told police she doesn't remember what happened after crossing LaBree Avenue. Law enforcement was dispatched to the scene at 5:59 p.m. Thursday. The accident remains under investigation.

USDA downgrades state's bovine TB status

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced Tuesday, April 8, that it would officially downgrade Minnesota's bovine tuberculosis (TB) status from Modified Accredited Advanced to Modified Accredited, effective Wednesday, April 9, 2008.

The drop in status, required by the USDA Code of Federal Regulations, follows the discovery of four additional infected herds within the last 12 months and requires Minnesota cattle producers to conduct additional testing when shipping animals out of state.

"We anticipated this federal downgrade once a fourth infected herd was found," State Bovine TB Coordinator Joe Martin said. "While some states had imposed their own restrictions, this downgrade means new testing requirements for all non-slaughter Karlstad - "Tri County Emergency Services will be getting a new ambulance, thanks to a $120,000 federal grant written by one of its officers.

Tri County EMS awarded grant

"Karlstad City Councilman Pete Kautzman told the City Council last Monday that he had attended the Tri County EMS Annual Meeting and the announcement was made at that time. The grant, written by Jeremy Folland of Karlstad, requires a small amount of matching funds." - The Tribune of Greenbush, April 9, 2008, by Dan Nordine

Kittson Central accepts bids for addition

Hallock - "The Kittsoo Central High School will become a K-12 facility, hopefully just in time for the start of the 2008-09 school year. According to the Kittsoo Central School Board, construction bids came in under the $5.1 million bond levy referendum that was passed last November.

"At their meeting March 31, board members accepted bids for the renovation and addition that the community voted necessary to hold all the students on one campus in Hallock. The Kennedy campus will close after the 2007-08 school year, for an anticipated savings to the district of about $300,000 a year in expenses." - Kittson County Enterprise, April 9, 2008, by Louise Money

Rosebud members vote "no" to merger

Fosston - "In a move that left some puzzled, members of the Rosebud Co-op Oil Association voted to not join a proposed merger between McIntosh-Fosston Co-op Elevator and Fosston Cooperative Ag Service. The decision came down Thursday, April 3 during a joint meeting at The Stadium in Fosston.

"For several years, there had been unofficial talk of the three entities combining to create a single, large cooperative. It wasn't until recently that such discussions took on a more serious tone and a nine-member committee was formed to examine the possibilities." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, April 8, 2008, by Dan Kindall

Many risk utility disconnects

Warren - "About 75 Warren utility customers, both residential and commercial, are behind in paying their utility bills and risk being disconnected if they do not take action to pay up by 4:30 p.m. Monday. Actual disconnections will be made Wednesday, April 16 for those who miss the deadline."

"The city has refrained from making utility disconnections during the winter months. Minnesota law protects many people from being disconnected by their utilities from Oct. 15 to April 15 if they meet certain criteria. Perhaps the most important criteria for preventing a wintertime utility disconnection is that the utility account must have been current as of the start of the winter heating season, Oct. 15. People who have made payment plans and have stayed current with those plans are considered to be current on their accounts for the purposes of the cold weather rule.

"The 75 delinquent utility accounts are in arrears of about $100,000." - Warren Sheaf, April 9, 2008

DEED awards millions

Grants to help pay for improvements to housing, infrastructure and commercial property

The Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development has awarded 40 grants totaling more than $17 million to help pay for improvements to housing, commercial property and infrastructure in Greater Minnesota.

Local grant recipients include:

- Marshall County (five western townships): $315,464 to acquire and remove eight properties.
- Newfolden-Strandquist: $592,955 to rehabilitate 14 owner-occupied housing units, 15 rental units and four commercial units.
- Roseau County (five cities and all townships): $484,380 to rehabilitate 18 owner-occupied housing units.
- St. Hilaire: $400,000 to reconstruct a sanitary treatment facility.
- Stephen, Argyle and Warren: $479,040 for 17 assessment abatements in Stephen and the rehabilitation of 15 owner-occupied housing units in Stephen, Argyle and Warren.

The grants were awarded under the Small Cities Development Program through funding from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"These grants are important to Minnesota communities because they contribute to better housing, improved living conditions and expanded economic opportunities," said DEED Commissioner Dan McElroy. "The funding includes many projects that otherwise would not attract interest from private-sector developers."

He said the grants have played an important role in keeping Greater Minnesota vibrant and attractive for economic development.

The program, which is administered by DEED, makes grants available to cities and townships with populations under 50,000 and counties with populations under 200,000.

Funding is awarded for housing projects, specifically for

Warroad gets new port of entry

Kraus-Anderson has been selected to provide pre-construction services for the new $31 million U.S. Port of Entry in Warroad. The facility is owned by the United States General Services Administration. Construction will begin in early summer and is expected to be completed by February 2010.

The Warroad border port is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Recent statistics show that 157,000 cars and trucks are processed by Warroad Customs each year.

"The new border station consists of a multi-lane drive-thru canopy with security stations, commercial vehicle inspection building and private-owner vehicle inspection building," said Duane Kaiser, project manager for Kraus-Anderson. "It

Warroad teacher wins award

Marlys Knutson receives Carpenter Achievement Award

Marlys Vettleson Knutson, a 1970 graduate from Lincoln High School and business teacher at Warroad High School, has been selected as the recipient of BestPrep's 2008 Carpenter Achievement Award for her lifetime commitment and superior dedication to the education of Minnesota students.

Each year, BestPrep selects one educator in Minnesota who goes beyond teaching from a textbook to truly linking education to the business community. Knutson was chosen as this year's recipient due to her success in integrating BestPrep programs into her classroom. She has truly dedicated herself to putting her students ahead of the curve. Knutson has encouraged her students to attend various BestPrep programs, including Minnesota Business Venture (MBV) and The Stock Market Game(tm). Knutson has also participated in BestPrep's Technology Integration Workshop in the summer of 2007. BestPrep is a 32-year old Minnesota nonprofit whose mission is to best prepare 4th – 12th grade students with business, career and financial literacy skills through experiences that inspire success in work and life.

"I have always encouraged students to attend MBV to learn about the business world," said Knutson, "and students need to learn about stocks, bonds and investing to get along in today's world. The Stock Market Game does a nice job of exploring stocks, plus it encourages competition with other schools in the state of Minnesota. As a teacher, I attended the Summer Technology Integration Workshop, which gave me insight into the latest technology used in some classrooms. I returned energetic to share this information with my students."

As a recipient of the award, Marlys and a guest have received invitations to BestPrep's Educational Forum on May 9, 2008, an event that will host about 950 business professionals and 20 valued teachers from throughout Minnesota who have shown their own tremendous dedication to utilizing BestPrep's programs in their classes. SOUPÇON

email: lacours@rrv.net

I've just got the urge to make doughnuts and it wouldn't be a good idea right now. Instead of making them myself, I'll give you the recipe, and some other good ones, too.

You've always wanted to try - go ahead. This is supposed to be an easy recipe and it is so satisfying to turn out something that Grandma used to make, too:

SWEDISH DOUGHNUTS

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 cups cold mashed potatoes (mashed with milk and butter)
3/4 cup buttermilk
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla or almond
4 1/2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon ginger
Oil for deep fat frying
Additional sugar, if desired

Beat eggs and sugar. Add potatoes, buttermilk, butter and vanilla and mix well.

Combine flour, baking powder, soda, salt, nutmeg and ginger. Add to egg mixture and mix well. Cover and refrigerate 1-2 hours.

On floured surface, roll dough to 1/2 inch thickness. Cut with 2 1/2 inch doughnut cutter.

In electric skillet or deep fat fryer, heat oil to 375 degrees. Fry doughnuts, a few at a time, for 2 minutes on each side or until browned. Drain on paper towels. Roll in sugar if desired. Recipe makes about 2 1/2 dozen doughnuts.

OK, just in case you don't dare do doughnuts, how about trying these? Shape doesn't matter with funnel cakes:

FUNNEL CAKES

2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup water
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups flour
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
Oil for deep frying
Confectioner's sugar

Beat eggs. Add milk, water and vanilla, mixing well.

Combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Beat into egg mixture until smooth.

Heat oil to 375 degrees. Cover the bottom of a funnel spout with your finger and ladle 1/2 cup batter into the top. Holding the funnel several inches above the skillet, release your finger and move the funnel in a spiral motion until all batter is released into the oil, scraping with spatula if needed. (If you don't dare use a funnel, you can pour dribbles from a measuring cup.)

Fry 2 minutes on each side until golden brown. Drain on paper towels. Dust with confectioner's sugar and serve warm. Makes 8 cakes.

Enough deep frying for you. Here's a nice dessert that is actually low fat. Who said you couldn't have something sweet?

LOW FAT COFFEE CAKE

1 1/2 cups flour
3/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1/4 cup unsweetened applesauce
1/2 cup skim milk

Topping

1/3 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon

In medium bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt.

In another bowl, beat egg whites, applesauce and milk. Add to dry ingredients. Pour into 9 inch square baking pan that has been coated with nonstick spray.

Combine topping ingredients and sprinkle over batter. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes or until toothpick comes out clean. Serve warm. Recipe makes 9 pieces.

Nutritional Info: One piece of cake equals 206 calories, 261 mg sodium, trace of chol, 48 gm carb, 3 gm protein, trace of fat. Diabetic Exchange is 2 starch & 1 fruit.

Finally, a quick dessert or snack for you to make and it's easy to put together with refrigerated cookie dough and a can of cranberry sauce - your family will think you slaved for hours:

CRAN-APPLE
COOKIE COBBLER

4 medium tart apples, peeled and sliced 1/4 inch thick
1 (16 ounce) can whole berry cranberry sauce
1/3 cup packed brown sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 (18 ounce) tube refrigerated sugar cookie dough
Ice cream, if desired, or whipped cream

Place apples in greased 9 inch square baking dish.

Combine cranberry sauce, brown sugar, flour and cinnamon. Pour over apples. Cut cookie dough in half widthwise and refrigerate half of the dough for cookies tomorrow. Cut the half of the dough into 1/4 inch slices and place over apple mixture.

Bake at 400 degrees for 25-30 minutes or until topping is golden brown and apples are tender and bubbling. Serve with ice cream or whipped cream. Serves 9.

Arctic Cat revises fiscal 2008 fourth-quarter outlook

On Tuesday, Arctic Cat Inc. revised its sales and earnings outlook for the fiscal 2008 fourth quarter ended March 31 on lower than anticipated all-terrain vehicle sales, which the company attributed to three factors: continued weak retail sales; the reduction of a planned, large retail customer order; and a parts supply issue.

"The headwind we saw in the retail ATV market at the end of calendar year 2007 continued to worsen in the first quarter of calendar 2008," said Christopher A. Twomey, Arctic Cat's chairman and chief executive officer, "causing lower than anticipated wholesale sales to our dealers." Twomey noted that Arctic Cat gained ATV market share during the March quarter, but industrywide ATV retail sales continued to decline, which made dealers reluctant to substantially increase their inventory.

In addition, two other unforeseeable events occurred during the quarter, further impacting sales. One of Arctic Cat's large multi-store retailers decided to sell ATVs only in its largest footprint stores and, as a result, significantly reduced its planned order for the quarter. Arctic Cat also experienced an ATV sourcing issue with a vendor supplying parts for the Prowler utility vehicle. A temporary supply interruption occurred while Arctic Cat was in the process of transitioning to a different supplier as part of the company's strategic sourcing initiative. The supply issue was resolved before the end of the fourth quarter, using another supplier. "Unfortunately, because of the supply uncertainty, we stopped taking Prowler orders for a period of time, reducing ATV sales in the March quarter," Twomey said.

As a result of these factors, Arctic Cat's fourth-quarter net sales are now estimated to be $167 million to $169 million compared to $172.6 million in the prior-year fourth quarter. Arctic Cat now expects fourth-quarter diluted earnings per share to range between break-even to a net loss of $0.08.

Accordingly, Arctic Cat has revised its anticipated sales for the full year ended March 31 to be in the range of $620 million to $622 million, compared with record net sales in fiscal 2007 of $782.4 million. The company anticipates reporting a net loss per diluted share for the 2008 fiscal year in the range of $0.20 to $0.28 versus year-ago diluted earnings per share of $1.15.

"We are very disappointed about the significant impact of these events on the quarter," said Twomey. The company had previously announced a reduction in fiscal 2008 production levels in response to the challenging retail climate for recreational vehicles. Twomey said that Arctic Cat continues to focus on lowering costs through its strategic sourcing initiative and leveraging its efficiency with the aim of returning the company to profitability.

Arctic Cat expects to report its actual fiscal 2008 fourth-quarter results in mid-May.

Stimulate my economy

As far as economic stimulus plans go, I could think of a lot of things that would help - a higher wage, fewer taxes or fees, a state that recognizes that the value of homes and businesses is going down not up, even a decent health plan, but we'll have to hope that the checks we receive from the federal government will provide enough of an economic stimulus to give us some real relief.

The current administration believes that the cure to our economic woes is to shop 'til we drop because consumer spending represents more than two-thirds of economic activity in the U.S. To some people, shopping may sound like fun, but to others … you have to wonder whether that's really in their best interest. If you're saddled with debt, is shopping really the right answer? If you don't have a retirement plan, and you're behind on your bills, is spending it really the right thing to do?

A contributing writer to MSNBC offers several tips. How about starting an emergency fund? Who hasn't experienced an emergency and needed to raid the rainy-day fund? A little cushion, provided you continue to contribute to it, could help you through a job loss or an unexpected repair bill.

If you're saddled with a lot of debt, why not pay down some of that debt and reduce those interest and late payments? Why not pay down some of that expensive credit card debt?

How about investing that money in a retirement account, a child's college fund, additional education for you that will benefit your future, or a money market account? Seems wise to me.

With so many people facing foreclosures, how about making sure your house doesn't sink you? Use the economic stimulus package money to pay off some of your mortgage. Or, what about making some repairs that make a difference in your electric or heating fuel bill? Why not purchase new energy efficient home appliances?

Americans love to drive. Why not make sure your vehicle is in good working order and able to get you to work on time?

How about using some of the economic stimulus package money to improve your health. Preventive care, such as exercise, is a lot less expensive than heart bypass. For that matter, even a couple of days in the hospital may put your financial security at risk.

How about doing something for your community? Donations to the area food shelf, Boy Scouts, Girls Scouts, United Way, school music departments, athletic clubs or senior centers can actually do a lot to help other people and even help reduce our taxes. It also feels good.

How you spend the funds you get from the feds is entirely up to you. The government is hoping you spend it in the belief that it will generate more income and help the economy in the process.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

A draft written by the Department of Natural Resources to remove deer from private land without landowner permission has been carried to the Minnesota State Senate by Sen. Rod Skoe. I personally find this unacceptable. We have a bovine tuberculosis problem in northern Minnesota and we need to deal with it to protect our farmers with cattle herds and keep a healthy deer herd, but entering private land or shooting deer from the air on private land is not the answer. There are many ways to encourage landowners to help reduce the deer herds, but forcing their way onto private land, trampling on landowner's rights, causing outrage by landowners, far in excess of anything the DNR is expecting is also not the answer. If you are a landowner or just a citizen concerned about people's rights, now is your time to speak out. We can reduce the deer herd, stop bovine TB, and protect our farmers without forcible entry on private property.

The DNR has alienated the landowners far too long and in my humble opinion, this may be the final straw.

To the Editor:

Private landowners beware: Minnesota State Senator Rod Skoe (DFL-02) introduced SF Bill 3811 on March 28, 2008. The core of the bill empowers the Commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, at his discretion, to order his officers onto privately owned land without need of permission from the landowner or any legal document.

I urge everyone to contact their political representatives and express their opposition to SF Bill 3811. Such explicit power in the hands of one individual smacks of a dictatorship, not a democracy.

The next time you hear the words, "'And the land of the free,' think about it.

Local Government Aid is needed

The Coalition of Greater Minnesota Cities recently sent letters from Wadena Mayor Wayne Wolden, vice president, Coalition of Greater Minnesota Cities, to legislators expressing concerns about the direction the House of Representatives is taking, especially in regards to Local Government Aid and the property tax relief the program provides.

"Legislators from both sides of the aisle who feel that the $935 million budget deficit will somehow excuse inaction on property tax relief are ignoring the needs of their constituents. The property taxpayers in our cities are struggling to cope with a very serious economic recession. Housing values are in retreat at the very time property taxes are increasing. Since 2003, when the Legislature reduced LGA funding by $150 million, residential property taxes statewide have increased an average of 70 percent. If more money is not made available for LGA, local property taxes will almost certainly escalate ever higher while needed services continue to be cut.

"Ignoring the need to increase LGA funding by $90 million is not an acceptable response to this very serious problem. Make no mistake, legislative failure to increase funding for LGA is tantamount to increasing taxes on taxpayers who live in lower-wealth communities or communities with high needs. Continued disinvestment in Local Government Aid will lead to even more unequal government services and property tax burdens. It is a strategy that can only undermine greater Minnesota and further burden its taxpayers.

"Last session, both the House and Senate passed an Omnibus Tax Bill that contained a $70 million increase in LGA funding. Gov. Tim Pawlenty's decision to veto that bill does not release House lawmakers from their responsibility of offering property tax relief by increasing funding for LGA this year.

"For the first time in years, cities have been able to unite behind a proposal to increase funding for Local Government Aid and change the program's aid distribution formula. The League of Minnesota Cities, Metro Cities, the North Metro Mayor's Association, the Minnesota Association of Small Cities and the Coalition of Greater Minnesota Cities this year are of like mind: LGA funding must be increased by $90 million, and the formula changes must be enacted.

"We do not accept the notion that nothing can be done for property tax relief this year. If the Senate can pass a tax bill and budget deficit reduction plan that contains $70 million in new funding for LGA, the House should be able to offer a bill that does at least as much. Moreover, the funding adjustment would have no impact on the current budget deficit because the funding would not be made available until the second half of 2009, the next biennium.

"Promises were made to voters in the last general election that must be honored. Empty excuses offer precious little comfort to the people who struggle today to make ends meet."

NCTC-EGF Construction Electricity Club volunteers in the community

On April 2, the Construction Electricity Club at Northland Community and Technical College – East Grand Forks campus, along with their instructors, Curtis Peters and Scott Halle, participated in an academic service learning project at the Dakota Boys Ranch in Grand Forks, N.D.

For this project, they repaired bicycles that had been donated to the Dakota Boys Ranch by various people and also the East Grand Forks Police Department for resale by the Dakota Boys Ranch. "The students really seemed to take pride in this project," said Diane Rapnez of NCTC "They even had a bucket of soap and water, and were washing the bikes after they repaired them."

The Construction Electricity Club also participated in loading a semi trailer with clothing that will be taken to a recycling center in Fargo, N.D., for recycling. In addition, they assembled furniture and moved the heavier furniture that Dakota Boys Ranch employees could not handle.

Local students who are members of the Construction Electricity Club include Spencer Peterson of Newfolden; Curtis Campbell of Fosston; and Colten Mindl of Warroad

Rural Reflections

"To do"

I like to stay busy because being busy makes me feel accomplished and passes time nicely. I like to create a "to do" list each week and try to follow it closely and stay busy. Being busy is like raising cattle; they are beautiful as long as they are inside a fence, but they are frightful if they defeat their boundaries and go off unchecked. I think I found out this week that being busy can also distract me from the things most important in life.

Lisa and I went for Sunday brunch at my nephew's home. Jamie and his wife, Kristy, recently had a little boy and named us as godparents. Casey was in great spirits and we all got to hold him, then enjoyed a breakfast consisting of more food than we usually eat in two meals. The good company and good food are something that I felt deeply and will remember for a long time. It made such an impression on me that I can visit the memory quite readily.

I worked a short shift at work on Monday. I was home by three that afternoon and really got some work done. Just before Lisa arrived home, I thought I heard a kitten meow. There is a bird that sounds like a kitten, and I dismissed it as such. The meow did not stop and grew louder as I approached our barn. I found a tiny kitten had fallen a couple of feet in the four-inch gap between the wall and manure board of the barn. We have fed a stray cat this winter and I suppose this was her kitten, and she'd been unable to retrieve it during a move from barn to hay shed. I got the kitten out and introduced it to Lisa as a "complication." Truth is, he wasn't complicated and simply wanted food and comfort, and spent much of the next 12 hours tucked under a blanket with Lisa, or under my chin on the couch. We are pretty "cat rich" around here already, and the Humane Society took the little guy in for us; they are such a good organization.

Part of being busy is to get to the gym three or four times a week; it's another thing on my "to do" list. I was about halfway through a set of pull-ups when I realized something; this really isn't work. Every time I contracted my muscles, it forced my mind to focus, and it drove the busyness right out of me. Before I had arrived to my workout, I had thought that I really didn't get much done this week. As important as exercise is for my body, its best work was going on in my mind. In a rush of thought, I quickly considered how when my own cloud of priorities cleared, the things that really meant something to me had nothing to do with work or feeling accomplished. Having brunch with a four-month-old child and having a hand in saving a four-week-old kitten are what floated to the top of my consciousness when the muddiness of my own mind was cleared by the clean water of physical exertion. I had accomplished much this week, and it had little to do with my list.

Work ethic is wonderful and much needed while performing a task. It shows good character and a sort of honesty that is hard to fake. The only time it goes bad is when the work becomes all your character and the only measure by which you judge yourself. When I compare my "to do" list to egg-bake and rolls shared with family, and effort to help a helpless kitten or time spent using my body to work on my mind, the "to do" list isn't as important. I think I should re-name this list as the "TO DO when the important things are done" list

Literacy, Run For It features 5K run/walk in TRF on May 31

Early Childhood Coalition inviting runners and walkers of all ages to participate in "Literacy, Run For It," a 5K run/walk and two-mile walk in Thief River Falls, on May 31.

The purpose of the event, said Kathleen Possai, one of the event organizers, is to raise awareness of the importance of early childhood literacy, promote childhood issues and raise funds for the organization.

The Early Childhood Coalition was initially funded by the Northwest Minnesota Foundation. Its purpose is to promote childhood issues.

"Fifty percent of Minnesota children entering kindergarten are not ready for school - they don't have all the necessary tools for a good foundation," said Possai.

By working with educators, and community organizations like daycare providers and parents, the Early Childhood Coalition and its partners hope to help prepare more children to be successful.

One specific way in which the organization does this is through its Early Childhood Family Advocate. Possai said the advocate works with many different organizations in the community to identify children, aged birth to five, who are in need of a boost to help them get better prepared for school. The advocate then works with the family to assist them in mapping out the child's path to success.

Possai said the 5K run/walk and 2-mile walk focuses on early childhood literacy. Literacy in this instance does not necessarily mean just reading. It means identifying words, word retrieval and much more. Possai said they are accepting registration applications and announcing the race now because April is the Month of the Young Child.

Individuals interested in participating in the event will find applications at the Challenger Elementary Preschool, and online at the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Web site. Possai said they also hope to get the application posted on the School District 564 Web site. Applications should also be available at the District Service Center.

Pre-registration is recommended. The cost for pre-registration is $15. Participants who pre-register are guaranteed a t-shirt. Race day registration will cost $20, and t-shirts will be distributed if there are anymore available. Children with parents are also welcome to participate. There is no charge for children, however, if they want a t-shirt, it will cost an additional $5. Children's t-shirts must be ordered with the parent's pre-registration form.

Registration and packet pickup on race day, May 31, will be from 8 to 8:30 a.m. The race will start at 9 a.m. at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls. Course maps will be available, but, in general, the race route takes participants from the Armory to Oakland Park and back.

Possai said because the organization is promoting literacy, the first 100 finishers will receive a book - age-appropriate books for preschool children.

For more information about the event or the Early Childhood Coalition, call Challenger Preschool. Possai added that the organization always welcomes new members, too.

Roseau shortstop Kevin Quamme chased down a late, wide throw from the catcher as Thief River Falls runner Keaton Joppru completed his slide for a second inning stolen base during Tuesday's high school baseball game at the Multi-Events Center. The Prowlers beat the Rams 4-0.

TRF softball wins add up past 3 years

High school softball has become a success story in Thief River Falls. The Prowlers have put together 17, 18 and 20-win seasons over the past three years and the program hasn't had a record dip below .500 since 2000.

Trying to extend that streak will be the goal in 2008 for second-year head coach Corey Poole.

Five seniors graduated off last year's 20-4 team that set a school record for wins in a season. Returning letter winners include seniors Amanda Lara, Jenna Hoglo and Jodie Roy; juniors Cassie Gunderson and Megan Malwitz; along with sophomore Haley Peterson.

Rounding out Poole's season-opening varsity roster are juniors Cheryl Nelson and Megan Abrahamson, plus sophomore Lacey Stennes.

Others who will begin the year at the junior varsity and C squad levels include juniors Christian Machado, Jessica Hjellie, Jamie Lee, Cheyenne Horien, Brittany Schwab, Haleigh Stegeman, Kendra Pederson, Cyndee Peterson; sophomores Jessie Clark, CeJaye Peterson, Kimmie Lara, McKenzie Swick, Angel Kong, Krystal Roy, Katie Rook, Zoe Pietras-Swanton, Kelsey Spilde, Lena Davis; and freshmen Kelly Fynboh, Kayla Kuznia, Brooke Holtman, Taylor Genereux, Jordan Arveson and Rachel Lindquist.

Thief River Falls will have a new post-season softball home this spring. The Minnesota State High School League moved the Prowlers from Section 8AAA to Section 8AA, where they are grouped with Detroit Lakes, Dilworth-Glyndon-Felton, East Grand Forks, Fergus Falls, Frazee, Park Rapids Area, Pelican Rapids, Perham, Roseau, Staples-Motley, Warroad, Wadena-Deer Creek, Battle Lake/Henning/Underwood, Crookston/Fisher and Breckenridge/Campbell-Tintah.

The Prowlers were weathered out of their scheduled April 4 opener vs. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. Additional early-season changes included moving road games Friday at Moorhead and today (Saturday) vs. Northern Freeze to the Thief River Falls Multi-Events Center due to field conditions.

Prowlers shut out Rams 4-0...

Gagner leads TRF to Game 1 victory

Nick Gagner turned in a stellar performance both on the mound and at the plate Tuesday to lead Thief River Falls past Roseau 4-0 in the 2008 high school baseball opener for both teams.

In a early-season rarity, Gagner turned in a complete-game pitching performance, limiting Roseau to just three base hits and five base runners. The senior right-hander did not issue a walk, but did hit two batters.

"He (Nick) pitched an awesome game," said Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "He threw strikes."

Coaches often use two or three pitchers in cold weather openers, partly due to a lack of early-season consistency and the perception that arms aren't ready for that much work at this point of the schedule. Gagner proved both arguments invalid.

"Nick throws nice and easy – perfect for early in the season," explained Zutz. "People get hung up on the pitch count. They think it's hard on the arm. But usually it's the legs, not the arm; that goes first. And since we do a lot of running, that wasn't really a concern."

The only time Roseau put runners in scoring position was the fourth when, with two out, Kyle Hutson was hit by a pitch, Kevin Quamme singled and both runners moved up on a passed ball. But Gagner ended the threat with a strike-out, then faced just ten batters over the final three innings.

"We're a little short on pitching right now with a couple of kids out," explained Zutz. "Nick is a senior. He stepped up and got the job done. He wanted the ball. He wanted to pitch a complete game."

Gagner's pitching was complemented by his 4-for-4 performance at the plate that included a double and three singles.

"That wasn't a surprise," said Zutz. "Nick's been our most consistent hitter in the batting cage this spring."

A two-out error opened the door for a three-run first inning that put the Prowlers in control from the start.

Gagner started the offense with a two-out single up the middle. He stole second and scored when a ground ball off the bat of Zach Sorenson went under the glove of an infielder for an error. Jordan Espeseth then drew a walk; Dan Nelson came through with an RBI single; and Espeseth scored on a passed ball.

Thief River Falls completed the scoring in the third inning with a lead-off double by Gagner and a one-out RBI single up the middle by Espeseth.

Originally scheduled to be played in Roseau, the opener for both teams was moved to Thief River Falls due to field conditions.

The Prowlers' next two starts are scheduled to be on North Dakota turf – today (Saturday) at Grand Forks Red River and Monday at West Fargo. They will be back at the Multi-Events Center Tuesday vs. Crookston and will meet Bemidji Friday in a 9 a.m. game at the Metrodome in Minneapolis.

Prowlers split in tennis match-up vs. Spuds, Wave

Thief River Falls bounced back from a 5-2 first-match loss to Moorhead with a 6-1 win over East Grand Forks in a boys high school tennis double-dual Tuesday at the Grand Forks Tennis Center.

It was the 2008 season debut for the Prowlers.

Wins by Connor Hutton and Beezer Skime at No. 3 and 4 singles, respectively, produced the Prowlers' points vs. the Spuds, who lost just one player to graduation off a 2007 team that was the Section 8AA runner-up.

"I thought we battled with them," said Thief River Falls coach Corey Thorson after watching his team lose five of six tie-breaks against the Spuds.

The Prowlers handled the Green Wave with singles wins by Jacob Engelstad, Chase Haviland and Skime, along with a doubles sweep by Brian Kays-Hutton; JD Robson-Parker Nessen and Cody Reese-Micah Rodahl.

Moorhead shut out East Grand Forks 7-0 in the other portion of the meet.

Itasca runner Dan O'Neill was unable to reach the plate before being tagged out by Northland catcher Jarod Larson during Wednesday's Minnesota Community College Conference baseball action at the Multi-Events Center. Trying to tag up and score from third base on a fly ball, O'Neill was thrown out by Pioneers' center fielder Aaron Kjemus in the fifth inning of the doubleheader opener won by Northland 7-6. Umpire Chris Mills made the call on the play.

Northern Division baseball twinbill...

Pioneers, Vikings split MCCC debut

A 7-6 Game 1 win got Northland's Minnesota Community College Conference-counting baseball season off on the right foot Wednesday, but the Pioneers couldn't finish the job, losing a 10-6 second game decision to Itasca in Thief River Falls.

It was the Northern Division opener for both teams and the 2008 'home' debut for the Pioneers, although the playing site was switched from the NCTC diamond to the nearby Multi-Events Center due to field conditions.

Itasca is the defending MCCC state champion and the top-ranked team in last week's first state poll of the season, despite a 7-12 start. Northland went 12-9-1 in nonconference play.

A second inning wild pitch and a third inning sacrifice fly provided Itasca with a 2-0 first-game lead.

Northland failed to put a runner on base over the first three innings, but the Pioneers tied it in the fourth on a two-run home run over the left field fence by John Grecier.

A two-out, three-run home run to right field by Beau Musgjerd put Itasca back on top 5-2 in the top of the fifth, only to have the Pioneers tie it again in the bottom of the inning on a run-scoring error and back-to-back RBI singles by Aaron Kjemus and Kane Aubol.

The see-saw affair continued into the sixth when a lead-off double by Josh Vidor and a run-producing fielder's choice ground ball out off the bat of Dan O'Neill put the Vikings in front 6-5, only to have the Pioneers come right back with two runs in their next at-bat for the win.

There were two out and the bottom of the order coming up when the Northland sixth-inning offense kicked in as Nick Picard walked, Jarod Larson bounced a single through the left side of the infield and Tyler Kjemus, the No. 9 hitter, drilled a two-run triple into the right-center field gap.

A 2-for-4 effort by Aaron Kjemus was the only multiple-hit Game 1 performance for the Pioneers, who were out-hit 8-6.

Northland starting pitcher Nick Stenberg worked the first five innings of the opener. Pitching an inning each, Tyler Earls got the win and Kyle Nowacki picked up a save. Combined, the Pioneers' pitchers struck out nine, walked two and gave up five earned runs.

Musgjerd, Vidor and Jed Ryan had two-hit games for the Vikings, who used two pitchers – John Fuchs, who threw the first 4 2/3 innings, and Mykel Erickson, who was tagged with the loss. They combined for seven strike-outs, six walks and six earned runs.

The Pioneers were schedule to play a four-game series at Vermilion today (Saturday) and Sunday before returning to Thief River Falls for a six-game home stand that begins with a Wednesday nonconference match-up vs. Minot State University-Bottineau. Northern Division rival Hibbing will be in town Saturday and Sunday, April 19 and 20. All three playing dates at 1 p.m. doubleheaders.

Stuckey signs national basketball letter of intent

Thief River Falls senior Jacob Stuckey has signed a national letter of intent to play basketball at the College of the Southwest in Hobbs, N.M.

He will be part of a first-year program at the private liberal arts Christ-centered school.

In a Southwest press release, Mustangs coach Quinn Wooldridge said Stuckey "has a good feel for the game and is a good ball-handler."

Unable to get around Itasca catcher Josh Vidor, Northland runner Aaron Kjemus was tagged out while trying to score from first base on a fifth inning double by Kane Aubol during the first half of a Wednesday Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader in Thief River Falls. The call was made by plate umpire Chris Mills. The Pioneers won the opener 7-6; the Vikings took the nightcap 10-6.

Northern Freeze beats weather, Warroad, 9-6

—Northern Freeze beat the weather and Warroad Thursday to pick up a 9-6 high school softball win in Newfolden.

Mariah Richard was 2-for-3 with 3 RBI and Kinzie Magner went 2-for-4 while driving in two runs for the winners.

"This was a very cold, very windy game with the weather obviously affecting how both teams played," reported Northern Freeze coach Jake Foslien.

A base hit by Richard and a fielder's choice ball off the bat of Alycia Dahl drove in a pair of first inning Freeze runs.

After falling behind 3-2, Northern Freeze scored twice in the third inning on a run-scoring single by Richard and an error.

Warroad went back in front 6-4, only to have the Freeze tie it in the fifth on a two-run error and win it in the sixth on a sacrifice fly by Richard and a two-run single by Magner.

Winning pitcher was Ashley Hestekind. The loss went to Vanessa Storey.

"Storey is a great pitcher," pointed out Foslien. "Even though we struck out seven times, I was happy with how we put the ball in play with our small-ball game and our hitting with runners on base."

The win evened the Northern Freeze record at 1-1.

"We had some mental lapses that cost us at crucial times, but all-in-all, I was happy with how we battled the weather and how we kept battling to win the game," said Foslien.

Mercy rule to be used in football, basketball

Minnesota State High School League Board of Directors recently voted to implement mercy rules for football and basketball beginning with the 2008-09 seasons.

It was decided that in basketball, the clock will run nonstop if a team leads by 35 points in the final nine minutes or a varsity game unless a time-out is called, or the margin drops to 30.

In football, the clock will run nonstop if a team leads by 35 points in the fourth quarter, but will operate normally if the margin shrinks to 30.

Brittni Johnson presented Pitcher of the Week honor

Brittni Johnson, a Northland freshman from Thief River Falls, was named Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division softball Pitcher of the Week for games through April 6.

Johnson earned the honor following a 15-0 one-hit Saturday performance against Hibbing.

It was the first weekly player award honor for the 2008 MCCC season.

NCTC softball postponed

Field conditions at Brainerd Tuesday forced officials to call off a scheduled Northland vs. Central Lakes Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division softball doubleheader.

It was the second straight postponement for the Pioneers, whose Sunday twinbill at Fond du Lac was also weathered out.

Minnesota Legislative Week in Review

Submitted by
Sen. LeRoy Stumpf

Recovery package on its way to the governor

In an effort to spur the state's economy, the Senate and House have passed a job-creation package worth $925 million and forwarded it to the governor. The package will create up to 10,000 jobs across the state and will provide vital investment dollars for public projects in every part of the state and thousands of new jobs. When this bill was in committee, Minnesota economic experts told us that this package is one of the best steps we can take toward getting people back to work and helping the state's economy recover. The fact that an overwhelming bipartisan majority of the Senate voted to send this bill to the governor sends a strong message that we're serious about job creation and we want to get people back to work on these projects right away.

The capital investment package, which passed the Senate on a 57-10 bipartisan vote, was assembled after a group of senators spent several weeks in the fall traveling thousands of miles throughout the state viewing projects in every corner of Minnesota. Over the course of more than 300 meetings, the Senate Capital Investment Committee members heard from people firsthand and saw the infrastructure needs up close.

Among the major provisions included in the bill are $131 million for the University of Minnesota system and $208 million for the state college and university system. Those dollars will fund much-needed repairs and new construction on college campuses throughout Minnesota and create countless construction jobs. The bill also partially funds new arena/event centers in Duluth, Crookston and Bemidji, expansion of the Twin Cities light-rail transit system to the Central Corridor between Minneapolis and St. Paul and millions to ensure clean drinking water systems in communities throughout the state. A major provision in the bill will help the U of M build several new biomedical research facilities, which will create jobs and help our state stay on the cutting edge of the booming biotechnology industry.

Senate passes property tax relief, closes tax loopholes

The Senate passed an Omnibus Tax Bill on April 3 that delivers property tax relief to all Minnesotans, helps erase the budget deficit, and closes tax loopholes for corporations without raising income taxes.

The bill raises $150 million in 2008-09 to help close the nearly $1 billion budget deficit facing the state. The revenue raised in future years is largely dedicated to property tax relief. In total, $115 million is aimed at increasing Local Government Aid to cities, counties and townships. These units of government have been suffering since drastic aid cuts in 2003, which have forced them to ask local property tax payers to chip in to help provide vital local services. Increasing state aid payments will help reduce property tax increases in the future and ease the burden on all Minnesota property taxpayers. Senior citizens also will see targeted relief in the Senate's tax bill. Seniors who have lived in their homes for at least 25 years and make less than $40,000 a year, will be eligible to have their property taxes capped at 2008 rates. This is an important tool to help seniors on fixed incomes absorb tax increases.

Most of the money to pay for these initiatives is raised by closing corporate tax loopholes that allow big corporations to avoid paying some Minnesota taxes – something Senate Democrats have been pursuing for four legislative sessions. Although the governor included the same proposal in his budget this year, Senate Republicans offered an amendment to delete the language that will hold big companies accountable for their fair share of taxes. That amendment failed.

The Senate bill adopts many of the governor's tax proposals, but it also differs in a few key areas. The governor recommended spending money to reduce the state's sales tax rate by a miniscule one-eighth percent, something most Minnesotans would never notice at the cash register. The Senate's plan focuses on providing real, noticeable property tax relief to ease the burden on financially-strapped Minnesotans and help stimulate the economy. Once the House passes a tax bill, a conference committee will begin meeting to develop a compromise proposal that can be sent to the governor.

Senate transportation budget avoids transit cuts

In its budget, the Senate did not adopt the governor's recommended cuts to transit in the metropolitan area and Greater Minnesota. To avoid service reductions, fare increases, and jeopardizing federal transit dollars, the Senate made no cuts to the Metropolitan Council or Greater Minnesota transit budgets.

Alternatively, the Senate chose to pursue other cost-saving and revenue-raising opportunities:

- A $28,000 reduction to the Department of Public Safety in the Republican National Convention security coordinator appropriation. This was also recommended by the governor.
- A $3 million transfer in both FY 2008 and 2009 from the Rail Improvement Account to the General Fund. Currently, rail uses only $500,000 per year, so this transfer will not adversely affect the delivery of services.
- Motor vehicle title transfer fees are increased from $10 to $20, and the $10 increase is credited to the General Fund.

All total, the Senate's transportation budget resulted in a $16.23 million General Fund savings for the 2008-09 biennium, and a $20.4 million savings for FY 2010-11.

Health and Human Services budget cuts

Despite comprising only 22 percent of General Fund spending, the Health and Human Services (HHS) budget proposal contributes more than 50 percent toward the current fiscal deficit. Close to $200 million in general funds will be cut in the current biennium from HHS programs. The Senate proposal, however, is a more fiscally-responsible budget proposal than the cuts recommended by the governor. While the governor's proposal relies on shifts and cuts to the most vulnerable in our population, the Senate version aims to increase the number of insured adults and children in Minnesota, decrease expensive administrative health care spending, and support stronger workforce participation by those receiving public assistance.

The Senate bill does not accept the governor's cuts to long-term care or nursing home COLAs. This proposal does not transfer Health Care Access funds to the General Fund to fix the budget deficit, but maintains the integrity of the fund, and spending is for health care-related programs only.

Education bill to provide $28 million to schools

The E-12 Education Supplemental Finance Bill would provide $28.8 million in permanent funding directly to Minnesota schools through a major policy change. The bill repeals the Permanent School Trust Fund subtraction, a long-standing provision that has moved trust fund dollars reserved to the state's General Fund. If the change were enacted, all Minnesota school districts would receive an additional $35 per student in permanent funding dollars. The school trust land dollars currently are used to offset education costs, but do not flow directly to school districts.

Revenue from school trust lands more than doubled between 2002 and 2007, from $7.2 million to $16.6 million. Trust fund dollars are expected to grow through future investments, with the fund expected to generate over $60 million for schools by 2011. Because the subtraction repeal would take money from the General Fund, about $21.3 million in unused QComp funds would be used to plug that hole.

Permanent School Trust Fund land acres were set aside over 150 years ago as part of the state's Enabling Act of 1857. Under that Act, the land was set aside for school use and benefit. The state currently owns about 2.5 million acres of school trust lands and an additional one million acres in mineral rights. Revenues generated come through mineral leases, timber sales, land sales, and some leasing activities. Most of the school trust lands and trust mineral lands are located in northern Minnesota.

Other Education Finance Bill highlights include an increase in kindergarten milk appropriations, revisions to the state's report card, increased funding for early childhood screening, math and science teaching academics, Best Practices and Virtual Education initiatives.

Judiciary budget

The Senate bill proposes a General Fund cut of $5.8 million to the Judiciary Branch – which is slightly over 2 percent across the board (compared to the Governor's proposal of a 4 percent reduction). All of the judiciary cuts in the Senate bill are operating budget reductions to the Supreme Court, civil legal services, the Court of Appeals, the district courts, and the Board of Public Defense, leaving it up to the agencies to decide how the cuts are distributed.

For additional savings, the Senate bill increases the court surcharge for criminal and traffic offenders from $72 to $75, which would save $1.8 million and bring the total savings of the Judiciary portion of the Senate bill to $7.6 million.

Much of the Judiciary Branch is already operating under a deficit and has instituted hiring freezes and closed courthouse counter hours in many areas of the state. The Senate bill makes minimal cuts to the judiciary, recognizing the fact that the Judiciary Branch is a core government service that is busiest in times when the economy is bad.

Environment budget

The Environment and Natural Resources portion of the budget receives limited investment, as well as a net General Fund reduction of nearly $5 million for FY 2008-09. Areas that receive new investment include: flood-response grants for parts of Southeast Minnesota devastated by floods last year; ATV grants-in-aid and local sheriff enforcement of ATV trails; a study to address parcelization of Minnesota's northern forests; and a "Star Lakes" program to assist lakeshore associations to improve water quality. Although many of the governor's cuts are adopted or partially adopted, the Senate did not accept his cuts to: state and regional parks and trails, the Clean Water Legacy, the "Lets Go Fishing" program, the Advanced Hunter Education Program, the Mississippi Headwaters Program, and funding for prairie wetlands.

Agriculture

The Department of Agriculture will receive an administrative services reduction of $652,000 in 2009 in order to help balance the state budget.

Funding for livestock investments will increase by $700,000 for 2009. Overall, the Department of Agriculture will see a $48,000 increase in 2009. The funding will be cut by $1.304 million for 2010-11. Included in the legislation is a plan to fight the spread of bovine tuberculosis in northern Minnesota. The Board of Animal Health is given the authority to split the state into two degrees of bovine TB accreditation. A management zone will be created in the affected area.

The BAH will also receive $472,000 in 2008 and $2.252 million in 2009 for control, eradication, fencing, and testing efforts. An additional $3.5 million is appropriated to the BAH for the payment to cattle owners who remove cattle herds that are located within the bovine tuberculosis management zone. The farmers that choose to take part will receive $500 per animal.

Senate passes dangerous dog owner legislation

The Senate passed legislation aimed to reduce dangerous dog attacks by focusing on owners, not dog breeds. The legislation makes several modifications to provisions regulating dangerous dogs, including notifying the state when a dangerous dog is moving from its original location, and restrictions on dog ownership for people that have been found guilty of violating dangerous-dog requirements multiple times. This legislation is an attempt to reduce the number of dog attacks without punishing responsible owners by banning specific dog breeds. Instead, the attention is on irresponsible dog owners that do not take the responsibility for their dog's dangerous actions.

Register for the Marshall County Relay for Life

The American Cancer Society's 2008 Marshall County Relay For Life is just around the corner. This "celebration of life" brings the Marshall County community together in a unified effort to fight cancer.

It is not too late to form a team or to become involved in this year's Relay at the Marshall County Fairgrounds Friday, June 6 to Saturday, June 7. For information on how to form a team or to register a team contact Melanie Nelson at (218) 437-6085 or Bev Karr at (218) 745-4198 by April 25.

Relay For Life, the American Cancer Society's signature event, is a life-changing experience that helps celebrate the lives of those who have battled cancer, remember loved ones lost and to fight back against a disease that takes too much. This unforgettable event raises awareness and funds to save lives, help those touched by cancer, and empower people to fight back against this disease. With the money raised at Relay, ACS is working toward an important goal – a future without cancer.

At this family-oriented event, participants enjoy the camaraderie of a team and also raise funds to support the activities of ACS. Participants camp out at the Relay site, and when they are not taking their turn walking, they take part in fun activities and enjoy local entertainment.

This year's goal at the Marshall County Relay for Life is $62,500. The funds raised enable ACS to continue the fight against cancer through research, education, advocacy and patient services. For more information contact Melanie Nelson or Bev Karr at the respective aforementioned phone numbers, or Relay Chairperson Carol Anderson at (218) 745-5153.

Tips on rotational grazing

by Mark Hayek
Natural Resource Conservation Service Grazing Specialist

Whether you are a novice or a seasoned practitioner of rotational grazing, it doesn't hurt to brush up on some basic principles regarding forage production. Perennial forages have certain basic requirements in order to survive on a year-to-year basis: rest/recovery periods, adequate rainfall, optimum growing temperatures, adequate nutrients and fertility, optimum pH and strong root systems. Regardless of the kind and class of animals that are grazing, these needs remain constant. What requirement do you suppose the grazing manager has the most control over?

The requirement that the producer has the most control over is the rest/recovery period of the forages, and that will be the focus for the remainder of this article. The forages need enough rest to recover from the grazing event to replace precious leaf area, so the plant can resume photosynthesis with as little interruption as possible, replenish carbohydrates in the root system the plant spent in replacing new leaf area, allow tillering in grasses to occur if growing points were grazed off, and to set new buds in grasses to insure new stem growth (for perennial grasses). If the plant is not allowed to have the required leaf area for survival, then how can the plant carry out photosynthesis and create its own food? There are many "tricks to the trade" to better manage rest/recovery and grazing periods. Some of these tricks include:

Fencing

Managers who are successful at rotational grazing install fencing to direct grazing pressure away from sensitive areas, to create a paddock system to better manage livestock, and to better match acreage size to the grazing periods. Fencing should help the grazing manager control livestock, so the forages have time to recover before being regrazed. Fences should not be installed without giving critical thought as to what the future needs of the grazing system might be. Avoid installing fences that include more than two types of vegetation zones (wetland plants vs. upland plants) within one paddock as you are trying to manage for an even grazing harvest within your paddocks. By including two different vegetation zones in one paddock, you may not see an even grazing harvest within that area, and if this cannot be avoided, try to include a majority of one vegetation type and minimize the second.

Livestock watering system

NRCS promotes that the livestock grazer pump water from a clean water source. The typical livestock watering system is hooked to a farmstead well. By pumping water from a clean water source, the grazing manager can strategically place water (tanks) throughout the grazing system to better manipulate herd movements, and to place the animals where they are needed. By having water placed directly in the paddock where livestock are grazing allows the grazing manager to have more control over livestock movements and grazing harvest. Avoid using a central watering source for the entire grazing system as this can magnify trailing, does not give the grazing manager any control of the herd, and it encourages loafing around the watering site. One tank for two paddocks is better than one tank for four paddocks. As in fencing, planning must be thought out, and if you need assistance, check with your local NRCS office.

Manage sensitive areas

Managing sensitive areas doesn't mean just being environmentally conscious, but more importantly it can have profound effects on forage production and animal health. Sensitive areas like woodlands and wetlands attract livestock and encourage loafing. Oftentimes, these areas do not receive the rest needed to maintain healthy forage production, and in fact create unhealthy situations in which disease can spread. Fencing, along with utilizing a livestock watering system, can help to better manage sensitive areas. Managing sensitive areas gives the grazing manager tools to better manipulate livestock movements, so sensitive areas can begin to recover, produce more forage and increase herd performance. Typical sensitive areas in northwest Minnesota are: organic soils, floodplains, wetlands, woodlands and gravel soils.

Actively manage your livestock forage balance

Actively managing livestock forage balance means knowing when to pull the animals from the grazing system and to begin feeding in a sacrifice area when forage growth is stalling. A sacrifice area is an area designated for feeding livestock. This can be located anywhere in the grazing system. Avoid placing the sacrifice area in a sensitive area, and choose an area where pasture improvements are needed. If you have an area in your grazing system that is not easily accessible with equipment, you may wish to feed livestock there to enhance fertility and to prepare an area for seeding. Actively managing your livestock forage balance means being disciplined in managing forage stubble heights and moving livestock to avoid over harvesting forages. At no point during the year should the herd have free reign over the grazing system, nor should you rotate your bail feeding with the livestock rotation. It's best to select a sacrificial area and commit to feeding rather than to rotate the animals through the grazing system with the feed, so they can "pick" at the forages. By allowing the animals to "pick" at the forages, they are grazing precious leaf area needed in times of stress. When rains arrive after dry periods, paddocks with remaining stubble heights recover much quicker than those that have been over-used.

Stubble heights

A grazing manager can have all of the tools necessary for a rotational grazing system, but if the manager is unwilling to manage for stubble heights, all is for naught. Scientific studies have shown over and over again that in order to survive in a grazing system, all perennial grass must be managed with a minimum stubble height. If the grazing system is chronically managed below these critical stubble heights, then lower producing less palatable species will invade the pasture. It is a safe assumption for grazers to manage a four- to six-inch stubble height on cool season grasses and six- to eight-inch stubble heights on warm season native grasses without much detriment to grass health and vigor.

For those of you new to rotational grazing, the grazing period refers to how long the livestock are left within a given paddock to graze. On cool season-introduced grasses, NRCS recommends less than six days, and on native warm season grasses, you can go out to 14 days depending on the grazing system. Why less than six days on cool season forages? Because, as the livestock graze beyond six days on cool season forages, the grasses begin to regrow and attract the grazing animal to regraze without the proper recovery period. Grazing periods can be longer on native warm season grasses because the regrowth is not as quick as the cool season grasses. Forage growth fluctuates during the growing season, and so too must the rest/recovery and grazing periods. The astute manager will anticipate how the livestock will be rotated and has a feel for how to adjust the grazing system based on how the forages are responding.

The single most overused false assumption of grass production is to graze a pasture to the dirt in the fall after dormancy. This does great harm to your production the next growing season. Some grasses grow fall tillers that lay dormant over winter, and these tillers will be green, lush and full of sugars to lower the freezing point of the cells. Fall stubble heights ensure buds will be protected for next spring, ensures tillers are not grazed, and that a buffer exists against harsh winter conditions. (Four to six inches of grass can provide a buffer effect many times greater than an area with less than two inches of stubble height.)

By creating a grazing system that includes strategically placed fencing, utilizing a livestock watering system, managing sensitive areas, an actively managed livestock forage balance, and stubble height management, you will have a grazing system that is not only sustainable for long term livestock production, but will also yield a more efficient and effective way of raising your critters as well.

Some MN Energy customers face service disconnections

Natural gas customers of Minnesota Energy Resources who have fallen behind on their natural gas bills and not made apparent attempts to catch up will face disconnections of service, according to company representatives.

"Those customers that have worked out an agreeable payment arrangement and have kept those arrangements shouldn't worry," said MER President Chuck Cloninger. "However, customers who have neglected to make significant payments during the winter and who expect the company to give them additional time to bring their account current could face disconnection, especially those customers who ignore their winter bill year after year. It's not fair to our good-paying customers to allow these others to get service without paying in a timely manner."

Cloninger said that those customers with past-due balances should immediately take steps to pay the bill in full or set up payment arrangements. Customers with outstanding balances need to make payments or payment arrangements. They can do so by calling customer service at 1-800-889-9508 to use the interactive voice response system or to speak to a customer service representative, or by visiting www.minnesotaenergyresources.com.

Low-income customers should also contact local agencies for assistance that might postpone disconnection before those funds are depleted. The names of the agencies and their telephone numbers can be found on MER's Web site or by calling the customer service line.

"Customers will find we offer plenty of options for payment, but the bigger the balance, the bigger those payments need to be," said Cloninger. "If there are extenuating circumstances that can be documented, we need to know about them. Otherwise, we'll expect full payment or service will be shut off."

Bonding projects for NW Minnesota are approved

by Rep. Dave Olin

The Governor signed the Capital Investment Bill the State Legislature passed last week. This is a responsible bill that will create thousands of jobs for Minnesotans during these challenging economic times.

Looking close to home, the good news is that the flood control projects in Roseau will proceed with the U.S. Corps of Engineers' plan for the proposed diversion. Northland Community and Technical College will receive funds for their asset protection projects. Reinvest in Minnesota that can be used by watersheds in the region also was allocated.

Important statewide work projects are now ready to go to the benefit of our state colleges and universities, parks, roadways and transit corridors, regional centers and state waterways. This will bring welcome relief to many folks who have been seeking work after experiencing a year of job losses in Minnesota that hit hardest those previously employed in construction, manufacturing, and trade and transportation. Simply put, this is a jobs bill for tomorrow that will help Minnesota make the strategic long-term investments needed to secure our future.

This bonding year has been a good one for our district. We received the funding needed for some important projects and northwestern Minnesota is now on the state's radar for future investments. As always, I will keep you posted on any developments.

Tourtillot receives farmer rancher grant funding

Solol farmer Jerry Tourtillot recently received a North Central Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education grant. He received the grant for his project, "Utilizing Warm-Season Grasses in Forage Production in a Changing Climate."

In 1992, the NCR-SARE program began a competitive grants program exclusively to fund producers striving for agricultural sustainability. Fifty projects were selected this year for funding in the region. Each farmer and rancher will use the funding to implement a sustainable farm project.

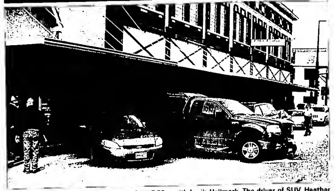
DRIVE A LITTLE SAVE A LOT!



A three-vehicle accident was reported at 5:59 p.m. Thursday near the intersection of Third Street and LaBree Avenue in Thief River Falls. A sport utility vehicle crossed the centerline, collided with this pickup truck. The impact of the crash forced the pickup truck to cross the street and collide with a parked car. The SUV later collided with Lori's Hallmark. The driver of SUV, Heather Vernado, 36, Thief River Falls, was taken by ambulance to MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Medical Center. Vernado was treated and released, according to an ER staff member Friday morning.

Level 3 sex offender to move to TRF

A Level 3 sex offender will move to Thief River Falls on April 28.

Ricky Olsoo

Ricky Edward Olsan, 26, is planning to move to the 700 block of Conley Ave. S., according to the Thief River Falls Police Department. The Minnesota Department of Corrections doesn't release the specific address of homes of Level 3 sex offenders in cities the size of Thief River Falls.

Olson is considered to be a Level 3 sex offender. Level 3 sex offenders are classified as those most likely to reoffend.

Deputy Police Chief Craig Mattson said a community notification meeting won't be held. He said the public will be notified through the media. In 2006, a community notification meeting was held about Olson, who moved to rural Middle River at that time. Olson has since been reincarcerated. It's anticipated that he will be released from the Minnesota Correctional Facility in Rush City on April 28.

Olson is being released after serving time for a felony charge of third degree criminal sexual conduct in Marshall County in 2000, according to the DOC. He also served time for a felony charge of third degree criminal sexual conduct in Pennington County in 1999, according to Pennington County court documents. He was sentenced to prison for that offense after he violated the conditions of his probation. Both charges stemmed from incidents involving females under the age of 16. The DOC indicated that Olson knew both of his victims.

cattle going from Minnesota to another state, as called for in USDA regulations."

In response to these new statewide testing requirements, the state is applying to the USDA for split-state status. This will allow the majority of the state to upgrade its status, while a small region in northwest Minnesota containing the TB infection will remain Modified Accredited. Split-state status would help target resources where they are most needed, while also saving producers outside the affected area from the additional federal testing requirements that accompany MA status.

"We are continuing to work with USDA personnel on the official risk assessment, which is a necessary step toward receiving split-state status," said BAH Executive Director Dr. Bill Hartmann. "We are also expanding control measures to include all herds in the Management Area. When Minnesota achieves split-state status, the Management Area will become part of the larger Modified Accredited region."

For more information on TB, log on to the State's bovine TB website at www.mntbfree.com.

Designed by Julie Snow Architects of Minneapolis, the green building boasts geothermal heating, rainwater collection for building irrigation and is topped with a green roof. Local renewable building products, including Tamarack Siding, are being used, and native plants and grasses will complete the landscaping.

U.S. Customs and Border Protection states the patrol station was established soon after 1924 and maintained a complement of three agents until World War II. During the war, the station was closed, and the border was manned by multiple stations in surrounding towns. These stations were deactivated in 1955, and the Warroad Station was once again opened. The current facility used by U.S. Customs was built in 1962.

The Warroad area of operations contains the Northwest Angle, an area of land located above the 49th parallel of the Canada/United States border and covers the northwestern portion of the state of Minnesota, approximately 9,234 square miles.

the keynote speaker at the event. Few individuals have had a greater impact on America's education, economic and political scene than Minnesota native Thomas Friedman. He is the winner of three Pulitzer prizes for his work as a New York Times foreign affairs columnist and named one of America's Best Leaders by U.S. News & World Report. His book, The World Is Flat, is an essential update on globalization, its opportunities for individual empowerment, its achievement at lifting millions out of poverty and its drawbacks – environmental, social and political.

Bob Kaitz, BestPrep's president and CEO, explains the importance of Thomas Friedman's visit to Minnesota, and his relationship to BestPrep's programs, "With 40 percent of high school graduates feeling inadequately prepared for college or the workforce, and more young people filing for bankruptcy than graduating from college each year, the career and financial literacy skills BestPrep provides for youth are more critical than ever in creating a knowledgeable and successful future workforce for Minnesota. Our youth directly engage with businesses, education and government through BestPrep's programs, preparing them for the exact future that Mr. Friedman describes in his book – a flat, global world, where skills must be transferable, portable and adaptable."

The Carpenter Achievement Award is presented in memory of Joan Carpenter, an elementary school teacher in the Robbinsdale School District for more than 25 years. Joan piloted and taught BestPrep's Business Adventure program as well as participated in Minnesota Business Venture. Her dedication and commitment to children was recognized by all the lives she touched.

This sport utility vehicle, driven by Heather Vamado, 36, Thief River Falls, crossed the centerline and crashed into a pickup truck on Third Street on Thursday evening, Police Chief Kim Murphy said. The impact of the crash forced the parked pickup truck, owned by Ed Krystosek of Thief River Falls, to cross the street and collide with a parked car owned by Jason Grandstrand of Eagen. Vamado's SUV also hit Lori's Hallmark. Vamado, who told police she doesn't remember what happened after she crossed LaBree Avenue, was taken by ambulance to MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Medical Center. Vamado was treated and released, according to an ER staff member Friday morning. Damage is estimated to be more than $18,000.

Marshall, Beltrami and Lake of the Woods counties) be considered within the Modified Advanced region, while the rest of the state be rated TB-Free. If they don't get TB-Free status for the lower part of the state, then they will request a status of Modified Accredited Advanced.

Glaser said once the risk assessment is completed, they'll have a better idea of where the exact boundary of the zone will be placed.

A proposal to require identification tags for cattle in the northern zone is being discussed. Glaser said they are moving toward an electronic identification, but will probably begin with visual identification tags.

There has also been some discussion regarding restrictions and testing requirements on exhibition cattle (cattle exhibited at county and state fairs). No formal determination has been made.

The question of what overall economic impact the downgrade in status will have on Minnesota keeps coming up, said Joe Martin, assistant commissioner of agriculture and state bovine TB coordinator. Martin noted that about 200,000 feeder or breeding stock cattle are moved out of state every year. Individual animal tests cost $5 to $10 per animal, and that doesn't include the vet charge.

Will cattle in Minnesota be discounted? Martin said it's too early to say. "These questions keep coming up, but we still don't have a good answer."

Several agencies are responding to the situation in Minnesota. Recently, the USDA allocated $2.7 million in emergency funding to fight bovine Tuberculosis in Minnesota. Martin added that another $2.2 million is being allocated in the Governor's supplemental budget. This money will help with a volunteer buyout and a cost-share fencing program, as well as costs associated with fighting the disease.

"Everyone in the state recognizes the significance of the disease and that it does require aggressive action," said Martin.

Ed Boggess, deputy director of fish and wildlife with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, said the DNR is continuing its efforts to reduce the deer population in the core zone.

Experts believe deer-cattle contact through feeding areas contributes to the spread of the disease.

Boggess said that as of Tuesday, April 8, 299 deer had been taken through aerial methods, 365 by sharpshooters, and 75 by landowners operating under the rules of an emergency rule issued recently. As of Tuesday, 18 deer from the core area have tested positive for bovine TB, and there are four suspects, three of which "likely" have bovine TB. Boggess said the DNR is planning to continue to remove deer from the core area.

Bovine TB is a contagious and infectious disease caused by Mycobacterium bovis. It affects cattle, bison, deer, elk, goats and other warm-blooded species and can be fatal. The disease can be transmitted to humans through direct contact with infected animals or consumption of raw milk. It is not transmitted through consumption of pasteurized milk. The state of Minnesota does not permit consumption of raw milk.

Individuals interested in keeping up-to-date on the efforts to eradicate bovine TB should log on to the new bovine TB Web site at www.mntbfree.com. Individuals with questions should contact the TB hotline at 877-MN TB Free (688-2373).

Efta represents American Legion Auxiliary in Washington, D.C.

Argyle - "Mary Efta, a member of the American Legion Auxiliary from Argyle, was in Washington, D.C., this past week, lobbying for issues that affect American war veterans.

"Efta, legislative chairman of the Minnesota American Legion Auxiliary, was one of a delegation of 35 Minnesotans in Washington, D.C. The delegation met with every Minnesota representative and senator, and urged an agenda of veterans' programs that Congress will be dealing with in the future." - The Messenger of Stephen, April 17, 2008

W/A/O High School students in two-week MCA-II test period

Warren - "Students in grades 7-11 at Warren/Alvarado/Oslo High School and other schools around the state are taking the Minnesota Comprehensive Assessment II tests in a testing period that started Monday and continues through Friday, April 25. There will be more testing in May for eighth and 10th graders."

"Tests currently being administered are in various areas of knowledge depending on grade level. Students in grades seven and eight are being given tests in reading and math. Students in grade 10 will be taking the reading test. This year's 10th graders must pass the reading exam to graduate in 2010. Students in grade 11 will be taking the math test, and students in grade nine will take the GRAD writing exam. Ninth graders must pass the writing exam to graduate in 2011. In May, students in grades eight and 10 will be taking the science test.

"MCA-II tests are scored on a 4, 3, 2, 1 scoring system, with 4 being the highest possible score. Under the scoring method, 1 means the student does not meet standards, 2 means the student is partially proficient, 3 means the student meets standards and 4 means the student exceeds standards.

"This scoring method determines whether a school achieved Adequate Yearly Progress, that is how much growth the school achieved or did not achieve. A school's AYP is indicated in Index Points, which are determined by the total number of points all the individual students achieved on tests they took divided by the number of students who took the test. This determines an index rate. For example, 10 students take the test and score a total of five points, producing an index rate of .50." - Warren Sheaf, April 16, 2008

A daycare wedding

TRF couple marries 24 years after attending same daycare

by Scott DCamp

Rose Wold has seen a lot during her 36 years in the family daycare business. During that span, she's seen dozens of her daycare children grow from infants into responsible adults, including a pair that recently tied the knot.

Thief River Falls residents Kris Adamson and Amber Gerardy were married in a private ceremony Feb. 1 in Mayan Riviera, Mexico. Most newlyweds fondly recall the day they met their significant other. But for Kris and Amber, that is an impossible task, since their first encounter came as infants.

Both Kris and Amber began attending Rosie's Daycare (Rose Wold's family daycare) shortly after their 1984 births. Though there was no formal introduction for the infants, their parents were already acquainted from attending the same lamaze class.

Wold says the future couple got along well at a young age. She has several photos of Kris and Amber playing together and she recalls many instances of Amber telling her mother, Kim Gerardy, that she was not ready to leave at the end of the day.

The two would end up attending Rosie's Daycare together on two occasions, totalling eight years. But their time together was limited during the school year since Amber attended St. Bernard's Elementary and Kris attended Washington Elementary.

Kris and Amber were several years removed from Rosie's Daycare by the time they were both enrolled at Franklin Middle School. Despite attending the same daycare, Amber and Kris say they didn't really know each other that well during their middle school and high school years. Amber added that she and Kris could always make small talk, but they rarely hung out with the same crowds.

"We weren't really friends," Amber said. "We were acquaintances, but we weren't really close."

Kris and Amber went their separate ways after graduating from Lincoln High School in 2002. Amber began her schooling at Minnesota State University Moorhead later that year. She would later attend Northland Community and Technical College, and take massage therapy training at Aveda Institute in Minneapolis. Kris, meanwhile, attended Northland Community and Technical College.

Amber returned to Thief River

> "The weird thing about Kris and I is that I always had a feeling about him, that he was special," Amber said. "It didn't surprise me that we ended up together."

TRF gets ready for Capital for a Day observance

Plans continue to progress for Capital for a Day in Thief River Falls. At the April 15 meeting of the Thief River Falls City Council, City Administrator Jodie Torkelson detailed some of the plans for the observance on Tuesday, May 13.

Gov. Tim Pawlenty will come to Thief River Falls for the Capital for a Day observance. He will speak at an opening ceremony that morning at Ralph Engelstad Arena. The public will be invited. At that time, the high school students who have been selected for honorary mayor for a day, honorary fire chief for a day and honorary police chief for a day will be introduced as well.

The Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce's breakfast honoring small businesses of excellence will be held following the opening ceremony.

A community forum will be held about planning for the state's future. That forum is a continuation of an earlier forum that the Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development held in Thief River Falls. The public will also be invited to that forum.

Many other events are planned. Exhibits will be displayed, honoring businesses that have been in operation for 50+ years in Thief River Falls. A Northwest Minnesota Arts Council display will also feature 150 pieces of artwork from area artists.

A communitywide picnic will be held. Pennington County Commissioner Bob Carlson will be recognized for his nearly 50 years of service to the county and the city that day. Northland Community Band will also perform that evening at REA.

Other activities are also being planned.

150 years of MN statehood cubed

The Northwest Minnesota Arts Council has announced the exhibition of 150 pieces of original artwork throughout the region from April to December. The exhibit is unusual in the fact that all of the artwork is within five-inch acrylic cubes. The artwork has been created by school students and adult artists in this region, which covers Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties.

The first exhibit of the pieces will be on display May 13 for the Capital for a Day celebration at Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls. The exhibit will be in the foyer, so it is easily accessible for visitors. The northwest historical exhibit and postcard book project will also be on display at this event. Ten counties are participating in showcasing their 150 years of history.

The show will move to the Northland Community and Technical College Gallery in Thief River Falls, where it will be on display from May 22 to June 25. The show will then travel to Argyle for its 125th celebration June 25-27. From there, it will go on display at the Fosston Library Arts Center gallery in July and August. On Sept. 8, the exhibit will open again at the East Grand Forks Campbell Library. In November and December, it will be on display at the Roseau City Center. More locations may be announced, so see the Arts Center Web site (www.nwrdc.org/arts150exhibit.htm) for updates to the schedule.

The 36 schools that participated in the project stated that approximately 400 students and 50 teachers worked on the artwork. Six individual adult artists also contributed cubed artwork to make the show a success. An exhibit catalog is available with more details on the show. Information is also on the aforementioned Web site.

A free reception for the show will be held Thursday, May 22 at 7 p.m. at the NCTC Gallery. The public is invited to attend.

Agassiz plans burns

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge plans to prescribe burn approximately 7,500 acres this year. Five units are planned for spring burning, 11 units are targeted for mid-summer burns and two are targeted for fall burning.

A prescribed burn is a managed fire conducted under a special set of guidelines called a prescription. The prescription identifies the range of environmental factors that are needed to meet the objectives of the burn and still be carried out safely. Relative humidity, wind speed and fuel moisture are among factors that must be within certain parameters for the burn to occur.

Each year, several burn units on the refuge are targeted for burning. Each unit is bordered by either maintained fire breaks, waterways or roads that enable the fire to be contained. When conditions are met, the burn area is ignited. Refuge fire equipment and personnel are on-site to ensure the fire stays within the controlled area.

Most burning on the refuge is done in April, May or later in the season from mid-September to early November, when the prescription can be met; however, summer burning is more desirable to set back woody plants and growing season cattails. Summer burning may be conducted if conditions allow.

The first large summer research burn was conducted in 2006 in a 1,100-acre unit. Last summer's vegetation in this burn unit had less mass and less than half the height, indicating the plant had been stressed. This unit will be monitored to determine if burning during the growing season and the timing of

Terry Wiseth awarded Peter Hess Award

Terry Wiseth

The Northland Community and Technical College Foundation has selected Terry Wiseth, biology instructor at NCTC, to be the recipient of the Peter Hess Memorial Faculty Recognition Award.

The recognition award was established by Phil and Sharline Hess and family, in memory of Peter Hess, a 1976 graduate of Northland Community College. Peter went on to teach courses at the Gemological Institute of America and had a great appreciation for teachers. Each year, this award is given to an individual who excels in his or her role as an educator at NCTC in Thief River Falls.

Terry was honored with the Peter Hess Memorial Faculty Recognition Award during the Northland College Foundation Spring Scholarship Awards Ceremony, which was on Monday, March 24, at the Swenson House.

The recipient of the award is given the opportunity to designate a particular NCTC program, student organization or NCTC Foundation fund to receive a $500 cash contribution. Terry selected the Pioneer Baseball program.

A native of Goodridge, Terry graduated from Goodridge High School in 1973. He is described as having excelled in his role as an instructor and coach at NCTC. Terry was one of the first instructors to design a successful online course, having created an exceptional series of online courses that cover human anatomy and physiology. His online courses are in demand and almost always filled to capacity. His coaching duties in football and baseball keep him in touch with the

He has a passion for painting in oil

Paul Bhajjan of Lancaster has a gift

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Paul Bhajjan has been drawing almost his entire life. His mom, Martha, recalls that he started drawing at age 2 or 3, and would draw every day.

Practice makes perfect, and Paul is now creating oil paintings. "It's just my passion," said Paul, 13, who added that he is thinking about doing art and missions when he grows up.

The Lancaster resident said it takes him between two and eight hours to create an oil painting, depending on the details of the painting and the size of the canvas.

He began painting seriously at about the age of 11. Paul, a seventh grader who is homeschooled, said he has never taken an art class. However, it seems like art is in his blood. "My dad does watercolors, and my sister does acrylics and pastels," said Paul, who noted his dad has given him a few pointers.

Paul's subjects have ranged from a late friend, James Carpenter, to Queen Elizabeth II. "He's got kind of a photographic memory, where he will look at something and just draw it. It's a God-given gift," Martha said.

Other paintings have featured fruit, other people and landscapes. While on a train to Washington, Paul met a man for whom he completed a drawing. The drawing was of the man.

Paul's talents don't end with drawing and painting. He has created wire sculptures, and he does woodworking. Paul, who hasn't taken piano lessons, also composes music on the piano.

The subjects of Paul Bhajjan's paintings have ranged from fruit to landscapes to the late James Carpenter, a friend of his family. Bhajjan painted James' picture as a gift to James' widow and four children in Orono.

Today's recipes are made for snacking and maybe even for breakfast. I think cookies for breakfast are perfect. Also, in case you might be interested, that is what Lizzie Borden ate for her breakfast before she...took an axe...!

You'll love these melt-in-your-mouth cookies:

TOFFEE MALTED COOKIES

1 cup butter, softened
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 (3 ounce) package instant vanilla pudding mix
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/4 cups flour
1 cup oats
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup malted milk balls, chopped
1/2 cup toffee bits

In large bowl, cream butter and sugars until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at o time, beating well after each. Add pudding mix and vanilla.

Combine flour, oats, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture. Fold in molted milk balls and the toffee bits. Dough will be stiff. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls 2 inches apart on ungreased baking sheets.

Bake at 350 degrees 12-15 minutes until golden brown. Cool 2 minutes before placing on rack. Makes 6 dazen.

Nutritional Info: 2 cookies equal 159 calories, 8 g fat, 28 mg chol, 194 mg sodium, 20 g carb, trace fiber and 2 g protein.

These soft, tender, frosted cookies remind everybody of Sundays at Grandma's house. Now you can make your own memories with this recipe:

SOFT SUGAR COOKIES

1 cup butter, softened
3/4 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon olmond
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
Frosting:
1/4 cup butter, softened
3 cups powdered sugar
1 teaspoon almond
2-4 tablespoons hot water (to make spreading consistency)

In large bowl, cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, vanilla and olmond.

Combine flour, cream of tartar, soda, salt and nutmeg. Gradually odd to creamed mixture. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls two inches apart on ungreased baking sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 8-10 minutes until light brown. Cool on wire racks.

To make frosting, combine butter, powdered sugar, almond and enough water to make of desired consistency. Frost cookies. Makes 6 dozen.

Nutritional Info: 2 cookies equal 142 calories, 7 g fat, 29 mg chol, 102 mg sodium, 20 g carb, trace fiber and 1 g protein.

For the life of me, I can't see why we couldn't have these tasty morsels for breakfast. What do you think?

HONEY CRUNCH COOKIES

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter, softened
1 cup honey
2 eggs
1 cup flake coconut
1 cup butterscotch chips
4 cups crispy rice cereal

Sift flour, baking powder and salt and set aside.

In large bowl, cream butter until light and fluffy. Add honey, a little at a time, beating well after additions.

Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Mixture will appear to separate but this is ok. Gradually odd dry ingredients and mix until moistened. Fold in coconut, chips and cereal.

Drop by teaspoonfuls 2 inches apart onto greased baking sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 12-14 minutes or until golden brown. Cool on racks. Makes 5 dozen cookies.

Nutritional Info: Two cookies equal 196 calaries, 10 g fat, 31 mg chol, 181 mg sodium, 25 g carb, trace fiber and 2 g protein.

I've been making granola myself, since seeing that a little box of the stuff costs nearly $6.00. We liked this one really well, and I plan to make it again and use a few different ingredients.

I substituted Zoom cereal for the sunflower seeds in mine, but otherwise stuck to the recipe. It is really good and tastes so nice and fresh. We plan to make more kinds in the future, some with fruit in it, too.

I made a half batch and it baked just right on a jelly roll pan, so be aware that this recipe makes a big batch:

HONEY NUT GRANOLA

4 cups rolled oats
1 cup sliced almonds
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup raw sunflower seeds
1/3 cup oil
1/2 cup honey
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 300 degrees.

In large bowl, stir oats, nuts and sunflower seeds. In another bowl, mix oil, honey, vanilla and cinnamon and mix well. Spread on large ungreased baking sheet and bake for 10 minutes. Remove from oven and stir and continue baking until golden, another 10 minutes. Let cool completely on pan before storing in covered container. (I stirred more often than 10 minutes and I would recommend doing that - every 3 or 4 minutes is good.)

Severe Weather Awareness Week observed April 21-25

Every year, Minnesotans ore injured and property is destroyed by the inevitable tornadoes, floods, lightning, hail and other weather issues, simply because people fail to prepare and practice safety measures.

Severe Weather Awareness Week, April 21-25, is an annual effort by the Minnesota Department of Public Safety to increase preparedness and decrease injuries and property damage.

Tornado drills will be held Thursday, April 24. The drills will test statewide warning and communications systems.

The drill schedule is as follows:

- 9 a.m. – The National Weather Service will issue a simulated tornado watch for Minnesota.
- 1:45 p.m. – NWS will issue a simulated tornada warning for participating Minnesota counties. Most cities and counties will activate outdoor warning siren systems.
- 6:55 p.m. – NWS will issue a second simulated tornado warning far participating counties in Minnesata. Beltrami, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties are participating in the second drill.

DPS provides the following tips regarding tornadoes:

Before the tornado

A tornado watch highlights an area where tornadaes are likely to develop. Cantinue your normal activities during a tornado watch, but keep track of the latest weather reports, and be ready to get to a shelter. Tornadoes develop quickly.

In the home

Go to the basement. Get under a table, work bench or some other sturdy furniture to protect yourself from falling debris. A stairwell is also a good place to hide during a tornado.

If you cannot get to a basement, go to o small, interior room on the lowest floor. Closets, bathrooms and interior halls afford the best protection in most cases. Get under something sturdy or cover yourself with blankets, and stay away from windows.

In an apartment, a school or on office building

Move to the lowest level, to the innermost room — or go to a pre-designated shelter area. Stay away from windows! In a hallway, crouch down and protect your head from flying debris. Avoid areas with glass and large expanses of roof with no supports.

In a mobile home, or car, truck or other vehicle

Abandan your mobile home or vehicle as quickly as possible and find a sturdy shelter — preferably a permanent structure. Avoid bridges - they act as wind tunnels. People who try to escape a tornado by driving away in a vehicle often don't make it; they get caught in deadly winds.

100 Years LIGHTING THE WAY
MeritCare Thief River Falls Southeast Clinic Pharmacy

This tree is extremely poplar.
The fastest-growing trees hardy for our area are the hybrid poplar, a tree which combines the hardiness of the old cottonwoods with the fast growth of the poplar. Our favorite variety is the Norway Poplar.
What makes the Norway Poplar so darn popular?
•Fast growing. The Norway Poplar can grow up to five feet per year, sometimes more. Purchase a five foot whip for a few dollars and in five years you will likely have a twenty-five foot tree.
• No cotton. Norway Poplar are seedless. No cotton blowing around the yard collecting in the window screens. Yet, you get to listen to the wonderful rustling leaves.
• Dependable. The Norway Poplar is long lived and grows into a large tree.
Why plant bare root?
• Bare root trees are easier to plant and care for than potted trees.
• Bare root trees get established more quickly than potted trees.
• Unlike potted trees, bare root trees rarely need staking.
• Bare root trees have been proven to be less likely to blow over in a wind storm, even twenty years after planting.
• Bare root trees can be planted big or small.
• Norway Poplar is only one of many kinds of trees and shrubs available at Bergeson's. Call for a free catalog.

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

It's project season

People spend a lot of time in anticipation of holidays, family reunions, weddings and any special occasion. I look forward to the "project season"; in fact I so completely immerse myself in these little tasks that you could say that I live in my projects.

Intensive planning should precede any project, not so that you are organized, but so you can really enjoy the anticipation. Nothing spins my wheels like sitting on the couch in the middle of winter, catalog in hand, laying out plans for the spring. Some folks like to plan with a seed catalog or a home improvement magazine, while some just like to talk about their projects; I am the perfect storm, as I do all three. Anyone who's seen my car could surmise that any extra money I have is going somewhere besides my wheels. Lisa and I invest our extra money in matters of home and garden, and so that is what occupies most of our plans for spring and summer. Notice I said "invest" rather than "spend," which is the first step in justification of any home project.

The second step in planning a project is taking on way more than you can possibly accomplish in a Minnesota summer. This list will dwindle when you find that what appears reasonable in December is a waste of time in May. There is nothing like being held to the flame of reality to make one realize what project needs to be moved to the front burner. Most of our projects are done in the heat of summer to survive the cold of winter. However, yard projects are mostly done to please Lisa and myself. We can indulge ourselves, and have done so with rainwater collection projects, a pond-less fountain, raised gardens and several improvements that we could live without, but make life much more enjoyable to live.

I think you need to start a project on glorious and fanciful proportions, so that when you eventually compromise and perhaps cut corners, the project will still look good and be worthwhile. It's so easy to fantasize about a project but money, work and time will modify what anything looks like in the end. I've had several large and glorious "zebras" that have become practical and sure-footed "burros" by their finish. But typically, I'm satisfied and proud with the end product. I guess my mission statement could be "think big but be practical."

If you're contemplating a project out in the yard, make sure you dig it deep enough, and work on the details. Over time, I have witnessed projects fall just short of successful completion because people didn't dig deep enough, use enough sand, get it completely level or take their time. I've fallen prey to the need to finish quickly and have even cut corners to finish in a timely manner. It's better to do one project well than to create several projects that eat money and produce little joy, a lesson learned well by a younger version of myself.

In the end, maybe I don't actually live within my projects, which would be too limiting. Perhaps our efforts, time and money actually express what we hold important and the priorities that shape our lives. If that isn't justification to dig, plant, build and plan for a summer of projects, then I don't know what is.

See them strut their stuff: A spring ritual

As spring approaches, and the snow melts, one of nature's most dazzling displays takes place a short distance from Crookston. At the Glacial Ridge and Rydell national wildlife refuges, greater prairie chickens gather for their ritualistic mating display. Traditionally, the best viewing is in April through mid-May.

By special arrangement, it's possible to observe these spectacular displays from an observation blind placed on the edge of the booming grounds. The viewing blinds are available seven days a week. One must arrive in the blind one hour before sunrise as the prairie chickens usually come to the booming grounds before daylight. As dawn approaches, the motion of the male chickens will slowly become visible, and then as if turned on by a light switch, the booming will begin. After this, the prairie comes alive with sound, motion and excitement.

The Crookston Chamber/Convention and Visitors Bureau is handling reservations for the viewing blinds at the Rydell/Glacial Ridge NWR Complex and on land managed by The Nature Conservancy. There are a total of four blinds available, and each will hold three people comfortably. One blind has been specifically designated for people with mobility impairments. There is no cost, but reservations are required.

Reservations may be made by calling 1-800-809-5997 or (218) 281-4320 on Mondays through Fridays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Once your reservation is confirmed, you will be sent more information and directions to the blinds. A flashlight, warm clothing and waterproof footwear are a must, along with binoculars and a camera.

Former resident seeks votes for horror audition

Former Thief River Falls resident Allison Page hopes to be in an upcoming horror movie, and she needs local residents' help.

Page, who now lives in San Francisco, is competing in a national online competition to cast lead roles for the movie "Perkins' 14." After Dark Films will produce "Perkins' 14," which will be featured in Horrorfest 2008. Local residents can vote online for Page's audition, "Alone in the Bathroom."

While online one day, Page found out about the competition. In one day, she wrote a script for the audition, which features Page's character talking about her love life in a bathroom. She eventually becomes locked in the bathroom and starts hearing weird noises outside of the bathroom. The sounds go away but eventually come back again.

One of Page's friends shot the audition, which was shot in a tiny, hot bathroom over a two-day period. "I had to smoke in there, and I had never smoked before," said Page, who accidentally lit her hair on fire in the process. They shot half of the audition in the dark.

Voting ends Friday, April 25. The top 10 females and top 10 males will then be flown to Los Angeles for screen tests. As of Tuesday afternoon, Page's audition was ranked eighth. Once screen tests are completed, voting starts over again.

To vote for "Alone in the Bathroom," go to www.massify.com/auditions/464. To vote, residents will have to register on Massify.

Grants available for arts projects

The Northwest Minnesota Arts Council in Warren is accepting applications for a variety of grants in literary, performing and visual arts. The Arts Council serves the Minnesota counties of Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau, therefore applying organizations, schools or individuals must be from those counties. Three grants programs have May 1 postmark deadlines. A grant information session will be held May 12 at 6 p.m. at the Thief River Falls Public Library.

The new program is the Hispanic Arts Initiative grants. This category is open to projects that celebrate, educate or enhance the development of Hispanic arts. Schools, community groups, adult individuals and libraries are all eligible applicants for the $1,000 grants. A couple of ideas for eligible activities include afterschool arts activities that bring Hispanic students together to create art, school residencies that bring in a Hispanic artist or a library gallery featuring the art of a traditional Hispanic artist.

In the Artist in the Schools program, public school districts may apply for up to $2,000 for the sponsorship of projects such as conducting an artist-in-residence program or hosting a traveling theater group like Safari or Prairie Fire Children's Theater in the summer. School district programs must provide a 25 percent cash match for projects taking place during the school day and a 50 percent cash match for projects occurring in the summer or after school. An in-kind match isn't eligible.

In the Northwest Regional Development Commission/McKnight Small Capital Grants program, schools may apply for this special deadline to purchase theater, music or visual art equipment. The grants are for $1,000 and require a $500 cash match. This program is supported with funding from The McKnight Foundation.

Application materials for all the grant programs are available from Mara Wittman, Arts Council director, NWRDC, 115 S. Main, Warren, MN 56762; (218) 745-6733 or through the agency Web site (www.nwrdc.org/arts.htm) in the grants section.

NCTC meet draws 15 teams

Fifteen teams were on hand Tuesday for the 2008 Northland Community and Technical College Invitational boys and girls high school track meet at Lowell T. Swenson Field.

Recent strong winds continued to sweep over the Thief River Falls Multi-Events Center complex, but a little warmer temperatures made conditions tolerable.

Team titles went to the Detroit Lakes boys and East Grand Forks girls. The Lakers finished with an 88-68 advantage over the second place East Grand Forks boys. The Green Wave, meanwhile, out-scored runner-up Crookston 105-79 in the girls' portion of the meet.

Thief River Falls boys were ninth with 39 points. The Thief River Falls girls finished tied for seventh with 32 points.

Top Thief River Falls performance came in the boys 200 meters, where teammates Aaron Langan and Tom Loe finished 1-2.

Langan was second in the 100, while Loe, CJ Jackson, Langan and David Stenson combined for a second place run in the 4x200 relay.

Kathryn Walrath had third place finishes in the 100 and 200 for the Thief River Falls girls.

Individual double-event winners were Mariano Portillo, Crookston, 400, 3200; Luke Champa, Detroit Lakes, triple jump, long jump; Anthony Lavoy, Mahnomen/Waubun, shot, discus; and Faith Kruchowski, Red Lake County, 800, 1000.

The Prowlers will host the annual Quent Jones Relays Friday, April 25, starting at 4 p.m.

Prowlers, Packers wind up with split in Monday twinbill

Thief River Falls overcame a 4-0 deficit to beat West Fargo 8-5 in the first half of a Monday high school baseball doubleheader, but couldn't do it twice, losing the second game to the Packers 5-0.

The second outing of the 2008 season for the Prowlers was played in high winds and finger-numbing temperatures.

Three straight two-out third inning singles produced the four West Fargo Game 1 runs.

A Zach Sorenson RBI single put the Prowlers on the board in the bottom of the inning and his two-run single in the fifth narrowed the gap to 4-3. He was 4-for-4 in the game.

Thief River Falls won it with a five-run sixth that featured a game-tying RBI single by Nick Gagner and a two-run triple to right by Briar Verbout.

Myles Keefe pitched the first five innings for the Prowlers, with the win going to Dillon Barry, who worked the final two frames.

"We battled," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "We were down 4-0 and came back. Our two junior pitchers threw great in their first varsity games. Myles kept us in the game, and Dillon came in and shut the door."

Lack of offense kept the Prowlers from duplicating their first-game success. A third inning single by Jake Collins was their only base hit.

"I was disappointed in how we sat back and didn't attack things in this game," said Zutz. "We had a chance for a sweep and didn't get it done."

It was scoreless until the fifth inning when the Packers pushed four runs across the plate.

Pioneers split one-run softball doubleheader contests vs. Voyagers

Rainy River and Northland both won one-run games Monday during a Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division softball doubleheader in Thief River Falls.

The Voyageurs claimed the opener 7-6. The Pioneers bounced back to take the nightcap 6-5.

Brittni Johnson was the losing pitcher in Game 1 when the Pioneers were out-hit 10-6. Carissa Erickson was 2-for-3 at the plate to lead the Northland offense.

Ashley Lund was 4-for-4 and Erickson went 3-for-4 in the Pioneers' 15-hit Game 2 attack. Winning pitcher Keandria Cobbins gave up just five hits.

"They were two good, close games," said Northland coach Kathy Huschle. "We were pretty happy with the way we played."

Strong winds and cold temperatures hampered play. The Pioneers had three errors in both games; the Voyagers were charged with four Game 1 errors, but had just one misplay in Game 2.

Gagner repeats his first game success

It didn't take Nick Gagner very long to get into a grove. The Thief River Falls pitcher turned in his second early-season complete-game shutout in as many starts Tuesday as the Prowlers handled Crookston 7-0 in a windy high school baseball game at the Multi-Events Center.

Gagner stopped the Pirates on four hits. He struck out 12 and did not walk a batter.

A week earlier the senior right-hander threw a season-opening three-hit shutout against Roseau. He has 19 strike-outs and no walks in 14 innings of work.

"Nick pitched tremendous, again," said Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "Two complete-game shutouts straight out of the gym is pretty impressive."

A pair of errors and a Jordan Espeseth RBI single to center field in the third produced the game's only run through the first round innings,

The Prowlers took control with a three-run fifth when a lead-off single by Briar Verbout and a walk issued to Sam Mattison preceded three consecutive one-out run-producing hits – singles by Gagner and Zach Sorenson and a double to right by Dan Nelson.

Thief River Falls put the game on ice with another three-run frame in the sixth when Espeseth and Gagner added to their RBI totals.

Crookston had trouble on defense, picking up seven of the game's eight errors.

"We played real clean baseball, which is our goal in each game," said Zutz.

Espeseth, the Prowlers' shortstop, led the eight-hit Thief River Falls attack with a 3-for-3 game at the plate. "Jordan played an outstanding game, both offensively and defensively," mentioned Zutz. "He set the tone for us today."

Pioneers earn a pair of MCCC baseball honors

Northland swept the most recent Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division baseball honors.

The Pioneers' Tyler Earls was named Pitcher of the Week and John Greicar was selected Player of the Week.

Selections were announced Wednesday.

Earls, a sophomore from Pelican Rapids, won a pair of games during the week with a no-hitter against Vermilion and an inning of relief against Itasca as he improved his record to 5-1.

Greicar, a freshman from Grand Forks, N.D., hit .608 (14/23) with two home runs, three doubles and 10 RBI as the Pioneers ran their Northern Division record to 5-1. He also stole two bases and scored 10 runs.

The Pioneers host Hibbing in 1 p.m. Northern Division doubleheaders today (Saturday) and Sunday at the NCTC diamond.

Central Lakes collects three wins from NCTC

Central Lakes collected three Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division wins over host Northland Wednesday.

Beaten just once in their first 19 starts, the Raiders are the No. 1 ranked team in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III rankings. They added to their win total by finishing off a 12-2 suspended game victory, then sweeping a regularly-scheduled doubleheader 12-6, 9-4.

Central Lakes was a 7-4 winner over Northland in the first half of an April 8 twinbill in Brainerd. The second game ended amid a snowfall in the third inning with the Raiders leading 12-2. And that's the way it ended when play was picked up where it left off.

The Raiders out-hit Northland 15-3 in that one. Keandria Cobbins was tagged with the pitching loss.

It was more of the same when the regulation twinbill got underway as the Raiders collected 17 Game 1 hits. All five Northland hits and all six of the Pioneers' runs came in the fourth inning. Losing pitcher was Shawna Rogalla.

According to the scoreboard, it was closer in the nightcap. But the Central Lakes bats were still busy. Fourteen hits in the final contest lifted the Raiders' three-game total to 46. The Pioneers had a half-dozen hits in the game, including a 2-for-3 performance by Kalie Jordahl, and 14 for the three games combined. A third Northland pitcher – Brittni Johnson – was saddled with the loss.

Defensively, it wasn't a bad outing for the Pioneers, who had just seven errors spread over the three games. Central Lakes had nine.

"We played with them at times, but not at other times," explained Northland coach Kathy Huschle. "What makes Central Lakes so good is that they play well all the time. They're very consistent."

Central Lakes freshman Kjelsy Loeffler is a 2007 Thief River Falls graduate. She was 2-for-4 with two triples, two runs and an RBI in the suspended game.

Northland is 8-12 for the year and 5-3 in the Northern Division heading into weekend action that includes doubleheaders at the Multi-Events Center against Hibbing today (Saturday) at 2 p.m. and Fond du Lac Sunday at noon.

TRF 9-3 softball winner over West Fargo squad

Thief River Falls evened its early-season high school softball record at at 1-1 Tuesday by beating visiting West Fargo 9-3.

The Prowlers out-hit the Packers 7-4, with Megan Abrahamson going 2-for-4 to lead the way.

Junior Cheryl Nelson was the winning pitcher.

West Fargo fell to 3-2.

Find ways to curtail underage drinking

April is Alcohol Awareness Month. When people think of alcohol abuse, they often picture teenagers and college students, but the truth is, alcohol abuse is prevalent within many demographic groups. Teenage alcohol abuse, however, is a serious problem, and at this time of year, may be a particularly good time to remind teenagers of the dangers and that it is illegal, and encourage parents to keep the lines of communication with their teenager open.

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety points out that alcohol is the most commonly used drug among young people - more than tobacco and much more than marijuana. Many adults turn a blind eye to underage drinking, citing use during their own youth. But the world is very different from a generation ago, and today's socio-economic changes dramatically impact youth. More have jobs and their own income. More have cars, increasing their mobility. They also drive faster. More live in single-parent or dual income households, resulting in more unsupervised time and activities.

Why should we care? The Minnesota Department of Public Safety reports that underage alcohol use is directly related to criminal behavior and serious social and health problems such as suicide and homicide; traffic crashes, injuries and fatalities; unprotected or unwanted sex; teen pregnancy; sexually transmitted diseases, including HIV/AIDS; assaults; withdrawal, depression and emotional/psychological difficulties; and school delinquency, failure and dropout.

Such a bleak picture may give readers the impression that alcohol is the root of all evil. It isn't, but too often, teens, who are inexperienced, take drinking to a disturbing extreme.

An editorial in the Aberdeen American News echoes what I've been saying for years: "We're not saying the many and varied awareness and education programs aren't good. They are. They are certainly a part of the solution, but we can't cling to them as salvation.

"Something's gotta give. Clearly we're missing a key element for change. Benjamin Franklin's definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over and expecting different results. It feels like we've been living out that definition for decades. Unfortunately, we still don't have the answers to end teen drinking.

"We do know, however, that parents can - and must - continue to do their jobs: Keep the lines of communication with your teens open. Remind your teens that drinking - even if "everyone else is doing it' is indeed illegal. Clearly outline consequences - both state defined and 'house' defined - for breaking the law of the state and the law of the family when it comes to drinking alcohol. Make it clear to your teen that drinking alcohol is not a rite of passage; it is a responsibility that mustn't be taken lightly."

We've got a difficult job ahead of us. A news release recently issued by Narconon, a drug treatment and education program, stated that alcohol is one of the most difficult drugs to combat, especially with youth.

Educating teens about the potential hazards of consuming alcohol should take place all year round, but it is an especially appropriate message to share this time of year, when teens are attending proms, graduations and parties. According to the Fatality Analysis Reporting System, 58 percent of traffic fatalities were alcohol-related during the prom and graduation period. This compares with 41 percent for the rest of the year. In addition, 36 percent of all alcohol-related traffic fatalities are young people between the ages of 15 and 20, below the legal age to consume alcoholic beverages. So, it is an especially good time to share the message.

Goodridge School to perform "Headin' for the Hills" Thursday and Friday

By special arrangement with Heuer Publishing, Goodridge School will perform "Headin' for the Hills" on Thursday, April 24 and Friday, April 25 at 7 p.m. in the Goodridge School gym. The cost is $5 for adults and $3 for students.

Roma Gerth wrote "Headin' for the Hills." In the play, Cornelia Wellington Heister and her sister, Dorthea, are wealthy orphans whose only living relatives are a hillbilly family that runs a general store in Lone Mule, Tenn. Their father's will insists that the girls spend their summers in Lone Mule with their uncle Cyrus Goolus or forfeit their share of the fortune. Being a bit spoiled and accustomed to luxuries, Cornelia, in particular, hates the arrangement, and Uncle Cyrus is a miser who sees a chance to make himself some money. He decides to make life miserable for the girls, so they'll run away, and then he would inherit the entire fortune himself. In a torrent of fun and laughter, he shows the girls the absolute worst of hillbilly living.

They don't discourage easily, however, and Cornelia even finds herself the object of adoration of Slim Hawkenshaw. She begins to realize that perhaps mountaineers are human beings after all and her own way of life isn't so superior. Luckily, Cornelia finds out about her uncle's scam and decides two can play at that game. She and Dot pretend to go all out for the hillbilly life and even show Uncle Cyrus a thing or two.

The cast includes Chloe Miller as Cornelia Wellington Heister, Tiffany Hanson as Dorthea Wellington Heister, Marshall Mickelson as Cyrus Goolus, Adelle Prestebak as Betty Belle Goolus, Ashley Marquis as Happy Goolus, Amy Halvorson as Skeets Goolus, Adam Horachek as Hank Goolus, Rachel Hanson as Widow Squiggins, Jennie Hawk as Aunt Sukey, Brittney Forsberg as Miss Oggie, Prestan Marquis as Slim Hawkenshaw, Holly Krahenbuhl as Miss Winslow, Heath Mickelson as Horseface Dilly, Lucas Miller as Jake Slasser, Bobbi Jo Wellman as Emmy Jean, Tony Horachek as Zeke and Boy 1, Jasmyn Stine as Maw, Maisie Lundeen as Girl 1, Rachel Bring as Girl 2, Sean Farris as Speck Squiggins and Sherman Martell as 2nd Boy.

Eric Mickelson is directing the play. Heather Phelps is in charge of lights.

Envirothon to be held Wednesday at Agassiz NWR

The Northwest Area I Envirathon will be held Wednesday, April 23 from 9 a.m. to about 12 p.m. at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge near Middle River.

The Envirathon is sponsored by northwestern Minnesota Area I soil and water conservation districts. It is a national event. It is an outdoor hands-on competition, which started in Minnesota in 1992, for high school students in grades nine through 12. Envirothon is sponsored by soil and water conservation districts statewide. In SWCD Area I, which covers 10 counties in northwest Minnesota, two Envirothons are held. Presenters for the events include such people as SWCD employees, Natural Resource Conservation Service employees, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources employees, Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources employees, University of Minnesota Extension employees and various other government employees, as well as some presenters from the public. Each SWCD helps sponsor the event and asks for donations from businesses and organizations from around the area.

Envirothon began in Pennsylvania in 1979 as a natural resource problem-solving event for students to gain some knowledge of environmental education. In the setting, students are tested in five areas, this year being: soils, aquatics, wildlife, forestry and a current events topic, which is recreational impacts on wildlife. Participants also have to prepare a 10-minute oral presentation on a recreational impacts on wildlife topic. At the end of the day, the team with the most points will be declared the winner and will earn a chance to compete at the State Envirathon. Schools can enter five teams. The top three teams at the event will earn a trip to the State Envirothon competition, which will be held May 14 at Prairie Wetlands Learning Center in Fergus Falls.

Vegetarian Supper Club meets April 23

The next Vegetarian Supper Club will be at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday at Open Arms Christian Fellowship, 401 St. Paul Ave. S., Thief River Falls. The public is invited.

Agassiz plans prescribed burns for 2008

growing season burns can effectively control cattails.

A second research burn was conducted last August in another large burn unit (2,025 acres) to try to duplicate the first research burn. This burn was conducted Aug. 16 and continued to burn into the winter. Objectives of this burn were to burn during the driest conditions during the growing season to kill the cattails and to burn as much of the cattail root system as possible. The sub-surface organics were composed primarily of cattail roots (rhizomes), which usually don't burn; however, conditions were perfect and large areas of cattails, both above ground and below ground, were completely consumed. This unit will now be placed in a rotation to be burned every three years.

Burning helps restore and maintain many plant habitats. Fire removes dry, dead plant matter that has built up over the years, opening up space for new plant growth and providing better cover for wildlife. The burn allows nutrients locked up in the dried plants to be returned to the soil to be used by new plants.

A common objective is to kill or stress plant species that are undesirable. It's also used to set back woody vegetation (willow) that has encroached upon open areas or become too mature to be of great food value for wildlife such as moose, deer or rabbits.

Burns are conducted by refuge staff and cooperating agencies (the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and The Nature Conservancy) that are trained and certified in wildland firefighting, fire behavior and various equipment used in wildland fires. Local wildland firefighting agencies are notified of the burn, so they are prepared if needed.

For more information about prescribed fire activities on Agassiz NWR, contact the prescribed fire specialist at (218) 449-4115, extension 206, or for general information about Agassiz NWR, go to www.fws.gov/midwest/agassiz/.

Falls in the fall of 2004. She was out with a group of friends on Halloween, when she bumped into Kris. The two had conversed for a while when Kris asked Amber, when she would let him take her on a date.

Kris' question was not unprovoked, as Amber's younger brother, Zach, who took guitar lessons from Kris, would often suggest that Kris and Amber would make a good couple. Kris' friend Billy Kezar also tried to set the couple up.

Amber accepted Kris' date request. From that point, their relationship ran its course as if it was meant to be.

"We pretty much knew after one date that we were meant for each other," Amber said. "I definitely think there's some real spirited bond between Kris and I. We're not super religious, but when Kris and I started dating, I felt like I finally had someone I could lean on. Everything fell together perfectly."

"It's pretty cool how things came together," Kris added.

Looking back, Kris and Amber feel that if they were closer or even dated in high school, that their relationship wouldn't be where it is today.

"It probably wouldn't have been the same kind of relationship if we had started dating in high school," Kris said.

"It seems like it was meant to be and it kind of held out for the perfect time," Amber added.

Kris and Amber moved to Minneapolis in 2005. They were engaged in 2007 after almost three years together.

They were married Feb. 1 in Mayan Riviera, Mexico. Attending the wedding and week-long getaway were the bride's parents, Brian and Kim Gerardy; the groom's parents Don and Paula Adamson; the bride's best man Zach Gerardy and fiance Haeli Stokke; the groom's best man Ben Adamson; and a guest list that included: Calli Adamson, Bill LaSalle and Heather, Hailey and Harrison Bayne, Arlys Adamson, RoxAnn Lindquist, Chris Gauthier, Mallory Asp, Archie Schneider and Judy Owen, Corey, Jill, Dillon and Tanner Perryman, Lorray and Larry Tupy and special guest Rose Wold.

Wold says that she has a special relationship with both the Adamson and Gerardy families. Heather Adamson was the first child she cared for in the daycare business. Thirteen years later, she cared for both Amber Gerardy and Kris Adamson. In total, she would care for all four children of Don and Paula Adamson, both of Heather's children, Hailey and Harrison Bayne; and both Amber and Zach Gerardy.

For Wold, seeing nine of her daycare children at the wedding was an "awesome experience."

"It was like I went to heaven for a week and came back."

Music of Hope to perform at Bethel Lutheran Church

Women of Bethel and the community are invited to hear the group Music of Hope at the BLCW general meeting on Wednesday, April 23 at 7 p.m. at Bethel Lutheran Church in Greenbush.

Music of Hope is a Christian-based group of women ranging in age from 14-70 who gathered together in October 2007 to play their stringed instruments. Currently, there are 10 violinists and three cellists who practice on Sunday afternoons, and although they love music, they know there is a greater purpose for everything one does. Each year the group plays for a purpose. This year, it is playing to give hope to sexually exploited girls.

An estimated 2 million children are enslaved in the global commercial sex trade. Most of them are girls and it is the group's desire to give them hope.

The group's goal is to raise awareness for sexually exploited girls, and raise money to offer assistance such as medical care, nutritious food, informal education, vocational training, compassionate counseling, and where possible, integration into a loving family environment.

The general meeting of BLCW will be called to order following the concert. Bethel women are encouraged to invite guests to hear this group.

Minnesota House passes bovine TB legislation

Thursday, April 17, the Bovine Tuberculosis Management Zone Restrictions and Herd Buyout bill passed on the House Floor, approving an additional $3.8 million to assist cattle producers dealing with bovine TB infected cattle herds in northern Minnesota.

"I carried this piece of legislation with Sen. Skoe to give cattle producers a choice to either opt for a voluntary buyout or to remain in business," said Rep. Olin. "If we fail to get this under control, the cattle industry in Minnesota could be destroyed, or worse, left to take the path Michigan is currently on – spending millions of state dollars to rebuild their cattle industry."

This bill basically allows for three important steps to help get Minnesota back to a TB status. First, it establishes a cattle buyout, voluntary in that each producer can decide whether to sell or not after the Minnesota Board of Animal Health conducts a risk assessment and provides what each farmer in the area needs to do if they choose to keep their cattle. Second, it gives the Board of Animal Health some authority to make rule-making processes to ensure our rules are more in line with the USDA. Third, it allows the Board of Animal Health to make separate zones within the State as long as those zones do not include more than 325 cattle herds.

"This bill will cover everything necessary to effectively isolate and eliminate this disease," said Rep. Olin. "I'm pleased with this legislation and with the fact that the Governor and the Legislature are clearly on the same page."

The bill is now on its way to the Senate and must be passed before it is sent to the Governor.

"Clearly, all legislators realized the urgency of the situation," said Rep. Olin. "The bill passed 131 to 0."

Superintendent outlines financial hurdles

Fosston - "Fosston Superintendent Dale Salberg outlined the financial issues facing the district for 2008-09 at the regular school board meeting last Thursday night. He explained that there is a possible $79,000 deficit for next year, and that preliminary planning shows it could be handled without cutting programs or staff.

"Most of the expense comes from capital improvements. There had been plans to remodel the science labs at a cost of $80,000 to $100,000. Despite the need for upgrades and more space, Salberg recommended holding off on the project for another year in order to balance the budget." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, April 22, 2008, by Dan Kindall

Parkview II residential area to proceed, starting mid-May

Warren - "With the go-ahead from Parkview Second Addition developer Randy Engelstad and his wife, Cindy, the Warren City Council awarded a contract for construction of streets and utilities infrastructure, and approved a bond issue to pay for the work at its meeting April 16.

"As reported earlier, the low bidder on the street, curb, gutter, water and sewer work for the 18-lot subdivision was Spruce Valley Construction of Middle River, and this firm was formally awarded a $403,100.55 contract for the basic work, plus an option for riprapping the storm sewer detention pond needed for the subdivision." - Warren Sheaf, April 23, 2008

Chinese accident nearly affects Karlstad's Moose Fest

Karlstad - "The Moose Fest grand finale planned by Karlstad's city fathers was almost dealt a fatal blow from as far away as China.

"City Clerk Wayne Ruud told council members he had received a call from the fireworks contractor and was told an explosion at a fireworks plant in China had destroyed a considerable amount of fireworks product. The factory in question supplies fireworks for most of the contractors in the country.

"The company said it was cancelling some of its shows entirely and wanted to raise the price for the Moose Fest fireworks display and cut the show in half.

"Ruud said he told the representative that the city had not yet paid for the show due to the fact that the original contract had a wrong date. He also told the representative that if the company raised the price or cut back on the amount of fireworks contracted, Karlstad would cancel the contract altogether.

"After some discussion, the company agreed to honor the original contract if the city could pay the amount in full right away. The council agreed, since this year's theme honors veterans, that the contract should be paid immediately to secure the show.

"Moose Fest is scheduled Aug. 8, 9 and 10." - North Star News of Karlstad, April 24, 2008, by Dan Nordine

Fewer farmers to plant corn this year

by David Hill
Editor

At the end of March, the government announced that U.S. farmers were expected to plant about 18 percent more soybeans this year, while their corn acreage could decline by about 8 percent from a year ago.

University of Minnesota Extension Agent Howard Person in Pennington and Marshall counties said he believes the amount of wheat and soybeans to be planted in the counties to be fairly even - maybe a little more soybeans.

Person explained that prices for wheat and soybeans remain good. If a farmer has not decided what to plant yet, he suspects the farmer would probably go with soybeans.

One of the factors heavily influencing decisions right now is the cost and availability of fertilizer. Person related the experience of one farmer who purchased his fertilizer in February and is thankful he did because the cost of fertilizer is one-third higher now. Person said if the farmer has not ordered his fertilizer by now, there's also a chance that he won't get it because it's just not available.

Prices for corn and sunflowers remain good, but Person believes fewer farmers will plant corn this year because it's risky and expensive to plant. He explained that it costs about $400 per acre to plant corn, or about one and one-half times more than wheat. Seed costs, fuel and chemicals play a significant role in those higher costs. Additionally, planting corn in northwest Minnesota is a bit risky, because if the region has an early frost it's tough on corn.

Person said soil moisture is good, but not excessive at this time. He said the Department of Natural Resources has a couple of test wells on the sand ridge west of Thief River Falls. He said the DNR is reporting the wells are at their lowest in 10 years. Nevertheless, Person said sub soil moisture is adequate at this point.

Farmers haven't begun planting. Person said if the region doesn't receive much rain in the next week, he expects the first farmers to begin scratching around in a week to 10 days, maybe two weeks.

Beito to work on tax reform

TRF bank president selected to serve on Tax Reform Commission

Dave Beito of Thief River Falls has been named to the Governor's 21st Century Tax Reform Commission.

Wednesday, April 23, Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty announced his appointments to the Governor's 21st Century Tax Reform Commission. This commission, which the Governor announced in his State of the State address in February, was created by executive order to advise the Governor on reforming the state's tax laws with the goal of making long-term improvements in the revenue system that reflect changes in business practices, demographics, and the economy that have occurred in Minnesota and other states.

"Our current tax system reflects the economy and demographics of the 1960s. It's outdated and needs to be fixed," Pawlenty said. "This commission will specifically focus on improving our job climate, and is comprised of people who have direct experience in creating private sector jobs, including job providers, entrepreneurs, private sector employees, investors, CPAs, and others with expertise in finance and taxation."

Beito said he was asked if he were interested in participating on the commission because of his work with the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce. Beito said he has always been interested in working with public policy, so he agreed. To the best of his ability, he said he will try to represent all the businesses he works as well as the communities and citizens of northwestern Minnesota.

Beito said he doesn't know how often the committee will meet. He is anticipating traveling to the Twin Cities at least once a month, but it may be more later as their goal to

Fire at Warroad senior facility

On Friday, a fire destroyed the Warroad Senior Living Center that was under construction, according to news reports.

Administrator Rod Kutter indicated Friday morning that he wasn't aware of the specifics and that a meeting would be held regarding the center. After that a time, a press release was set to be issued. As of presstime Friday morning, no further information was available.

As of presstime, Warroad Police Chief Bob Cudaback hadn't returned a phone call from the Northern Watch.

The senior living center was scheduled to be opened in mid-summer, according to its Web site. It included five buildings or units, including areas for independent living, assisted and supportive living, two skilled care wings and a town center that connected the four wings. Each wing was at a different stage of construction. Marvin Windows and Doors provided some funding for the center in 2005 and 2006.

Cows die of anthrax

The Minnesota Board of Animal Health confirmed Tuesday, April 22, that two cows on a Becker County farm died last week of anthrax, the first anthrax cases in 2008. The herd will remain under quarantine for 30 days from the day the last death occurs from anthrax.

After the dead cows were discovered on pasture, a blood sample was collected and sent to the North Dakota State University Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory in Fargo, N.D. Tests confirmed the samples were positive for anthrax. The herd was not vaccinated for anthrax this year.

Anthrax is a naturally occurring disease caused by the bacteria Bacillus anthracis. All warm-blooded animals are susceptible to the disease, but cattle, sheep and goats are the most commonly affected

Stranded in paradise

A vacation turns into a nightmare for TRF couple

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Randy Carter heard the California tourist's hard luck story and felt sorry for him. The man was stuck in Maui, Hawaii, for another week.

"He said his airline went belly up. I said, 'You poor devil,'" Carter recalled. A short time later, the other shoe dropped. The Thief River Falls resident and his traveling companions found themselves stuck in Maui.

For two years, Carter and his fiancee, Rhonda Noel, saved for the vacation they would take with Rhonda's son, Nick, 13, and Nick's cousin Beau Eckert, 12. The couple and the kids enjoyed themselves on the trip. They traveled in a submarine, where they were able to see a shark up close. They were also able to walk on a dormant volcano. "It was just unbelievable down there. The kids just loved it," Carter said.

Toward the end of their trip, they realized they were in a predicament. On April 9, Carter called Northwest Airlines about their trip home. He found that their flight was no longer booked. Carter panicked, and he couldn't get in touch with anyone from Northwest Airlines because the company has an automated phone system. Carter eventually learned that ATA Airlines, which had the group's reservation for a flight from Maui to Phoenix, had gone bankrupt. All ATA flights had been cancelled.

As one would expect, problems ensued. They would be able to get seats on another flight, but they would be standby passengers. And the chances didn't look good for all four to get on the same flight as passengers.

Plus, they weren't able to continue to stay at their resort past April 10 because all of the resort's rooms were booked. However, the resort delayed the group's check-out time and helped the group find another resort across the island. That also proved problematic since, as Carter put it, Noel had a 200-pound suitcase that had to be lugged downstairs and to the other resort.

Their problems mounted. Carter and Noel's cash eventually ran out, and they maxed out their credit cards. Carter said it cost $400 a day for them to stay in Maui, and the

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacours@mncable.net

Today we have recipes from the First Lutheran Church Centennial cookbook from 1991. There are good cooks in Stephen.

Why don't we go back to homemade cakes for graduations? You could even use 2 mixes and make a nice 11x17 half sheet cake, but homemade would be better, wouldn't it?

But don't save these recipes for something special - they are great anytime.

Everybody wants chocolate cake. Make this easy one. The frosting is delicious (and you can double the recipe, too) but you may want to make something more fancy for your graduation cake:

SHEET CAKE

Yvonne Kazmierczak

2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
1 cup water
1 cup butter
4 (or more) tablespoons cocoa
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1/2 cup buttermilk
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine flour and sugar.

Boil the water, butter, cocoa and oil. Pour into flour mixture. Let cool a few minutes, then add buttermilk, eggs, soda and vanilla. Bake on 11x17 greased and floured cookie sheet at 400 degrees for 20-25 minutes.

CHOCOLATE CHIP FROSTING

1 cup white sugar
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup chocolate chips
1 teaspoon vanilla

Boil sugar, milk and butter together for 1 minute. Add chocolate chips and vanilla and beat creamy. Spread.

This cake sounds delicious and a bit different. And the frosting ....oh, my. I haven't tried it yet - but I'm going to:

CARROT PINEAPPLE CAKE

Karen Shager

3/4 cup oil
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
2 cups shredded carrots
3/4 cup honey
4 eggs
2 cups whole wheat flour
1 1/2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt (optional)
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup nuts (optional)

Blend oil, pineapple, carrots, honey and eggs with mixer.

In separate bowl, blend all dry ingredients, then add to liquid ingredients. Add nuts, if desired.

Place in greased and floured 9x13 inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes.

CREAM CHEESE/HONEY FROSTING

1 (8 ounce) softened cream cheese
1 softened stick of butter (1/2 cup)
1/4 cup honey (more or less for desired consistency)
Vanilla - few drops

Beat all ingredients to spreading consistency. Frost cooled cake.

Why not cupcakes for graduation? No plates and forks - just plenty of napkins. This recipe makes about 30 cupcakes, maybe more:

FILLED CUPCAKES

3 cups flour
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup cocoa
1 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup vegetable oil
2 teaspoons soda
2 cups cold water
2 teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons vanilla

Sift flour, sugar, cocoa, salt and soda. Add cold water, oil, vinegar and vanilla. Mix well. Make filling below. and fill paper muffin cups or greased pans half full.

Cupcake Filling

1 (8 ounce) package softened cream cheese
1/3 cup sugar
1 (6 ounce) package chocolate chips (mini are best for these)
1 unbeaten egg
1/8 teaspoon salt

Beat cream cheese, egg, sugar and salt. Stir in chips.

Fill lined cupcake pans 1/2 full of batter and then place 1 heaping teaspoon of filling over each half-filled cupcake.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes. Makes 30 cupcakes. It is not necessary to frost, but they are also good with a fudge frosting like the one on the Sheet Cake.

And wouldn't this be festive? I bet you could add other rather sticky candies to this cake (probably not M&Ms though - they might be too slippery):

POPCORN CAKE

Jody Paulson

3/4 to 1 cup of popcorn, popped
1 package of gumdrops
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup vegetable oil
1 (16 ounce) package marshmallows

Pop corn and place it and the gumdrops in large bowl.

Melt butter, oil and marshmallows together and pour over popcorn mixture. Place in greased angel cake pan and let set about 1/2 hour before removing to cake plate.

No injuries reported after fire Tuesday in Oklee

No injuries were reported after an early morning fire Tuesday in Oklee.

A child awoke after smelling smoke, and shortly before a fire alarm sounded, at 418 Senior Dr., Apartment 418, according to Red Lake County Sheriff Mitch Bernstein. Six to eight people, including at least four other children, safely evacuated Apartments 418 and 417. As of presstime Friday, the fire has been ruled an accident. It appears that a cigarette butt ignited a garbage bag in a shared furnace room between the two apartments, which were respectively rented by Bear Stately, and Christina Parsley and her boyfriend.

Minor damage was reported. Most of the damage was smoke damage. A shared water heater also sustained damage. The apartment occupants will be displaced for a few days until the damage can be repaired.

The Oklee Fire Department was dispatched to the scene at about 3 a.m. Tuesday.

Buy a dozen hardy roses.
Thanks to the breeding efforts of the folks up in Morden, Manitoba, we Minnesotans are lucky to have over a dozen Canadian rose varieties that need no winter protection.
At Bergeson's, we can help you choose the toughest varieties and we'll give you planting tips to ensure that you get beautiful blossoms for years to come.
Hope for Humanity grows to four feet tall with vivid, dark red blossoms from June until frost.
Winnipeg Parks is a low-growing melon-pink rose with huge, fragrant blossoms.
Morden Centennial is super hardy and smothered with large, brilliant pink blossoms all summer.
Morden Blush bare's hundreds of blush-pink blossoms that look like miniature tea roses. It grows 2-3 feet tall and blooms all summer.
Morden Sunrise features stunning single blossoms in shades of yellow, orange and pink. It has a delightful tangerine fragrance. As the least hardy of the Morden's, it should be planted very deep.
William Baffin is the only rose hardy and vigorous enough to be trained as a climber in our climate. It can also be grown as a six foot tall shrub. Either way, it can stop traffic with its brilliant display of deep pink blossoms.
Hansa is a an old-fashioned rose, with rough-textured foliage and very fragrant carmine-red blossoms. It is as hardy and easy as a shrub.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Be aware and take action

In the past dozen years or so, we've certainly experienced our share of natural disasters. Local officials became so accustomed to filling out the forms and managing these disasters that I imagine it has been quite a relief to not have to deal with one for a while. Not much would have to be said about preparing for these disasters, right? So why then did last week pass without anyone saying anything about the 1997 flood, or the latter floods that inundated Roseau and other areas in this region? It has been a dry year.

Emergency sirens across the state were expected to be tested April 24. It was Tornado Drill Day in the state of Minnesota. Wasn't Hallock hit by a tornado? It was severol years ago, now. And didn't I just see a story about construction at The Point in Warroad being completed after it was hit by a storm/tornado a couple of years ago? Not much has been said about preparing for tornados, though.

Not much was made of it, but last summer it got pretty warm around here by Minnesota standards. Did you know that heat waves have become such a public health concern that they are now being categorized as a form of natural disaster?

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety is now including heat waves in the category of a naturol disaster that we need to prepare for. Based on a national average from 1992-2001, excessive heat claimed 219 lives each year. By contrast, floods killed 88, tornadoes 57, lightning 52 and hurricanes 15. Nevertheless, not much is said about heat waves until we're in one.

I must admit that when a hurricane blows property into the ocean and taxpayers foot the bill, I get a little miffed. I don't mind tax dollars being spent to help people in trouble, but when people build right next to the ocean or waterfront, and then ask for a handout to cover their losses, I get a little miffed. You'd think these property owners would have to expect, maybe even anticipate water damage, like floods and hurricanes. The price is included in the purchase price, so to speak.

Severe weather happens, and it happens even here. But when disasters happen, could the damage have been averted by performing some common sense exercises or building to a different standard? Are there things that we can do to prevent damage to our property or ourselves? I suppose we could just sit here and wait for a disaster, so we can stick out our hands and ask for a handout.

There are things we can do to prepare for disasters. Some flood mitigation projects in our region, for example, remain on hold. Let's get those projects done before the next flood.

Let's also not forget that there are things we can do to prevent damage to our property, or injury to ourselves and families. During Severe Weather Awareness Week (April 21-25), it's time for us to be more than just aware of the danger. It's time to take action to protect ourselves, our families and our property.

A wildlife awakening at Agassiz NWR

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge will open its four-mile Lost Bay Habitat Drive May 1 (weather permitting). The opening of Lost Bay Habitat Drive affords the public a great opportunity to see some wildlife, as well as a diversity of other species.

Whether spring arrives early or late in this neck of the woods, it's always a special time, as evidenced by the numerous sights and sounds associated with area wildlife. After a long, hard winter, residents begin to look for subtle signs that spring is just around the corner in mid- or late February, such as nesting great horned owls or black-capped chickadees singing their distinctive "fee-bee, fee-bee" from a nearby spruce.

Depending on Mother Nature's mood, March can be a lengthy extension of winter's icy grip on the landscape, or its longer days and above-freezing temperatures can usher in a wealth of birds. At this time of year, lucky outdoor enthusiasts may hear the mournful howls of gray wolves or spot the silhouette of a stately bald eagle that has just returned to its nesting area. And, of course, the first returning giant Canada geese are always a welcome sight – standing on the ice seemingly knowing something people don't. By the latter part of March, one might glimpse a long-tailed weasel that's transitioning from its white winter to brown summer coat. It's also this time that the distinct rattling call of overhead sandhill cranes signals their arrival from wintering areas in Texas and New Mexico. Some of the early migrating hawks and falcons also arrive in northwestern Minnesota at this time, including northern harriers and American kestrels that have returned to nest in this area, and the much larger rough-legged hawks that are simply passing through en route to their arctic breeding grounds.

Although early April weather patterns can certainly be fickle, many migrating bird species "make their move" at this time. Robins, meadowlarks and other songbirds are typically present by this time, and while spring blizzards are a "slap in the face" to winter-weary humans, they can be deadly to many birds that aren't suited to those climactic extremes. The numerous species of ducks that nest here arrive in a somewhat predictable order. Mallards and pintails typically lead the way, shortly after the first open water appears. Hearty diving ducks like mergansers and common goldeneyes follow soon thereafter. Conversely, the diminutive blue-winged teal and ruddy ducks pull up the rear of the duck migration in this part of the world.

As April progresses, people are treated to many other "new" sights and sounds, such as that first bear of the season dashing across an opening with a pair of cubs that were born while she hibernated, or a dozen sharp-tailed grouse performing outrageous courtship dances on a historic prairie breeding ground. Near month's end, one can observe thousands of Franklin's gulls, just weeks removed from a winter on the coast of Chile, establishing colonies in isolated wetland areas. And walks at sunset are complemented by singing wood frogs, but unfortunately complicated by the first of the year's hitchhiking wood ticks.

The bottom line is this – make a point to get out this spring and take in what nature has to offer. Whether you're a passionate outdoor enthusiast or a casual observer of wildlife, it's hard to beat the sight and sounds of spring in the Tallgrass Prairie Aspen Parklands.

Call the Refuge headquarters at 449-4115 for migration updates or other information related to wildlife viewing opportunities.

The day-trip

I don't believe I've ever taken you on a day-trip with me. Last fall, I did write about our trip to Idaho, but that was seven times longer than a day-trip. Last week, my nephew, Jamie, and I retrieved an Oliver manure spreader from North Dakota, during a trip that took less than a day.

First off, most day-trips I make are recognizable by several factors; they have a purpose, they are the result of a purchase, and I usually rope someone into going with me. I've needed a different manure spreader for quite some time and decided to recently take the plunge. I could have purchased one locally, but that would have required more money and would not have required our day-trip.

Jamie and I left last Friday at five in the morning; we were bound for Denhoff, N.D. Denhoff is about 60 miles west of Carrington, so we would pay brother David a visit in the same fell swoop. I have become emboldened with age and so took several back roads that soved us some time and also brought us through the town of Hatton, N.D., which is the home of Carl Ben Eielson, world famous aviator. I like small towns, and North Dakota is rich with them; most have business districts the width of a C-store, but the towns are typically well-kept and feature a huge grain elevator. I also like the fact that Main Street is normally the highway, therefore I see some of the older, more ornate old homes from either side of the year 1900.

We arrived in Carrington and saw Dave working at Erickson Implement. Dave is a gadget-hound, like myself, so he offered his GPS for our trip to pick up the manure spreader. These little units are fantastic, and I think they would make a good addition for local emergency services. The GPS helped us find turn-offs with great accuracy and ticked off how far we had traveled as we curved around gravel roads to the home of Terry Stroebel.

Now, northwest Minnesota people are fantastic, but some of the North Dakota people would give us a real run for our money. Terry had welded a jack onto the spreader, oiled the wooden floor, greased the axle bearings and fussed over the unit to make sure it was field-ready. I'd sent him a check weeks ago, but he had not cashed it, as he wanted to make sure I liked what I'd purchased. His family was all gathered around for conversation with the travelers from abraad, and I'm sure they would have fed us had we stayed any longer, but we had to get home.

We stopped for another visit with David on the way home. We stood in front of his work and shot the breeze under the sun in light wind; it was really pleasant. We talked about the weather, farming, farmers, my new spreader, family and how well our trip had gone. Our trip had gone so well that I guess I wouldn't have had to bring most of the tools I own, an air compressor and my good crescent wrench. I felt we were due for a breakdown on the way home, but it never happened. Daylight revealed that which we'd missed on the way out, and we stopped for coffee about every hour and to stretch our legs-I've got a 28-inch inseam, so it doesn't take me very long.

The manure spreader is home now and sitting in the shed. Jamie and I had a nice trip and got to see Dave, so that was nice. Still, I wonder when I'll get the chance for a quest that does not require staying somewhere overnight. It's rare that purpose, purchase and someone willing to ride shotgun to get a manure spreader come together for a day-trip.

More counties to start burning permit restrictions

Spring open burning permit restrictions for much of northwest and west central Minnesota went into effect at 8 a.m. Thursday, April 24. The restrictions are meant to address the fact that most spring wildfires originate from the burning of yard debris, according to Olin Phillips, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources fire protection manager.

"The DNR is asking residents to use alternative methods of debris disposal, such as recycling, composting or chipping," Phillips said.

The counties affected by the April 24 restrictions are: Aitkin, Becker, Beltrami, Cass, Clearwater, Crow Wing, Eastern Polk (east of County Rd 6 and south of State Hwy 92), Hubbard, Itasca, Koochiching, Mahnomen, Ottertail and Wadena. In addition, the following counties in northwest Minnesota started restrictions on April 18 – Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington and northwest Beltrami. Lake of the Woods County began restricting permits April 21. The only counties that remain without permit restrictions are St. Louis, Lake and Cook in the Arrowhead of northeastern Minnesota.

Restrictions are going into effect later than in recent years, thanks to normal winter snowfall and cool spring weather. Since the inception of spring burning restrictions, the number of spring wildfires from debris burning has been reduced about 10 percent.

Although April 24 marks restrictions on the issuing of debris burning permits, forestry personnel may still give some variances for specific activities. "Each variance application is reviewed separately," Phillips said. "These permits are only granted for situations such as prescribed fires conducted by trained fire personnel, burning for approved agricultural practices, and construction or economic hardship burning for which there is no feasible alternative."

A map of fire restriction areas is available on the DNR Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us/forestry/fire.

USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service announces 2008 CSP

USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) has announced that the Conservation Security Program (CSP) sign-up for 2008 will be held until May 16, 2008, in the Thief Watershed.

The Thief Watershed is the only watershed available for this sign-up in Minnesota. It is located mainly in Marshall, Beltrami and Pennington counties with a very minute part of Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties. For applicants to qualify for 2008 CSP, at least 51 percent of the land they control for their entire agricultural operation must be located within the Thief Watershed.

CSP is a program unlike any other USDA program. It is a voluntary program that supports ongoing stewardship of private and agricultural lands. CSP provides payments to landowners who are actively practicing exceptional conservation management and are willing to make small changes to enhance natural resources. In short, CSP rewards the best and motivates the rest!

Eligible land uses include cropland, pastureland, hayland, incidental forestland and other lands. Eligible applicants must have control of the land for the 5-year or 10-year life of the contract and must share in the risk of producing a crop and or livestock. Individuals who cash rent all of their cropland are not eligible to apply for CSP, but the individual or entity renting the land might be eligible to apply.

For grazing lands to qualify for CSP, the applicant must rotationally graze their pastures and must have two years of written records documenting their grazing operation.

CSP is not considered a "land set aside or land retirement" program such as CRP. Land enrolled in CSP is considered "working land" and stays in production. If you rotate your crops, soil test your cropland at least once every five years, control erosion on your property, practice rotational grazing if you have livestock, use buffers to protect water quality or if you are willing to pursue additional conservation enhancements, you may be eligible.

To obtain additional information and to check on eligibility, contact your local NRCS office immediately, as the final deadline for signup is May 16, 2008. (Warren: 218-745-4351, Ext. #3, Thief River Falls: 218-681-1612, Ext. #3, or Bemidji: 218-751-1942, Ext. #3).

Changes to regulations for farm vehicles requires vigilance

by Michael Lockhart Farms
Northland Community College
Farm Business Management

At a recent information meeting with a Department of Transportation officer, a number of interesting and frustrating topics were discussed concerning regulations for farm vehicles.

Many of us did not know that farm service trucks with a fuel tank with a total capacity of 119 gallons need to be registered as hazardous material transportation vehicles. These vehicles need to have a placard identifying the material being hauled in addition to other requirements of driver qualifications (safety training), vehicle registration, and papers identifying the product hauled. These are only some of the requirements that may be enforced. So next time your hired man drives the service vehicle with fuel tanks through McDonald's and gets pulled over by DOT officers, you as the owner must come to that location, because your driver has not received proper hazardous material safety training or didn't properly park and secure that truck duly or because it was found in a "place where crowds assemble."

Other interesting information: Farmers and farm employees are not subject to hours of service rules. Overload violations do not go on driver's record, but safety violations do go on the driver's record. A DOT officer does not need probable cause to stop a vehicle. If you refuse to be weighed on the road side, there is an automatic $582 fine. A DOT officer can request that you follow them for up to five miles to scale weigh.

The biggest upcoming regulation will be enforcement of rear-end protection (bumpers). There is already some regulations such as if tires are farther than 24-inches from the end of the truck, it needs a bumper. End-dump trucks are where the issues seem to be.

To find these and other regulations, go to www.dot.state.mn.us.

If you would like more information or assistance in this or other farm management topics, you can reach a Farm Business Management instructor in your area by calling 1-800-959-6282.

Tree planting order forms now available

Each spring, the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District sells, distributes, and plants thousands of young trees and shrubs. The district serves conservation-minded families with projects including shelterbelts, windbreaks, enhanced wildlife habitat, water and soil conservation, and natural ecosystem restoration.

SWCD conservation trees and shrubs provide multiple benefits to natural communities, including energy savings, increased property value, shelter, food, and water quality protection.

The Pennington SWCD also provides technical assistance to design these plantings. SWCD staff is available to visit with families to plan and design their tree planting. Soil types are reviewed for each site using the Soil Survey to determine tree suitability. Whether program participants own a city lot or a large farm, the SWCD office can assist them in finding what will grow on their property.

Most plants are 18 to 24 inches tall and in bundles of 25. The stock is shipped directly from the nursery in a refrigerated semi-trailer and delivered to the SWCD, for distribution the first week in May.

There are a limited number of trees and shrubs left for this spring, so place your order now. Tree shelters and animal repellant are also available. Order forms may be picked up at the Pennington SWCD office located at 201 Sherwood Ave. S. or by calling (218) 683-7075.

Wetlands and natural cover provide valuable habitat to wildlife. Area governmental agencies have available a number of programs beneficial to farmers that enhance our environment. One of the programs being touted this spring by the NRCS is the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program, a voluntary program that helps individuals develop or improve wildlife habitat on private lands.

Disaster Program sign-up

The Pennington County FSA Office wants to remind producers that the sign up for the Crop Disaster Program (CDP) is underway at Farm Service Agency (FSA) County Offices. CDP reimburses insured producers for qualifying crop production losses to crop for either the 2005, 2006 or 2007 crop years. Losses must have occurred due to natural disasters. At this time no ending date has been announced.

To be eligible for CDP, farmers must have had the crop insured under federal crop insurance coverage or Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) coverage for the year they are requesting benefits. Producers who incurred qualifying losses in 2005, 2006, or 2007 must choose only one year to receive benefits. Benefits are available for losses to multiple crops, if the losses occurred in the same crop year. Damages must be in excess of 35 percent for 2005, 2006, or 2007 crop losses of production.

The payment rate for CDP is 42 percent of the established commodity price for insured crops. Producers will have a choice of receiving payments for 2005, 2006, or 2007 crops, in an administrative county. Payments are limited to $80,000 per producer or entity.

FSA will conduct a separate sign up for the quality loss portion of the CDP at a later date.

Producers with questions concerning CDP should contact their local FSA County Office, the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612 ext. 2, or visit the FSA web site at www.fsa.usda.gov.

May 1 deadline for SBA disaster loans approaching

In September of 2007, the USDA designated Roseau County and the contiguous counties of Beltrami, Kittson, Lake of the Woods and Marshall as a natural disaster area because of losses related to the combined effects of winterkill, due to severe cold and lack of snow cover; and early excessive rains, followed by hot, dry weather occurring during the 2007 crop year.

Congressman Collin Peterson is reminding businesses in these counties that a May 1, 2008, filing deadline is approaching for federal economic injury disaster loans to businesses that were directly affected by this agriculture disaster.

"If your business faced economic hardship as a direct result of this agriculture disaster, check with SBA to see if you're eligible for a low-interest loan," Peterson said.

Economic Injury Disaster Loans are available to farm-related and nonfarm-related small businesses and small agriculture cooperatives that suffered financial losses as a direct result of the disaster. Farmers are not eligible to apply to SBA and should contact their local FSA office.

Eligible small businesses may qualify for loans up to $1.5 million. These loans are available at a 4 percent interest rate with terms up to 30 years. The SBA will determine eligibility.

Interested business owners should contact SBA directly at 1-800-659-2955 Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Business loan applications also can be downloaded from www.sba.gov. Completed loan applications must be returned to the SBA no later than May 1, 2008.

Each spring, the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District sells, distributes and plants trees and shrubs. These shrubs and trees are beneficial in many ways. They provide shelterbelts, windbreaks, enhance wildlife habitat, and benefit water and soil conservation and natural ecosystem restoration.

Reminder: Permits are required!

Do you live 300 feet from a river or stream?

If you do, Pennington County requires a permit for any building and land alterations. This includes new structures, additions, sheds, decks, patios, stairways, replacing or installing septic systems, and specific grading, filling and other land alterations. This permit is only $25, so please come in and talk to staff at the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District before "after the fact" fines are dispersed. These regulations have been established to protect your property and the health of the river. The staff is more than happy to review plans and measure setbacks for you.

Do you live in the floodplain?

The area adjacent to rivers, streams and lakes that are susceptible to the 100-year flood (1 percent chance of the flood level being equaled or exceeded in any given year) is considered the floodplain. If you own property in the floodplain and plan on building any structure or addition you must apply for building permits. If you are unsure if your property is in the floodplain, come into the Pennington SWCD office for a floodplain map and additional information on building regulations.

Are you getting a new or replaced septic system?

The State of Minnesota requires that septic systems must be designed, installed and inspected by licensed individuals. Permits are needed to install septic system in the shoreland or floodplain areas.

Are you planning a project in a wet area?

If you are planning a project where the ground is saturated for part or all of the growing season, contact Pennington SWCD first. It may be a wetland! The Wetland Conservation Act states that no draining or filling of wetlands may take place. If application is made in advance, they may be altered and replaced in another area. Call the Pennington SWCD office for a wetland determination and for more information on the Wetland Conservation Act.

Reports indicate that sales of farm equipment are up. Prices on several commodities have been good during the past couple of years encouraging many farmers to take this opportunity to improve or enhance the equipment they have on hand.

Farm storage facility loan program available

The Farm Storage Facility Loan Program (FSFL) provides seven-year financing for on-farm storage provided the applicant meets certain eligibility requirements. The interest rate will be equivalent to the rate charged on U.S. Treasury securities of comparable maturity in effect during the month the loan is approved. The rate for loans funded in April 2008 was 3.000 percent. The rate will remain in effect for the term of the loan.

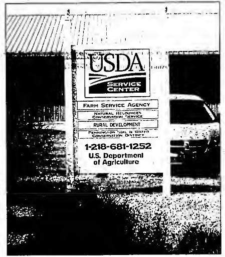
Loans will be available for new conventional-type cribs or bins designed for whole grain storage, new flat-type storage structures for which the primary use is to store whole grain, new and remanufactured oxygen-limiting and other upright silo-type structures designed for grain storage, new structures that are upright, bunker-type, horizontal, or open silo structures designed for whole grain storage or other than whole grain storage. Loans are also available for permanently affixed grain handling and drying equipment, existing storage renovated to FSA regulations, and safety equipment as required by CCC and meeting OSHA requirements.

All loans will be secured by a promissory note and security agreement covering the farm storage facility. A lien on the real estate on which the farm storage facility is located will be required on all loans exceeding $50,000 in the form of a real estate mortgage superior to all other lien holders.

A minimum 15 percent down payment is required. The principal amount of any FSFL shall be 85 percent or less of the net cost of the applicant's needed storage or handling equipment, not to exceed $100,000. Borrowers are limited to obtaining one loan per fiscal year, and the amount of outstanding loans can never exceed $100,000.

Producers, who accept delivery of parts, begin site preparation, begin foundation construction, or begin upgrading an existing facility before FSA approves their loan, will be ineligible for a loan.

Producers with questions concerning the FSFL should contact their local FSA County Office.



The United States Department of Agriculture Service Center in Thief River Falls is located behind Kmart at 201 Sherwood Ave. S.

Deadline to report acreage reports is July 15

Producers are reminded that the deadline to timely file a 2008 acreage report is July 15, 2008. Acreage reports are required to be filed for all the cropland on the farm in order for producers to be eligible to receive annual farm program payments, FSA Marketing Assistance Loans, LDPs, CRP annual rental payments, Crop Disaster Program benefits, benefits under the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program, and any other FSA program requiring an annual acreage report.

The last week of May, the county office intends to mail out maps to all producers listed as operators on the county office records along with a letter with instructions on how to properly complete the maps. If producers do not receive maps for all the land they are operating or received maps for land they are not operating for 2008, they should contact the county office so records can be updated.

As in past years the county office will be taking acreage reports by appointment. The county office asks that once producers have finished filling out their maps that they call the county office to set up an appointment to certify their acres. Producers with crop insurance should file an acreage report with FSA before June 30, so they can take a copy of their acreage report and maps to their crop insurance agent.

Producers with questions concerning acreage reporting requirements should contact their local FSA office or the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612 ext. 2.

Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program applications available

The Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP) is a voluntary program for individuals to develop or improve wildlife habitat on private lands.

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) provides technical assistance with cost-share payments used to establish, maintain, or replace wildlife habitat practices. Federal cost-share will reimburse up to 75 percent of costs, and generally the total cost share cannot exceed $10,000 per contract. Under the agreement, the landowner agrees to maintain the practices and allow NRCS access to monitor progress and effectiveness.

Any landowner is eligible to participate. Almost any type of land may be eligible, including: grassland, woodland, pastureland, wetlands, streams and riparian areas, agricultural and non-agricultural land. Participants must own or have control of the land under consideration for the duration of the contract. NRCS is currently taking applications for this program.

For more information about WHIP, contact the local NRCS or SWCD.

Environmental Quality Incentives Program applications are available

Agricultural producers wanting to solve natural resource problems on their farms should apply for assistance through the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) administered by the USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS). Applications for EQIP can be accepted at local NRCS Field Offices throughout the year while scoring and ranking of applications will likely occur towards fall or winter. While the scoring period will not happen until later in 2008, agricultural producers are encouraged to sign-up early to work on the details of their application.

EQIP continues to be the heart of the NRCS' working lands conservation program. EQIP is the primary tool for landowners who want to apply soil and water conservation practices and provides both technical assistance and financial assistance for agricultural producers. Eligible cost-share practices include wildlife habitat plantings, erosion control structures, manure management facilities and field borders. Incentive payment practices include prescribed grazing, pest, nutrient and residue management.

If you have natural resource concerns on your land and are interested in making a commitment to conservation, EQIP could be the answer you have been looking for.

To find out more about EQIP in Minnesota, contact your local NRCS field office or please visit the MN NRCS Web site: www.mn.nrcs.usda.gov.

State recommends that well water should be tested every year

The Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) recommends that private wells should be tested once a year for total coliform bacteria, an indicator of bacterial contamination. This test detects a broad group of bacteria that are used as a general indicator of possible contamination problems, even though they don't usually cause disease themselves. Coliform bacteria are present in the wastes of warm-blooded animals and found in the soil, but usually not more than a few feet below the soil surface. When they're detected in well water, it means that surface contamination may have entered the well. It also means that disease organisms, from human or animal waste, may be present.

Nitrate tests are recommended every two or three years. More often if nitrate has been detected previously in the well, or if an infant under the age of 6 months will be consuming the water. Nitrate in wells is a health concern primarily for young infants, in whom the nitrate can be converted into nitrite in the digestive tract. The nitrite then interferes with the ability of the baby's blood to carry oxygen, resulting in methemoglobinemia "blue baby syndrome." If levels of nitrate exceed the current health limit of 10 milligrams per liter (as nitrogen), infants under six months should not consume the water. Nitrate contamination can be the result of agricultural runoff, improper use of fertilizers or failing septic systems.

Pennington Soil Water Conservation District sponsors well water testing clinics with discounted prices every year. Each participant also receives a Well Owner's Manual. Manuals and sample bottles are available year round. Other tests that can be performed are lead, iron, and hardness analysis.

For more information about the well water testing clinic, please contact the Pennington SWCD office.

Cost-share program to help implement conservation practices

Erosion can threaten water quality and your property. The Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District office offers technical assistance to plan, design and implement conservation practices such as grade stabilization structures, stream bank restoration, ag waste management, grassed waterways and tree plantings. The District office also has grant money available to pay up to 75 percent of the costs associated to implement these practices.

Unused wells can also cause many problems, such as acting like a channel for contaminates to reach ground water, consequently affecting nearby drinking wells, as well as posing a physical threat to children and animals because of uncovered and unprotected holes. To reduce the chance of contaminating water supplies, the office has a cost-share program to permanently seal unused wells. The SWCD can pay up to 50 percent of the sealing costs not to exceed $500 per well. The average cost to seal a well in Pennington County is $300, however, each well is case-sensitive. Sealing costs vary according to well depth, accessibility, and obstructions in the well.

Farm Service Agency

The Farm Service Agency (FSA) administers and manages farm commodity, credit, conservation, disaster and loan programs as laid out by Congress through a network of federal, state and county offices.

These programs are designed to improve the economic stability of the agricultural Industry and to help farmers adjust production to meet demand. Economically, the desired result of these programs is a steady price range for agricultural commodities for both farmers and consumers.

State and county offices directly administer FSA programs. These offices certify farmers for farm programs and pay out farm subsidies and disaster programs. Currently, there are 2,346 FSA County Offices in the continental states. FSA also has offices in Hawaii, and a few American territories.

FSA lends money and provides credit counseling and supervision to eligible applicants who operate family-size farms. A family-size farm is considered to be one that a family can operate and manage itself. Under the Guaranteed Loan Program, FSA guarantees loans made by conventional agricultural lenders for up to 95 percent of any loss. FSA's direct loans include ownership, operating, emergency, youth and Indian-land acquisition.

FSA programs enhance the environment by the development and implementation of programs to ensure adequate protection of our natural, cultural, and historic resources. FSA assist agricultural producers and landowners in achieving a high level of stewardship of soil, water, air, and wildlife resources on America's farms.

FSA strives to provide equitable, friendly, effective, and efficient customer service and to enhance the ability of small, limited resource, beginning and socially disadvantaged family farmers to operate successfully.

Through local FSA County Offices, FSA administers the following programs: Agricultural Mediation Program, American Indian Livestock Feed Program, Beginning Farmer and Rancher Loans, Conservation Reserve Program, Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program, Crop Disaster Program, Dairy Disaster Assistance Program, Dairy Indemnity Payment Program, Debt for Nature Program, Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment Program, Direct Farm Ownership Program, Direct Operating Loan Program, Downpayment Farm Ownership Loans, Emergency Conservation Program, Emergency Loan Program, Farmable Wetlands Program, Farm Storage Facility Loan , Grassland Reserve Program, Guarunteed Farm Ownership Loan Program, Guaranteed Operating Loan Program, Homestead Protection Program, Indian Tribal Land Acquisition Program, Livestock Assistance Program, Milk Income Loss Contract Program, Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program, Nonrecourse Marketing Assistance Loan and Loan Deficiency Payment Programs, Primary Loan Servicing Program, Trade Adjustment Assistance for Farmers, Tree Assistance Progrum, and Youth Loans.

More than 8,000 farmer County Committee members serve in FSA County Offices nationwide. Committee members are the local authorities responsible for fairly and equitably resolving local issues while remaining directly accountable to the secretary of agriculture and local producers through the elective process. They operate within official regulations designed to carry out federal laws and provide necessary and important voice in federal decisions affecting their counties and communities.

Committee members make decisions affecting which FSA programs are implemented countywide, the establishment of yields, commodity price support loans and payments, conservation programs, incentive, indemnity, and disaster payments for commodities, and other farm disaster assistance.

The Pennington County FSA Office is located in the Thief River Falls Service Center, 201 Sherwood Ave S.

TRF duo has top score at W-A-O meet

Thief River Falls teammates Corissa Kruse and Laura Heschke won a tie-breaker to earn medalist honors at the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational Best Ball/Scramble girls high school golf tournament Thursday at the Warren Riverside Country Club.

Instead of the normal team competition, the meet featured two-person combinations playing nine holes of best ball and nine holes of scramble-style golf.

Kruse-Heschke turned in an 81 – a score matched by Katie Olson and Emily Hallie of Roseau. But the handicap score tie-breaker went to the two Prowlers.

"The conditions weren't the best," reported Thief River Falls coach Gary Laidley, but they (Kruse-Heschke) played exceptionally well. I was very praud of them."

Don Jorstad earns award

Don Jorstad of Thief River Falls was selected as a recipient of the 2008 National Junior College Athletic Association Service Award.

The award is given annually to individuals who have made significant contributions to community college athletics on a national level for an extended period of time.

Nominated by former Northland Community and Technical College Athletics Director Deb Jacobson, Jorstad received the award this week. He was one of only four individuals nationwide to earn the honor.

Jorstad has been involved with Northland for years as a radio play-by-play announcer and public address announcer at many NCTC home sports events.

Rainy River sweeps Northland

Rainy River scored the tie-breaking run in the bottom of the seventh inning in both games Tuesday for a 7-6, 10-9 Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division softball sweep against Northland.

The Pioneers banged out 28 hits and committed just one error in the two games, but still had nothing to show for the effort.

"It was frustrating," said Northalnd coach Kathy Huschle. "We should have won. I think our kids lost their focus a little bit in Game 2."

Northland out-hit Rainy River 12-9 in Game 1. The Voyagers used a single, passed ball, graund-out and sacrifice ball to break a 6-6 seventh inning stalemate.

Brittni Johnson was the first-game starting and losing picture. Johnson, Carissa Erickson, and Alicia Sunsdahl had two hits each for the Pioneers.

It was a 16-11 base hit advantage for Northland in Game 2, with Shawna Rogalla, Erickson and Johnson getting three hits apiece. Keandra Cobbins was the losing pitcher.

Rainy River was charged with just one error in the two games.

Northland is 12-14 for the year.

Prowlers lose to Spuds 6-5

Moorhead runner Jordan Doschadis is chased back toward second by Thief River Falls third baseman Zach Sorenson during a third inning rundown in Tuesday's high school baseball game at the Multi-Events Center. First baseman Spencer Johnson of the Prowlers (left) was also involved in the play. Doschadis was tagged out, but the Spuds won 6-5.

It seems contradictory, but in a game where Thief River Falls pulled off a rare triple play, it was the Prowlers' defense that cost them a 6-5 Tuesday high school baseball loss at the hands of Moorhead.

Errors, passed balls and wild pitches were all part of the formula for defeat as the Prowlers fell to 4-2 in their only start of the week.

"Disappointing," was the word Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz used to describe the home field setback. "We made way too many mistakes. Mentally we weren't there. If we were, we win the game. We didn't get beat; we lost the game."

First run of the game came in the Moorhead half of the third inning when winning pitcher Scott Petry led off with a single to left, moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Michael Little and to third when Jordan Doschadis' infield graunder turned into an error. Thief River Falls pitcher Cody Conners had Doschadis picked off first base, but a dropped ball on the rundown allowed Petry to trat home.

The Spuds broke it open with a four-run fourth that began with a double into the right field corner by Braden Rahman, a passed ball, hit-batsman and fielder's choice RBI for Kyle VanDyke. Jake Bernhardt drove in two runs with a double to deep left field and another fielder's choice out – this one by Little – scored the fourth run of the inning.

Three Thief River Falls fifth inning runs closed the gap. The inning started with a two-base error. A one-out RBI single by Jordan Espeseth was followed by a run-scoring double by Spencer Johnson, who would later score on a second Moorhead error in the inning.

Moorhead tacked on what would prove to be the winning run in the top of the seventh on an inning-opening error, stolen base and RBI double by Tyler Schlotfeldt.

Thief River Falls then pulled off the triple play to keep the game within reach. With runners at first and second, Joe Pietrick hit a graund ball to shortstop Jordan Espeseth, who tossed to second baseman Keaton Joppru for the force-out. Joppru's relay to first baseman Spencer Johnson arrived in time for the second out. Johnson then threw home to get Schlotfeldt trying to score from second on the play.

The Prowlers made it close in the bottom of the inning when Espeseth had a lead-off single to right and Johnson hit a two-run home run over the left field fence. But Petry retired the next three batters to finish off his complete-game win.

Rahman and Petry had three-hit games for the Spuds. Espeseth and Johnson both had a pair of hits for the Prawlers.

Throwers lead TRF at Park Rapids meet

First place throws in the girls discus and shot put by Kathryn Walrath and Erica Wayne, respectively, led Thief River Falls performances at the Park Rapids Invitational high school track meet Tuesday.

Walrath added a second place run in the 100-meter dash.

Aaron Langan was the top point-producer for the Thief River Falls boys with second-place runs in the 100 and 400, along with a third in the 200.

Park Rapids Area girls and Roseau boys won team traphies. Thief River Falls girls finished fifth and the the boys were seventh in an 11-team field.

"They're doing fine," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson, whose program has a low number count this spring. "Aaron Langan and Tom Loe are doing most of the scoring for the boys. The girls are doing really, really well."

Shortstop Jordan Espeseth made the throw to first base trying to complete a Thief River Falls double play in the fourth inning of Tuesday's high school baseball game against Moorhead. The Spuds' Scott Petry was forced at second base on the play, but the relay was too late to get the runner at first.

Detroit Lakes golfers have top 8AA scores

Minnesota went to three classes for the 2008 Minnesota boys high school golf season, and the early edge in Section 8AA goes to Detroit Lakes. The Lakers finished with a 16-stroke victory Wednesday in the Pre-Section 8AA Invitational hosted by Walker-Hackensack-Akeley at the Long Bow County Club.

Led by one-under-par 71s from Ben Berquist and Mike Brodsho, the Lakers put together a 294 to distance themselves from the rest of the 13-team field. Runner-up Roseau shot a 310.

Thief River Falls tied for seventh at 342, and Prowlers head coach Dick Tyler let it be known that he wasn't satisfied with the performance. "I was not happy with the team score," he said. "We played good social golf. But the problem was, we were supposed to be playing competitive golf."

One bright spot in the Prowlers' second meet, and first 18-hole outing of the year, was Kevin Lunke's 80. "Kevin played steady golf," mentioned Tyler. "He had two birdies and only one double-bogie. His score was only a few strokes off what it would take to make the state tournament. I'm sure he knows he can take a few strokes off his score."

As a team, the Prowlers had three birdies, 18 double-bogies, five triple-bogies and one quadruple-bogie, pointed out Tyler. "We need to keep the ball in play," he said.

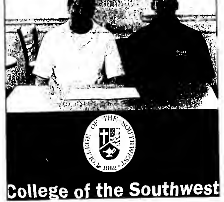
TRF meet is canceled

Weather conditions prompted Thief River Falls officials to cancel the 2008 Quent Jones Relays boys and girls high school track meet Friday at Lowell T. Swenson Field.

Crookston, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, Grand Rapids, Roseau, and Badger/Greenbush-Middle River/Tri-County were scheduled to join the host Prowlers in the event.



Jake Stuckey, a Lincoln High School senior, has signed a letter of intent to play basketball at the College of the Southwest in Hobbs, N.M. A captain for the 18-8 Prowlers this winter, Stuckey received a partial scholarship to join the first-year NAIA Mustangs, a member of the Red River Athletic Conference, whose 30-game schedule covers Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Stuckey will complete his AA degree at Northland Community and Technical College this summer and start work on a criminal justice degree this fall at CSW. Stuckey (left) is pictured with Mustangs head coach Quinn Wooldridge. (Submitted photo).

Prowlers beat Freeze

Amanda Lara (3), Cassie Gunderson (3) and Hailey Peterson (2) drove in a combined eight runs as Thief River Falls beat Northern Freeze 10-3 in a Tuesday high school softball game at Newfolden.

Meagan Abrahamson and Peterson were both 3-for-4, Lara went 2-for-3 and Gunderson was 2-for-4 with a home run in the Prowlers' 14-hit offense.

Meanwhile, Thief River Falls pitcher Jenna Hoglo threw five shutout innings and limited the Freeze to five hits.

"Jenna did a great job on the mound," said Thief River Falls coach Corey Poole, whose team impraved to 3-2.

A first-inning error was followed by a three-run Gunderson home run and the Prowlers never looked back.

"We took advantage of any mistakes the Freeze made," pointed out Poole. "The error, followed by Gunderson's home run, really helped to get us going early."

The Prowlers wound up with five errors, compared to three for the Freeze, but those came with the game already well in hand.

"I thought defensively we played very well for the first six innings," offered Poole.

Cows die of anthrax

species. In rare cases, humans can contract anthrax after handling or eating infected products.

Animals are most likely to be infected by anthrax in the summer while out on pasture. Although it is unusual to see a case of anthrax so early in the year, these animals were on pasture in an area where cases had been detected in the past. Cases typically occur in areas where animals have previously died of anthrax. Anthrax is not spread by animal to animal contact.

"Anthrax spores can survive for many years in the soil," said Board of Animal Health Senior Veterinarian Dr. Linda Glaser. "In recent years, anthrax has been found in northwestern Minnesota, but it is important to understand that western Minnesota does have a history of anthrax, and producers should seriously consider anthrax vaccinations for grazing animals." Cattle producers should contact a veterinarian for information on vaccinating animals.

Any animal that dies suddenly of an unknown cause in western Minnesota should be treated as an anthrax suspect. Producers should contact their veterinarian immediately so blood samples can be submitted for testing. If anthrax is confirmed, any remaining animals should be vaccinated and treated. Necropsies should not be performed on suspect carcasses, as the procedure can result in contamination of surrounding soil. All suspect cases of anthrax must be reported to the Minnesota Board of Animal Health at 651-201-6831.

For more information on anthrax and steps farmers can take to protect their cattle, visit the Board of Animal Health Web site at www.bah.state.mn.us.

Beito to work on tax reform

complete the process is Dec. 1.

Beito said he has no aspirations to run for public office. He said he just likes working with public policy. He added that he just wants to be a good volunteer and looks forward to working on this issue, hopefully in a non-partisan manner.

The Governor's appointees are:

Michael M. Vekich (Chair), of St. Louis Park, a CPA who heads Vekich Associates, a management firm that specializes in strategic planning, acquisitions, mergers, refinancing and business consulting.

Philip J. Albert, of Circle Pines, vice president of corporate tax with Medtronic, Inc.

David Beito, of Thief River Falls, chairman, president and CEO of Northern State Bank of Thief River Falls.

William V. Belanger, of Bloomington, a retired businessman and former State Senator.

Danielle A. Buchberger, of Duluth, a CPA, with Eikill and Schilling Ltd. of Duluth.

David R. Carlsen, of Minneapolis, chairman and CEO of UMI Company, Inc, a manufacturing company in Hopkins.

Corey Haaland, of Bloomington, vice president and treasurer of Target Corporation.

Mark Haveman, of Woodbury, executive director of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association, a non-profit, nonpartisan organization dedicated to the advancement of efficient, economical government.

Joy Lindsay, of Oakdale, president of StarTec Investments, LLC, a private venture capital firm focused on early stage companies based in the Midwest.

Wendell Maddox, of Minnetonka, president and CEO of ION Corporation, an aerospace and technology company.

Gerald "Jerry" Morris, of Burnsville, assistant director of taxes and senior tax counsel of planning and litigation with General Mills.

Rebecca Paulsen, of Minneapolis, a CPA and vice president of state taxes with U.S. Bank.

Kate Rubin, of Plymouth, is president of the Minnesota High Tech Association (MHTA), the largest technology trade organization in the state dedicated to supporting the growth, sustainability, and global competitiveness of Minnesota technology-based economy.

John Spry, Ph.D., of St. Paul, an associate professor in the Department of Finance at the University of St. Thomas in St. Paul.

David L. Welliver, of St. Paul, a CPA and director of practice development with Wilkerson Associates, where he has management responsibilities within the firm's Financial Reporting Services team.

"I'm honored that Governor Pawlenty asked me to chair this important commission," Vekich said. "He has brought together an impressive and diverse group of experts who are up to the task of recommending a tax system that supports Minnesota's economic vitality. I expect that the innovative and strategic recommendations that emerge from the Commission will become the model for 21st century tax systems and will position Minnesota to be a leader in the global economy."

The Governor's 21st Century Tax Reform Commission, created by Executive Order 08-06, consists of 15 members, and will be provided support by the Minnesota Department of Revenue. The commission will report its recommendations to the Governor by Dec. 1, 2008.

Dance War finalist, Roseau native to perform in Grand Forks May 10

Fans of the ABC show, "Dance War – Bruno vs. Carrie Anne" will be excited to know that Phillip Clyde Bemier, from the winning Team Bruno, will be appearing at the Empire Arts Center in Grand Forks, N.D. May 10.

This will be one of the first stops for Bemier's "Do What You Dream Acoustic Tour," where he will be passionately performing his own original soulful music and talking about his experience on Dance War. The show will start at 7:30 p.m. and the doors will open at 7 p.m.

Accompanying Phillip will be Kari Nelson, a fiddle player from Nashville, Tenn. Nelson moved to Nashville from Roseau, and is currently a correspondence student through the University of North Dakota, while pursuing her music career in Nashville, Tenn. Nelson's sister, Anneliesse, will be graduating from UND May 10, and this is one of the main reasons for the Do What You Dream Tour appearing in Grand Forks, N.D., on that date. Bemier and Nelson have experience performing together, as they were both part of a world tour in which they entertained the troops for a full month before Bemier appeared on the Dance War television show.

In honor of the University of North Dakota graduation, Bemier is offering a special price of $12 for UND students who show up to the concert wearing a cap and gown. Other UND students can get the reduced price if they buy their tickets in advance and show a UND student I.D. Adults (13 and over) will have a ticket price of $20 at the door or an advance sale price of $15. The price for children will be $10.

Tickets may be purchased through the Empire Arts Center or through Ticketmaster.com (as of Thursday, the 24th) – but remember that Ticketmaster charges a fee. Anyone can purchase a ticket in advance (without a fee) at the Chester Fritz Building or by calling 701-777-4090 for more information.

LHS Prom events set for Saturday

The annual party is free of charge, and will be held following the prom from midnight to 3:30 a.m. Sunday, April 27. Admittance to the event will end at 1:15 a.m. If an attendee chooses to leave the party, he or she will not be allowed to return.

Elks Lodge 1308 is located on the corner of Third Street and LaBree Avenue in downtown Thief River Falls. Parents with questions or who wish to contact their teen during the event, are encouraged to call the Elks at 681-3045.

This years party will feature over a $1,000 in cash and prizes. Grand prize drawings will be held at 3:15 a.m. Free pizza, snacks and beverages will be available. Activities will include Guitar Hero and Wii games, karaoke, pool, darts, blackjack and a variety of other games and contests.

"The Elks is happy to help provide a safe, drug and alcohol-free environment for our kids after the Prom," said Thief River Falls Elks Lodge President Ben Erickson. Erickson added, "We want to thank all of the many businesses, groups and individuals who donate gifts, cash prizes and services year after year. It is because of their continued generosity that we are able to sponsor this event."

Stranded in paradise

boys were eating like horses.

There was also work and school to consider. The boys were fearful that they would spend part of their summer in summer school, making up for the time lost in Hawaii. Noel worried that she would be fired from her job at MeritCare Southeast Clinic in Thief River Falls. Carter, who is also employed by MeritCare Southeast Clinic, was worried about work as well. Carter called and was told that everything was fine.

Carter soon realized that he worked with Carol Stumpf and she might be able to help the group return to Thief River Falls. Stumpf's husband, LeRoy, is a state senator, and she provided Carter with his phone number. Carter left a message at Sen. Stumpf's office in the late hours of April 15. At 7:30 a.m. April 16, Carter spoke with one of Sen Stumpf's staff members.

Fifteen minutes later, Sen. Steve Murphy called and left a message for Carter. At the time, Carter was on a beach and wondering how the group would be able to swim across the ocean to get back home. Later, Carter called Murphy's office back. Murphy has a friend who works at Northwest Airlines. Twenty minutes after that phone call, a Northwest Airlines employee called and asked Carter if his group would be able to leave that night. Carter said yes. The group left Hawaii at 8:35 p.m. April 16, embarking on a 20-hour journey. Their return flights took them through Honolulu; Portland, Ore.; Minneapolis; and Grand Forks, N.D.

Carter and Noel are thankful for the help they have received. They are especially thankful for their coworkers at MeritCare Southeast Clinic, who held a fundraiser for the group.

Carter said, "It's good to be back home and in Minnesota, where you can count on people when you need them."

Cousins Beau Eckart (left) and Nick Noel recently returned from Maui, Hawaii, where they spent more time than they had expected after an airline went bankrupt. The cousins went on vacation with Noel's mother, Rhonda, and her fiancée Randy Carter. (Submitted photo)

Grygla-Gatzke blood drive set for May 8

Grygla-Gatzke residents have the opportunity to celebrate life by joining in a community blood drive scheduled for 7:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 8, at the Community Center. For appointments, call any of the following: Nadine Wold 459-3315; Mildred Klamar at 459-3436; Ralph Rundell at 294-6177; or Sheldon Peterson at 294-6176.

"It is important to come together as a community to help one another," said Rob Miller, donor recruitment representative with United Blood Services. "We all expect blood to be there for us if we ever need it," said Miller. "But only about 5 percent of the population donates blood."

Not only will people have a great feeling after donating blood at the drive, but they'll be able to check their total cholesterol level. United Blood Services now offers free cholesterol testing when people give blood.

United Blood Services does a "total cholesterol" test that allows donors to eat before the test - no fasting required.

"We use the 'total cholesterol' test because it's important for donors to have a healthy meal before they donate," Miller said. It is recommended that adults have a different cholesterol test, called a lipoprotein profile, every five years. A lipoprotein profiles requires a 12-hour fast and is done at a physician's office or lab.

Donors can check their confidential results at www.UnitedBloodServices.org the week after their donation or call 888-293-8203.

Blood donors must be 17 years or older and in good health. Donors are asked to bring a photo ID and Donor Card every time they donate. First-time donors receive a donor card with their blood type in the mail shortly after their first donation.

Rosebud to vote again

Fosston - "Rosebud Co-op Oil Association members will have another opportunity to vote on a proposed merger with the McIntosh-Fosston Elevator and Fosston Co-op Ag Service. The decision was made last Tuesday at a meeting of Rosebud's Board of Directors.

"Questions arose after the original vote April 3. At that time, members of the elevator and ag service approved the merger. However, Rosebud's constituency shot it down by a close margin.

"In further examining the issue, it was discovered that a significant number of ballots were cast by individuals who weren't voting members. Rosebud Board President Mark Bingham told the Thirteen Towns the actual vote was not a part of the investigation, just whether the persons involved were eligible to participate.

"An extensive legal search of the organizations bylaws was conducted in order to determine who could vote. After reviewing guidelines that stem back to the 1920s, it was determined that only those who fall under the category of being agriculture producers are eligible." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, April 29, 2008, by Dan Kindall

Interest in renewable energy could spell local opportunity

Warren - "Marshall County officials are trying to stay on top of new information and potential opportunities in the area of alternate forms of energy derived from renewable resources.

"Scott Peters, Marshall County auditor-treasurer, has been the main force in county government behind the push to learn more about renewable energy and how that might impact northwestern Minnesota. He has been receiving the encouragement of the Marshall County Board of Commissioners in these efforts.

"The county formed an economic development committee about two years ago with the primary mission of staying knowledgeable about opportunities for development that may exist and channeling the information to those most likely to benefit from the information. The committee includes commissioners, staff and public representatives from each of the five commissioner districts.

"Identified by Peters as the most exciting alternative energy resources for potential development are wind energy, geothermal heating and cooling, bio-fuels (such as soybean oil as a diesel substitute) and hydrogen." - Warren Sheaf, April 30, 2008

"Old" to "gold"

Greenbush - "'One man's junk is another man's treasure' certainly could be Dale Foss' motto. He's into building, restoring and what-have-you in his spare time."

"His sitting room boasts a car couch. ... Dale cut off the back end of a junked 1958 Dodge, once owned by the late Oscar Green. This old beauty came equipped with fin-type fenders; the taillights are situated directly below the fins.

"After the removal of the trunk lid, he built and installed an upholstered red and black couch, which fits perfectly between the shiny black fenders. At the base of the car couch is the original rear bumper – scratches, dents and all – from the '58 Dodge." - The Tribune of Greenbush, April 30, 2008, by Mavis Gonshorowski

It's a new game

Area cattle producers are facing some difficult challenges

by David Hill
Editor

Cattle producers in northwestern Minnesota are still trying to come to grips with all the new rules and regulations. Because bovine Tuberculosis was found in 11 herds and as many as 18 deer, producing and managing a cattle business has become a whole new ball game. Last week, producers were invited to participate in workshops that would provide beef producers with research-based information and strategies for managing cattle in the new regulatory area of the state known as the Management Zone.

The first of four meetings on bovine TB was conducted at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, April 29. The topics covered during the workshops conducted by the University of Minnesota Extension Service and Minnesota Board of Animal Health included an update on the response to bovine TB in northwestern Minnesota, discussion on how to reduce TB transmission on the farm, record keeping requirements for herd management and disease surveillance, and marketing.

Howard Person, University of Minnesota Extension Service in Pennington and Marshall counties, said he was pleased with the turnout. He estimated that over 100 people attended.

Three other similar meetings were scheduled: Bagley the same evening, and Lancaster and Roseau on April 30.

Dr. Randy Lindemann, state district veterinarian from Frazee, explained that effective April 15, the regulatory zone in northwest Minnesota known as the TB Core Area was expanded to include the TB Management Zone.

When the zone was established, more regulations went into effect. Cattle herds... located in the Management Zone, for example, are required to obtain movement certificates and individually TB-test most animals before moving them off the premises. Producers also must have an official risk assessment to assess the interaction between deer and cattle. In addition, herds located in this area must have an annual whole-herd TB test. These requirements have an impact on management practices.

Why is it so big? The expansion, which created the bovine TB management zone, provides a buffer around the area of concern in northwest Minnesota, and as the state prepares to apply to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) for a Split State Status, will serve as the first step in that process.

He explained that this is an effort to reduce the impact the downgrade of Minnesota's bovine TB status to Modified Accredited will have on the state. Split state status, he said, would allow an upgraded TB status for the majority of the state, while the area where the disease has been found would remain Modified Accredited, and allow the state to focus its resources in the zone.

Lindemann said he understood that some producers were worried that this would allow the state to zone this area off and forget about it. "Nothing could be further from the truth," said Lindemann. The goal of the state, he said, is to eliminate bovine TB.

The split state boundaries have not been defined, yet. There is a proposal, he said, but it isn't official. The proposal under consideration would include roughly 325 herds in northwestern Minnesota. Lindemann said determining the specific zone may take as much as a year to complete, but they hope to have it defined by fall.

This is a map of the bovine TB management zone adopted earlier in April.

Tuesday, April 29, at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls, Dr. Randy Lindemann, state district veterinarian from Frazee, provided cattle producers an update them on the response to bovine TB in northwestern Minnesota. About 100 producers attended the event that also included discussions about how to reduce bovine TB transmission on the farm, record keeping requirements and disease surveillance, and marketing.

Hwy. 32 project in TRF delayed another year

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

A Highway 32/Main Avenue construction project has been delayed. The project, which was originally scheduled to occur this year, has been delayed to summer 2009.

The Highway 32/Main Avenue milling and overlay project will span from the intersection with Oakland Park Road to two-tenths of a mile north of the city limits of Thief River Falls. The project had been scheduled to start Sept. 8, 2008.

On Tuesday, J.T. Anderson said the project has been delayed since the city of Thief River Falls still hasn't determined whether there is a widespread corrosion problem with bolts on water valves underneath the highway. In addition, Anderson, resident engineer with the Minnesota Department of Transportation's Thief River Falls office, said the project has also been delayed due to funding issues.

Earlier this year, city personnel found corrosion problems with bolts installed on the water valves. The valves were installed in the 1990s. In February, Utilities Director Arlo Rude said city crews would investigate the problem further once the ground thawed. The bolts have to be replaced before the project starts.

In October 2007, Mn/DOT estimated that the entire project would cost $500,000. According to information that Public Works Director Ron Lindberg provided to the Thief River Falls City Council, the city's obligation is estimated to be $48,394. Of that amount, $22,787 will come from federal aid, and $25,607 will come from state aid and the city's state-mandated Conservation Improvement Program that uses revenue generated from the city's power sales.

In February, Lindberg said the Highway 32/Main Avenue project will cost $0 to the general taxpayer. Property owners will not be assessed for the improvements adjacent to their properties on Highway 32/Main Avenue.

Help Stamp Out Hunger

The National Association of Letter Carriers will be collecting non-perishable food items for distribution to the Area Food Shelf on Saturday, May 10. SuperOne, represented by Ross Dalzell, store manager, donated 1,968 pounds of food, and tripled its donation of bags. A total of 6,000 bags will be distributed this year. Renee Henney (left), Thief River Falls postmaster, Dalzell and Gloria Reierson (right), Area Food Shelf director, hope the effort will result in more than 10,000 pounds of food being donated.

Area letter carriers to collect food items

The National Association of Letter Carriers will be collecting non-perishable food items for distribution to the local food shelf on Saturday, May 10. Bags will be delivered during the week of May 5. Donations should be left by mailboxes.

"We've been hit hard lately," said Gloria Reierson, director of the Area Food Shelf. Reierson explained that the number of people seeking assistance is way up - 101 individuals more than last year at this time. Reierson credited higher prices for putting low-income families in difficulty.

The SuperOne store in Thief River Falls has traditionally been a part of the Stamp Out Huger effort. Store Manager Ross Dalzell said that because of the increased need this year, SuperOne will donate three times the number of bags and contribute 1,968 pounds of non-perishable food to kick-off the effort.

Last year, the effort resulted in about 2,100 pounds of non-perishable food being donated to the Area Food Shelf. This year, Dalzell hopes that by providing some additional assistance and creating some awareness of the problem that donations will increase substantially. He hopes that about 10,000 pounds of food will be collected.

Thief River Falls Postmaster Renee Henney, said she's pleased that the postal carriers have been a part of this effort and encourages residents to contribute to the effort.

Finding another home for Dani

Independent living for developmentally disabled children opens new doors

The U.S. Census Bureau reports that 10.7 million people, 6 and older, need personal assistance with one or more activities of daily living (such as taking a bath or shower) or instrumental activities of daily living (such as using the telephone).

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Judy DuChamp initially thought that her daughter, Dani, would live with her until she passed away. Time changes things. Twelve years ago, Dani moved to Riverwood Home in Thief River Falls.

It was the thought of what would happen to Dani when Judy and her husband, Mark, died that led the DuChamps to find somewhere else for Dani to live.

Matt Pittman also lives at Riverwood Home. His mom and dad, RaeAnn and Roger, moved Matt to Riverwood Home out of concern for Matt and their two adult daughters. "It's not fair to the siblings or the handicapped child," RaeAnn said.

Judy agreed, noting that her son lives in the Twin Cities and has his own life to live.

Dani moved to Riverwood Home on Jan. 12, 1996, the same day that her friend Matt moved into the home. "The kids are happy, waving, and we're crying," recalled RaeAnn, about when Matt and Dani moved into the home.

Judy recalled that Dani jumped out of the car without even saying goodbye.

Even though their kids were fine with the idea of moving elsewhere, that doesn't mean Judy and RaeAnn were fine with that change. RaeAnn suffered nightmares after Matt moved. Her nightmares were unfounded.

But now RaeAnn has other concerns. She and Judy are worried about the empty beds that are sometimes found at group homes. Not so long ago, there was a waiting list to move into group homes, RaeAnn said.

There are several group homes in Thief River Falls, and it's difficult for a parent to decide to have their adult child move to a group home. At Riverwood Home, parents have meetings with staff about their children's project goals. They are also able to drop in whenever they wish to do so. "I don't worry about a thing," RaeAnn said.

Matt has the mental capacity of a 3-year-old to a 12-year-old depending upon the situation. Dani has the mental capacity of a 7-year-old. At Riverwood Home, they exercise, do chores and have the freedom to choose what they wish to do, within reason. Matt and Dani both work at the Occupational Development Center in Thief River Falls. "Life to them is just so matter-of-fact. You just get along and do your day-to-day chores," RaeAnn said.

Moving to Riverwood Home has led Dani and Matt, both now 32, to be more independent and mature, Judy said. "It's such a relief to know that they're happy and provided for."

Parents who would like more information regarding placing their disabled adult children in group homes can call Judy DuChamp at 681-2411 or RaeAnn Pittman at 378-4287.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: [illegible]

Today's recipes are from my 1995 Viking Zion Lutheran Church cookbook. Mrs. Chell gave it to me when it first came out. I wonder how they are doing. Anybody know?

Somebody's bound to need a tasty salad in the near future, whether it is for a wedding, graduation, shower or some other big event. Use the following recipes to get a start and then add and take away as you like. Most salads, often the best ones, are mix and match anyway.

Nothing like fresh fruit and this one is so simple. Use whatever fruits are in season for a different salad every time you make it. If desired, serve a little fruit dip on the side too:

FRUIT COMPOTE SALAD
JoAnn Peters

2 apples, cut in small pieces
2 pears, cut in small pieces
2 oranges, peeled, sliced and quartered
2 bananas, sliced
1 pineapple or 1 large can tidbits
1/4 cup orange juice
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar (or substitute sweetener)

Place all fruit in bowl. Pour liquid combination and sugar over fruit. Chill overnight to blend flavor. Canned fruits may be used, but drain well. If necessary, use slotted spoon when serving.

FRENCH DIP
(This one is mine - not JoAnn's)

1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, room temperature
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup whipped cream (or more, as desired)

(If you use whipped topping, leave off the powdered sugar and use 1/2 cup instead of 1/4 cup of the granulated below)

1/4 cup granulated sugar
1 lemon (or orange) zest and juice
2 tablespoons pineapple juice
2 tablespoons orange juice

Mix all ingredients in order. Refrigerate until serving.

Cranberries are really good for you. If you like, throw some fresh blueberries into this salad for a real punch, but it is delicious just the way it is:

CRANBERRY SALAD
Jean Anderson

1 package fresh cranberries (rinsed and ground)
3/4 cup sugar
1 package miniature marshmallows
1 can pineapple, drained (whatever size you desire)
1 pint cream, whipped (or whipped topping)
2 cups green grapes
1 apple, unpeeled and chopped

Mix cranberries, sugar, pineapple and marshmallows and refrigerate for several hours.

Whip cream. Add grapes and chopped apples to cranberry mixture, then whipped cream, and blend. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

I love broccoli salad. This one sounds perfect for a summer get-together:

BROCCOLI SALAD
Andrey Anderson

5 cups chopped fresh broccoli
1/2 to 1 cup raisins
1 teaspoon grated onion
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup salad dressing
10 slices bacon, fried
1/2 cup sunflower seeds

In large bowl, combine broccoli, raisins and onion. In small bowl, combine sugar, vinegar and salad dressing. Pour over broccoli mixture and toss to coat. Refrigerate.

Just before serving, sprinkle with bacon and sunflower seeds. Toss and serve.

This salad has broccoli in it too, but it has lots of other good things you wouldn't expect in a supper salad, like the can of sweetened condensed milk. This one will feed a bunch:

PASTA SALAD
Barb Grandstrand Sinn

1 box rotelle pasta
4 carrots, sliced thin or grated
2 green peppers, chopped fine
1 head of cauliflower, cut up
1 bunch of broccoli, cut up
1 onion, chopped

Boil pasta according to package directions. Drain and rinse with cold water. Mix the vegetables with the pasta in large bowl.

Dressing

1 cup white vinegar
1 cup sugar
2 cups salad dressing
1 can sweetened condensed milk

Mix well and pour over vegetables and pasta in bowl. Refrigerate overnight, if possible.

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

Peat and Repeat.
That's the key to growing flowers in the heavy alkaline soils of the Red River Valley and surrounding region.
BERGESON PEAT is mined from a local bog. It is dark and finely ground-not bready and dry like the stuff you find at discount chains.
Peat lightens up heavy soils and helps sandy soils hold more moisture. At Bergeson Gardens, we put peat on top of our flower beds each year, mix in some 10-10-10 fertilizer, and watch the flowers grow like crazy.
By adding peat to your flower or vegetable garden, you will increase drainage. By mixing a little peat in the bottom of the hole when you plant a shrub or a tree, you will give the roots an early boost.
USE LOCAL PEAT. We have millions of acres of good peat in Minnesota. Don't buy the dry, chunky stuff from somewhere else.
FERTILIZE FLOWER BEDS WITH MILD HORTICULTURAL FERTILIZER. Farm fertilizer is too hot for flowers. Till in a balanced fertilizer such as a 10-10-10 before planting.
ADD AMMONIUM SULPHATE each month as the summer progresses to give your annuals and vegetables a boost. Ammonium sulphate lowers the Ph of our soils and adds nitrogen as well. It works on everything.
Adding peat and fertilizer to your flower gardens will dramatically increase your odds of success.

CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS 2007 DRINKING WATER REPORT

The City of Thief River Falls is issuing the results of monitoring done on its drinking water for the period from January 1 to December 31, 2007. The purpose of this report is to advance consumers' understanding of drinking water and heighten awareness of the need to protect precious water resources.

Source of Water

The City of Thief River Falls provides drinking water to its residents from a surface water source: surface water drawn from the Red Lake River.

The water provided to customers may meet drinking water standards but the Minnesota Department of Health has determined that one or more of the sources of water is susceptible to contamination. If you wish to obtain the entire source water assessment regarding your drinking water, please call 651-201-4700 or 1-800-818-9318 (and press 5) during normal business hours. Also, you can view it online at www.health.state.mn.us/divs/eh/water/swp/swa.

Call 218-681-3809 if you have questions about the City of Thief River Falls drinking water or would like information about opportunities for public participation in decisions that may affect the quality of the water.

Results of Monitoring

No contaminants were detected at levels that violated federal drinking water standards. However, some contaminants were detected in trace amounts that were below legal limits. The table that follows shows the contaminants that were detected in trace amounts last year.

Key to abbreviations:

MCLG - Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
MCL - Maximum Contaminant Level: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
TT - Treatment Technique: A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.
NTU - Nephelometric Turbidity Unit, used to measure clarity in drinking water.
MRDL - Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level.
MRDLG - Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal.
AL - Action Level: The concentration of a contaminant, which, if exceeded, triggers treatment, or other requirement, which a water system must follow.
90th Percentile Level: This is the value obtained after disregarding 10 percent of the samples taken that had the highest levels. (For example, in a situation in which 10 samples were taken, the 90th percentile level is determined by disregarding the highest result, which represents 10 percent of the samples.) Note: In situations in which only 5 samples are taken, the average of the two with the highest levels is taken to determine the 90th percentile level.
ppb - Parts per billion, which can also be expressed as micrograms per liter (mg/l).
ppm - Parts per million, which can also be expressed as milligrams per liter (mg/l).
N/A - Not Applicable (does not apply).

Contaminant (units)	MCGL	MCL	LEVEL FOUND		Typical Source of Contaminant
			Range (2007)	Average/Result*
Fluoride (ppm)	4.0	4.0	.81-1.1	1.09	State of Minnesota requires all municipal water systems to add fluoride to drinking water to promote strong teeth; Erosion of natural deposits; Discharge from fertilizer and aluminum factories.
Haloacetic Acids (HAA5) (ppb)	0	60	13.2-54.4	28.53	By-product of drinking water disinfection
Nitrate (as Nitgrogen) (ppm)	10	10	N/A	.05	Runoff from fertilizer use; Leaching from septic tanks, sewage; Erosion of natural deposits
TTHM (Total trihalomethanes) (ppb)	0	80.0	21.1-105.1	52.5	By-product of drinking water disinfection

* This is the value used to determine compliance with federal standards. It sometimes is the highest value detected and sometimes is an average of all detected values. If it is an average, it may contain sampling results from the previous years.

Contaminant (units)	MCLG	MCL			Typical Source of Contaminant
Turbidity (NTU)	N/A	TT	00%	0.34	Soil runoff.

 Lowest Monthly Percentage of Samples Meeting the Turbidity limits.
 Highest Single Measurement.
Turbidity is a measure of the clarity of the water. We monitor it because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of our filtration system.

Contaminant (units)	MRDLG	MRDL	*		Typical Source of Contaminant
Chlorine (ppm)	4	4	1.7-2.6	2.14	Water additive used to control microbes.

* Highest and Lowest Monthly Average.
 Highest Quarterly Average

Contaminant (units)	MCLG	AL	90% Level	# sites over AL	Typical Source of Contaminant
Lead (ppb)	N/A	15	5.0	1 out of 20	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits.
Copper (ppm)	N/A	1.3	06	0 out of 20	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits.

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. City of Thief River Falls is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.

Some contaminants do not have Maximum Contaminant Levels established for them. These "unregulated contaminants" are assessed using state standards known as health risk limits to determine if they pose a threat to human health. If unacceptable levels of an unregulated contaminant are found, the response is the same as if an MCL has been exceeded; the water system must inform its customers and take other corrective actions. In the table that follows are the unregulated contaminants that were detected.

Contaminants (units)	Level Found		Typical Source of Contaminant
	Range (2007)	Average/Result
Sodium (ppm)	N/A	28	Erosion of natural deposits
Sulfate (ppm)	N/A	81.5	Erosion of natural deposits

Compliance with National Primary Drinking Water Regulations

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban storm-water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm-water runoff, and residential uses.
Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm-water runoff, and septic systems.
Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) prescribes regulations, which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer, undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 800-426-4791.

This report is not being mailed to individual customers. However, copies of the report are available by contacting the Thief River Falls Water Department at 681-3809.

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

This is the Farmall M I drove home recently. It made me think how I was hauling home a load of memories.

The M

Much of the work on my parent's dairy farm was done with a Farmall M tractor that included a Farmhand F-10 loader. We fed cattle, moved snow, changed storm windows and even painted with the old M. I remember my dad raising the bucket to the top of grain bins or the second level of our home, after which he would climb up to the bucket on the arms of the loader. That little M helped share the incredible load my dad and our family took on in operating a dairy farm. This week, I drove the M home to live at our place.

County Road 67 makes a fairly straight track from our farm west of St Hilaire to Viking. It's the road I take when I want to go home to Viking, and it's also become an incredible internal metaphor for my efforts to reach out to my past and a youth spent in Viking. Bruce Springsteen has sung about his youth in songs that mention the Jersey Turnpike, but in these songs, it's the road he's using to leave home, not get home. I sometimes dream about traveling this gravel road and I always end up in Viking at some point in my youth. Monday, I drove the old Farmall M home on this same road and I thought, as I drove, how I was hauling home a load of memories.

Mom and Dad bought the M in 1961. It had been created 20 years earlier at a time when things were built well and quality was not adjusted for cost. The loader that is attached to the M still uses the original hydroulic pump although it was not the first loader the M carried. The original was purchased as a demonstrator in 1950 by my dad. The original loader was bourne by a Farmall H until the M came along with superior power, which made it more useable. My dad used the M for everything and got good at quickly switching the mounted attachments. Dad and Uncle Jack Nelson (some may remember Jack from the parts counter at Northern Motors) did an overhaul on the M while Jack was at technical school in Thief River Falls. Since that time, this World War II era tractor has needed little other than hard work and some fuel.

The M is home in our shed right now; I thought about what I should do with it the day I brought it home. I mean no disrespect to professionally restored tractors or their owners, but I don't really want to make the M into something that sees sunlight only on parade day. It would be like taking a man who's been a lumberjack all his life and making him into a ballerina in his retirement. I think the M will live the same life it always has lived, only a bit easier. I do plan to clean it up and then give it a coat of paint but otherwise it runs pretty good. It needs a new seat and I will probably do the easy things like plugs, plug wires and some new decals, but I don't see hiring a professional to do the work that is really my responsibility.

I guess you could say my mind reaches out to my past in dreams while the rest of me hits the road and brings home old things that remind me of the past. Bringing home the M this week was good for both body and mind.

NRCS announces meeting, workshops

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Natural Resources Conservation Service recently announced that the Conservation Security Program sign-up for 2008 is scheduled to be held until May 16 in 51 watersheds across the nation. The Thief Watershed is the only watershed in Minnesota eligible for this sign-up and is located mainly in Marshall, Beltromi, and Pennington counties, with a minute part of Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties.

One more public meeting will be held for people who were unable to attend the four informational meetings held in April. For more information on the program and enrollment possibilities, plan on attending the last scheduled meeting May 8 at 6:30 p.m. at Yo-Hawn's in Grygla.

NRCS will also hold two days of CSP application material workshops for individuals who have already picked up the CSP application materials and have a few questions. NRCS staff will hold three presentations each day on the CSP application materials. In addition to the presentations, NRCS will have staff available to answer the public's questions from 8 a.m to 8 p.m. on May 9 and May 13 in the Grygla Civic Building meeting room. Presentations will be held at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 6 p.m.

For more information on the meetings and CSP, contact your local NRCS office (Warren: 218-745-4351, extension 3, Thief River Falls: 218-681-1612, extension 3, or Bemidji: 218-751-1942, extension 3).

Agassiz NWR Lost Bay Habitat Drive opens for season

The Lost Bay Habitat (Auto) Drive at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge opened May 1 and will remain open through Oct.31. The Habitat Drive entrance is at Refuge Headquarters where the Headquarters sign is located along Marshall County Road 7.

The four-mile-long drive is located 12 miles north of Thief River Falls and 11 miles east of Holt, Minnesota, and is open during daylight hours, seven days a week. A sign along Minnesota Highway 1, three miles east of Thief River Falls, also guides visitors to the refuge. Interpretive signs along the Drive describe the types of habitats and several species of wildlife that depend on those species of plants.

Three hiking trails are located on the refuge. Headquarters Hiking Trail is located at the Headquarters and is one-half mile long. The Rodahl Hiking Trail, located near the southwest corner, is 0.7 mile long going to overlook part of Farmes Pool. The trail is not identified with signs at this time, but a parking lot and a permanent outdoor restroom are located at the trail head.

Both Headquarters and Rodahl Trails have a crushed granite rack surface and are wheelchair accessible. Both trails have new wildlife observation/photography blinds that are open for use. An observation deck is also at the end of the Rodahl Hiking Trail. An interpretive leaflet is available at the beginning of the Headquarters Hiking Trail.

The Maakstad Hiking Trail is a one-fourth mile long mowed grass trail along the Drive which is open for walking. Benches have been placed along all three trails to use for wildlife observation. Habitats are different along all the trails so take time to walk all of them. Besides birds and mammals being along these trails frogs and toads vocalizations can be heard earlier in the summer. Many species of plants also grow along the trails. Take time to remain motionless and you will see more wildlife.

Two kiosks with interpretive signs and leaflet dispensers are located along Marshall County Road 7. One kiosk is located across from the Parker Observation Deck and the other kiosk is located near the east boundary of the refuge. Another kiosk is located at the Refuge Headquarters parking lot. Refuge and U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service leaflets are available at the kiosk locations.

The 14-foot tall Lansing Parker Pool Observation Deck is located along Marshall County Road 7. Permanent spotting scopes or binoculars are mounted on the Parker Pool Deck, Headquarters Office Deck and on the Farmes Pool Deck for the public to observe wildlife.

The Parker Pool Bald Eagle pair is back on the same nest they built in 2007. Two nests have been built by the pair over the past years. The active nest will still be visible even after tree leafout.

Bird species and numbers have been rapidly migrating into and through the area. Male birds are in their breeding colors making identification easier at this time of year rather than in late summer-fall. Birds are also very vocal at this time of the year allowing identification of bird species by their songs and calls.

Bring your binoculars and spotting scopes, wildlife and plant identification books and camera to capture some lasting memories. Call 218-449-4115, extension 203 or 211 for further information.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is the principal federal agency responsible for conserving, protecting and enhancing fish, wildlife and plants and their habitats for the continuing benefit of the American people. The Service manages the 97-million-acre National Wildlife Refuge System which encompasses more than 548 national wildlife refuges, thousands of small wetlands and other special management areas. It also operates 70 national fish hatcheries, 64 fishery resource offices and 78 ecological services field stations.

The agency enforces federal wildlife laws, administers the Endangered Species Act, manages migratory bird populations, restores nationally significant fisheries, conserves and restores wildlife habitats such as wetlands, and helps foreign governments with their conservation efforts. It also oversees the Federal Aid program that contributes hundreds of millions of dollars in excise taxes on fishing and hunting equipment to state fish and wildlife agencies.

WIC clinics to be offered in May

The Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Nutrition Education Program (WIC) is being held during the month of May.

Infants, children up to the age of 5, and women who are pregnant or breast-feeding may be eligible for the program. WIC Quin County is very interested in enrolling pregnant women in the program and organizers feel that prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is important to apply for WIC early during pregnancy. No proof of pregnancy is required.

All potential clients must contact the WIC Program to schedule an appointment. The following is the schedule of WIC Clinics for the month of May:

- Tuesday, May 6 at the Newfolden Community Center.
- Wednesday, May 7 and Thursday, May 8 at the Warroad Community Center.
- Wednesday, May 7, at the Kittson County Courthouse in Hallock.
- Thursday, May 8, at the Red Lake Falls Community Center.
- Monday, May 12, through Thursday, May 15, at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.
- Monday, May 19, at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren.
- Tuesday, May 20, at the Karlstad Community Center.
- Wednesday, May 21 and Thursday, May 22, at the LifeCare Medical Center Basement Auxiliary Room in Roseau.

Bovine TB: It's a new game

What's involved in the proposal will likely include a request for more funding to allow BAH to conduct further TB testing, to conduct outreach to produces and the general public, and to offer buyouts or provide fencing in the management zone.

Lindemann said there has been a lot of talk and rumors about the buyout plan, but the plan is not law yet. He said it will likely involve an optional buyout offer to producers in the management zone. Some of the elements of the plan being discussed include a $500 per head plus market value offer; $75 per head per year to producers until Minnesota is bovine TB free, and a requirement that produces who accept the buyout depopulate their herds by Jan. 31, 2009.

Lindemann said that while it seems things are moving slowly, when they do happen, they'll happen quickly.

Producers who do not accept the buyout may have to accept a number of recommendations, including conducting and accepting the recommendations of a risk assessment, implement the risk assessment recommendations, and put up fencing.

Before all this takes place, Lindemann said the BAH will have to obtain the authority it needs to accomplish its goal.

Producers were urged by Lindemann to keep sharing their opinions and ideas with officials, and to keep abreast of changes taking place. Information about bovine TB in Minnesota can be found at www.mnbfree.com. To visit with an official about a specific concern, producers should call 1-877-668-2373.

Dr. Barb Knuse, Center for Animal Health and Food Safety, reviewed what officials know about the transmission of bovine TB and efforts that reduce chances that the disease will spread. Fencing seems to be having the best results.

Record keeping was also discussed. As of April 15, owners of herds located within a tuberculosis management area must maintain herd records that include a complete inventory of animals, the date of acquisition and source of each animal that was not born into the herd, the date of disposal and destination of any animal removed from the herd, and all individual identification numbers from tags, tattoos, electronic implants associated with each animal. When animals enter or leave the herd, the names, addresses and telephone numbers of previous or subsequent owners of the animals must be recorded. All records must be maintained for at least 10 years.

Producers were urged to be very cautious about selling their cattle. Alfredo DiCostanzo, Extension Livestock specialist, said officials do not know the size of the area that will be included in the split state status. He also noted that other states have different rules. He said producers will probably have to market feeder calves under the modified accredited status rules. Producers should be prepared to do something with their heifers - spay them. It also appears that keeping calves longer may be more profitable. Backgrounding them, or putting them on pasture and allowing them to grow slowly, may be more profitable. He said it might even be more profitable to retain ownership and have someone in southern Minnesota finish them in preparation for slaughter.

Are farm subsidies necessary?

Because af the debate an the Farm Bill, considerable discussian has been devated as af late ta farm subsidies. Although those in apposition rarely mention it, there are several kinds of programs that are often grouped tagether when peaple are discussing "farm subsidies." Far example, there are subsidies far disasters, canservation, and specific commodities like wheat, barley and saybean, and much mare. Many of those individuals speaking in oppasitian ta these subsidies also fail to remember the purpose of farm subsidies - to improve the economic stability of the agricultural industry and help farms adjust production to meet demand. Obviausly American farmers provide a great deal of aur foad and the foad of ather cauntries. Naturally, subsidies also exist because the economic security and viability of American farms is in the best interest of this cauntry.

Farm subsidies have a significant impact on our ecanomy of our country, state and region. To infarm us of just how significant its impact, the 2006 Farm Subsidies Environmental Working Graup, a public interest research and advacacy arganizatian knawn far its Farm Subsidy Database, has campiled some interesting infarmatian an its Web site (http://farm.ewg.org/farm/index.php?key=nasign). Between 1995 and 2006, far example, total USDA subsidies ta Minnesata was over $10.2 billion. Where daes Minnesata rank among all af the states? Fifth.

You wouldn't believe the amount of informatian on this Web site. They break it down by county in every state, and even the top recipients. Yes, they even name specific farms. Between 1995 and 2006, at over $380 millian, Polk County received the most USDA subsidies in Minnesota. Marshall County was second with $326,430,394. Kittsan County was 23rd with $188,390,789. Roseau County was 26th with $170,665,809. Pennington Caunty was 48th with $104,401,780. Red Lake Caunty was 59th with $75,643,841. Lake of the Woads was 73rd with $16,070,425. Clearwater Caunty was 74th with $151,138,900.

Here's anather quick fact: 46 percent of all farmers and ranchers do not callect government subsidy payments in Minnesata, according to the USDA.

Game, Set, Cure team conducts Relay fundraiser

The Lincoln High School Girls Tennis Team has organized a Relay For Life team that will participate in the Pennington County Relay For Life on June 13-14. The team, known as Game, Set, Cure, has been actively raising funds for the event, but are about to serve up their most ambitious event, so far - Relay For Life Spirit Week at Lincoln High School.

The Game-Set-Cure team has about 25 members on it so far. Advisor Mary Anderson said, "The girls wanted to give back to the community, and felt that the American Cancer Society Relay for Life event was a good cause."

So far, the team has held a rummage sale at Northland Community and Technical College, worked concessions at the high school, and sold Candy-Grams in March. Anderson said they are now excited about the upcoming Relay For Life Spirit Week that will be held May 5-10, 2008.

This event will consist of different fundraising activities each day of the week. On Monday, May 5, the team will begin selling "Suns" before and after school and during lunch.

On Tuesday, May 6, a poster with the word "Cancer" on it will be posted on a wall at the school. Students who buy a tag, described as a "sun," for 50 cents will be able to write their names on the suns and tape them to the wall and across the word "Cancer." Anderson said the students hope to sell enough suns to cover the word "Cancer" on the poster. This poster will be displayed during the Relay For Life event in June.

On Wednesday, May, 7, students will be able to purchase a "Hats off for a Cure" sticker for $1. The sticker allows the student to wear a hat during school.

Thursday, May 8, will be Team Day. The effort is to promote teamwork. By working as a team, they hope a cure for cancer will be found. Each student will wear their favorite team t-shirt.

On Friday, May 9, the team will take on the Pretty in Pink Relay For Life Team from Northern State Bank in the Battle of the Brat Challenge at Pennington Main. The tennis team, Game, Set, Cure, hopes to outsell the Pretty In Pink team. All profits from this event will benefit the Relay For Life event. The girls will also be making deliveries for those who place orders. Contact Mary Anderson at 681-8813, ext 159, or by e-mail at manderson@trf.k12.mn.us by Thursday, May 8.

On Saturday, May, 10, the team will conduct a rummage sale at Challenger Elementary School (cafeteria). All proceeds will benefit the Relay For Life.

Red Lake man sentenced to 12 years in prison

A Red Lake man was sentenced Tuesday in federal court to 144 months in prison in connection with sexually abusing a 15-year-old girl Jan. 30, 2007, at Seven Clans Casino, Hotel and Water Park in Thief River Falls.

Simon Anthony White Jr., 44, was also sentenced to a lifetime of supervised release. White pled guilty in September 2007 to one count of sexual abuse of a minor, a charge for which he was indicted in March 2007.

"What you have done is a horrifying, unspeakable crime," U.S. District Court Chief Judge James Rosenbaum said to White. "There is not an excuse for it, and 12 years is an appropriate sentence. The community needs that."

According to an FBI affidavit, authorities responded to a report of a sexual assault that occurred in a hotel room. The victim told police that she had been sleeping and when she woke up, White was on top of her. She added that White had non-consensual intercourse with her.

A cousin of the victim, who was also staying in the hotel room, told police that she was in the shower during the assault. When she got out of the shower, she heard the room door close and saw the victim texting while in bed. The victim had typed "he raped me" in her text message.

White, the cousin and another man had been drinking in the room earlier that morning. White and the other man were both hotel employees. The other man left the room and told police that when he returned, he saw White standing outside his hotel room door in the hallway. When the man entered the room, he saw that the victim had texted the message "he raped me" on the man's cell phone.

The court later learned through consensual DNA testing that White was the assailant.

This case was the result of an investigation by the Red Lake Police Department and the FBI.

Thief River Falls runner Nick Gagner arrived at the bag as Badger/Greenbush-Middle River third baseman Eli Jansen tried to knock down an errant throw during Wednesday high school baseball action at the Multi-Events Center. It was an RBI triple for Gagner, who scored on the play when the ball got by Jensen. The Prowlers beat the Gators 14-3.

Prowlers take baseball match-up against Gators...

Big inning leads to 14-3 win

Thief River Falls sent 16 batters to the plate in the third inning and 12 of them scored, propelling the Prowlers to a 14-3 five-inning Wednesday high school baseball win over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

Lead-off batter Jordan Espeseth reached base on an error, stole second, went to third on a bunt single by Sam Mattison and scored on the front end of a double-steal to give the Prowlers a 1-0 first inning head start.

The game turned dramatically in the bottom of the third when Thief River Falls combined eight base hits with a walk and six Badger/Greenbush-Middle River errors to go up 13-0.

Espeseth legged out two third inning triples and Nick Gagner had one during the at-bat that also included a Brady Johnson double, along with two singles and two RBI by Mattison. Spencer Johnson reached base on a pair of errors. Espeseth, Gagner, Johnson, Zach Sorenson, Cody Connors and Myles Keefe also drove in runs during the outburst.

The Gators tried to avoid the early-ending 10-run rule by scoring twice in the fourth on back-to-back inning-opening walks and a two-run double to left by Brandon Peterson.

Johnson, however, struck out the next three batters and the Prowlers tacked on an extra run in the bottom of the inning on a hit batsman, two walks and two errors - all with two out.

An Allan Dostal RBI double in the Gators' fifth closed out the scoring.

Johnson was the starting and finishing pitcher for the Prowlers, striking out 12 and walking four. The three hits he gave up included a 2-for-2 game by Peterson.

Tyler Aune, the first of three pitchers used by the Gators, was tagged with the loss.

It was a 3-for-3 day at the plate for Mattison. Espeseth went 2-for-3.

Conditions hit portion of Tuesday sports schedule

Weather-related postponements continued Tuesday for Thief River Falls spring high school sports teams.

The Prowlers were scheduled to compete in the Fosston Invitational girls high school golf tournament that day, but course conditions forced officials to call off the event.

Both portions of a planned Thief River Falls baseball split doubleheader with Warroad and Badger/Greenbush-Middle River were shelved when the Multi-Events Center diamond failed to dry sufficiently.

TRF softball squad beats three teams

Thief River Falls sported a 6-2 high school softball record following wins over Grand Forks Red River, East Grand Forks and Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

The Prowlers picked up two of those victories on a cold, blustery Thursday (April 24) afternoon/evening Multi-Events Center split doubleheader sweep over the Roughriders 10-0 and Green Wave 7-3.

They added a 9-0 Monday road win over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

Cheryl Nelson pitched a 3-hit, shutout and also had a 3-for-3, 3-RBI game at the plate in the win over Red River. On the mound, she struck out eight and walked three.

Megan Malwitz was 2-for-2 with 2 RBI and Jenna Hoglo 2-for-4 in the Prowlers' 13-hit attack against the North Dakota opponent.

Jenna Hoglo was the winning pitcher in the second half of the twinbill. She gave up 10 hits, but also struck out 10 and did not walk a batter in her seven-inning complete game performance.

Meagan Abrahamson was 2-for-3 at the plate and drove in three runs in the Prowlers' nine-hit offense against the Green Wave. Amanda Lara had a pair of RBI.

"I thought we played very well defensively considering the temperature," reported Thief River Falls coach Corey Poole. "We are still making some base running errors that have cost us some runs."

A seven-run sixth inning produced the Thief River Falls win over the Gators.

Lacey Stennes, Cassie Gunderson, Jenna Hoglo and Nelson had two-hit games. Nelson had a pair of doubles and drove in two runs. Gunderson, Stennes and Hoglo had one RBI each.

Thief River Falls out-hit Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 12-2, with the win going to Nelson, who struck out four and walked five.

"Nelson pitched very well, getting out of jams in the first and sixth innings," said Poole. "Defensively, we made the plays we needed to make, and we capitazlied on errors by B/G-MR. They (Gators) played well until the sixth. They play as well fundamentally as anyone we have seen all year. They will be a good team down the stretch."

After a series of three road games, the Prowlers will be back at the Multi-Events Center Tuesday to face Bemidji. First pitch is scheduled for 4:30 p.m.

Spencer Johnson was the winning pitcher Wednesday in Thief River Falls' 14-3 high school baseball win over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River at the Multi-Events Center. Johnson gave up three hits, struck out 12 and walked four in the five-inning contest.

Northland pitchers shut down Mesabi

Brittni Johnson pitched a one-hit shutout in Game 1, but still had to take a back seat to teammate Keandria Cobbins, who threw a no-hitter in the nightcap as Northland swept Mesabi Range 10-0, 8-0 in a Tuesday Minnesota Community College Conference softball doubleheader at Virginia.

Coupled with a split against Itasca Monday in Grand Rapids, where the Pioneers won 17-2 and then lost 8-7, the twin shutouts against the Norse completed a 15-15 regular season for the Kathy Huschle-coached Pioneers.

Cobbins, a freshman from St. Paul, only struck out one, but did not walk a batter. In fact, she was an error away from a perfect game. The second Mesabi Range batter of the contest reached base on the misplay, but the next 17 hitters were retired in order. The game ended after six innings due to the mercy rule.

Ashley Lund homered and Carissa Erickson was 2-for-4 to lead the Pioneers' 11-hit Game 2 offense.

Johnson recorded her second one-hitter of the season in the Tuesday opener. The freshman from Thief River Falls struck out just two, but was backed by an error-free defense.

Alicia Sunsdahl was 2-for-2 with a pair of doubles and Cobbins went 2-for-3 with a home run as the Pioneers banged out 13 hits off Mesabi Range pitching, also victimized by a half-dozen Norse errors in the five-inning game.

"We got good pitching; played good defense; and hit the ball," reported Huschle. "It was a good day - for us, at least."

Monday, the Pioneers were all over the Vikings in Game 1 when they combined 11 hits with seven Vikings errors for the 15-run victory margin. Sunsdahl went 3-for-4 at the plate; Cobbins was 2-for-4; and Johnson homered.

Johnson picked up the win, scattering three hits. Northland had two errors.

The second game was a different story. Hits were even at nine-apiece and the Vikings cut their error count down to just one. Northland did not have an error.

"We had a little letdown," acknowledged Huschle. "We might have been a little overconfident.."

Cobbins was tagged with the loss. Erickson went 2-for-4 and Lund homered to lead the Northland Game 2 offense.

The Pioneers, who shared second place with Rainy River in the final Northern Division standings behind Central Lakes, are in Sauk Rapids this weekend to compete in the 2008 MCCC state tournament.

Thief River Falls was a third place finisher Tuesday at the Bagley/Fosston Invitational boys high school golf tournament that was played in East Grand Forks.

Meet medalist was Tom Rockis of Roseau with a seven-over par 79. The Prowlers were led by an 84 turned in by Kyle Haugen that was good for sixth in a field of 108 golfers.

Seth Torstveit recorded six pars and had an 87 to finish No. 2 on the Prowlers' four-man scorecard, while Zach Pederson came in with an 88 and Wesley Pederson 90. Andy Rook and Marcus Daniels rounded out the Thief River Falls line-up.

International Migratory Bird Day to be observed

The second Saturday of May is recognized as International Migratory Bird Day. This year, it occurs on Saturday, May 10.

IMBD is an annual celebration of one of the most important and spectacular events in the life of a migratory bird – its journey between summer and winter homes. IMBD was established to focus public attention on the need for action to conserve birds and their habitats. This year's theme is "Conserving Habitats from Tundra to Tropics." This year's poster was drawn by artist Eleazar Saenz of Mexico. There are 10 program sponsors and six title sponsors for this year's IMBD, which includes wildlife organizations, private companies and government agencies.

Ornithologists have long speculated about how birds choose and then use habitats. Today, our understanding of the associations between bird distributions and habitat has become more critical, as we work to conserve biological diversity in a rapidly changing world. Agriculture, forest harvesting, urban development, fire and climate change are just a few of the factors that modify habitats. Public and private land managers are proactively working to incorporate knowledge of birds and their habitats to identify and protect critical areas, improve habitat and influence decisions about how land is used.

Migratory birds may travel thousands of miles, using more than one habitat. Nesting sites and non-breeding grounds at either end of the journey, as well as the resting and refueling stops in between, may include disparate habitats. Efforts to conserve migratory birds and their habitats are more complicated as a result. Most land-use decisions are made at the local level, and public involvement in community planning is important to bird conservation.

What can you do to protect habitat? Improve bird habitat in your backyard by growing a variety of native flowers, shrubs and trees that birds may use for food and shelter. Buy products that promote habitat conservation. Buying coffee grown in the shade of other trees provides habitat for more bird species than buying coffee grown in the sun, without trees. Important Bird Areas are sites that provide essential habitat to one or more bird species. These areas need volunteers to remove invasive species, plant native vegetation, and monitor birds. Purchase a federal duck stamp at www.duckstamp.com. For each dollar raised, $0.98 is used to purchase habitat that will be protected for birds. To learn more about habitats, go to www.audubon.org/iba/, www.biodiversitypartners.org, http://birdday.org/altheme2008.php, www.borealbirds.org, www.nationalgeographic.com/geographyaction/habitats/, www.nwf.org/backyard or www.fws.gov/birdhabitat/index.shtm.

Most bird species are migratory rather than residential (stay at one place for the entire year). Migration of birds has been going on for hundreds of years. They migrate to areas that have an abundance of food and provide all of the other necessary habitat requirements to stay alive. If the habitat that is needed by these birds disappears, the birds will also disappear. For most people, birds are important. Let's do what we can to have them around for years to come not only for our generation but for generations to come.

At Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, 298 species of birds have been observed since its establishment on March 23, 1937. To enjoy these birds, drive 12 miles north of Thief River Falls on Highway 32, then 11 miles east on Marshall County Road 7 (22996 290th St. N.E.). For further information, call (218) 449-4115, extensions 203, 204, 205, 202 or 211.

Warroad woman faces arson charge and other charges

A Warroad woman has been charged in Roseau County District Court with arson and other charges after her restaurant sustained damage in a 2007 fire.

Shirley Marie Berry, 47, has been charged with felony offenses of first degree arson, conspiracy to commit first degree arson and solicitation of a juvenile to commit a crime. The criminal complaint was signed April 25, 2008, by Judge Donna Dixon. The complaint doesn't indicate if anyone else has been charged in connection with the fire.

The charges stem from an Aug. 1, 2007, report of a burglary at Berry's business, Shirley's Diner. Berry reported that the diner had been burglarized, according to the criminal complaint. She allegedly said the cash register had been damaged and about $300 was missing from the cash register. Berry said she smelled smoke and noticed that water was flooding the basement. A police officer found no damage on the upper level of the building minus the damaged cash register. After the water was pumped out of the basement, it was found that a pile of debris had been started on fire in the basement.

A diner employee allegedly told police that a bottle of lighter fluid found in the diner belonged to him. The employee told police that Berry "had told him that she wanted the business to burn down so that she would not have to deal with the stress anymore." He said that Berry wanted to "collect insurance proceeds, so she could reopen the business in a new log building." He said Berry had discussed burning down the diner on the last day that he worked. He also said that she wanted the fire to occur in either the kitchen or basement area, so it couldn't be seen. He said that he told Berry he wouldn't do it and that Berry had asked his brother, who was also employed at the diner.

The brother told police that Berry had joked about wanting the business to burn about two months before the fire. He allegedly denied being asked to set the fire and denied being involved with it, according to the complaint. One of his friends told police that the employee was upset because Berry was quitting the business and wouldn't be in business the following week. The conversation occurred before the fire.

Another diner employee told police that "she had frequently heard" Berry talk about having a fire at the diner. She allegedly said that Berry had mentioned splitting insurance money with the employees if the diner burned down. The employee told police that she thought Berry was joking at the time. The employee said business had been slow and that there appeared to be some financial problems. She was also "suspicious that a food order hadn't been placed the week of the fire."

The brothers allegedly later admitted to breaking into the cash register, stealing the money and setting the fire. One of the brothers said Berry had given them $200 on July 31, 2007, as a down payment for setting the fire and that they could take about $500 from the cash register once they set the fire. He said Berry had agreed to pay them an additional $1,000 after the fire. The other brother allegedly said that Berry "asked them to set fire to the restaurant, so she could collect insurance proceeds." He said Berry told him that she would help him pay a child support debt of about $10,000.

TRF woman sentenced for negligent fire

A Thief River Falls woman was sentenced Monday in Pennington County District Court for a felony offense of negligent fire after her home sustained damage in a 2006 fire.

Havie Marie Carlson, 26, pled guilty to the charge. A felony offense of first degree arson was dismissed, according to court records. Carlson received a stay of imposition of up to three years, said Assistant Pennington County Attorney Kristin Hanson. Carlson is able to serve 20 days on electronic home monitoring. She was ordered to serve supervised probation for up to three years. Carlson was ordered to pay $182 in fees and fines.

The charges stemmed from a May 4, 2006, fire at Carlson's home, 422 Kendall Ave. S. Carlson shared the home with her then-husband and two children. At the time of the fire, it was believed that the fire was accidental in nature.

Over a year later, on May 20, 2007, police received information that Carlson had intentionally started the fire. An informant, who wasn't identified in the criminal complaint, learned from Carlson's ex-boyfriend that Carlson had said she started the fire during a suicide attempt, then panicked and left the home.

The ex-boyfriend, who also wasn't identified, said Carlson told him that information when they were dating. He said that she had told him that she burnt a picture, threw it in the garbage and went upstairs to try to sleep until the fire overtook her. When the home filled with smoke, Carlson became scared, fled the home and left to do some errands. When she returned home, the fire department was putting out the fire. Carlson told the fire department that the fire possibly resulted from some hot ashes that were placed in the garbage.

The criminal complaint indicated that Carlson sent some text messages months after the fire. Those text messages were saved. In one of the text messages, Carlson wrote in part, " ... living with this secret has been torture enough." She sent the text message when her ex-boyfriend and the informant told her that they were going to turn her in to the police.

In a taped statement with police May 20, 2007, Carlson admitted to burning a picture prior to the fire's outbreak. The insurance company paid Carlson $149,000 as a result of the fire.

Sheriff's office investigates sexual assault

The Polk County Sheriff's Office is investigating a report of sexual misconduct/assault on a Win-E-Mac school bus after a boys baseball game April 22 in Fargo, N.D.

A week later, the sheriff's office received a report about the incident, which allegedly involves multiple juveniles. The incident remains under investigation, and the sheriff's office said no additional information will be released at this time.

Church won't stress city's sewer system

Karlstad - City Clerk Wayne Ruud told the City Council Monday night that the information they had received regarding a new heating system at the Seventh Day Adventist Church had been in error.

The City Fathers had become concerned because they had been told the heating source for the church's new building would tax the city's water treatment system. They had been informed that the heating source would be a groundwater heat system that would not recirculate water, but rather put it into the city's sewers.

Ruud told the council he had spoke with a member of the church and had been told this was not the case, and that the new addition would actually be heating with gas. - North Start News, May 8

More layoffs at ANI Pharmeceuticals

Williams -The second major layoff round this year appears to have reduced the local pharmaceutical manufacturer (ANI Pharmaceuticals) to about 45 employees, according to Mayor Rick Rone.

What started out at 76 employees was reduced to 64 when ANI laid off a dozen people earlier this year. Estimates of the most recent layoff round, which occurred Friday, May 2, were from 15 to 19 people.

ANI bought the local plant from Solvay Pharmaceuticals last year and has so far manufactured drugs for other pharmaceutical companies under contract.

A meeting with city and county officials and ANI representatives has been scheduled for May 12. - Northern Light, May 7

Skate park in the plans for Greenbush

Greenbush - For those who eat, sleep and dream of skateboarding and trick bike riding, the reality of a skate park here in Greenbush is nearing.

Spearheading the project are Brenda Sather and Lynette Gustafson. Matt Williamson is the Greenbush City Council representative.

"We have enough core money right now," Brenda told those in attendance. "There is $15,000 in donations for this project at the current time.

It should be noted that the money secured for the skate park is strictly from donations, and plans are being drawn up to apply for a grant from the Tony Hawk Foundation. No taxpayer money is involved - Tribune, Greenbush, May 7, Mavis Gonsorowski.

Trip to Australia finds many new experiences

BriAnna is on a program from the University of North Dakota studying nutrition in Queensland, Australia. She lives in a dorm or apartment-type setting and has some roommates who greeted the Determans with wonderful hospitality. - The Oklee Herald, May 7, Barb Novak

Plummer school receives State Excellence award

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Red Lake County Central Elementary School was one of eight Minnesota schools selected to receive the Minnesota School of Excellence award for 2007-08. The award was accepted by RLCC's Leadership Team during a ceremony Monday (May 5) at Red Lake County Central Elementary School in Plummer.

The award was presented by P. Fred Storti, executive director of the Minnesota Elementary School Principals Association (MESPA).

Storti said the MESPA developed this Minnesota Schools of Excellence program to recognize schools that are aligned with national standards in leadership, vision, student learning, the culture of adult learning, data and decision-making, and community engagement.

"I was very pleased and excited for our staff, students, and communities that we were awarded," said Randy Pederson, RLCC Elementary principal. "This speaks to the hard work and dedication of all these groups, but it especially speaks to the efforts of our teachers."

Pederson continued, saying that a school's hard and soft data need to show growth, but this award is more about the process of school improvement, and the documentation of how the district teachers are highly engaged in the school improvement process

Storti presented a plaque to the RLCC Leadership Team, which included Connie Bishop, professional development; Penni Nelson, curriculum and instruction; Becky Brandt, parent and community, and Dan Brustad, standards and assessment.

The RLCC Leadership Team was instrumental in ensuring that standards and bench marks were met in each area. Pederson said each task force met monthly during the 2006-07 academic year. The task forces documented and tracked how the school compared to standards and benchmarks. If those standards weren't met, the task forces would write appropriate plans to insure that they would be met in the future. Out of the six standards and 87 benchmarks, there were only nine benchmarks for which the Leadership Team needed to write a plan of action.

After a full school year of tracking the school's progress toward standards and benchmarks, RLCC Elementary was notified early in the 2007-08 school year that it had been chosen as a Minnesota School of Excellence.

Monday's program was led by Master of Ceremony Don Jorstad. It also featured an instrumental performance by the RLCC Elementary's fifth and sixth grade band (Chuck Elledge's "Dr. Rock"); a vocal performance by fourth grade girls ("Be a Lady" from the musical "Bugz"); and an address by guest speaker Rick Trontvet, vice president of human resources for Digi-Key Corp, who noted that most of the quality attributes showcased by RLCC Elementary students during the one-year program are the same attributes Digi-Key looks for in its employees.

Speaking on behalf of the Oklee School Board, Chairman Matt Kolstoe said, "We are very honored to have Red Lake County Central be given the Minnesota School of Excellence Award."

Joe McMullen, chairman of the Plummer School Board had a

Halma fights for post office

Shane Olson, mayor of Halma, a small town located on Highway 59 north of Karlstad, is encouraging residents of that community who want to keep their post office open, to attend a community meeting at 10 a.m. on May 13 at the Halma Post Office.

"It is urgent that supporters of keeping the Halma Post Office open attend the community meeting," said Olson. "Many of you received letters notifying that USPS, in particular Gloria Hauge, sent a notice to the boxholders at Halma, a 'Notice of Post Office Emergency Suspension'.

Olson said the officer in charge of the Halma Post Office recently retired Hauge is stating that according to policy, a person form the general public cannot be hired to fill the position. "We have yet to be presented with this policy in writing Several residents are interested in the job if it were offered."

USPS has invited Halma area residents to meet with them regarding the closing which is effective May 13th, the day of closing."

Former Mayor and Postmaster Lee Folland contacted Lyle Puppe, who is a retired postmaster. Lyle Puppe has been designated by the state president of National Association of Postmasters of the US (NAPUS) to act as support for the city of Halma to fight to keep the Post Office. Olson urged area residents to contact him for comment. Puppe's number is 651-714-5374.

"This needs to be stopped dead in its tracks," said Olson. Olson said the locals, as well as several non-residents of the surrounding area who have post office boxes at the Halma facility, do not want it closed. Olson urged them to attend the meeting and to contact Congressman Collin Peterson's office at (202) 225-2165.

Anglers honored for new state records in 2007

Three Minnesota anglers who caught state record fish in 2007 were honored by the Department of Natural Resources April 5 at the 76th annual Northwest Sports Show at the Minneapolis Convention Center.

The new state records included a 5-pound, 9-ounce shovelnose sturgeon; 0.39-pound warmouth; and 3-pound, 15-ounce golden redhorse.

Nelia Engen of Little Canada caught the shovelnose sturgeon May 31 in the Mississippi River near Red Wing.

Lee Newman of Winona caught the warmouth Feb. 23 in Airport Lake near Winona. The warmouth is a new entry into Minnesota's record fish listing. The fish, a member of the bass and panfish family, is similar to a bluegill and, because of its limited distribution in Minnesota, is rare.

Andrew Geving of Blaine caught the golden redhorse April 29 in the Root River near Whalen. The National Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame in Hayward, Wis., recognizes Geving's fish as a world record.

Anglers who hook a fish that might be a state record must:

- ■ Weigh the fish on a state-certified scale (found at most bait shops and butcher shops) and have the weighing witnessed by two observers.
- ■ Take the fish to a DNR fisheries office for positive identification and a state record fish application.
- ■ Complete the state record fish submission form and send it along with a clear, full-length photo of the fish to the address listed on the form.

Roseau Area Community Fund receives stock transfer

The Roseau Area Community Fund (RACF) recently received a gift through a transfer of stock. The Community Fund is able to accept a variety of gifts that allow the donor to receive preferential tax treatment while also making a difference with a charitable contribution.

When donating stock, a donor receives an immediate charitable deduction of the full fair market value of the stock at the date of donation. The donor also avoids capital gains taxes on the transaction.

The Northwest Minnesota Foundation (NMF) can help to facilitate stock transfers as well as help with gifts of personal property, real estate, life insurance, or through will bequests, charitable trusts or annuities.

NMF Fund Development Specialist Caryl Turnow said, "The Roseau Area Community Fund, as one of our family of funds, has the full use of our philanthropic services. We work with donors and their financial advisors to simplify the process of making a gift."

To learn more about these types of gift options, contact her at 463-0440 or visit the Roseau Area Community Fund Web page at www.nwmffunds.org/Roseau and select Making A Donation or Donor Assistance for more information.

Thank You

To everyone who helped make our city-wide rummage sale a great success.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere – [illegible]

You might remember Mom making some of these recipes. They were delicious then and they will be now too. They are all winners from the Pillsbury BAKE-OFF contests from the past 50 years. I thought you might be able to use one or two of them for your spring fling meals.

Julie Koneene of Bemidji, was awarded the BAKE-OFF top prize in 1988 for this delicious chocolate cake. Wouldn't this be a spectacular graduation cake?

CHOCOLATE PRALINE LAYER CAKE

Cake

1/2 cup butter
1/4 cup whipping cream
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
3/4 cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 (1 pound 2.25 ounce) package moist supreme devil's food cake mix
1-1/4 cups water
1/3 cup oil
3 eggs

Topping

1 3/4 cups whipping cream
1/4 cup powdered sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
16 whole pecans, if desired
16 chocolate curls, if desired

Heat oven to 325 degrees.

To make cake, in small, heavy saucepan, combine butter, 1/4 cup whipping cream and brown sugar. Cook over low heat just until butter is melted, stirring occasionally. Pour into two 9 or 8 inch round cake pans. Sprinkle evenly with chopped pecans.

In large bowl, combine cake mix, water, oil and eggs. Beat at low speed until moistened, then 2 minutes at medium speed. Carefully spoon batter over pecan mixture in pans.

Bake in preheated oven for 35-45 minutes, until cake springs back when touched lightly in center. Cool 5 minutes then remove from pans. Cool at least one hour or until completely cooled.

For topping, beat the 1-3/4 cups of whipping cream until soft peaks form. Add the powdered sugar and vanilla and beat until stiff peaks form.

To assemble, place 1 layer of cake on serving plate, pecan praline side up. Spread with half of the whipped cream and top with the second layer, also pecan praline side up. Spread top with remaining whipped cream. Garnish with the whole pecans and chocolate curls, if desired. Store in refrigerator. Makes 16 generous servings.

(To make chocolate curls, melt 4 ounces of semi sweet chocolate. Use a rubber scraper to spread the melted chocolate in a thin layer on two inverted cookie sheets. Refrigerate until chocolate is firm but not brittle, about 10 minutes. Use a metal spatula or pancake turner to scrape chocolate from the cookie sheets, making curls. Width of the scraper will determine the width of the curls. Transfer the curls to the cake with a toothpick.)

This tasty dish was a winner in the 15th BAKE-OFF contest, created by Mira Walliko of Detroit, Mich. It would be a great side dish for grilled meats and veggies:

HUNGRY BOYS' CASSEROLE

Casserole

1-1/2 pounds ground beef
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped green bell pepper
1 garlic clove, minced
1 (6 ounce) can tomato paste
3/4 cup water
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 (16 ounce) can baked beans, undrained
1 (15 ounce) can garbanzo beans or chick peas, drained

Biscuits

1-1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup margarine or butter
1/2 to 3/4 cup milk
2 tablespoons sliced stuffed green olives
1 tablespoon slivered almonds

In 12 inch skillet, combine ground beef, celery, onion, bell pepper and garlic. Cook over medium high heat until beef is browned and thoroughly cooked and vegetables are crisp-tender. Drain.

Reduce heat to low and stir in tomato paste, water, paprika and 1/2 teaspoon of salt. Add baked beans and garbanzo beans. Simmer while preparing biscuits, stirring occasionally.

Heat oven to 425 degrees. To prepare biscuits, lightly spoon flour into measuring cup and level off. In large bowl, combine flour, baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Mix well.

With pastry blender or fork, cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Gradually stir in enough milk until mixture leaves sides of bowl and forms a soft, moist dough.

On floured surface, gently knead dough 8 times. Roll out to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut with floured 2-1/2 inch doughnut cutter, saving centers (may use biscuit cutter and thimble or other for center). Re-roll dough to make additional biscuits.

Reserve 1/2 cup of the beef mixture and pour remaining mixture into ungreased 9x13 inch (3 quart) baking dish. Arrange biscuit without centers over the hot beef mixture.

Stir olives and almonds into reserved 1/2 cup of beef mixture, then spoon in center of each biscuit. Top each with biscuit centers.

Bake at 425 degrees for 15-25 minutes, until biscuits are golden and mixture is bubbling.

This recipe was a Grand Prize winner in the 1971 BAKE-OFF. It was created by Pearl Hall of Snohomish, Wash. They are like pecan pie only in a bar form - very good - very rich:

PECAN PIE SURPISE BARS

Base

1 (1 pound, 2.25 ounce) package moist supreme yellow or butter flavor yellow cake mix
1/3 cup margarine or butter, softened
1 egg

Filling

1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1-1/2 cups dark corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs
1 cup chopped pecans

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a 9x13 inch pan. Reserve 2/3 cup of the dry cake mix for filling.

To make base, in large bowl, combine remaining dry cake mix, butter and 1 egg. Beat at low speed until well blended. Press into bottom of prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes until light golden brown.

Meanwhile, to make filling, in large bowl combine reserved dry cake mix, brown sugar, corn syrup, vanilla and the 3 eggs. Beat at low speed until moistened, then 1 minute at medium speed until well blended.

Pour filling mixture over warm, baked base. Sprinkle with pecans and return to oven. Bake 30-35 minutes more or until filling is set. Cool 1 1/2 hours until completely cooled. Cut into bars. Store in refrigerator.

Warren man dies in accident on Hwy. 75

On May 6 at 1 a.m., Minnesota State Patrol received a report of an accident on Highway 75 near Angus in Polk County. Garrett P. Torgerson, 21, Warren, was killed in the accident.

According to the accident report, Torgerson was driving a 2005 Pontiac Grand Prix north on Highway 75 when the vehicle went onto the northbound shoulder of the highway. The State Patrol report states that Torgerson over-corrected and the vehicle crossed both lanes of Highway 75, before it entered the west side ditch of Highway 75 and struck a large ditch embankment. Torgerson was ejected from the car. The vehicle then started on fire.

The Polk County Sheriff's Department assisted in the accident investigation.

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

Fast Summer

This is a message of dire importance, so I'm not going to take the time for a long introduction ... or any introduction.

Summer is fast here. Forget spring. Sweet southerly winds have been replaced by Alberta clippers and we've seen growing grass covered by a foot of snow so any naïve ideas of spring should be saved for 2009. For this reason, I want to jump-start your summer with a few reminders.

First off, go to the hardware store. Hardware stores spend the winter providing assitance to those who seek to repair something that froze and then broke. This time of year, hardware stores figuratively break out their shorts and flip-flops and become a nice place to visit. If you didn't spend the winter planning for summer then a trip to the hardware store will give you some ideas and fast forward the plans you didn't make this winter. I spend a great deal of time at these sort of establishments and sometimes I'm not even looking for hardware.

Secondly, change what you eat and drink. Make the food lighter and the drinks fruitier to mirror the season. Last night, I made skinless chicken with a crust made of oatmeal and parmesan cheese. I don't know why chicken is normally served with its skin (I don't eat my hamburger inside a leather glove), but now is the time to lighten up on your eating. I recently began replacing some of my coffee intake with green tea. In the past, I've found tea drinking a bit effeminate, but I wanted something with a little less kick and so I tried this concoction, which tastes a little like hot water strained through Canadian Thistle. It's not too bad and the reduction in caffeine is good for me. Considering how many men use cream, sugar and other products in what should be "plain black coffee" maybe drinking tea isn't as effeminate as I first thought. I also would like to make a personal recommendation of Leinenkugel's Honey Weiss and Berry Weiss. Individually they are great, but mixed together they are light and fruity magic. Lisa and I recently discovered the perfect summer dessert. Mix equal parts orange sherbet and frozen cool whip; it tastes like a dream sickle and has fewer calories than ice cream.

Last summer, I recommended "Ice Road Truckers" as a nice break from summer time heat. Ice Road Truckers will make the heat and mosquitoes seem a minor inconvenience when compared to a cold and watery death as tractor and trailer together plunge through the ice somewhere near Toktoyaktuk in the northern most area of the Canadian territories. The History channel hasn't released a start date for the show, but I would guess somewhere in mid-June.

Finally, get out there. Soak up enough good, sunny memories to last you a winter's worth of sunlight deprivation. Burn something on the grill, mow your lawn in shorts, black socks and sandals then go endure the carnies at the fair. If you don't, you'll miss out and it will already be time for a column I've planned for next September, which will be titled Fast Winter.

Roseau Area Community Fund seeks RFPs

The Roseau Area Community Fund is calling for funding proposals for programs and services that benefit charitable, educational and public purpose activities, projects, or services. The desired outcome for these grants is to enhance or improve the quality of life enjoyed by people in the Roseau area.

This year the Roseau Area Community Fund has up to $2,000 available for grants to non profits or public entities within the Roseau School District area. The proposal must address one or more of these areas: leisure and recreation, aesthetic development, arts, culture and education, youth activities and senior enrichment.

Selection criteria will focus on how the project meets the Roseau Area Community Fund mission, if it reaches beyond traditional opportunities, how inclusive it is to all types of diversity and the number of participants or number of organizations that are served.

The deadline for submission of proposals is May 23, 2008. The grants will be awarded by June 15. Applications will be available at the Roseau Public Library and the Riverfront Station in Wannaska.

For questions about the application, call Mary Dieter at 463-2141 or Phil Sallberg at 463-3090.

Applications can be mailed to: Roseau Area Community Fund; c/o Mary Ross, 200 4th Avenue Northeast; Roseau, MN 56751.

Newfolden student participates in Beaver Film Festival

Trent Nelson of Newfolden participated in the Beaver Film Festival at Bemidji State University. Nelson, a senior majoring in geography, contributed to the first place film, "DDT: Dare Devil Trio."

The film festival consisted of several student-made short digital films that were presented to an audience composed of BSU students. Each film was three to five minutes long, with subjects ranging from traditional comic duos to the tragic humor of becoming "stuck" in time. The movies were then judged by a panel of jurors made up of BSU staff members.

Winning films were awarded cash prizes to the amount of $200 for first place, $150 for second place and $100 for third. The film festival was sponsored by the BSU Apple Club and the BSU computer store.

Green Wave girls win individual, team titles in TRF Quadrangular

Led by medalist Leah Jensen, East Grand Forks won the Thief River Falls Quad girls high school golf meet Monday.

The Green Wave finished with a nine-hole 179 and a three-shot victory over runner-up Crookston.

Jensen and Rachel Wold of Crookston both shot 42 at the Thief River Golf Club, but the tie-breaker went to Jensen.

Team-counting rounds making up Thief River Falls' third place 203 score included Corissa Kruse with a 49, Laura Heschke 50, Aundriah Lindgren 51 and Amanda Sturgeon 53.

TRF Quad

■ Team totals - East Grand Forks 179, Crookston 182, Thief River Falls 203, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo incomplete.

■ Medalists - 1. Leah Jensen, EGF, 42; 2. Rachel Wold, Crookston, 42; 3. (tie) Karli Galstad, EGF, and Lindsay Morgen, Crookston, 45.

Thief River Falls pitcher Cheryl Nelson went through her wind-up before delivering the ball to the plate during Tuesday's high school softball match-up with Bemidji at the Multi-Events Center. The Lumberjacks won the extra-inning contest 5-4.

Extra-inning game goes to Jacks, 5-4

One winning streak was extended and one ended Tuesday when Bemidji left Thief River Falls with a 5-4 extra-inning high school softball win.

A two-out single to short center field by Kaia Sele plated the tie-breaking run in the top of the ninth inning as the Lumberjacks won their fifth game in a row. The Prowlers had won eight straight. Both teams are 9-3.

A strong, cold late-afternoon/early evening wind blew swirls of dirt across the infield, making the Prowlers regret their decision to wear shorts instead of opting for the long-pants version of their uniforms.

Thief River Falls forced extra innings by tying the game in their final regulation at-bat. Trailing 4-3 going into the bottom of the seventh, the Prowlers pulled even on a lead-off single by Meagan Abrahamson, an errant pick-off throw and an RBI double to center by Jeanna Hoglo.

A walk put two runners on base with just one out, but a fielder's choice force-out at third and a ground-out kept the Prowlers from winning it right there.

Nobody threatened in the eighth inning.

In the ninth, Bemidji's Chelsea Yost singled to center and took an extra base when an outfield error was tacked onto the play.

Thief River Falls pitcher Cheryl Nelson struck out the next two batters, but Sele's second hit of the game drove in the go-ahead run.

The Prowlers had a chance to extend the game in the bottom of the inning when a two-out walk was followed by an infield error for a first-and-third situation. But a ground-out ended it.

First four innings flew by smartly, but things fell apart for both teams after that.

Bemidji scored in the first inning when a single/error combination on a ball hit to right field by Sele put the lead-off batter at second base. She moved up on a sacrifice bunt by Amber Teal and scored when Meg Claypool singled up the middle.

Thief River Falls tied it in the second on a single by Amanda Lara, a fielder's choice, error and ground-out that produced an RBI for Nelson.

The Prowlers took the lead when Lacey Stennes led off the fifth with a bunt single that was accompanied by a two-base throwing error. A sacrifice fly by Nelson scored the run.

Bemidji went ahead 4-2 when Teal and Claypool singled and doubled, respectively, to open the sixth inning. A ground-out by Brittany Thompson was good for a game-tying RBI. A fielder's choice off the bat of Brittany Thompson scored Claypool, and she became a base runner when a throwing error put her at second. Another errant throw in the infield plated the third run of the inning.

The Prowlers had a chance for a big sixth inning of their own when they loaded the bases with nobody out, but they couldn't get the ball out of the infield and had to settle for one run.

It started with three straight singles by Cassie Gunderson, Lara and Haley Peterson – the last one a bunt. A force-out at the plate preceded an infield single by Nelson that scored a run and kept the bases full of Prowlers. However, another force at the plate and an out at second kept it from becoming a game-turning frame.

Johnson throws no-hitter as TRF beats Rams 7-0

Spencer Johnson threw a no-hitter Monday as Thief River Falls beat host Roseau 7-0 in high school baseball.

A left-handed throwing senior, Johnson overpowered the Rams. He struck out 15 and did not walk a batter. The only Roseau base runners were the result of three Thief River Falls errors. In one stretch, he threw 15 consecutive first-pitch strikes.

"Spencer pitched awesome – that's the only way to describe it," said Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "When he throws first-pitch strikes and gets ahead, he is virtually untouchable because he has such good stuff."

All the offensive support Johnson needed occurred before he even stepped on the mound as the Prowlers pushed five runs across the plate in the top of the first inning.

In an inning that included three hits, two Roseau errors and a walk, the Prowlers did all their scoring with two out, including a two-run single to left field by Brady Johnson that was immediately followed by an RBI single to right by Jake Nelson.

Only other scoring came in the top of the seventh. Sam Mattison led off with a single to left, stole second and scored on a double to right by Spencer Johnson. Cody Conners finished it with a run-producing sacrifice fly.

"We started out strong in the first inning, capitalizing on some early Roseau mistakes," pointed out Zutz. "We let some at-bats go in the middle innings, which was disappointing after the fast start."

The win improved the Prowlers' record to 7-2.

Jenna Hoglo won a pitching duel with Ashley Schraitz as Thief River Falls edged Red Lake County Central 3-1 in a Monday high school softball game at Plummer.

The Prowlers scored twice in their first at-bat and added a third run in the second inning.

Hoglo shut out the Mustangs until the sixth.

Detroit Lakes was an easy winner Tuesday in the annual Thief River Falls Invitational girls high school golf tournament.

Host Thief River Falls finished sixth with a 412.

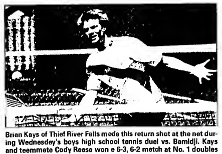
Tennis team makes home debut



Brian Kays of Thief River Falls made this return shot at the net during Wednesday's boys high school tennis duel vs. Bemidji. Kays and teammate Cody Reese won a 6-3, 6-2 match at No. 1 doubles as part of the Prowlers' 4-3 victory.

Opening day of practice for boys high school tennis was March 24. But because weather has created havoc with the spring sports schedules, Thief River Falls' 2008 home opener was delayed until Wednesday, when the Prowlers played host to Bemidji.

It was windy and it was cool, but the sun was shining, and Thief River Falls coach Corey Thorson couldn't have been happier. "Great weather," he reported with an exclamation point on his media score sheet.

Adding to his enjoyment was a 4-3 win over the Lumberjacks, which duplicated results from a Saturday (May 3) double-dual encounter at Bemidji.

Thief River Falls evened its dual meet record at 4-4 by winning two singles and two doubles matches.

Senior Jacob Engelstad and freshman Beezer Skime were Thief River Falls singles winners at No. 1 and No. 4, respectively.

Doubles points came from senior Brian Kays and junior Cody Reese at No. 1, along with juniors Parker Nessen and JD Robson at No. 2.

Brittni Johnson MCCC all-state

Northland Community and Technical College freshman Brittni Johnson of Thief River Falls was a First Team selection when the 2008 Minnesota Community College Conference all-state softball team was announced this week.

Johnson was also an MCCC All-Northern Division First Team pick.

The Pioneers' Alicia Sunsdahl and Shawna Rogalla were named Second Team all-division. Sunsdahl is a freshman from Roseau; Rogalla is a first-year player from Thief River Falls.

After a 1-2 showing at the 2008 MCCC state tournament, Northland beat Rainy River 8-0 in an extra qualifying game to land a spot in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III Region 13B playoffs.

The best-of-three match-up against state champion Central Lakes was a single-day event scheduled Friday at Grand Rapids. The winner advances to the NJCAA Division III national tournament May 14-17 in Rochester.

Northland opened the eight-team, double-elimination state tournament May 3-4 in Sauk Rapids with a 4-3 win over Rochester.

The Yellowjackets, the No. 7-ranked team in the NJCAA Division III national polls, were out-hit 9-8 and had eight of the game's nine errors. Johnson was the winning pitcher; Keandria Cobbins (3/3) and Rogalla (2/4) led the offense.

"We played a solid game," said Northland coach Kathy Huschle.

Top-seeded and top-ranked Central Lake had four home runs as part of a 13-3 base hit advantage in a 9-1 second round win over Northland. Cobbins took the loss. Sunsdahl homered and Johnson was 2-for-2.

"We fell apart," said Huschle.

Riverland eliminated the Pioneers from the tournament by building a 9-3 lead and holding on for a 9-6 loser-out bracket victory. The hits were 12-apiece, but the game's only two errors were charged to the Pioneers. Johnson was the losing pitcher. Carissa Erickson and Johnson both at 3-for-4 games at the plate.

"We played a poor softball game," offered Huschle, who watched her team give up five runs in the top of the seventh.

Central Lakes had clinched a regional spot by winning the regular season Northern Division title. The Raiders' opponent would be the next highest state tournament finisher from the Northern Division.

With Northland and Rainy River both 1-2 at state, a quick tie-breaker was put into place: a one-game playoff between the two following the completion of the state tournament.

Johnson struck out six and threw a five-hit, five-inning shutout to extended the season for the Pioneers, whose seven hits included a 2-for-3 game by Erickson.

April snow showers

Our response to the latest storm was probably typical of how area residents respond to crisis and other problems - we put on our boots and go to work as if it were any other day. There will be no cancelling or postponing of proms or anything else. Roads will be cleared (eventually), air flights will come and go, electric crews will respond to occasional outages, and other services will continue to be delivered. Yes, we're tired of winter, but we're determined to continue on. Life doesn't stop for a little ... or a lot of snow in April.

One of the most anticipated times of the year in Minnesota is upon us. This weekend, fishing season officially gets underway. Rain and cold weather always seems to put a chill on the event, but it never stops our anglers. This year, there may be a little more chill in the air than usual. In fact, we've been told that not all of the ice is off some area lakes. Because of the weather, officials have not been able to repair some of the boat ramps. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is urging anglers to remain patient and to be safe. Call ahead if you're unsure whether a particular boat ramp you use is open or not. And, remember to have your personal flotation devices with you and be safe. I wouldn't want to fall in. I'd like to add a third bit of advice - make sure you're aware of all of the changes to rules and regulations. The DNR announced this week that some streams in the Bemidji area were closed to fishing during the first week of the walleye season.

I know that most anglers do these things anyway, but it never hurts to review everything anyway. Be safe, and have a great time fishing in northwestern Minnesota.

Bovine TB legislation supposed to help area producers

Whatever else may be said about the recent passage and signing into law of the bovine TB legislation, it does signify a willingness on either side of the political aisle to address a serious issue.

On Monday, May 5, the Bovine Tuberculosis Management Zone Restrictions and Herd Buyout bill was signed into law. This law sets aside millions of dollars to assist producers and state officials in eradicating a disease that threatens the entire cattle industry in Minnesota. It will be money well spent. It may not be everything to every producer, but it does address a serious problem.

The next major step and question for producers in northwestern Minnesota will be to make sure that our producers can take advantage of the assistance without capital gains taxes or other barriers getting in the way. Of course, the one major issue yet to be determined is the state's split state proposal. Without knowing exactly what is being proposed, we hope that it will be as small as possible and as responsibly large as possible. We would hate to see bovine Tuberculosis spread beyond the current TB Management Zone, remain a problem for a longer period of time, and create more hardships.

RN students expose area children to nursing

Registered Nursing students at Northland Community and Technical College, Thief River Falls campus, under the direction of their instructors, Mei Sather and Karen Bierman, conducted an academic service learning project entitled "Nurse for a Day." Area home school students along with third grade students from Challenger Elementary School and third and fourth grade students from St. Bernard's School visited NCTC April 9-11, to experience what it is like to be a nurse for one day.

Children were divided into groups which rotated to five activity stations every 15 minutes. Children were taught about casts, splints, x-rays, isolation dressing changes on mannequins, and the importance of hand washing. In addition, they were shown how to draw up shots, give shots to infant mannequins, listen to heart and lung sounds, look into ears, and take temperatures.

Registered Nursing students participating in the three day event included: Albert Jones of Thief River Falls; Brittany Loberg of Grygla; Cassie Jax of Erskine; Constance Koppenhaver of Thief River Falls; Jasmyn Barth of Goodridge; Joy Ayotte of Hartland, Wis.; Patrick Wichmann of Bemidji; Qian Zhou of Thief River Falls; Selena Agre of Warroad; April Wollin of Greenbush; Amanda Strom of Oklee, Robbin Holmstrom of Leonard; Rachel Barth of Thief River Falls; Heidi Koeller of Park Rapids; Mary Matter of Thief River Falls; Joanna Grothe of Thief River Falls; Theresa Aqnes of Trail; Danielle DuPont of Victoria; Michael Frazer of Bemidji; Nicole Johnson of Karlstad; Christine Hangsleben of Warren; Amanda Meyer of Royalton; Jennifer Potucek of Warren; Angela Salentiny of Red Lake Falls; Lisa Scherping of Little Falls; and Erika Rogers of Grand Forks.

Sponsors for "Nurse for a Day" event included: MeritCare Hospital of Thief River Falls; Jenny Langevin - State Farm Insurance of Warren, J & J Company; Digi-Key, Inc. of Thief River Falls; Minnesota Lions Eye Bank; First Care Nursing Home of Fosston; B & P Waterworks LLC of St. Joseph; Sather Law Office of Thief River Falls; Super One Foods of Thief River Falls; and River View Health of Crookston.

Academic service learning is a method by which students learn and develop through active participation in organized service experiences that meet actual community needs. Students who have engaged in service learning are more competitive as they enter the workforce and as they apply for continued educational opportunities.

Viking to build new cafe and antique shop

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the future Viking Cafe and Antique Shop took place Saturday, May 3. Officials and guests gathered at the site, which is just south of the Cafe and Antique Shop it will replace. The older building was built in about 1900.

Viking Mayor Ardelle Anderson thanked Marge and Michael Olson for the work they're doing and will continue to do as operators of the cafe. She also thanked Jerome and Cheryl Peters for their generous contribution to this project.

Anderson said the new building will be 70-feet by 50-feet. The contractor building it is Jamie Miramontes. She said she hopes construction will be completed by the end of August.

The Viking Cafe and Antique Shop is owned by the city of Viking and operated by the Olsons. Anderson said that arrangement will continue. She also noted that the new building will include a meeting room that can be used by groups.

Construction is expected to begin soon. Anderson said about 60 people attended the groundbreaking ceremony.

Birding can enhance your backyard experience

In today's highly interactive and short attention-span society, the backyard increasingly beckons to us as that accessible personal space in which to repair from life. And life has become increasingly defined as the flickering space of a television, computer screen, personal digital assistant or smartphone. Obviously, these ever-present devices are easy to take anywhere, even our backyards. But taking them there is one thing. To disengage is to realize the natural interactivity all around, just waiting to enliven our "backyard experience."

Also, momentarily forget the other entertaining elements for backyard enjoyment to be open to one of the most entertaining, soothing and natural of backyard activities - birding.

The allure of birding can be found anywhere in a range from infrequent to dedicated pursuit, with your backyard serving as the stage. No matter how you decorate or "accessorize" your personal outdoors, keep in mind you're doing it to create a haven for birds.

So what are the building blocks for enlivening your outdoor stage to attract the little winged actors?

Trees and Shrubs

For birds, trees and shrubs are elements of security within your yard. The types and densities of your trees and shrubs have a direct bearing on the amount and types of birds that visit your yard. For example, just planting shrubs in groups rather than a line and not closely pruned afford covered ground access attractive to colorful robins, blue jays and cardinals. Single plantings or groupings of pine and fir trees provide yearlong insulation, cover and nesting perches. Without a doubt, tree and shrub type and arrangement are integral to optimum backyard bird activity. Visit www.howtoattractbirds.com to learn more.

Wildflowers

Wildflowers are natural magnets for attracting birds. They require minimum maintenance once the initial planting is complete. Not pruning or "deadheading" blooms is best for attracting birds through their remaining seed pods.

Birdhouses

Whether you build it yourself or buy a birdhouse, you'll find that putting up any house will gain residents. For certain types of birds, follow specific birdhouse structures. Details such as floor area, house depth and rise of entry hole above the floor, are a few dimensions that make a house more conducive to specific bird types. Knowing the type of birds desired should guide your birdhouse choice. Web sites like www.birding.about.com/od/buildhouses/a/completehouse.htm and www.birdhouses101.com contain house specifications for almost any bird you hope to attract.

Birdfeeders

Feeders come in general types: tube feeders, wall feeders, hopper feeders, sock feeders, suet feeders, tray or platform feeders, lantern feeders and variations on all of these. A tube feeder with a tray attracts cardinals, crossbills, finches and sparrows while a suet feeder attracts woodpeckers, chickadees, nuthatches and wrens. Feeders near the house call for a window feeder while an open area requires a tube feeder mounted on a pole. And then there are add-ons. The most common are squirrel deterrents such as baffles or cones. Go to the National Wildlife Federation's site at www.enature.com or the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service Web site at www.fws.gov/birds for complete sources for feeder information.

Bird Food

If you put the right food out, the birds will come. In fact, bird food is the most affordable and effective birding lure. Whether sunflower, safflower, white millet, cracked corn or thistle seeds, knowing which seed your favorite bird likes guides your bird seed purchase. Buying higher-quality mixes versus mixes with fillers can ensure complete consumption, as well as minimize ground or patio debris from uneaten fillers. Filler debris attracts unwanted rodents under feeders or near your home. "Knowing the bird you want to attract, the quality of seed used and the ease-of-use in the packaging are the ABC's of an enjoyable birding experience," says Tony Vahedian, vice president and general manager, ScottsMiracle-Gro Wild Bird Food division. For easy Web information on bird food products, go to sites like Scotts' www.scottswildbirdfood.com and the Cornell Lab of Ornithology's Web site at www.birds.cornell.edu to learn the basics of quality bird seeds.

The limited time we have to relax in the great outdoors can also be the height of entertainment from a natural perspective. Putting in place the basic building blocks for attracting color and activity to our yards is easier than you think. First is recognizing what has always been in our midst and with just a few additions, realize that some of the best stimulation available isn't always in front of a monitor. Enjoy!

Remodel your outdoor spaces

With uncertainties in the housing market causing many homeowners to "hunker down" and stay put for a while, targeted improvements are becoming a popular way to add value to a home. An outdoor remodel is one improvement that nearly always offers a great return on investment.

Despite news of a potential economic downturn, many builders are reporting an uptick in building comfortable outdoor living areas, such as decks, porches, patios and pool areas, with amenities including gas-powered heat lamps, outdoor showers, and even full-service kitchens.

"Consumers are investing in their homes by adding decorative elements to their existing outdoor areas and creating expansions to decks and patios," said Rick Preble, general manager of Deckorators.

Also aiding growth is an emphasis on creative design by deck builders and exterior design contractors. The wealth of new products on the market lets homeowners differentiate their properties from those of neighbors and friends. It's a personalization once reserved only for interior spaces.

"Homeowners are taking more pride in their homes and investing in high quality products outdoors. That's a smart move for increasing the value of your home," Preble said.

Leigh Brown, a Charlotte, N.C., realtor with RE/MAX Signature Properties, says one of the most popular features homebuyers are looking for today is outdoor living space. "Everyone wants to spend time outside, and communities are being built around greenbelts, golf courses and parks. This generation of first-time homebuyers is tilting toward a more environmentally conscious lifestyle, and it's fitting that those same people want a home that has a nice flow between the inside and the out," Brown said.

"Today a deck incorporates seating areas, cooking areas and often recreation areas. Hot tubs and spas are popular features, and families spend lots of time enjoying decks and patios," Preble said.

"Today's deck is much more than a place to park your grill," added Brown. "It's the hub of the family's social life."

Your front entry: On duty 24/7

Your front entry needs to be on duty 24/7. Not only does it present a welcoming invitation for guests to enter your home, it also needs to shield you from prowlers and burglars, insulate your home from extreme temperatures and ensure safety and property protection from storms with high winds, flying debris and driving rain.

"Homeowners want beautiful doors and windows that enhance the curb appeal of their home, but they also want them to provide security against break-ins and performance against the elements," said home improvement expert Tom Kraeutler, AOL's home improvement editor and co-host of "The Money Pit" nationally syndicated home improvement radio show. "Fortunately, several easy improvements can help homeowners secure their home's entryway, from upgrading the materials to simple changes in lighting and landscaping."

Here are some ways to ensure your front entry has what it takes to provide security and protection 24/7:

Upgrade your locking systems

Unlocked or improperly locked doors and windows are responsible for nearly half of all home break-ins, according to the Home Safety Council. You can upgrade your locking system by adding a surface-mount, rim-mount or vertical deadbolt lock. Better yet, choose a door with a multi-point locking system that engages the door frame at three points instead of just one.

Choose durable materials

Whatever locking system you choose, your door's weakest point is generally the area surrounding the lock, especially if it is a wood door, which can warp or crack over time, making it an easy target for an intruder to kick in and enter. That's why it's important to choose an entry door made of an exceptionally durable material, such as fiberglass.

"Doors made of fiberglass are great for entryways because they can provide the rich look and style of wood doors, but they are extremely strong and won't warp, crack, rot, swell or split like wood, or rust, ding or dent like aluminum and steel," said Kraeutler. "They can also withstand temperature extremes, high humidity, and they're easy to stain or paint."

Manufacturers offer a wide variety of fiberglass door lines to choose from, available in dozens of designs to complement the most popular types of home architecture. Some leading door makers also offer fiberglass doors that replicate the look and wood-grain texture of mahogany, walnut and cherry.

Weather the storms with impact glass

You might think doors made with glass would compromise security and privacy. However, impact-resistant glass is now available in decorative designs and patterns that are so beautiful, no one will be the wiser. In addition to providing beauty and home security, "impact rated" glass is approved for installation in areas with the most stringent building codes, meaning it can withstand severe storms with heavy winds, rain and flying debris. Impact glass is also available in clear, grilles-between-glass or Low-E versions for improved energy efficiency.

Be wise with windows

For the safety of your family and property, choose windows for your home – especially near the entry – made with tempered safety glass. Two panes of glass are adhered to a durable plastic interlayer, much like a car windshield. If someone tries to break it, the glass will shatter, but broken pieces remain adhered to the interlayer, preventing glass from falling into the home. Be sure to only open windows that young children cannot reach. Simonton offers ventilation locks that allow windows to be partially opened for fresh air while remaining securely locked.

Protection for patio doors, too

Patio doors have a reputation as easy targets for intruders. In addition to security concerns, many patio doors are susceptible to air and water infiltration.

Look for a patio door system that offers a design pressure rating of 40 or higher. This means that the system can withstand structural test pressure of 60 pounds per square foot; the equivalent of 150 mph winds; will not allow air infiltration under 25 mph winds; and prevents water penetration under test conditions equal to eight inches of rain per hour driven by 49 mph winds. Ask for a high-performance sill that will resist rotting and swelling, especially if you live in a rough coastal climate.

Adjust landscaping and lighting

Take security a step further by adjusting landscaping and lighting to eliminate places where burglars can hide in waiting or enter unseen. Trim shrubbery near doors and windows and illuminate porches, garage doors and rear and side doorways.

Inside lighting is important, too, so install timers that automatically turn on lights at a certain time every day, even if you're not there. Lighting manufacturers also offer one-touch lighting control systems that let you turn on lights from anywhere, even in your car – so you can avoid entering a dark house.

Apple trees for the North.

Nothing beats the taste of a home-grown apple fresh off the tree. Northern gardeners can grow apples that rival and even surpass any store-bought apple in flavor and texture. Bergeson Nursery offers over fourteen varieties of apple trees for this climate.

The Chestnut Apple is our all-time favorite. It has great crunch and amazing flavor. The two-inch apples ripen in September and stay crisp on the tree until freeze-up. The tree is as hardy as they come and puts on a gorgeous display of white blossoms in the spring.

Brand new this year is Prairie Magic, developed in Manitoba. We haven't planted one yet, but it should be everything it claims to be a very sweet and crisp apple that thrives in our prairie climate.

Goodland is one of the parents of Prairie Magic, and is a sturdy and hardy apple with large fruit. It's crisp flesh is pure white and doesn't turn brown when exposed to air. It grows into a well-shaped upright oval tree.

Haralson is a classic variety and still one of the best. It ripens very late, and its apples can take temperatures down to 23 degrees without harm. It is the best storage apple-we've eaten apple crisp made in May from Haralson apples that kept all winter.

Centennial is a smaller apple that makes a good companion for Chestnut. Though most apples take three to five years to bear, Centennial will most likely bear the year after planting. Its apples are egg-sized, egg-shaped, sweet, crisp and ripen early in the season.

Honeycrisp apples are all the rage, and you need to bite into one to find out why. They are so crisp that they virtually explode into your mouth.

Zestar is another new variety that bears huge apples-the biggest we've seen. They ripen early, but unlike many early apples they are crisp and tart.

Protect them from the critters!

All apples need protection from the deer all year and from rabbits and rodents in the winter. Ask us for suggestions about how to keep your young trees safe.

Need more room? Don't move; improve

According to the National Association of Realtors, the continuation of a soft market is predicted for existing home sales in the coming months. This comes as bad news for people who are considering selling their homes in the near future.

Gone are the days when potential buyers would fight over every listing that comes on the market, driving up prices in the process. Now homes may linger on the market for months, fetching far lower prices. The national median home price for existing single-family homes was $206,200 in the fourth quarter of 2007, down 5.8 percent from just a year prior. Because buying a new home typically requires first selling your current home, many people who want to "move up" to a bigger or nicer home are choosing to stay in their current homes and upgrade them rather than put them on the market.

Home improvements offer many benefits: they not only make your home more comfortable but can also be a prudent investment. Popular projects include: kitchen remodels, bathroom additions, deck additions, siding and window replacement – all improvements that, in addition to making a home more livable, may actually increase the value of a home.

But with the economy being as tough as it is lately, where will people find the money to pay for their improvements? A popular option is to tap into the equity in the very house you're planning to fix up. "When it comes to funding home improvement projects, consumers with equity in their homes have multiple options, such as taking out a home-equity loan, setting up a home-equity line of credit or refinancing an existing mortgage," said Stephen Semprevivo, president of LowerMyBills.com.

Here is a quick guide to financing choices:

- Home-equity loan: With a home-equity loan, you take out one lump some of money based on the equity you already have in your home. The amount you borrow and the interest rate are fixed at the start of the loan. These loans typically last from five to 15 years.
- Home-equity line of credit: Like a credit card, a home-equity line of credit functions as an open line of credit, only it is borrowed against your house like a second mortgage. The benefits of using a home-equity line of credit instead of a credit card are that the interest rate for a home-equity line of credit is almost always lower than that of a credit card, and the interest you pay is usually tax deductible.
- Cash-out refinance: A cash-out refinance allows you to refinance your mortgage for more than you currently owe, leaving cash on the table that you can put toward your home improvements. Unlike a home-equity line of credit or home-equity loan, a cash-out refinance does not require taking on the additional burden of a second loan.

Don't want to take the gamble of borrowing against your house? Don't despair. "Homeowners that don't have a lot of equity in their homes, or don't want to tap into that equity, may find that simply refinancing their homes can help offset home improvement costs," said Semprevivo.

Interest rates are near record lows. If you bought your home a few years ago, you may well be able to refinance at a lower rate. That lower rate can yield substantial savings that can go a long way in paying off your home improvement bills.

Want to find out which option offers the best scenario for you? There are benefits and drawbacks to any home loan, so it's a good idea to discuss your options with a trusted financial professional.

Whether you go with a home-equity loan, a home-equity line of credit or a refinance, your interest payments will likely be tax deductible, and no matter which financing option you choose, upgrading your home can add value and comfort. Better get started right away though, so you can enjoy those improvements in time for summer.

How to green-up your home's value

Want a good way to help protect the value of your home? Remember these two words: green matters. Not green paint, mind you but green space. It's an umbrella term for the trees, lawn, shrubs and other plantings that can affect not only the salability of your home, but your utility bills as well.

Which is why Project EverGreen, a national non-profit organization, is leading the charge to educate consumers about the many values of green space -- especially as it affects their pocketbooks.

According to Den Gardner, executive director of Project EverGreen, "research shows that improving the green space around your home can have real economic benefits."

Protecting Home Value

Gardner cites a number of studies which show that sprucing up your green space can help protect and, depending on market conditions, bolster home value. For example: a study cited in Smart Money magazine indicated that consumers value a landscaped home up to 11.3 percent higher than its base price. In addition, The Wall Street Journal reported that landscaping investment is normally recovered fully and sometimes doubled by its ability to increase home value.

That sounds good, but Gardner adds this important caution: "It's wise to plan before you plant. Make sure you begin landscape improvement or renovation with well-thought-out ideas for maintaining and/or improving your green space. You may want to do the work yourself -- and that's good exercise; however, it's always wise to seek professional advice to get the right balance and placement of trees, shrubs, grass and other plantings."

As evidence of this he cited a research project conducted by the Horticultural Research Institute (HRI). This showed that a sophisticated landscape design with trees and large, colorful bedding plants can raise the perceived value of a home between 5 and 11 percent. On the other hand, consumer reaction was that minimalist landscapes (i.e. with small plant size and low sophistication) actually decreased the perception of home value.

Saving Energy Costs

Planning the right mix of trees, grass and other plantings can also make a difference in a home's energy consumption. One study has estimated that when properly placed to shade your home, trees can reduce air conditioning demand by 10 to 30 percent. Another study found attic temperatures could be up to 40 degrees lower when adequate shade was present.

"There are two ways you take advantage of this natural cooling effect," Gardner says. "First, if you have mature trees make sure they're pruned properly to maximize shade benefits, and second, in planning for future shade, seek professional advice as to the type and location of the trees you should plant. Both steps can help lower your electrical bill."

Also, don't overlook how maintaining a thick, healthy lawn and other plants also provides cooling benefits. "This is due to a process known as evapotranspiration," Gardner says. "When vegetation is warmed by the sun it gives up water which then evaporates to cool not only the plant itself, but the surrounding area as well. The result is one of nature's most overlooked, and yet most efficient cooling systems. In fact, researchers have calculated that evapotranspiration from the front lawns in a block of eight houses, produces cooling equivalent to 70 tons of air conditioning."

enjoys woodworking, hunting, fishing and spending time at the family's summer house near Grygla. He also has a long history of community and professional service. He is a member of Our Savior's Lutheran Church, Aurora. They look forward to moving back to northwest Minnesota.

Goodridge High School Baccalaureate Services are organized each year by the women's groups at St. Ann's Roman Catholic Parish, Reiner Free Lutheran Church and Faith and Eklund Lutheran Churches. Local businesses and service organizations have also supported these services. In addition to Gene's presentation, the service will feature leadership and special music from Goodridge students and participation from local clergy. Lunch will be served.

Rick Trontvet, vice president of human resources at Digi-Key Corp., was the guest speaker for Monday's program, during which Red Lake County Central Elementary was named a Minnesota School of Excellence. Trontvet commented that many of the same attributes that Digi-Key Corp. looks for in prospective employees are the same attributes that the Minnesota School of Excellence award recognizes.

of its service to the city of Thief River Falls that spans several decades. The band has played at numerous city events including Memorial Day services at Greenwood Cemetery, the sending off of troops, as well as several free city concerts held in various places around Thief River Falls including the Pioneer Village, City Auditorium and the Floyd B. Olson Park. Northland Community Band has also represented Thief River Falls, Northland College and Minnesota in many performance tours to area high schools, colleges and overseas.

"The band and I would like to thank Thief River Falls for its continued patronage, not just for supporting our organization but for supporting this cultural gift that the band offers to our area and for supporting music in general," said NCTC music instructor Linda Samuelson.

RLCC Superintendent Jim Guetter called the accomplishment grand and said it was made possible by a collaborative effort of students, parents and the community.

"Students, we the adults are here because of you," Guetter said. "Each and everyone of you are special. We've gotten here by working hard and making good choices. Remember what it took to get here and what it will take to stay here."

World War II vet very grateful for honor flight

Warren - "Thanks to a program sponsored by WDAY-TV of Fargo, N.D., dozens of World War II veterans from Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota have been given the opportunity to fly to Washington, D.C., for a visit to the war memorial on the Capital Mall that was dedicated in their honor in 2004.

"One of those veterans who recently enjoyed participating in WDAY's fourth WWII Honor Flight was Erling Lundgren of Warren, who spent five years on active duty during World War II, including half of that time in a South Pacific war zone. He then came back for a 40-year career as a Warren merchant."

"Erling enlisted in the Army a few months before the U.S. entered World War II. Many people back in 1941 were convinced the U.S. was certain to enter the war against the forces of fascism on the side of Great Britain. By enlisting rather than waiting to be drafted, he ensured he would get his preference – assignment to the Army Air Corps, which later became the U.S. Air Force. Sent to Washington state, he was trained in ordnance, which meant he would be working with bombs and ammunition for aircraft.

"Erling shipped out for the Philippines, along with many soldiers. Along the way, they made a stop at Pearl Harbor. A week after they left, the Japanese made their aerial attack, bringing the U.S. into the war. As the Japanese were also making a military conquest of the Philippines, the convoy carrying Erling and the other soldiers changed course and headed for Australia. He was based in Australia for all of 1942, and the next year, his Air Corps unit went to New Guinea." - Warren Sheaf, May 14, 2008

Elden Johnson honored in Washington, D.C.

Hallock - "The National Association of Area Agencies on Aging announced the recipients of the 2008 MetLife Foundation Older Volunteers Enrich America Awards. Elden Johnson, 73, Hallock, received his award May 12 in Washington, D.C., at the Ronald Reagan Building.

"Twenty-two people were chosen as the silver honorees for their outstanding volunteer contributions. Johnson received his award in the Team Spirit category with his involvement in the State Health Insurance Program." - Kittson County Enterprise, May 14, 2008

Rosebud passes merger

Fosston - "Rosebud Co-op members voted May 10 in favor of merging with the McIntosh-Fosston Co-op Elevator and Fosston Ag Service associations. The results tallied at 36 to 6 for combining the three organizations into what would be known as the Fosston Tri Co-op. It was carried out at The Stadium restaurant in Fosston.

"This was the second time a vote was held for Rosebud members. The first was conducted April 3 in union with a vote by members of the other two co-op associations. Both the elevator and Ag Service passed the referendum at that time.

"However, concerns arose that some ballots were cast by non-voting members of Rosebud Co-op. This nullified the results of the organization's first vote, which shot down the measure, 84-79. There was no effect on the tally of the other two co-ops, whose members gave their approval." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, May 13, 2008, by Dan Kindall

Singing our praises

Dane Froiland of Thief River Falls sang the national anthem and the city's song, "We're From Thief River," during the opening ceremony for Capital for a Day in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, May 13. Joining Froiland on stage were: (from left) Secretary of State Mark Ritchie, Thief River Falls Mayor Steve Nordhagen, Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty and Cay Shea Hellervik, commission chair of the Sesquicentennial Commission.

TRF reigns as Minnesota's Capital for a Day

by David Hill
Editor

Tuesday, May 13, was a day filled with activities and celebration as Thief River Falls helped kick-off the state's sesquicentennial (150th anniversary) activities. Joining in the on the Capital for a Day celebration in Thief River Falls was Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty and other state officials.

Speaking to a crowd of 200 to 300 gathered for an early weekday opening ceremony, Pawlenty congratulated Thief River Falls on being named one of the five cities recognized as a Capital for a Day. Each of the five communities was selected to represent a specific biome within the state. Thief River Falls represented the the tallgrass aspen parklands biome of northwestern Minnesota. The other communities and the regions they represent include: Bemidji representing the coniferous forest zone; Detroit Lakes representing the deciduous forest zone; New Ulm representing the prairie grasslands zone; and Winona representing the driftless area zone.

Pawlenty told the audience that to understand today you have to study yesterday. Reflecting upon the history of the state, Pawlenty noted that the state is filled with many unique and wonderful communities. Thief River Falls, which received the most votes of any of the five cities vying for a Capital for a Day, has its own history that demonstrates an enterprising and innovative spirit. The community, he said, began with its lumber industry and agriculture, and has become headquarters for leading industries like Arctic Cat and Digi-Key. Its citizens value education, and like citizens of the state, are willing to lend a hand whenever possible. Minnesota ranks highest, he said, among all states in how it treats and cares for each other. That, he said, is a wonderful testament to our state and community.

Secretary of State Mark Ritchie, who was traveling with the governor, urged citizens to reflect upon the state's history. It will be the same energy and spirit of those, he said, who built this state that will keep this state great.

Governor Tim Pawlenty

During the ceremony the value of youth to the future of Minnesota and the community of Thief River Falls was recognized. Governor Pawlenty recognized Aaron Dahl, Kayse Lee and Jim Worker, seniors at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls. Dahl, Lee and Worker were named honorary mayor, fire chief and police chief - honors the city used to bestow on deserving youth many years ago, but hasn't been exercised in recent years.

All three honor students recognized the importance of involving youth in the community. They

15 St. Bernard's high school seniors go on mission trip

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Fifteen high school seniors and four adult chaperones from St. Bernard's Catholic Church went on a mission trip to Mazatlan, Mexico last month. This was the fourth year that St. Bernard's has sent its high school seniors on a mission trip. Numbers-wise, it was also the biggest group to participate in a high school mission trip at St. Bernard's.

"It's for the senior students," said Jacob Rath, St. Bernard's youth minister. "The focus is for them, not only to open themselves up to a different culture, but also to do missionary work and be closer to God."

The participating group included Lincoln High School Seniors Kathryn Walrath, Marae Kalinowski, Rachel Pederson, Spencer Johnson, Jordan Espeseth, Lindsay LeDuc, Paige Woods, Mauri Gonsorowski, Tim Gaffaney, Tony Hoard, Josh Skalsky, Thomas Kalinoski, Michael Kalinoski, Brandi Aasand, Julia Holecek; and chaperones, Msgr. Timothy McGee, Rath, Barbara Kalinoski and Julie LeDuc.

"It was a really good experience," Walrath said. "I've never been out of the country (besides Canada). We got to experience a totally different culture."

The group left Thief River Falls on a bus at midnight on Sunday, March 30, arrived in Minneapolis and flew out of the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport to Mazatlan, Mexico, arriving at 1 p.m. on Monday.

Each day of the six-day trip was spent doing something different. Monday was a day of getting acquainted for the group.

Tuesday the group went to an orphanage, Orfanatorio Mazatlan, and played basketball and other games with the orphans. Later in the day the group attended mass led by Father Pedro Tovar Cortes and also visited Father Tovar's home for boys, Hogar San Pablo, which houses as many as 36 boys between the ages of 9 and 18, that would otherwise be homeless.

Wednesday the group went to Mazatlan's Familia Center. Rath described the eye-opening experience as going from the green grass to the slums of Mazatlan. The Familia Center offers schooling and a meal for each day for some of the

Over 380 graduate from NCTC

Over 380 students at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls received degrees during the spring commencement exercises Thursday, May 17, in Thief River Falls. The college awarded 391 total degrees including 134 associate in science degrees, 81 associate in arts degrees, 48 associate in applied science degrees, 122 diplomas, and six professional certificates.

Representing the office of the chancellor for Minnesota Colleges and Universities, General Council Gail M. Olson was called on to offer remarks.

"Through more than 150 years, the people of Minnesota have placed a high value on education and it will continue to be a big part of Minnesota's future," Olson said.

Olson applauded the soon-to-be graduates for their accomplishments, but she warned that learning doesn't end at graduation.

Quoting Nelson Mandela, Olson said, "I have discovered the secret that after climbing a great hill one only finds that there are many more hills to climb. Graduates, take a deep breath and enjoy your accomplishments."

Among the guests honored during the exercises were Diane Kays, 2008 Alumni of the Year, and Zackery Larson, 2008 Student of the Year.

Larson is a graduate of Oak Grove Lutheran School in Moorhead, where he participated in Fire likely accidental

The investigation has ended for the April 25 fire that severely damaged the Warroad Senior Living Center that was under construction. However, the cause of the fire will remain undetermined.

"We strongly feel it was accidental," said Deputy State Fire Marshal Kevin Mahle, who noted that the investigation couldn't pinpoint what started the fire.

The fire started in the central portion of the building, near the planned location of a chapel, Mahle added. If the sprinklers had been operational, he said one sprinkler head would probably have extinguished the fire and lessened the amount of damage. However, early warning and fire protection systems weren't yet in place at the time of the fire.

The fire was reported on April 25 at 1:22 a.m. Strong winds aided the fire, which spread quickly to all five buildings of the complex. No injuries were reported.

The facility was under construction and scheduled to be completed this summer. Construction began in 2006. Funding was provided by Marvin Windows and Doors. Discussions have already begun about moving forward with the project.

Great Plains EMS changes owners

Great Plains EMS Inc., which provides ambulance service to a portion of the northwestern region of Minnesota, has changed owners. As of Thursday, the organization is now owned and operated by F-M Ambulance of Fargo, N.D. It will now do business as Thief River Falls Area Ambulance.

Ambulance service will continue uninterrupted. Most of the current staff will remain in place. As always, dial 911 if you or a loved one has emergency medical needs.

The address and phone number will remain the same: 511 Atlantic Ave. N., Thief River Falls, MN 56701; (218) 681-4084.

Lake Bronson dam future discussed

The third in a series of public meetings discussing the future of the dam at Lake Bronson State Park will begin at 5 p.m., Thursday, May 22, at the park's visitor center.

During the meeting, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Dam Safety Section, State Park staff and consultants from Barr Engineering will present the three alternatives that have been chosen for further development.

The three alternatives have been slightly modified from those recommended and presented in January, based upon costs, flow capacity, better utilization of site conditions and bridge/roadway issues. All three alternatives involve modifying or replacing the existing dam and minimizing alterations to the existing roadway.

For detailed descriptions of each alternative or for more information on the Lake Bronson dam project, visit the website established by Barr Engineering. www.barr.com/lakebronson. Comments and questions will also be accepted online.

The presentation of alternatives and public comment period are part of an ongoing process to identify what action should be taken to address structural and safety issues of the historic dam.

Sharpshooting efforts conclude

The sharpshooting effort to remove deer in the bovine tuberculosis (TB) area of northwestern Minnesota, which began in February 2007, concluded on May 9. Sharpshooters, hunters and landowners have taken 1,207 deer since the fall hunting seasons closed as part of Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' (DNR) efforts to stop the potential spread of bovine Tuberculosis (TB) in northwestern Minnesota.

The deer population in the 164-square-mile core of the bovine TB disease management area was estimated at 800 animals during an aerial survey conducted in January before sharpshooting efforts began. Aerial sharpshooters took 416 deer and ground sharpshooters took 546 deer in and near the core area, bringing the 2008 sharpshooting total to 962 animals.

During the regular deer seasons, 1,419 deer were harvested in the bovine TB deer permit area. Hunters harvested an additional 120 deer during a January special hunt. Since the close of the deer hunting seasons, landowners have taken an additional 125 deer in an area that was expanded to include private lands to the north of deer permit area 101. In total, 2,656 deer have been taken from September 2007 to May 2008.

"The large take is evidence of the extraordinary effort that has been underway since autumn," said Dave Schad, DNR Fish and Wildlife Division director. "This has been a highly successful operation that has gone a long way toward achieving our goal of eliminating bovine TB in

I've been neglecting those of you who watch your nutritional information, so here are three really wonderful main dish meals that will let you eat those good things and yet keep you on track. You'll love them.

We all love those good, old "hot dishes" and here is one for you Tater Tot hot dish lovers who are watching your diets. This one tastes just great but has far less calories and bad stuff than the original recipe. Love that ground turkey and those fat and sodium free soups they have nowadays:

LIGHT TATER TOT CASSEROLE

1 pound lean ground turkey
3/4 cup chopped onions
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 can fat free cream of mushroom soup with less sodium
1/3 cup skim milk
1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
1 (1 pound) package frozen cut green beans, thawed
2 cups frozen potato nuggets

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Spray 8x12 inch (2 quart) baking dish.

In large skillet, combine turkey, onions, celery, garlic powder and pepper. Cook over medium high heat until turkey is browned. Drain well.

Place soup, milk, bouillon and green beans in skillet. Add drained meat mixture and spoon into sprayed baking dish. Top evenly with potato nuggets.

Bake in preheated oven for 35-45 minutes, until casserole is bubbly and nuggets are golden. Recipe serves 6.

Each serving contains 290 calories, 13 g fat, 60 mg chol, 750 sodium, 25 g carb and 19 g protein. Dietary exchanges are 1 1/2 starch, 1 vegetable, 2 very lean meat, 2 fat.

Here's another recipe for a delicious main dish meal that everybody loves. Calories in this one are very good too and it can be made in the slow cooker for a wonderfully easy suppertime:

SWISS STEAK STEW

1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 1/2 pounds boneless beef round steak, cut into 6 pieces
1 can diced tomatoes with basil, garlic and oregano, undrained
3/4 cup water
3 cups quartered small, unpeeled potatoes
1 large onion, cut in half and thinly sliced
1 medium green bell pepper, sliced
1 cup frozen corn

Combine flour and seasoned salt, mixing well. Add beef pieces, turning to coat. Spray large skillet with nonstick spray. Heat over medium high until hot, add beef and cook 5-6 minutes, turning until browned on both sides.

Meanwhile, add tomatoes and water to any remaining flour mixture and mix well.

In 3-4 quart slow cooker, layer potatoes, browned beef, onion and green pepper. Pour tomato mixture over. Cover and cook on low heat for 7-8 hours, until beef is tender.

Add corn and mix well. Cover and cook 15-30 minutes more until corn is tender. Season with salt and pepper as needed. Recipe makes 6 servings.

Gotta have a new chicken recipe sometimes. This one is tasty and quick to fix in a hurry after a busy day and it is so tasty with the addition of turkey kielbasa:

CHICKEN AND SQUASH

1 small buttercup squash
4 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
4 ounces smoked turkey kielbasa sausage, cubed
1 (19 ounce) can cannelloni beans (Great Northern beans are ok too - I can never find the cannelloni beans in our stores)
1 (15 ounce) can Italian stewed tomatoes with basil, garlic and oregano, undrained
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley

Pierce squash with a knife 3-4 times and microwave on high for 3-4 minutes to soften. Cut in half and remove seeds, then peel and dice to make 2-3 cups.

Spray nonstick skillet and heat over medium high heat until hot. Add chicken and cook 3-5 minutes on both sides, until browned. Add sausage and cook and stir 2-3 minutes.

Add squash, beans and tomatoes to chicken mixture in skillet. Bring to a boil and reduce heat to medium. Cover and cook 10-15 minutes, just enough time to run and set the table. Cook until chicken is fork tender, juices run clear and squash is tender, stirring occasionally. Sprinkle with parsley. Recipe serves 4.

Nutritional information: Each serving contains 370 calories, 5 g fat, 90 mg chol, 750 mg sodium, 41 g carb, 39 g protein. Dietary Exchanges is 2 1/2 starch (or 2 1/2 carb), 4 1/2 very lean meat.

Peat and Repeat.
That's the key to growing flowers in the heavy alkaline soils of the Red River Valley and surrounding region.
BERGESON PEAT is mined from a local bog. It is dark and finely ground-not bready and dry like the stuff you find at discount chains.
Peat lightens up heavy soils and helps sandy soils hold more moisture. At Bergeson Gardens, we put peat on top of our flower beds each year, mix in some 10-10-10 fertilizer, and watch the flowers grow like crazy.
By adding peat to your flower or vegetable garden, you will increase drainage. By mixing a little peat in the bottom of the hole when you plant a shrub or a tree, you will give the roots an early boost.
USE LOCAL PEAT. We have millions of acres of good peat in Minnesota. Don't buy the dry, chunky stuff from somewhere else.
FERTILIZE FLOWER BEDS WITH MILD HORTICULTURAL FERTILIZER. Farm fertilizer is too hot for flowers. Till in a balanced fertilizer such as a 10-10-10 before planting.
USE PEAT IN YOUR FLOWER POTS. Plain dirt is terribly heavy and gets rock hard, while commercial potting mixes can be too light and of iffy quality. Pure peat gives a good mix of water retention and drainage. Use a water-soluble fertilizer mixed according to directions to provide nutrients for your potted flowers.
PROPER WATERING PRACTICES are another secret to gorgeous flower beds. It doesn't help to stand out there with a spray-end hose everyday. It's better to do it the lazy way letting a soaker hose or a sprinkler run all night. This will soak your plants deeply and you usually won't have to water more than once a week. Plus your plants will develop deeper, healthier roots.
With the combination of adequate fertilizer, good peat soil, proper watering and top quality plants from Bergeson's, your yard can be the pride of the neighborhood.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Angus resident selected for MARL program

Participants in class five of the Minnesota Agriculture and Rural Leadership (MARL) Program have been selected. Among them is Angus resident Blake Owens, a sugar beet, wheat, corn, and soybean producer; PKM Electric board member; Marshall County Co-op board member; Brandt Township supervisor; and local civic leader.

"Competition for positions in the MARL Program gets tougher with each class," said Ron Obermoller, chair of the MARL Board of Directors. "The applicants for MARL Class V were outstanding. That makes the selection process difficult. It is a good challenge, but also frustrating to be unable to take all the qualified applicants."

Applicants submit a written application that includes several essay questions, secure written references, and participate in a personal interview before being selected by the MARL board of directors.

Successful applicants share two common traits, according to Tim Alcorn, MARL executive director. "MARL participants are actively involved in leadership roles in their communities and organizations and have high aspirations for success in more responsible leadership roles in the future."

"The MARL Program experience will sharpen their skills and broaden their horizons. It is the goal of the program to help the participants improve their performance in their current leadership roles and prepare them for achieving their future goals as quickly as possible. By investing in these individuals, the MARL Program is an investment in rural Minnesota and its agriculture."

MARL Class V will begin meeting in mid-November for the first of a series of nine in-state seminars held at different locations across the state. The program curriculum also features a six-day national study tour to Washington, D.C., and a 12-day international study tour. The program experience will conclude in April 2010.

Two-thirds of MARL participants are agricultural producers, so the seminar and study tour schedule is held almost entirely in the winter months. The variance from that schedule is at the mid-point of the program experience. A single in-state seminar is held in Duluth at the end of June so participants see port operations during the Great Lakes shipping season. In-state seminars are roughly 48 hours long, running from approximately noon on Wednesday to approximately noon on Friday.

First motorcycle cruise of season planned

The first of the summer evening motorcycle cruises will be held Tuesday, May 20, for a ride to Mentor. Participants are asked to meet at the MeritCare Clinic parking lot in Thief River Falls at 6:30 p.m., with the departure scheduled at 6:45 p.m.

The ride will be approximately 100 miles with a snack stop along the way. It is open to all brands of motorcycles. Participants are asked to dress for evening weather and travel will be on paved roads.

The ride will be held only if the weather is favorable. For more information or to get a ride schedule, call Randy at 218-681-1007 days, 218-681-7073 evenings or e-mail rgadams@wiktel.com.

Thief River Falls artist LaVonne Forsberg displays some of the rosemaling, hardanger, and Scandinavian hand work she will have at her booth on Saturday, May 17 (today) at the Heritage Center in Thief River Falls. The Thief River Falls chapter of the Sons of Norway is celebrating 100 years with an open house to the public from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Other booths will include many types of Scandinavian wares and foods. Lefse, homemade soup and buns will be available. Entertainment and free coffee will be available all day for the public. (Submitted photo)

Bovine TB ... Minnesota seeks contractors to install fence in management zone

The Minnesota Board of Animal Health is compiling a list of authorized contractors and material suppliers who will install fence in the Management Zone in northwest Minnesota this summer.

In addition, general deer exclusion fencing specifications have been established and posted on the State's bovine Tuberculosis (TB) Web site, www.mntbfree.com. Fencing plans that deviate from these guidelines may be approved by the Board on a case by case basis.

Gov. Tim Pawlenty signed legislation strengthening the state's efforts to eradicate TB from Minnesota. The bill provides the board with expanded regulatory authority and funding to implement a bovine TB eradication plan in northwestern Minnesota.

As part of this plan, the Board will conduct on-farm risk assessments for cattle owners in the Management Zone. This assessment will determine whether the operation's feed and forage crops are properly protected and whether deer or elk are interacting with cattle. The board can require cattle owners to fence livestock or crops and will pay 90 percent of the cost, up to $75,000. A map of the zone is available online at www.mntbfree.com.

Contractors and material suppliers interested in being considered for the State's list of approved vendors are asked to call the state's bovine TB hotline at 1-877-MN TB FREE (668-2373).

Farm Bill contains Coleman priorities

Minnesota Senator Norm Coleman, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, praised the House-Senate farm bill conference committee agreement announced May 8. It contains a number of Minnesota priorities for farm families and the state's economy that Coleman successfully fought to secure. The conference report now awaits approval by the House and Senate before being sent to President Bush. Despite White House opposition, Coleman is committed to passing the farm bill and has urged the administration to sign this bill to ensure farmers have a safety net that will enable them to continue feeding and fueling the nation.

"I've been very clear in saying that vetoing this farm bill would simply be a mistake and that the president would be wrong not to sign this bill," Coleman said. "This process has been about compromise from day one, and the bipartisan agreement reached by the conference committee is a bill that contains significant reforms all sides can agree on. It is important to put into context what this bill means to Minnesota. Agriculture is the economic cornerstone of our state's economy, generating $55 billion in economic activity for Minnesota and underpinning 367,000 jobs. The farm bill puts food on our shelves, conserves our precious natural resources and feeds millions of Americans in need. This is a critical bill and I will continue to work to ensure this becomes law."

The farm bill contains the following Coleman provisions:

Sugar - As a longtime champion of the sugar program, which operates at no net cost to the federal government, Coleman worked hard to ensure the program's extension. Additionally, Minnesota's sugar beet farmers will receive a sugar loan rate increase of over 3/4th cent per pound – the first such increase in almost 20 years. The measure also includes Coleman's long-sought sugar ethanol program that will take away the threat of excessive NAFTA imports and present new opportunities for sugar producers, while also helping diversify our biofuel feedstocks. The sugar beet industry provides over $2 billion per year to Minnesota's economy and sustains nearly 40,000 jobs.

"To ensure that Minnesota's sugar beet growers can continue to deliver a stable supply of high quality sugar to the market at no net cost to the federal government, it is imperative that we pass this bill. From Roseau to Renville, the sugar program has enabled Minnesota's over two billion dollar a year sugar industry to thrive and support thousands of jobs, regardless of poor markets and severe weather," Coleman said. "America must diversify the feedstocks used to produce ethanol in order to build a sustainable and secure renewable fuels industry that can reduce our dependence on foreign oil - and sugar ethanol has the potential to play an important role in that effort. Meanwhile, this sugar ethanol program will address the significant challenges presented by the excess sugar coming in from NAFTA, and it does so in a way that saves millions of dollars."

Dairy - A longtime defender of the Milk Income Loss Contract Program (MILC) that is vital for Minnesota's dairy producers, Coleman fought to ensure its extension through the life of the farm bill and an increase in the payment rate back to 45 percent from the current 34 percent level. Meanwhile, the bill will adjust the price trigger up when feed prices increase. The MILC program is a critical safety net for Minnesota's small and medium-sized dairy operations.

"MILC is a critical program for Minnesota dairy farmers and is an invaluable safety net for an industry that contributes over $3 billion to the state's economy. Increasing the MILC payment rate back to 45 percent is a huge victory for small and mid-sized dairy farms, as is allowing the trigger price to adjust up when feed prices increase," Coleman added.

Nutrition - This bill builds on Coleman's efforts to increase funding for The Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP), which will help address the challenge food banks and homeless shelters are having in coming up with the resources they need to help Americans fighting hunger. Coleman included an amendment in the farm bill to increase funding available to TEFAP by $10 million a year, which brought the Senate total to an increase of $500 million over five years. He also helped secure a commitment to send additional funds to nutrition programs. The conference report builds on that effort by providing even greater funding for TEFAP.

"Our nation is too prosperous not to lend a helping hand when it is needed, and the farm bill's nutrition policies, which make up about 67 percent of the bill's funding, are a crucial part of that effort," Coleman said. "Food banks, homeless shelters and similar organizations have faced serious challenges in finding the resources they need to provide food for Americans who face hunger, and this increase will go a long way toward helping those in need."

Grain Storage - To aid farmers in improving their grain storage capacity, Coleman included language in the farm bill that will provide loans to producers to build and upgrade storage facilities. Coleman's provision will improve the availability of a stable supply of high quality grain for renewable energy production and livestock.

"As the productivity of Minnesota's farmer increases to meet demands, they need access to financial tools to build adequate grain storage," Coleman added. "We've seen big yields in the last couple years, especially for corn, and as a result farmers have had to resort to storing grain on the ground where some of the grain can rot. The result is wasted grain that could instead increase supply for biofuels and livestock production. I have heard directly from Minnesota farmers about the challenges of maintaining crop quality with inefficient storage space – and with the demand for grain higher than ever, we need to make sure we are getting as much as possible to the marketplace. I'm glad to hear the conference report, like the Senate bill, will address this issue."

Local Ownership - Coleman was also successful in including a provision that would encourage local ownership of bio-refineries such as ethanol and biodiesel plants. Specifically, the provision would require commercial scale bio-refineries financed with the bill's new biorefinery loan guarantee and grant program to make sure local participation is a key factor in which plant receives assistance.

"The ethanol and biodiesel industries are growing by leaps and bounds. While any investment in these industries is ultimately a good thing, it is important that our local communities have an opportunity to benefit from the industries that are often booming right in their own backyard," said Coleman. "Entire communities benefit when local folks invest in these plants by adding value to crops locally and keeping more wealth at home."

Commodity Safety Net - The existing commodity title of the farm bill has proven to be an effective safety net for farmers, and the new farm bill will not make cuts to this safety net. Coleman has consistently led the charge to ensure there would be no cuts to the program, leading letters signed by 24 of his colleagues to the President and key Senate leaders. Minnesota ranks among the top 10 states in the production of nearly every commodity that can be produced in our climate – including corn, soybeans, wheat, oats, barley, sunflowers, dry edible beans, hay, potatoes, sugar beets, flaxseed, canola, sweet corn, green peas, wild rice, milk, beef, hogs, eggs, and turkey – and owes fully one-third of our overall state economy to agriculture.

"For Minnesota farmers, the stakes are high when it comes to the commodity safety net. Prices may be high now, but every farmer knows all too well how quickly that can change. And when our farmers struggle, the ripple effects spread throughout our entire economy. We currently have an energy security problem, and without a strong safety net, we'd have a food security problem. To provide food for the nation, our farmers need a strong commodity title, which is why I worked hard to make sure this bill improves on the current safety net that has worked so well for Minnesota farmers," Coleman said.

Disaster Assistance - Coleman fought hard for years to deliver disaster assistance to Minnesota farmers who have been devastated by flooding and drought. For this reason, Coleman worked tirelessly to include a permanent agriculture disaster assistance program in the farm bill. The program included in the farm bill will ensure that farmers receive critical assistance during future hardships by eliminating the current ad hoc process for disaster assistance.

"Farmers can't control the weather, yet they can lose an entire season's crop if the weather is severe enough. When disaster strikes, we need to provide them with the emergency assistance needed to survive. With a permanent agriculture disaster program on the books, our farmers will be able to breathe a sigh of relief – as they will have the resources and protection to recover from losses caused by forces outside their control," said Coleman.

Governor Tim Pawlenty toured Northland Community and Technical College's airport campus in Thief River Falls on May 13. President Anne Temte spoke with the governor on the importance of the college's efforts to recruit 40 new students into the Aviation Maintenance Technology program by Aug. 1, 2008. The program had been identified for suspension by college administration due to low enrollment. Community support and the recommendations of industry expert Bill O'Brian have persuaded the college administration to lift the suspension and vigorously market the program.
